Plan Formed To Rebuild N. Vietnam

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States and North Vietnam will create a joint economic commission to oversee rebuilding of the war-torn country with U.S. dollars, the two sides announced today.

A communique issued by the White House and Hanoi on four days of talks by President Nixon's envoy, Henry A. Kissinger, and North Vietnamese leaders in Hanoi listed no specific figures for U.S. post war aid.

The announcement said the two Indochina war enemies "agreed that they would continue to have periodic exchanges of views in order to ensure that the (cease-fire agreement) and its protocols are strictly and scrupulously implemented."

In a briefing for reporters, White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said a Laotian cease-fire is now expected "in a matter of a few days." Ziegler said Kissinger and Hanoi leaders extensively discussed the Laotian situation, which "the United States considers a matter of great urgency."

In the Washington-Hanoi communique, the two nations pledged to "strive for a new relationship based on respect for each other's independence and sovereignty, noninterference in each other's internal affairs, equality and mutual benefit."

"The two sides exchanged views on the manner in which the United States will contribute to healing the wounds of war and to post war economic reconstruction in North Viet-

A Quiet Ferry Ride In Order

NEW YORK (UPI) — Starting today, a ride on the Staten Island Ferry could cost $50.05.

Charles Leedham, city Commissioner of Marine and Aviation, has announced that anyone riding the ferry who plays a noisy tape recorder, radio or phonograph will be hit with a $50 summons for creating a public nuisance.

Leedham said "Noise is unwanted sound and unwanted sound is unhealthful... Riders have a right to peace and quiet."

Sun Peeks Down Following Rain

A downpour of rain that pelted Marin County before dawn gave way to honest-to-goodness sunshine by midmorning today.

Whether it was an end to a string that has run to eight soggy days in the past nine was problematical. Federal weather forecasters said there was a 40 per cent chance of rain tonight, probably giving way to showers tomorrow.

Temperatures will show little change although winds of 15 to 30 miles per hour are expected in the Bay Area.

The storm damage situation was relatively stable in slide areas in Mill Valley and West Marin, officials reported.

Mill Valley police reported no major movement in the slides threatening houses on Vista Linda Drive above the city golf course. California Highway Patrol Sgt. James Dukes said Shoreline Highway would remain closed between Muir Beach and Stinson Beach until repairs can be made to slipping pavement.

By 8 a.m. today, rainfall for the previous 24 hours totalled 1.12 inches in Bolinas, 1.05 inches in Woodacre, .83 of an inch in Novato, .79 of an inch in Tamalpais Valley, .77 of an inch in Mill Valley, .64 of an inch in Sausalito and .57 of an inch in Tiburon. San Rafael's rainfall for 24 hours ending at noon was .73 of an inch.

Public Safety Bonds Due For Fairfax Vote

The Fairfax Town Council last night voted 4 to 1 to put a $300,000 bond issue on the April 7 ballot for new fire and police facilities. (Another Fairfax Town Council story, page 31.)

Councilman E. Ross Parkerson cast the lone dissenting vote, maintaining that he has been against the ordinance from the outset and that he could not ask the people to vote for encroachment on the community creek and Peri Park.

The new facilities would be constructed on the site of the current police-fire headquarters at Bolinas Avenue and Park Road, although taking up considerably more land.

Councilman Frank J. Egger cast the swing vote on the ordinance, which required four votes for passage, saying that although he had objected to the plan in the past he would vote for it "in order to put the issue before the voters."

During discussion of the ordinance, a bitter exchange developed between Glenn Meagher, chairman of the Citizens' Committee for the Review of the Fairfax General Plan, and City Administrator Robert E. Crowe.

Meagher charged that Crowe usurped the authority of the committee when he failed to mail to members of the council a committee report recommending that the council vote against the bond election ordinance.

Crowe countered that Meagher did not get the report to his office until late the day before the meeting, thus allowing not enough time to make copies and get them in the mail.

At one point, Meagher angrily announced his resignation from the committee and stalked out of the meeting, only to return when persons in the audience urged him to reconsider.

Copies of the report were later obtained and passed out to councilmen.

The committee's principal objections to the proposal are that it represents an encroachment on the creek and park, endangers redwood trees and creates a "locking in" of a large area of land at the park.

Admitting that some citizens are upset over the location of the proposed facility, Mayor Albert E. Gately said the park land is the best site and predicted that voters would approve the bond issue this year. A similar bond election was defeated in 1968.

"It has been 10 years since the need has arisen for a new firehouse and police station," Gately said.

SHOPPING CENTER CHEERED, JEERED

By PAT PERRY

More than 500 Corte Madera residents jammed last night's town planning commission's meeting to hear about the proposed Ernest W. Hahn Inc., regional shopping center, and indicated by an impromptu vote that the town is fairly evenly split on the whole idea.

After hours of emotion-packed public discussion on the multi-million dollar development proposed for 75 acres east of Highway 101, commission chairman David I. Freed asked for a show of hands.

Those "against the shopping center no matter what" looked like three-fifths of the standing-room-only audience, those in favor about two-fifths.

The planning commission adjourned the public hearing on the environmental impact report on the Corte Madera Redevelopment Project to its meeting tonight at 7:30 p.m. at the town hall, when a date for the continued hearing will be set.

With the largest audience ever to attend a planning commission meeting in Corte Madera alternately laughing and cheering and jeering, it soon became apparent that the redevelopment project has drawn battle lines between the conservationists and those who favor development with subsequent boosts to town finances.

More than 100 written questions were submitted to the commission by members of the audience, most frequently concerning elimination of wildlife habitat by the shopping center, increased traffic, air and water pollution and financial impact.

Loud cheers greeted Dr. Robert West of the Marin Audubon Society when he cast doubts on the feasibility of "relocating" marshland displaced by shops to other areas of the project.

"The choice is ours. What man has built with his hands he can build and rebuild ad infinitum. A marsh once destroyed cannot be restored," he concluded.

His opposition was echoed by Douglas Christensen of the Sierra Club, who said the whole redevelopment site needs attention, with the present artificial and illegal diking removed so the area "can function as part of the lungs of the bay." He also said, however, "We can't assume the right of adverse condemnation, these are private properties."

Tiburon Acting To Curb Housing

By BECKY LARSEN

No one could build even a single-family home in Tiburon anymore without getting city approval of his plans under strict new building review measures which passed first reading last night by the Tiburon City Council. (Another Tiburon City Council story, page 9.)

By a 4-1 vote in each case, the council approved three new design review ordinances on a preliminary basis. All come up for a second reading at the council's Feb. 26 meeting.

One ordinance requires the Tiburon Board of Design Review to examine site and architectural plans for every single-family home and duplex. The review will include such items as drainage, building height and design and preservation of trees on the site. The board can also explore landscaping, parking and fence plans, if it wishes.

Previously, as in most cities, such homes needed almost no review when built individually and not in subdivisions. For a while, Tiburon had been giving a cursory review to some of them under a now expired interim ordinance which required approval of residences more than 30 feet high.

A second ordinance takes away from the board of design review its power to approve major developments and gives that power to the Tiburon Planning Commission. Among projects affected would be single-family subdivisions and multiple-family developments and buildings in park, agricultural and planned residential zones. When these projects conflict with the city's general plan, the ordinance also requires the city council to review building plans.

A third ordinance would enlarge the boards of design review and adjustments (which handles use permits and variances) to five members each. A planning commissioner would serve as chairman on each board. The council would appoint citizens to fill the other vacancies.

Previously, the two boards had three members each, all planning commissioners.

Before passing the measure the council debated whether they should require such close review of single-family homes and whether they should take away power from the board of design review.

"Here we are in the process of setting up a stronger board of design review so they can relieve the planning commission," said Councilman Branwell D. Fanning. "Then we turn around and give the planning commission more work to do."

Richard G. Arjo, director of community development, assured the council that they would not overburden the planning commission. "All we're talking about giving them to review is the rest of Red Hill," he said.

He added that the board of design review already asks the planning commission's advice on cluster and planned developments.

M. Carlisle Becker, the only councilman to vote against the ordinances, said that the measure on review of single-family homes would "intrude into focussing on individual buildings in an unconstitutional way."

Mayor Albert H. Sennett contended that the measures had been written in response to much public pressure. "I had always thought that expensive homes would be tastefully built and landscaped," he said. "But we have many examples of unfortunate appearance here."

The ordinance calling for review of single-family homes also requires notifying nearby property owners of hearings on proposed buildings in their neighborhoods.

Nixon Sees A Growing Fuel Crisis

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon told the American people today they must recognize the "stark fact" the nation is using up more energy than it is producing.

In a radio address outlining his legislative program for the environment and related fields, Nixon said he would give Congress "a new and far more comprehensive energy message containing wide-ranging initiatives to insure necessary supplies of energy at acceptable economic and environmental costs."

He will submit his proposals to the House and Senate Thursday.

Nixon did not reveal in his speech any of the specifics of the energy program but he declared:.

"We must face up to a stark fact. We are now consuming more energy than we produce.

Prisoners Winging For Home

CLARK AIR BASE, Philippines (UPI) — Twenty happy and smiling American prisoners of war, carrying presents and a North Vietnamese puppy, flew to the United States today in the first mass homecoming of U.S. POWs.

The first two Americans to return landed in California Tuesday night. At least two more planeloads of 20 or more POWs were expected to head home Thursday and an Air Force spokesman at Clark Air Base in the Philippines said the majority of the POWs released earlier this week would be back in the states by the weekend.

In addition, North Vietnam announced Tuesday it would release another 20 Americans from Communist prison camps. (See list of names, page 46.) Diplomatic sources said the men would be freed in Hanoi Friday or Saturday. The announcement came shortly after presidential adviser Henry Kissinger left Hanoi at the conclusion of talks with North Vietnamese officials. That would bring to 163 the number of Americans freed and leave 431 still in captivity.

The group of 20 that headed home today was expected at Travis Air Force Base in California by 4:30 p.m. PST (7:30 p.m. EST). From there they were to be flown to military hospitals near their homes. (See list of names, page 46.)

The men waved to the teenagers and military personnel who gathered to see them off at Clark, the U.S. military base being used as a processing center for the POWs en route to freedom.

Lt. Cmdr. Edward A. Davis of Leola, Pa., carried a puppy named Ma-Co given him by a North Vietnamese guard when he left prison.

Officials had expected it to take three days to process the 142 POWs at Clark—one civilian prisoner released Monday decided to stay in Saigon, reportedly because of a girl friend. But the medical checks went faster than expected because of the men's general good health.

"The rapid pace established by the returnees themselves was made possible, in large measure, by their generally excellent physical condition and high state of morale," a Clark spokesman said.

Navy Cmdr. Brian D. Woods and Air Force Maj. Glendon Perkins landed at Miramar Naval Air Station in San Diego, Calif. Tuesday night. They were the first U.S. POWs to return to the United States and had been processed quickly at Clark so they could visit their critically ill mothers.

Most of the 20 returnees today boarded the C141 Starlifter flying ambulance at Clark wearing blue hospital bathrobes over their pajamas and carrying presents they bought at the base exchange Tuesday. Davis, a captive for 7 ½ years, held the tan, seven-pound puppy under his arm.

Davis said he would take the dog home to his wife Lois after he completes a period of hospitalization at Bethesda Naval Hospital near Washington.

U.S. officials said they would try to ease quarantine restrictions to allow man and dog to remain together.

Among the men were two senior Navy fliers, both of them family men from Virginia

Larkspur In Bidding For Huge Center

Plan Could Kill Similar Mall For Corte Madera

Plans for a huge regional shopping center in Larkspur, described by city officials as likely to kill a similar multimillion-dollar center planned in Corte Madera, were announced today.

The announcement launched a race to build first and reopened a two-city battle thought to have been won by Corte Madera for acquisition of a regional center south of San Rafael.

The Rouse Co. of Columbia, Md., and Connolly Development Inc. of Oakland said they will build a major center, including three department stores, on 65 acres between Highway 101 and the existing Bon Air Shopping Center.

The newcomer will be called the Larkspur-Greenbrae Mall.

The huge center with four department stores proposed by Ernest W. Hahn Inc. for Corte Madera is called the Marin Mall.

"It's a race between Larkspur and Corte Madera — it always has been," said Asst. City Mgr. Harlan Barry. "There are only so many major tenants and they obviously can't go into two centers."

Like its rival to the south, Larkspur intends to finance the project through the redevelopment process. In August last year the city council, sitting as the Larkspur Redevelopment Agency, committed itself to sell $8 million worth of bonds to finance improvements to an

Ring Will Leave Tam High Board

Tamalpais High School District trustee David D. Ring resigned last night and announced he won't seek reelection to the dissension-torn board in the April 17 elections.

Ring's resignation — with the deadline for filing of candidates at 5 p.m. Friday — came as a complete surprise to other trustees in a letter read at the end of a routine board meeting. Ring was absent.

Referring to the 3-2 split on the board which forced last month's resignation of Supt. Wilber D. Hawkins, with himself and Frank L. Miller opposing, Ring said he saw little purpose in remaining as a minority member.

"The widening division between the minority and majority members appears to make constructive action by the board as a whole unlikely."

Predicting that the Tamalpais High School District "faces many problems in the future" Ring added that the "situation now prevailing in the district provides discouraging commentary on local government."

When Hawkins was ousted on Jan. 24 by trustees Robert W. Corlett, Bette Wallace and Jerrold M. Ladar, Ring said he hoped "able candidates" would come forward to run for three vacant seats in the April elections.

His term of office, and that of Corlett and Ladar both expire this year.

But to date only Corlett has filed for reelection, and Ladar was expected to file today. No other candidate has appeared.

In his resignation letter — read by acting Supt. Robert D. Torrey — Ring complained about lack of publicity about the issues surrounding Hawkins' resignation, but didn't specify the issues.

The resignation of the 48-

Supervisors Reject Shoreline Projects

The Marin County Board of Supervisors moved swiftly and unanimously yesterday to oppose plans by the state Division of Highways to improve portions of Shoreline Highway.

The board's decision came after about 10 minutes discussion and brought ringing applause from many in the near-capacity audience.

Not all those attending agreed with the supervisors' swift handling of the matter, however. As one Stinson Beach resident put it: "The decision must have been reached over lunch."

The state proposed three projects for the picturesque roadway late last year but stirred up a hornet's nest of opposition from conservationists and some West Marin residents.

The first project proposes straightening a series of switchbacks near Shoreline's intersection with Panoramic Highway and a sharp curve south of Stinson Beach near an old quarry. Total cost would be about $300,000, according to state officials.

The second project, estimated at $75,000, would widen the highway through the village of Stinson Beach, long a traffic bottleneck.

The third and most controversial project would widen and raise the highway along Bolinas Lagoon, causing some filling of the lagoon.

While state officials say the

Plan Formed To Rebuild N. Vietnam

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States and North Vietnam will create a joint economic commission to oversee rebuilding of the war-torn country with U.S. dollars, the two sides announced today.

Public Safety Bonds Due For Fairfax Vote

The Fairfax Town Council last night voted 4 to 1 to put a $300,000 bond issue on the April 7 ballot for new fire and police facilities. (Another Fairfax Town Council story, page 31.)

Councilman E. Ross Parkerson cast the lone dissenting vote, maintaining that he has been against the ordinance from the outset and that he could not ask the people to vote for encroachment on the community creek and Peri Park.

Councilman Frank J. Egger cast the swing vote on the ordinance, which required four votes for passage, saying that although he had objected to the plan in the past he would vote for it "in order to put the issue before the voters."

During discussion of the ordinance, a bitter exchange developed between Glenn Meagher, chairman of the Citizens' Committee for the Review of the Fairfax General Plan, and City Administrator Robert E. Crowe.

Meagher charged that Crowe usurped the authority of the committee when he failed to mail to members of the council a committee report recommending that the council vote against the bond election ordinance.

Crowe countered that Meagher did not get the report to his office until late the day before the meeting, thus allowing not enough time to make copies and get them in the mail.

At one point, Meagher angrily announced his resignation from the committee and stalked out of the meeting, only to return when persons in the audience urged him to reconsider.

Copies of the report were later obtained and passed out to councilmen.

The committee's principal objections to the proposal are that it represents an encroachment on the creek and park, endangers redwood trees and creates a "locking in" of a large area of land at the park.

Admitting that some citizens are upset over the location of the proposed facility, Mayor Albert E. Gately said the park land is the best site and predicted that voters would approve the bond issue this year. A similar bond election was defeated in 1968.

Larkspur In Bidding For Huge Center

Plan Could Kill Similar Mall For Corte Madera

Plans for a huge regional shopping center in Larkspur, described by city officials as likely to kill a similar multimillion-dollar center planned in Corte Madera, were announced today.

The announcement launched a race to build first and reopened a two-city battle thought to have been won by Corte Madera for acquisition of a regional center south of San Rafael.

The Rouse Co. of Columbia, Md., and Connolly Development Inc. of Oakland said they will build a major center, including three department stores, on 65 acres between Highway 101 and the existing Bon Air Shopping Center.

The newcomer will be called the Larkspur-Greenbrae Mall.

The huge center with four department stores proposed by Ernest W. Hahn Inc. for Corte Madera is called the Marin Mall.

"It's a race between Larkspur and Corte Madera — it always has been," said Asst. City Mgr. Harlan Barry. "There are only so many major tenants and they obviously can't go into two centers."

Like its rival to the south, Larkspur intends to finance the project through the redevelopment process. In August last year the city council, sitting as the Larkspur Redevelopment Agency, committed itself to sell $8 million worth of bonds to finance improvements to an

Ring Will Leave Tam High Board

Tamalpais High School District trustee David D. Ring resigned last night and announced he won't seek reelection to the dissension-torn board in the April 17 elections.

Ring's resignation — with the deadline for filing of candidates at 5 p.m. Friday — came as a complete surprise to other trustees in a letter read at the end of a routine board meeting. Ring was absent.

Referring to the 3-2 split on the board which forced last month's resignation of Supt. Wilber D. Hawkins, with himself and Frank L. Miller opposing, Ring said he saw little purpose in remaining as a minority member.

"The widening division between the minority and majority members appears to make constructive action by the board as a whole unlikely."

Predicting that the Tamalpais High School District "faces many problems in the future" Ring added that the "situation now prevailing in the district provides discouraging commentary on local government."

When Hawkins was ousted on Jan. 24 by trustees Robert W. Corlett, Bette Wallace and Jerrold M. Ladar, Ring said he hoped "able candidates" would come forward to run for three vacant seats in the April elections.

His term of office, and that of Corlett and Ladar both expire this year.

But to date only Corlett has filed for reelection, and Ladar was expected to file today. No other candidate has appeared.

In his resignation letter — read by acting Supt. Robert D. Torrey — Ring complained about lack of publicity about the issues surrounding Hawkins' resignation, but didn't specify the issues.

The resignation of the 48-

Supervisors Reject Shoreline Projects

The Marin County Board of Supervisors moved swiftly and unanimously yesterday to oppose plans by the state Division of Highways to improve portions of Shoreline Highway.

The board's decision came after about 10 minutes discussion and brought ringing applause from many in the near-capacity audience.

Not all those attending agreed with the supervisors' swift handling of the matter, however. As one Stinson Beach resident put it: "The decision must have been reached over lunch."

The state proposed three projects for the picturesque roadway late last year but stirred up a hornet's nest of opposition from conservationists and some West Marin residents.

The first project proposes straightening a series of switchbacks near Shoreline's intersection with Panoramic Highway and a sharp curve south of Stinson Beach near an old quarry. Total cost would be about $300,000, according to state officials.

The second project, estimated at $75,000, would widen the highway through the village of Stinson Beach, long a traffic bottleneck.

The third and most controversial project would widen and raise the highway along Bolinas Lagoon, causing some filling of the lagoon.

While state officials say the

THIS DOG IS A DUDE

Charlie Brown is all duded up for an afternoon stroll. Dick Barnes, the 4-year-old Boston terrier's owner, says Charlie refuses to go outside without his turtle neck coat (with pocket for dog biscuit), matching booties with rubber soles, knitted hat and sunglasses. Inside the house he wants his toys washed after he plays with them, and sleeps under a blanket and bedspread on a mattress.

Bombs Rejected

REYKJAVIK (UPI) — Geologists rejected today suggestions that U.S. warplanes bomb the volcano Helgafjell as a way of controlling the lava flows threatening more damage on the island of Heimaey.

Some experts suggested American bombers carry out strikes against the craters and slopes of Helgafjell to blast new paths for lava spilling down its sides to engulf much of the island located off the coast of Iceland and bury it under tons of ash and molten rock.

But geologists said the bombing would do no good because lava on the side of the volcano was too thick to blast away.

Prices Going Up

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department says 1973 supermarket prices will average 6 to 6.5 per cent above 1972 — the sharpest one-year increase in 22 years.

But it said most of this annual gain has already taken place, and it predicted consumers will find the pace of price hikes slowing as meat supplies rise.

In a "Food Situation Report," department economists said record-high beef and pork prices in the past few months account for much of the gain and have forced upward revision of earlier forecasts for 1973 food prices.

Talks In Laos

VIENTIANE (UPI) — Cabinet sources insisted today that a Laotian cease-fire could be worked out within the week, but diplomatic sources indicated peace talks were still mired in political naggling that made agreement as far away as ever.

Ranking government officials confirmed that cease-fire talks between Vientiane officials and the Communist Pathet Lao, which continued today, involved at least nine issues — some of them basic ones. They declined to indicate what progress had been made on any of them.

'Happy Ending'

MONTEVIDEO (UPI) — Military commanders said last night that President Juan Maria Bordaberry had accepted their demands, thus bringing to "a happy ending" the worst political crisis in Uruguay in 40 years.

A communique was issued 30 minutes after Bordaberry named two new cabinet ministers pledged to carry out the demands of the military on reducing unemployment, combatting corruption, carrying out political and land reforms and giving the military more say in running the country.

No Cuba Pact

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon has explained the pact the United States has made with Cuba to frustrate airline hijackers does not mean the United States is ready to normalize relations with the Communist nation.

The State Department announced yesterday that basic agreement on an antihijacking pact had been reached with Cuba. A spokesman said a few "procedural details" would be worked out "in the next few days" to conclude the agreement.

Nixon commented on the pact last night as he strolled back to the White House after having dinner at a nearby restaurant.

Cong Freed At Quang Tri City

SAIGON (UPI) — The first 175 Communist prisoners to be released at Quang Tri City, some of them displaying freedom banners inscribed with their own blood, crossed the Thach Han River today aboard outboard motorboats flying South Vietnamese flags.

UPI Correspondent Donald A. Davis reported from the release site that the prisoners at first balked at crossing under the flag of Saigon, but after 20 minutes Communist officials on the other side sent an officer across the river to tell them to come ahead.

As soon as they got into the boats, Davis said, the prisoners—nearly all of them sick, lame or disabled—threw their maroon prison garb, their crutches, slings, shoes and bandages into the river.

As they approached the far side they unfurled hidden banners that said, "Independence, Freedom and Victory."

Once on land, their names were checked off, they were issued cigarettes and new green Viet Cong uniforms without hats, belts or shoes, then marched singing and cheering toward a fleet of waiting trucks.

This brought to 910 the number of Communists released so far by the South Vietnamese.

Bar Soundly Rejects No-Fault Insurance

CLEVELAND (UPI) — The American Bar Association (ABA), mindful that no-fault insurance could mean less income for some lawyers, Tuesday gave a resounding defeat to a sweeping no-fault automobile insurance plan.

The 318-member policy-making House of Delegates not only voted overwhelmingly against the plan but insisted on "greatly increased steps" to publicize an alternative approach adopted in 1972.

The delegates also supported efforts of Sen. Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., to postpone until the end of the current session of Congress new federal rules on the kind of evidence that can be admitted in both civil and criminal trials.

The rules have been criticized in some quarters on grounds they give an advantage to the Justice Department and take away privileges previously afforded defendants.

Defeat of the comprehensive auto insurance plan appeared to drive a wedge between the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws (NCCUSL), which proposed it, and the ABA leadership.

Under the auto insurance proposal, crash victims would be compensated for all medical expenses without limit as to time or amount, and up to $200 a week in lost earnings, plus reimbursement for services such as babysitting, lawn mowing or house cleaning, which the injured person is not able to perform.

Chicago attorney Albert E. Jenner moved ABA approval of the act, but only William B. Spann Jr. of Atlanta rose to praise it. Others, including representatives of the ABA's Insurance and General Practice Section, criticized it for eliminating entirely the element of fault, the traditional factor governing recovery — and a determination that generally requires the hiring of a lawyer.

Moretti Raps Reagan, Nixon Housing Views

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Both the Nixon and Reagan administrations are undermining housing programs for the poor and elderly, Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti told the California Legislative Council for Older Americans Tuesday.

"The President is attempting to reverse the commitment of the past five administrations for every American to have a decent place to live," said Moretti, D-Van Nuys.

The 1974 gubernatorial hopeful declared that Gov. Ronald Reagan "has proposed a new budget scheme that will not allow the state to introduce new (housing) programs for the next 15 years."

Bill Asks Rules On Tax Advisers

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Assemblyman John T. Knox has proposed a bill requiring state regulation of professional preparers of tax returns.

The Richmond Democrat Sunday said his measure will require persons who receive a fee for preparing tax returns to register with the state Division of Consumer Services, sponsor of the bill. He said the division could revoke registration if the preparer violated standards of conduct specified by the bill.

Knox said the bill will help eliminate "fly-by-night" preparers who have prompted many complaints by citizens.

Devaluation Legislation Is Expected

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress has no real choice but to go along with President Nixon and enact the bill which will formally devalue the dollar.

But it remains to be seen whether Congress will go along with him on trade legislation and give him what he seems to be seeking — broad, almost unlimited, power to raise and lower tariffs at his sole discretion.

Congress has become sensitive in recent weeks about abdicating its powers. The right to set trade policy is one of its traditional preserves.

A bill increasing the official price of gold and thus devaluating the dollar is sure to sail through because it will merely ratify what in fact occurred the instant devaluation intentions were announced late Monday night.

Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., the populist-style chairman of the House Banking Committee, promised speedy action when the House returns next week.

He said he first wanted to investigate the role of foreign branches of U.S. banks and corporations which "stashed away" $70 billion and engaged in speculation, "betting against their country and their country's currency."

The dollar crisis is almost certain to reawaken demands that the United States withdraw some of its 300,000 troops from Germany to save the billions spent for their support.

BELFAST (UPI) — A British soldier shot in the back by a sniper died today in a Belfast hospital, the fifth soldier slain in as many weeks and the 43rd victim of Northern Ireland's religious and political strife this year.

Nixon's Budget Cuts Criticized By Wirtz

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon's budget cutbacks of federal employment programs are "bad business, misguided government, misplaced human concern," according to the man who helped create most of them.

Former Labor Secretary Willard Wirtz told Congress' Joint Economic Committee today that it was wrong to reduce programs for the unemployed, the handicapped and teen-agers while at the same time increasing the military budget and failing to close tax loopholes.

Wirtz was labor secretary under Presidents John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson when many present manpower programs were begun. Nixon proposes to reduce or phase out most of these Democratic-era programs in favor of giving the states the money to handle employment problems through revenue sharing.

But Wirtz said that according to his arithmetic, proposed fiscal 1974 revenue sharing funds for manpower would fall about 15 per cent short of the funds originally proposed for the old manpower programs in fiscal 1973.

Wirtz said the time had come to expand and redirect these programs along the lines of "a new idealism," not to cut them back.

Wirtz suggested an expansion of the public employment program and an education program for unemployed and out-of-school teenagers.

Job losses because of automation could be offset, he said, by full-pay leaves of absence and retraining programs for "anybody about to be replaced by a robot."

He said that just as a property owner is entitled to compensation when a highway cuts through his land, "If change, which is in the public interest, requires taking a person's job, he or she is fully entitled to compensation for it."

Work sabbaticals, education for women whose children are grown and "refresher courses" to prepare the elderly for retirement also should be tried, he said.

Pay Sought For Coast Advisers

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Legislation to pay all 84 members of the new state and regional coastal zone conservation commissions $50 a meeting has been introduced by Sen. Randolph Collier, D-Yreka.

Assuming the commissions will meet at least twice a month during their four-year life, the total tab would be over $400,000. With travel expenses on top of the pay, the total easily would consume 10 per cent of the commissions' $5 million budget.

Proposition 20, which created the commissions, said that "members shall serve without compensation," but would be reimbursed for expenses. The proposition, however, went on to add that "members who are not employees of other public agencies shall receive $50 for each full day of attending meetings of the commission or of any regional commission."

As it turned out, all of the commissioners including county supervisors, claim they are not "employees of other public agencies." Collier's bill, SB 175, would clarify the issue, making all 84 members eligible for the pay.

Its passage would require two-thirds approval by both houses.

Bill Seeks Hamilton Veto Power

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A bill that would give the City of Novato veto power over a future county takeover of Hamilton Air Force Base has been introduced in the Legislature.

The city long has contended it had such power, while the county claimed the city did not. The new bill, AB 288 by Assemblyman J. K. MacDonald, D-Ventura, would make clear the city's joint jurisdiction with the county.

The county has dropped consideration of joint use of the base, but the issue could be revived in the future, especially if the base were closed.

The bill declares that the state will not approve county operation of any airport unless both the board of supervisors "and the city council of any city in which the airport is located have both first approved such a plan for ownership or operation."

Four Are Owners Of Stolen Cars

ANNISTON, Ala. (UPI) — Police officials said Monday that four unidentified city policemen were "innocent purchasers" of stolen cars.

Public Safety Director Bill Jones said four of six stolen cars were found in the possession of the policemen.

He said there is no disciplinary action planned against the four since "there's nothing to indicate they are anything but innocent purchasers."

Jones said police had charged Johnny Ira Defries with six counts of buying, receiving or concealing stolen property in connection with the car thefts. Twelve more vehicles were being checked on suspicion they had been stolen.

26 Fires Blamed On Same Arsonist

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Police said Tuesday that a series of 26 fires set in and near San Francisco's Fillmore District since Jan. 2, appeared to be torched by the same arsonist.

Most of the fires were inside a 10-square block area and all but five were started between 10 p.m. and 2 a.m., said Lt. George Kelley of the fire department's arson squad.

Sentiment Divided On Shopping Center

peared to surprise Ernest Hahn himself, who had proudly shown slides of elegant shopping centers his company has constructed in Long Beach, Salt Lake City, San Diego and Sacramento.

Hahn said the Corte Madera project, to be called Marin Mall, is an airconditioned enclosed mall of a character and quality not found yet on the peninsula — strictly Marin type," he said.

Main stores would be Bullocks, Macy's, Penney's and Ward's, plus smaller shops, an entertainment center and a small community auditorium. The buildings would cover 525,000 square feet on a 3,000,000-square-foot site. There would be 12 acres of landscaping and greenbelt.

Tom Cooke, the planning consultant who prepared the environmental impact report, agreed that the major issue of the whole redevelopment project was natural habitat.

One way to mitigate elimination of ponds and marshes would be to resite the shopping center by stretching half of it across the Northwestern Pacific Railroad right-of-way, he suggested.

However, Hahn indicated this alternative isn't acceptable, because the bay mud east of the railroad has different settlement qualities for filling and because it would need parking structures — something his company is opposed to.

The impact of Marin Mall on the existing Corte Madera Center was opposed by the center's present owners, Capital Planning Associates, although the manager of Crocker Bank in the center, said the former owner had favored the new regional center.

Hahn said it is "an economic fact of life" that Ward's and Penney's will not continue to operate in substandard small units; if they don't go across the freeway to Marin Mall they will move elsewhere. Space in the existing center could be cut up and subleased, said Hahn, because it now has a low depreciative value.

Hahn —who told the Independent-Journal his company has already spent $5 million on the proposed Marin Mall — was asked if he'd go ahead if Corte Madera dropped its redevelopment project.

He answered that it wouldn't be financially feasible, adding that in many other towns — like Santa Rosa, Pasadena and Hawthorne — the financial improvements gained by redevelopment always exceeded the town's investment.

Town Mgr. Ronald E. Bartels explained that development of the entire 446-acre redevelopment site would be financed through the sale of bonds by the Corte Madera Redevelopment Agency (actually the town council.)

In the five years it will take to redeem the bonds the increased tax revenues resulting from a higher assessed valuation created by redevelopment will be reserved for bond redemption. Local taxing agencies' revenues would be frozen at existing levels and it would not be until the bonds are paid off that they will benefit from redevelopment.

Cooke admitted that school districts would be hurt most by this process, since the plan proposed for "Area B" of the project — the Muzzi property next to the bay — includes apartments and condominiums that would put 516 new students in local schools by the late 1970's.

"There are no strong arguments for promoting extensive development in area B," said Cooke.

His sentiments were enlarged by Robert Dunn from the audience, who suggested that permitting the shopping center and prohibiting development on the Muzzi property presented "a one-time-only opportunity to the town to acquire a tremendous piece of real estate on the bay for open space.

"The net favorable economic implications of the shopping center are undeniable," said Dunn, "but the two can't be separated — if the center isn't approved we couldn't finance acquisition of the rest.

"This property isn't going to remain undeveloped forever. Much of it is mudflats, nothing good is ever going to come from that area."

Commissioner Freed announced that so many "good questions" had emerged that town staff would compile a questionnaire and get consultants to answer residents' questions in writing before the continued public hearing date, which will be announced tonight.

RING

If no other candidates join Corlett and Ladar in running for office by Friday's filing deadline, there won't even be an election.

Assistant County Supt. of Schools Robert E. Spain said Corlett and Ladar would automatically be reelected, and the existing board would have power to appoint the fifth member before the April 17 election. The appointed person's term of office would be for the full four-year-term.

However, it is rumored that other candidates do intend to file for the Tam board by the 5 p.m. deadline Friday.

Ring, of 1860 Mountain View Drive, Tiburon, was appointed to the board in 1968, and ran for a four-year-term in April 1969. He is in private practice in San Francisco.

HIGHWAY

last project is years away, protesters maintain it is all part of an overall plan for piecemeal improvement of the road.

During the board's first discussion of the state plans last December, highway officials assured the board the projects are needed to correct safety and flood hazards.

Protesters countered, however, that the projects are part of a larger state plan for piecemeal improvement of the entire highway.

Chairman Arnold M. Baptiste began yesterday's discussion by urging a board policy opposed to any road improvement until after a recreational travel study is made by the federal government.

With that, Supervisor Gary T. Giacomini moved to oppose the three projects as proposed because of cost, environmental damage, the lack of a travel study and Proposition 20 — the coastline preservation measure approved by voters in November.

A second part of this motion suggested the division of highway explore alternate solutions to improving road safety with local residents, who have suggested better signing and more guardrails among other things.

Supervisor Michael Wornum, who said in December he didn't object to the state's plans to improve the switchbacks, seconded Giacomini's motion yesterday.

His change of heart, he explained, was because "the curve they've chosen is no worse than the next 500" down the highway.

opment even in a tight budget year."

Discussing environmental problems in general, Nixon said "day by day our air is getting cleaner. In virtually every one of our major cities, the levels of air pollution are declining."

He also said water pollution problems are being solved and he defended his decision not to spend $6 billion in congressionally-approved funds to build sewage treatment plants to help clean up the nation's waters.

"We are now buying new facilities nearly as fast as the construction industry can build them," Nixon said. "Spending still more money would not buy us more pollution control facilities, but only more expensive ones."

Nixon also noted that 19 natural resource and environmental bills he submitted to the last Congress were not enacted. He said the programs were urgently needed, and he would resubmit them to the new Congress.

On pollution, he said the cost of controlling it should be paid for by the people who do the polluting and not by the general taxpayer.

"Now is the time to stop the sanctimonious hand-wringing and roll up our sleeves and get on with the job," Nixon said. "Now is the time to reject the doomsday mentality which says we are destined to pollute ourselves out of existence."

Denton, the first man off the first plane Monday when it arrived from Hanoi and who tearfully said "God bless America," continued his role as spokesman for the POWs.

"You people here at Clark have shown us representing the rest of America that your feeling is as deep as ours and that's the highest compliment I can pay the wonderful welcome we received here," he said.

The places of the first POWs to return to the United States will be filled by 20 more prisoners who are to be released by the North Vietnamese by Thursday, according to a Hanoi announcement Tuesday. They will bring to 163 the number of POWs released this week and leaving 431 prisoners still in captivity.

Prisoner releases are timed to coincide with the withdrawal of American troops from South Vietnam under terms of the Paris peace agreement. All prisoners are to be released by March 27.

The first prisoners to reach the United States landed at Miramar Naval Air Station, Calif., near San Diego, late Tuesday night. The drama of their arrival was heightened by mechanical trouble on their C141 Starlifter plane from the Philippines, which circled the field for 55 minutes with troublesome landing flaps. The plane landed without incident, however.

Navy Cmdr. Brian D. Woods was first off the plane at San Diego, followed by Air Force Maj. Glendon Perkins. Both men were flown to the United States to be at the bedsides of their critically ill mothers.

Smiling broadly, he said: "I am greatly honored that circumstances were such that I was the first of the POWs to return. We are proud to be Americans and we are proud to have served our country. As you can imagine, we are greatly overwhelmed at our homecoming."

Perkins said: "I am happy to be home and I want to thank everybody for all the effort and assistance they gave to us."

Then Woods walked over to his wife and embraced her for a full minute. They wound up clutching each other happily in a full kiss. Woods' three children—Kathleen, 9, Christopher, 8, and Michael, 7 — stood to one side and smiled at their father.

Ziegler told reporters that the two sides agreed to set up a system to help locate American troops still listed as missing in action in Indochina, designated "points of entry for military replacement supplies," and considered steps to reduce breaches of the cease-fire.

Mill Valley Home Not Evacuated

The Independent-Journal erred in its Jan. 13 report of damage caused by the previous day's storm, saying the family of Dr. J. J. Greenbaum was forced to evacuate the home at 9 Hollyhock Court in Mill Valley.

Mrs. Greenbaum informed the I-J yesterday that at no time had the family been forced to flee, that, in fact, the whole family was confined to the home by flu.

The Work Of Burglars Is Watched

Unaware that four employees working on the second floor of Pacific Gas and Electric Co. building were watching, according to police, an 18-year-old man and a 16-year-old youth stole an eight-track stereo from a car on the upper deck of the San Rafael city parking lot at Third Street and Lootens Place yesterday.

The 18 year old, Donald Jeffery Seader of 101 Nova Albion Way, San Rafael, was released on $1,500 bail after booking at Marin County jail on suspicion of burglary. He was scheduled to appear Friday in Municipal court.

His companion was booked on suspicion of burglary at Juvenile Hall. The youth's name was withheld on a standing order of Superior Court Judge Joseph G. Wilson.

According to police, the PG&E employees watched the two inspect cars in the lot at 2:15 p.m. The men then broke the left wing window of a car belonging to Jody Linda Bushton of 527 Stone Drive, Novato, and took the stereo, police said.

Police, who were telephoned, arrived and confiscated the stereo.

And tonight at 8 o'clock at the Larkspur City Hall, councilmen as the redevelopment agency, will hear plans for the Larkspur-Greenbrae Mall. (Last night, the Corte Madera Planning Commission heard the environmental impact report on the proposed Hahn Marin Mall.)

The two companies said they will own and manage the center, which will be built as an enclosed mall. They didn't disclose who the major tenants will be.

The developers have nationwide experience. Rouse owns 22 regional shopping malls in nine states and Canada. It is also a mortgage banking firm. Rouse is developing the new city of Columbia, Md., between Washington D.C., and Baltimore, in a joint venture with Connecticut General Life Insurance Co.

Connolly Development Inc., headed by former Forty-Niner Ted Connolly, has developed smaller, miniregional centers in Northern California and Nevada.

Ted Connolly will attend tonight's redevelopment meeting to elaborate on plans for the center.

Wounded Man Holds Assailant

Krieger, 45, hung on to the holdup man until police arrived a few minutes later.

"The man was exceptional," police said.

OBITUARIES

Faye Tulley, 65, Dies On Board Cruise Vessel

Memorial service for Faye French Tulley of Ross, active in Marin music circles, will be at 1:30 p.m., Friday at the First Presbyterian Church in San Anselmo.

She died Sunday apparently of a heart attack, while on board a cruise ship off the Island of Granada in the Caribbean. She was 65.

She was born in Oklahoma City, where she sang in the church choir at the age of five. Her family moved to Sacramento. She graduated from the University of the Pacific, majoring in music. After moving to Marin County in 1936, she directed the choir of the Chinese Presbyterian Church of San Francisco.

She directed the choir of the First Presbyterian Church of San Anselmo for many years and also sang with the choir of the San Francisco Theological Seminary.

She was a past president of the Marin Symphony Guild, a member of the Symphony Auxiliary of Marin, Mu Phi, honorary music sorority and Delta Gamma Sorority.

The family home is at 77 Wellington Avenue.

She is survived by her husband, J. Benton Tulley, senior partner in a San Francisco law firm of Erskine, Tulley, Boyd and Gantner; a son, Paul C. Tulley of Naksup, British Columbia; a daughter, Mary Ann Ashley of Vineberg, Sonoma County; a brother, Charles C. French of El Toro, Orange County, and four grandchildren.

Inurnment will be private.

Memorial contributions to a favorite charity or the San Francisco Theological Seminary, would be preferred by the family.

Comment Sought On Park Plans

The Rohnert Park Recreation and Parks Commission last night decided to take plans for a park in the holiday park area to the neighborhood for comments.

Commission secretary Sandra Nelson said the commission tentatively scheduled the special meeting for March 12.

She said comment will also be sought on a proposed bicycle path plan as well as recreation programs. A time and place for the meeting will be set later.

The commission also approved plans by Young America Homes Inc. for a tot lot in the Colegio Vista subdivision. Plans include play equipment and benches.

No Champagne At Boys Club

The office will have tickets for a benefit art show at the John Novak mansion, 50 Rica Vista, March 4 from 1 to 5 p.m.

Larkspur Chamber Picks Jury Names

The Larkspur Chamber of Commerce yesterday appointed Maggi Walker, Oakley Dexter and Gilbert Debuic to a committee to select two Larkspur nominees for the 1973-1974 Grand Jury.

President Sue Schaefer said the chamber heard a lecture on the Marin Countywide Plan by Sol Silver, county chief of advance planning, and questioned him on ways low income housing could be provided in Marin with current high land costs.

GI In Vietnam Dies Of Overdose

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Defense Department has reported the death of another American serviceman in Vietnam—an enlisted man who took an overdose of heroin.

Pentagon spokesmen said Tuesday that Pfc. Frank W. Paulos, son of Mrs. Dorothy T. Paulos, Mattitick, N.Y., was found unconscious in his barracks Feb. 10 and was pronounced dead of a heroin overdose when he was taken to a clinic.

CHARLES HERGOTT

Funeral for Charles Hergott, 70, retired merchant marine, will be held at 10 a.m. tomorrow at Parent Funeral Chapel, Petaluma.

Hergott died Thursday at a San Francisco hospital after a short illness. He had worked as a merchant marine for many years and maintained a home at 31 Park Avenue, Petaluma.

Hergott was a native of San Francisco and had also worked as a poultry inspector for a short time.

Burial will be at Holy Cross Cemetery, Colma.

JEANNE KOKJER

Jeanne L. Kokjer, 57, died in a local hospital yesterday, a few hours after being admitted with third degree burns over 50 per cent of her body, suffered in a fire in her San Rafael home.

Mrs. Kokjer, who had been living with a friend at 238 Coleman Drive for about a year, was found in a flaming chair by the friend at about 1:45 a.m.

She had broken her pelvis two months ago and had difficulty getting around, the friend said.

Mrs. Kokjer was born in Willows, Colusa County, but had lived in Marin 55 years.

She had lived in San Rafael many years and then in Mill Valley for about a year before returning to San Rafael.

She is survived by a daughter, Carol Kristine Kokjer of Oakland; a son, J. Scott Kokjer of Greenbrae, and a brother, William A. Sparrow of Novato.

Funeral will be at 10 a.m. tomorrow at the Harry M. Williams Mortuary in San Rafael. private inurnment will follow.

OSIE COX

Osie Cox, 84-year-old former San Anselmo resident, died yesterday in a convalescent hospital in Paradise, Butte County, after a long illness.

Mrs. Cox was born in Iowa but came to Chico with her family when she was 6 years old. She attended schools there and was a graduate of Chico Normal School, the forerunner of Chico State College.

She taught school in Kern County for a short time after graduation and then moved to the Bay Area, where she lived many years. She resided in San Anselmo for about 20 years. She moved to Paradise in 1972.

An avid antique collector, Mrs. Cox was a past president of the Golden Gate Collectors Club of San Francisco.

When she lived in San Anselmo, she was a member of the First Presbyterian Church.

She is survived by a sister, Mrs. Chloe Jones of Paradise.

Funeral will be at 2 p.m. Friday in the Hall-Van Hook Funeral Chapel in Chico. Burial will be in the Chico Cemetery.

peared to surprise Ernest Hahn himself, who had proudly shown slides of elegant shopping centers his company has constructed in Long Beach, Salt Lake City, San Diego and Sacramento.

Hahn said the Corte Madera project, to be called Marin Mall, is an airconditioned enclosed mall of a character and quality not found yet on the peninsula — strictly Marin type," he said.

Main stores would be Bullocks, Macy's, Penney's and Ward's, plus smaller shops, an entertainment center and a small community auditorium. The buildings would cover 525,000 square feet on a 3,000,000-square-foot site. There would be 12 acres of landscaping and greenbelt.

His architect, Charles Kanner, showed sketches of brick and wood structures, with wide interior "courts" before each department store.

Tom Cooke, the planning consultant who prepared the environmental impact report, agreed that the major issue of the whole redevelopment project was natural habitat.

One way to mitigate elimination of ponds and marshes would be to resite the shopping center by stretching half of it across the Northwestern Pacific Railroad right-of-way, he suggested.

However, Hahn indicated this alternative isn't acceptable, because the bay mud east of the railroad has different settlement qualities for filling and because it would need parking structures — something his company is opposed to.

The impact of Marin Mall on the existing Corte Madera Center was opposed by the center's present owners, Capital Planning Associates, although the manager of Crocker Bank in the center, said the former owner had favored the new regional center.

Hahn said it is "an economic fact of life" that Ward's and Penney's will not continue to operate in substandard small units; if they don't go across the freeway to Marin Mall they will move elsewhere. Space in the existing center could be cut up and subleased, said Hahn, because it now has a low depreciative value.

Hahn —who told the Independent-Journal his company has already spent $5 million on the proposed Marin Mall — was asked if he'd go ahead if Corte Madera dropped its redevelopment project.

He answered that it wouldn't be financially feasible, adding that in many other towns — like Santa Rosa, Pasadena and Hawthorne — the financial improvements gained by redevelopment always exceeded the town's investment.

Town Mgr. Ronald E. Bartels explained that development of the entire 446-acre redevelopment site would be financed through the sale of bonds by the Corte Madera Redevelopment Agency (actually the town council.)

In the five years it will take to redeem the bonds the increased tax revenues resulting from a higher assessed valuation created by redevelopment will be reserved for bond redemption. Local taxing agencies' revenues would be frozen at existing levels and it would not be until the bonds are paid off that they will benefit from redevelopment.

Cooke admitted that school districts would be hurt most by this process, since the plan proposed for "Area B" of the project — the Muzzi property next to the bay — includes apartments and condominiums that would put 516 new students in local schools by the late 1970's.

"There are no strong arguments for promoting extensive development in area B," said Cooke.

His sentiments were enlarged by Robert Dunn from the audience, who suggested that permitting the shopping center and prohibiting development on the Muzzi property presented "a one-time-only opportunity to the town to acquire a tremendous piece of real estate on the bay for open space.

"The net favorable economic implications of the shopping center are undeniable," said Dunn, "but the two can't be separated — if the center isn't approved we couldn't finance acquisition of the rest.

"This property isn't going to remain undeveloped forever. Much of it is mudflats, nothing good is ever going to come from that area."

Commissioner Freed announced that so many "good questions" had emerged that town staff would compile a questionnaire and get consultants to answer residents' questions in writing before the continued public hearing date, which will be announced tonight.

If no other candidates join Corlett and Ladar in running for office by Friday's filing deadline, there won't even be an election.

Assistant County Supt. of Schools Robert E. Spain said Corlett and Ladar would automatically be reelected, and the existing board would have power to appoint the fifth member before the April 17 election. The appointed person's term of office would be for the full four-year-term.

However, it is rumored that other candidates do intend to file for the Tam board by the 5 p.m. deadline Friday.

And tonight at 8 o'clock at the Larkspur City Hall, councilmen as the redevelopment agency, will hear plans for the Larkspur-Greenbrae Mall. (Last night, the Corte Madera Planning Commission heard the environmental impact report on the proposed Hahn Marin Mall.)

The two companies said they will own and manage the center, which will be built as an enclosed mall. They didn't disclose who the major tenants will be.

The developers have nationwide experience. Rouse owns 22 regional shopping malls in nine states and Canada. It is also a mortgage banking firm. Rouse is developing the new city of Columbia, Md., between Washington D.C., and Baltimore, in a joint venture with Connecticut General Life Insurance Co.

Connolly Development Inc., headed by former Forty-Niner Ted Connolly, has developed smaller, miniregional centers in Northern California and Nevada.

Wounded Man Holds Assailant

Krieger, 45, hung on to the holdup man until police arrived a few minutes later.

"The man was exceptional," police said.

OBITUARIES

Memorial service for Faye French Tulley of Ross, active in Marin music circles, will be at 1:30 p.m., Friday at the First Presbyterian Church in San Anselmo.

She died Sunday apparently of a heart attack, while on board a cruise ship off the Island of Granada in the Caribbean. She was 65.

She was born in Oklahoma City, where she sang in the church choir at the age of five. Her family moved to Sacramento. She graduated from the University of the Pacific, majoring in music. After moving to Marin County in 1936, she directed the choir of the Chinese Presbyterian Church of San Francisco.

She directed the choir of the First Presbyterian Church of San Anselmo for many years and also sang with the choir of the San Francisco Theological Seminary.

The family home is at 77 Wellington Avenue.

She is survived by her husband, J. Benton Tulley, senior partner in a San Francisco law firm of Erskine, Tulley, Boyd and Gantner; a son, Paul C. Tulley of Naksup, British Columbia; a daughter, Mary Ann Ashley of Vineberg, Sonoma County; a brother, Charles C. French of El Toro, Orange County, and four grandchildren.

Inurnment will be private.

Memorial contributions to a favorite charity or the San Francisco Theological Seminary, would be preferred by the family.

Comment Sought On Park Plans

The Rohnert Park Recreation and Parks Commission last night decided to take plans for a park in the holiday park area to the neighborhood for comments.

Commission secretary Sandra Nelson said the commission tentatively scheduled the special meeting for March 12.

She said comment will also be sought on a proposed bicycle path plan as well as recreation programs. A time and place for the meeting will be set later.

The commission also approved plans by Young America Homes Inc. for a tot lot in the Colegio Vista subdivision. Plans include play equipment and benches.

No Champagne At Boys Club

The office will have tickets for a benefit art show at the John Novak mansion, 50 Rica Vista, March 4 from 1 to 5 p.m.

Larkspur Chamber Picks Jury Names

The Larkspur Chamber of Commerce yesterday appointed Maggi Walker, Oakley Dexter and Gilbert Debuic to a committee to select two Larkspur nominees for the 1973-1974 Grand Jury.

President Sue Schaefer said the chamber heard a lecture on the Marin Countywide Plan by Sol Silver, county chief of advance planning, and questioned him on ways low income housing could be provided in Marin with current high land costs.

GI In Vietnam Dies Of Overdose

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Defense Department has reported the death of another American serviceman in Vietnam—an enlisted man who took an overdose of heroin.

Pentagon spokesmen said Tuesday that Pfc. Frank W. Paulos, son of Mrs. Dorothy T. Paulos, Mattitick, N.Y., was found unconscious in his barracks Feb. 10 and was pronounced dead of a heroin overdose when he was taken to a clinic.

CHARLES HERGOTT

Funeral for Charles Hergott, 70, retired merchant marine, will be held at 10 a.m. tomorrow at Parent Funeral Chapel, Petaluma.

Hergott died Thursday at a San Francisco hospital after a short illness. He had worked as a merchant marine for many years and maintained a home at 31 Park Avenue, Petaluma.

Hergott was a native of San Francisco and had also worked as a poultry inspector for a short time.

Burial will be at Holy Cross Cemetery, Colma.

JEANNE KOKJER

Jeanne L. Kokjer, 57, died in a local hospital yesterday, a few hours after being admitted with third degree burns over 50 per cent of her body, suffered in a fire in her San Rafael home.

Mrs. Kokjer, who had been living with a friend at 238 Coleman Drive for about a year, was found in a flaming chair by the friend at about 1:45 a.m.

She had broken her pelvis two months ago and had difficulty getting around, the friend said.

Mrs. Kokjer was born in Willows, Colusa County, but had lived in Marin 55 years.

She had lived in San Rafael many years and then in Mill Valley for about a year before returning to San Rafael.

She is survived by a daughter, Carol Kristine Kokjer of Oakland; a son, J. Scott Kokjer of Greenbrae, and a brother, William A. Sparrow of Novato.

Funeral will be at 10 a.m. tomorrow at the Harry M. Williams Mortuary in San Rafael. private inurnment will follow.

OSIE COX

Osie Cox, 84-year-old former San Anselmo resident, died yesterday in a convalescent hospital in Paradise, Butte County, after a long illness.

Mrs. Cox was born in Iowa but came to Chico with her family when she was 6 years old. She attended schools there and was a graduate of Chico Normal School, the forerunner of Chico State College.

She taught school in Kern County for a short time after graduation and then moved to the Bay Area, where she lived many years. She resided in San Anselmo for about 20 years. She moved to Paradise in 1972.

An avid antique collector, Mrs. Cox was a past president of the Golden Gate Collectors Club of San Francisco.

When she lived in San Anselmo, she was a member of the First Presbyterian Church.

She is survived by a sister, Mrs. Chloe Jones of Paradise.

Funeral will be at 2 p.m. Friday in the Hall-Van Hook Funeral Chapel in Chico. Burial will be in the Chico Cemetery.

Plan To Close Pacheco School Battered By Storm Of Protest

Pacheco School parents sounded a symphony of protest last night ranging from harsh charges to quiet pleas to save the life of their neighborhood school.

The verbal fury was unleashed upon the Novato Unified School District board, which is considering closing the school because of declining enrollment.

From the opening minute, when students displayed signs saying "Don't Take Us Away," "Save Our School," and "Don't Lock Us Out," the three-and-one-half-hour hearing was punctuated with emotion.

Near the close,. Principal Alfred Rivasplata commented "I started at Pacheco 18 years ago and I hate to think I'm going to close it."

About 125 persons attended and 25 to 30 spoke out in protest, several charging discrimination against military families.

(Pacheco School at 720 Ignacio Boulevard, constructedabout 20 years ago as the first large school in the former San Jose School District, serves mainly military families living in Raphael Village.)

David Traber, president of the Pacheco Parent-Teacher Association, said: "Pacheco has been dealt with as a second-class school and we have been dealt with as second-class parents."

Board President Ronald D. Schenck said it was untrue that the board had a "different approach toward service people."

Residents charged that some parents in the well-to-do Domingo Canyon area don't want their children to go to Pacheco School because it serves military families.

Domingo Canyon pupils within walking distance of Pacheco School have been assigned to Loma Verde School, residents said.

As proposed, Pacheco pupils would be transferred to Lynwood School and Loma Verde School and to Hamilton and Meadow Park schools at Hamilton Air Force Base.

Traber said busing some Pacheco School pupils to the air base would make them "even more segregated from the community."

One resident suggested the board sound out the schools who would be receiving the Pacheco pupils before making a decision and a teacher reported that the faculty at Loma Verde School opposed closing Pacheco School.

The residents suggested that rather than close the school, the board reset attendance boundaries, increasing enrollment at Pacheco.

Supt. James G. Bunker reported that enrollment at Pacheco School, which serves kindergarten through sixth grade, has dropped from 529 in 1968-69 to 362 this school year and is expected to continue dropping.

Enrollment throughout the area serving Hamilton Air Force Base and Loma Verde School has dropped 493 pupils in the past four years, he said.

Novato planning commissioner Leroy Syrop challenged the district's anticipation of an enrollment drop in the Hamilton Air Force Base-Loma Verde area. He said planning reports indicate that projects in the planning process, expected to be completed in the next several years, would generate 128 to 319 pupils in the area.

Schenck said if the enrollment projections are wrong the district could reopen Pacheco School.

If the school is closed, it could serve as a temporary home for Indian Valley Colleges or adult classes, Bunker said.

Schenck said the board will vote next Tuesday or March 6 on whether to close the school.

Trustee William G. Schneeflock, who was ill, was absent.

Rental Of School Offices Opposed

The steering committee of the Novato Citizens Task Force for Education has opposed renting offices for the Novato Unified School District administration, the district board was advised last night.

The matter will be before a general membership meeting of the task force at 9:30 a.m. tomorrow at All Saints Lutheran Church.

In turn, North Marin High School, a continuation school now in leased quarters, would be moved into the permanent administration building at the Marin School site.

Task force members Susan Carr and Lois Winterhalder said that in view of the effort to pass Senate Bill 90 to solve some financial problems and improve education, "it appears the board's perspective is a little out of place. The first thing the board is considering doing with the money is renting a plush office for administration."

Said their notification last night: "When there are children in this district who have severe problems in the basic skills, when class sizes are expanded beyond the capacity of any one teacher to effectively impart a satisfactory level of skills, when curriculum materials and textbooks are in short supply, when teachers have had no salary increases to compensate for inflation, when custodial personnel are operating on a skeleton basis and some schools are downright filthy, then we believe your priorities definitely need reordering.

"We reject any contention that the actions contemplated by the board regarding the acquisition of plant and equipment can be justified."

Trustees voted last week 3-2 to rent the space, with trustees Elisabeth Mertel and Jan Murray dissenting, but the resolution failed because four aye votes were needed.

The board is expected to have the rental proposal on the agenda again at its next meeting at 8 p.m. Tuesday at Novato High School lecture hall.

Veteran Hub Officer Elevated To Captain

Police Lt. G. Albert Howenstein, 34, a 13-year veteran of the force, last night was promoted to captain by the San Anselmo City Council.

We will fill the spot created by the retirement of Capt. Ches ter Orr, at a salary of $1,309 per month. He was one of two qualifying candidates for the post as a result of written and oral examinations, according to Albert C. Kaeppel, city administrator.

A year ago, he was one of two top contenders to become the first chief of the new Tiburon police force, but the post went to Novato Police Lt. Maurice D. Lafferty.

The San Anselmo City Council also:

ELECTION — Unanimously approved a required election statement and arguments in favor of the $500,000 open space bond issue that will be on San Anselmo voters' ballots in the April 17 election.

EMERGENCY — Proclaimed existence of a local emergency in San Anselmo, to enable the city to qualify for federal and state aid to repair damage from the mid-January storms.

SPRING CLEAN-UP — Approved plans by the San Anselmo Lions Club to organize the city's spring clean-up, May 5 and 6, with the cooperation of area Boy Scouts and Survival, Inc. The city has budgeted $1,300 for debris box rentals for the weekend.

AUSTERITY — Unanimously adopted a resolution protesting that federal budget cutbacks of poverty war, housing and other programs "excessively burdened" all cities, and asking continued funding for the programs.

TANKS — Transferred $1,500 from reserves to repair or replace the corporation yard gasoline storage tanks, into which water has leaked during recent storms.

APPEAL — Approved completely new plans for a home proposed by landowner Kurt Kissman, at 234 Oak Springs Drive, and granted a use permit as is required during the city building moratorium. Councilmen Martin G. Blinder and Lewis W. Stewart opposed, on grounds the area should be preserved for open space. Tennis Court Project At Red Hill School Backed

The two bodies instructed their attorneys to draft final wording of the contract that will allow city residents and students to share the courts.

The council told city staff to arrange necessary soil tests and other preliminaries before a contractor is hired for the construction, expected to cost between $16,000 and $17,600. The city and the district will share the cost equally and also will divide any future repair bills equally. School trustees had objected to an earlier proposal that the district pay all the repair bills, as well as provide the land for the courts.

Should the partnership "not work out," the city and the district will agree on a cash settlement, or submit the issue to arbitration, both groups agreed.

"Here we sit, piddlin' and arguing over a mere $8,000 — while the federal government and the state are putting local government right down the drain!" he exclaimed. The audience that packed the council chamber applauded.

School trustees voted 3-2 to commit funds for the preliminaries, with trustees Eugene E. Jacks and Franklin C. Latcham objecting that the school district meeting agenda didn't properly provide notice for action at last night's meeting.

The school board will review and vote on the final contract at its Feb. 22 meeting; the council is expected to vote at its meeting Feb. 27. The two panels agreed that they hoped to have the courts ready for use by June.

The councilmen and trustees also formed a committee of two representatives of each body to work on possible use of Isabel Cook School as a city police and fire station and perhaps a city hall. Councilman Martin G. Blinder and City Engineer Charles R. Leitzell will meet with Jacks and Supt. Frank R. Elliott at an unspecified date, before the two panels set a workshop session on the proposal.

Mayor Warren R. Perry and Anderson pointed out that "we've only been discussing the idea since 1960." Board chairman Mary Helen Olive said the district enrollment is dropping "quite dramatically," and the Cook school might be better suited for noneducational uses due to its noisy, congested location on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard.

Ill-Fated Pilot Had Death Calls

LEMOORE NAVAL AIR STATION (UPI) — A Navy officer testified yesterday that the pilot of a Navy jet which smashed into an Alameda apartment house last Thursday received an anonymous call in late December and was told "you will be killed."

Gilfrey said neither Ward nor his wife seemed affected by the phone calls and a tracer was put on his phone.

"There was no way anyone could have known when he was flying or could have been able to get near the plane," Gilfrey said.

A total of 16 persons testified during the morning portion of the Lemoore inquiry including maintenance men and other pilots.

It was revealed that the plane had flown three previous flights on the day of the crash.

Lt. (j.g.) Richard Lear, who had flown the third flight, said he experienced no difficulty with the 10-ton fighter bomber.

There was extensive testimony on the amount of liquid oxygen on the plane. It was determined the craft had enough oxygen for four hours flying when Ward took off from Lemoore for a "round robin" to Sacramento and back.

He had been in the air for 45 minutes when the plane crashed into the apartment house killing 10 persons.

The inquiry was recessed during the afternoon while board members attended a memorial service for Ward.

Cmdr. William Collins, information officer for the board, said the inquiry would return to Alameda Wednesday and probably would be completed in "a day or two."

He said the findings would be forwarded to the judge advocate general's office.

Stennis Improving

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., who was shot in a Washington street holdup Jan. 30, "continues to make progress," his office has reported.

Robinson's Estate At $2 Million

The actor's will, dated Feb. 15, 1972, was admitted to probate in Superior Court. Robinson died Jan. 26 at the age of 79.

The document directed that Robinson's art collection, which includes works by Renoir, Picasso, Monet and Degas, be sold. The will recommended that a public auction be held at the Sotheby Galleries in London.

Trusts were established for his widow, Jane, his son, Edward Jr., and his granddaughter, Francesca. Robinson specified, however, that his son was to receive money from the trust "so long as he conducts himself in a manner which my trustees believe to be reasonable." Edward has been arrested several times on suspicion of drunken driving.

Other beneficiaries of the trust were City College of New York, Actors Fund of America, Motion Picture Relief Fund, American Academy of Dramatic Arts, Jewish Community Foundation, and the legal defense fund of the NAACP.

Fred Waring Set At Veterans Building

"Year 56," a musical trip through 56 years of musical history with Fred Waring, will be performed at 8 p.m. March 16 at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building in San Rafael.

More than 80 per cent of Waring's band, the Pennsylvanians, is made up of new members, hand-picked musicians and singers whom he has had to teach five generations of music.

Ill-Fated Pilot Had Death Calls

LEMOORE NAVAL AIR STATION (UPI) — A Navy officer testified yesterday that the pilot of a Navy jet which smashed into an Alameda apartment house last Thursday received an anonymous call in late December and was told "you will be killed."

Cmdr. Mason Gilfrey, commanding officer of Attack Squadron 195, told a board of inquiry that Lt. Robert L. Ward, 28, pilot of the ill-fated A7 Corsair II, received several "nuisance" calls at his Lemoore home during the fall months.

Gilfrey said neither Ward nor his wife seemed affected by the phone calls and a tracer was put on his phone.

"There was no way anyone could have known when he was flying or could have been able to get near the plane," Gilfrey said.

A total of 16 persons testified during the morning portion of the Lemoore inquiry including maintenance men and other pilots.

It was revealed that the plane had flown three previous flights on the day of the crash.

Lt. (j.g.) Richard Lear, who had flown the third flight, said he experienced no difficulty with the 10-ton fighter bomber.

There was extensive testimony on the amount of liquid oxygen on the plane. It was determined the craft had enough oxygen for four hours flying when Ward took off from Lemoore for a "round robin" to Sacramento and back.

He had been in the air for 45 minutes when the plane crashed into the apartment house killing 10 persons.

The inquiry was recessed during the afternoon while board members attended a memorial service for Ward.

Cmdr. William Collins, information officer for the board, said the inquiry would return to Alameda Wednesday and probably would be completed in "a day or two."

He said the findings would be forwarded to the judge advocate general's office.

Stennis Improving

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., who was shot in a Washington street holdup Jan. 30, "continues to make progress," his office has reported.

Robinson's Estate At $2 Million

The actor's will, dated Feb. 15, 1972, was admitted to probate in Superior Court. Robinson died Jan. 26 at the age of 79.

The document directed that Robinson's art collection, which includes works by Renoir, Picasso, Monet and Degas, be sold. The will recommended that a public auction be held at the Sotheby Galleries in London.

Trusts were established for his widow, Jane, his son, Edward Jr., and his granddaughter, Francesca. Robinson specified, however, that his son was to receive money from the trust "so long as he conducts himself in a manner which my trustees believe to be reasonable." Edward has been arrested several times on suspicion of drunken driving.

Other beneficiaries of the trust were City College of New York, Actors Fund of America, Motion Picture Relief Fund, American Academy of Dramatic Arts, Jewish Community Foundation, and the legal defense fund of the NAACP.

Fred Waring Set At Veterans Building

"Year 56," a musical trip through 56 years of musical history with Fred Waring, will be performed at 8 p.m. March 16 at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building in San Rafael.

More than 80 per cent of Waring's band, the Pennsylvanians, is made up of new members, hand-picked musicians and singers whom he has had to teach five generations of music.

APRES SWIM

Two File Papers For Water Board

L. Martin Griffin, physician and conservationist who lives in Kent Woodlands, and Ross S. Shade of Mill Valley, a certified public accountant, yesterday filed nomination papers for the Marin Municipal Water District board.

Both want the seat formerly held by Eugene Miller, who resigned. The vacancy will be filled in the April 17 election.

Dr. Griffin recently completed work on a master's degree in public health and environmental science at the University of California at Berkeley.

"I will use my public health background to encourage reclamation of waste water now as both a major source of future water supply and the best way to end the massive pollution of San Francisco Bay," he said.

He believes there should be more coordination between the water district and city and county planning agencies with regard to population rowth and protection of marshes, flood plains and watersheds.

Dr. Griffin, cofounder of the Ross Valley Clinic, is now an associate member of the clinic. He has served as chief of medicine at both Ross and Marin general hospitals.

He is past president of the Marin Audubon Society and a cofounder of the Audubon Canyon Ranch.

Dr. Griffin lives with his wife Mary, a physician with the Marin County Health Department, at 313 Goodhill Road. They have four grown daughters.

Shade said he believes there will be restrictions on future growth in Marin County but believes these restrictions should originate with planning departments, not the water district.

He also predicted that voters would refuse to pass bond issues necessary to provide adequate water for large population growth in the county.

"I do not believe that long-range plans should be based on recycled sewage water, which apparently figures in present plans of the Marin Municipal Water District and is advocated by some conservation groups," he added.

Shade earned bachelor's and master's degrees at the University of California at Berkeley and a law degree from the University of San Francisco.

He is a member of the Sierra Club, the Commonwealth Club and SPUR.

Herman C. Zwart and Jerome C. Hauke, both of Mill Valley, have also announced their candidacy for the seat but have not filed necessary papers yet.

Former Officer Is Cleared In Shooting Death

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A Superior Court jury, after three hours deliberation, cleared a onetime San Francisco policeman of civil liability Tuesday in the fatal shooting of a black trucker.

Michael O'Brien, who is now a life insurance salesman, previously had been acquitted by another jury of a manslaughter charge in the death of George Baskett.

The civil suit for $750,000 had been brought by Baskett's widow and six children.

O'Brien testified that Baskett hit him with a 24-inch stick during a dispute that was triggered by a minor traffic accident involving an automobile and a motorboat the policeman was trying to get into a garage near the Hall of Justice.

He said the gun discharged accidentally.

Angel Member Faces Marin Beating Trial

A Hell's Angel acquitted of a murder charge in Alameda Superior Court in December must now stand trial in Marin Superior Court on a charge of severely beating two women in Novato in 1970.

Judge David Menary Jr. yesterday set the assault trial of 33-year-old Donald Duane (Whitey) Smith of Oakland for the week of April 16.

Smith is charged with beating the women during what witnesses said was retribution for an unpaid narcotics debt.

Witnesses at a preliminary hearing said one woman was beaten with brass knuckles, kicked repeatedly and threatened with a knife, then both were told they would be killed with an overdose of heroin and dumped in the Santa Curz mountains.

One of the victims, Shirley Jean Fabian, 27, and a male companion were found dead in a San Rafael motel of an overdose of heroin last April when Mrs. Fabian was in Marin to testify against Smith. Police have called the deaths murder, but no charge has been filed.

Smith, Hell's Angeles leader Ralph (Sonny) Barger, and two other members of the motorcycle gang were acquitted of murdering a Texas narcotics dealer found May 21 in the bathtub of a flaming Oakland home.

In the Marin case, Charlisse Joy Brant, 22, of Oakland was also charged with the assaults, but the case was dismissed against her Oct. 24 because she was in state prison on other charges.

Informal Dress Being Studied

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — A proposal that would allow members of the Texas House of Representatives to wear turtle neck sweaters and sports shirts without ties instead of coats and ties in the statehouse was sent to a subcommittee for further study Monday.

"Members should be given a chance to join the mod generation," said Rep. W. C. Sherman, D-Fort Worth, who sponsored the bill along with Rep. R. C. Nichols, D-Houston.

"It's pretty uncomfortable for an old country boy like me used to welding in a plant to wear a coat and tie up here," said Nichols.

Reform Group Urges Elected Grand Jury

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — California's grand juries should be elected as are school board trustees rather than appointed by judges, a Bay Area reform group urged yesterday.

The new Bay Area Grand Jury Reform Committee includes former Marin County jury members Gerald A. Hawes and Rick Beban, and attorney Salle S. Soladay. The group also has former grand jurors from other counties.

Hawes, who resigned from the grand jury in October 1971 in protest over what he called the "rubber stamp" murder indictment of six San Quentin inmates, charged yesterday that most grand jury investigative reports are "whitewashes."

Beban pointed out that San Francisco's sheriff Richard Hongisto also had proposed elective grand juries.

Elections, perhaps based on supervisorial districts, would offer more women, minority group members and working persons a chance to serve on the panels, the reform group said.

Hawes said the group recognized that immediate jury reform was unlikely. He cited the repeated defeats and vetos of bills submitted by Assemblyman Edwin L. Z'berg, D-Sacramento, which would provide only for creation of dual grand juries, one to indict and another to investigate local government.

Hawes said grand juries should be "ombudsmen of the community" but have failed in that role.

He argued that there would be no more politics in electing jurors than now exists in the appointment by judges of persons "who are already in the power structure or friends of the power structure."

APRES SWIM

Reform Group Urges Elected Grand Jury

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — California's grand juries should be elected as are school board trustees rather than appointed by judges, a Bay Area reform group urged yesterday.

The new Bay Area Grand Jury Reform Committee includes former Marin County jury members Gerald A. Hawes and Rick Beban, and attorney Salle S. Soladay. The group also has former grand jurors from other counties.

Hawes, who resigned from the grand jury in October 1971 in protest over what he called the "rubber stamp" murder indictment of six San Quentin inmates, charged yesterday that most grand jury investigative reports are "whitewashes."

Beban pointed out that San Francisco's sheriff Richard Hongisto also had proposed elective grand juries.

Elections, perhaps based on supervisorial districts, would offer more women, minority group members and working persons a chance to serve on the panels, the reform group said.

Hawes said the group recognized that immediate jury reform was unlikely. He cited the repeated defeats and vetos of bills submitted by Assemblyman Edwin L. Z'berg, D-Sacramento, which would provide only for creation of dual grand juries, one to indict and another to investigate local government.

Hawes said grand juries should be "ombudsmen of the community" but have failed in that role.

He argued that there would be no more politics in electing jurors than now exists in the appointment by judges of persons "who are already in the power structure or friends of the power structure."

Two File Papers For Water Board

L. Martin Griffin, physician and conservationist who lives in Kent Woodlands, and Ross S. Shade of Mill Valley, a certified public accountant, yesterday filed nomination papers for the Marin Municipal Water District board.

Both want the seat formerly held by Eugene Miller, who resigned. The vacancy will be filled in the April 17 election.

Dr. Griffin recently completed work on a master's degree in public health and environmental science at the University of California at Berkeley.

"I will use my public health background to encourage reclamation of waste water now as both a major source of future water supply and the best way to end the massive pollution of San Francisco Bay," he said.

He believes there should be more coordination between the water district and city and county planning agencies with regard to population rowth and protection of marshes, flood plains and watersheds.

Dr. Griffin, cofounder of the Ross Valley Clinic, is now an associate member of the clinic. He has served as chief of medicine at both Ross and Marin general hospitals.

He is past president of the Marin Audubon Society and a cofounder of the Audubon Canyon Ranch.

Dr. Griffin lives with his wife Mary, a physician with the Marin County Health Department, at 313 Goodhill Road. They have four grown daughters.

Shade said he believes there will be restrictions on future growth in Marin County but believes these restrictions should originate with planning departments, not the water district.

He also predicted that voters would refuse to pass bond issues necessary to provide adequate water for large population growth in the county.

"I do not believe that long-range plans should be based on recycled sewage water, which apparently figures in present plans of the Marin Municipal Water District and is advocated by some conservation groups," he added.

Shade earned bachelor's and master's degrees at the University of California at Berkeley and a law degree from the University of San Francisco.

He is a member of the Sierra Club, the Commonwealth Club and SPUR.

Herman C. Zwart and Jerome C. Hauke, both of Mill Valley, have also announced their candidacy for the seat but have not filed necessary papers yet.

Former Officer Is Cleared In Shooting Death

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A Superior Court jury, after three hours deliberation, cleared a onetime San Francisco policeman of civil liability Tuesday in the fatal shooting of a black trucker.

Michael O'Brien, who is now a life insurance salesman, previously had been acquitted by another jury of a manslaughter charge in the death of George Baskett.

The civil suit for $750,000 had been brought by Baskett's widow and six children.

O'Brien testified that Baskett hit him with a 24-inch stick during a dispute that was triggered by a minor traffic accident involving an automobile and a motorboat the policeman was trying to get into a garage near the Hall of Justice.

He said the gun discharged accidentally.

Angel Member Faces Marin Beating Trial

A Hell's Angel acquitted of a murder charge in Alameda Superior Court in December must now stand trial in Marin Superior Court on a charge of severely beating two women in Novato in 1970.

Judge David Menary Jr. yesterday set the assault trial of 33-year-old Donald Duane (Whitey) Smith of Oakland for the week of April 16.

Smith is charged with beating the women during what witnesses said was retribution for an unpaid narcotics debt.

Witnesses at a preliminary hearing said one woman was beaten with brass knuckles, kicked repeatedly and threatened with a knife, then both were told they would be killed with an overdose of heroin and dumped in the Santa Curz mountains.

One of the victims, Shirley Jean Fabian, 27, and a male companion were found dead in a San Rafael motel of an overdose of heroin last April when Mrs. Fabian was in Marin to testify against Smith. Police have called the deaths murder, but no charge has been filed.

Smith, Hell's Angeles leader Ralph (Sonny) Barger, and two other members of the motorcycle gang were acquitted of murdering a Texas narcotics dealer found May 21 in the bathtub of a flaming Oakland home.

In the Marin case, Charlisse Joy Brant, 22, of Oakland was also charged with the assaults, but the case was dismissed against her Oct. 24 because she was in state prison on other charges.

Informal Dress Being Studied

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — A proposal that would allow members of the Texas House of Representatives to wear turtle neck sweaters and sports shirts without ties instead of coats and ties in the statehouse was sent to a subcommittee for further study Monday.

"Members should be given a chance to join the mod generation," said Rep. W. C. Sherman, D-Fort Worth, who sponsored the bill along with Rep. R. C. Nichols, D-Houston.

"It's pretty uncomfortable for an old country boy like me used to welding in a plant to wear a coat and tie up here," said Nichols.

Tiburon Takes Steps To Halt More Subdivisions

The Tiburon City Council unanimously adopted a resolution last night asking the county not to approve any more subdivisions on the city doorsteps until Tiburon and the county agree on a land use policy for these unincorporated areas. (Another Tiburon City Council story, page 1.)

Mayor Albert H. Sennett said he had introduced the measure after writing many letters to Supervisor Michael Wornum and county planners "expressing concern about county laxity and asking that we come to a common agreement on this type of development."

But minutes later, the council only squeaked by with a 3-2 vote on a second resolution "deploring and opposing" proposed massive developments in the Ring Mountain area just outside Tiburon.

The resolution, proposed by a citizens group calling itself Friends of Ring Mountain, asked the county to buy parts of the area as open space. It said that the county might take legal action to protect public access to the land which had been gained through extensive public use. It also recommended that the county issue no development permits in the area until the countywide plan is approved.

Councilman Allan N. Littman, a dissenter, said that property owners on Ring Mountain should have had a chance to comment on the resolution. "We shouldn't act without at least hearing the views of the fellow who owns the land," he said. "Even if he's dead wrong."

The county should be the one to hold the public hearings and get the property owner's point of view, responded Councilman Branwell D. Fanning.

Councilman M. Carlisle Becker said he was opposing the resolution because it was poorly worded.

The Tiburon City Council also:

SIGNS — Amended its sign ordinances to allow signs for second floor as well as first floor businesses and to limit each property to one free standing sign. The vote was 3-1 on first reading of the ordinance with Councilman Branwell D. Fanning dissenting.

REZONING — Unanimously approved at first reading the rezoning from a single-family zone to a single-family cluster zone 19 acres at 4531 Paradise Drive. Action was requested by David C. and Barbara E. Mathew.

PARK — Received a report from the parks and recreation commission on the progress on a proposed Richardson Bay Park. The council was told that Sasaki-Walker Associates will now go ahead with the second phase in planning for the park. A second public hearing on the project will be held in April.

SPECIAL MEETING — Adjourned until a hearing at 7:30 p.m. tonight at city hall when they will consider whether construction revisions for the Hilarita development are consistent with precise plans already approved by the city.

The planning commission has already ruled that the revisions in the proposed moderate income housing complex are acceptable.

Call Spanned 'The Time Gap'

WEST MONROE, La. (UPI) — Lt. Col. Bruce Seeber of the Air Force was shot down over North Vietnam more than seven years ago. His wife Jane got a telephone call from him Monday from Clark Air Force Base in the Philippines.

"That one phone call seemed to erase those seven years," she said Tuesday. "It spanned the time gap.

"I'm looking forward to our being a real family again," she said. "I'm not looking to special things, but to the ordinary, everyday family things that we enjoyed so much seven and a half years ago.

"That's what I have so much wanted," she said. "It's just cooking a meal, taking a drive Sunday afternoons, playing a game of Monopoly."

Leary Will Face Escape Charge

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Calif. (UPI) — Timothy Leary, apostle of LSD, was ordered Tuesday to stand trial March 13 on charges of escaping 29 months ago from a prison work camp where he was serving a marijuana possession sentence.

In contrast to his outspoken courtroom behavior in his younger days, Leary, 51, listened politely as a superior court judge denied a series of motions by Leary's lawyer.

Bound Over In Forgery Check Case

The check for $550 was cashed last Aug. 14 at the main San Rafael branch of the Bank of America, but was not reported missing until two days later by its owner, former San Quentin chaplain Carlton A. Eshelman.

Wife Tells Why She Got Divorce

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — The wife of an Air Force captain released by North Vietnam divorced her husband last year when he was a prisoner because the "neat and docile" life she once lived had become politically and religiously active, she said Tuesday.

"I knew I couldn't go back," said Mrs. Mary Kramer, former wife of Air Force pilot Galand Kramer, who was shot down in January, 1967. The formerly quiet housewife now works for Rep. James Jones, D-Okla., and said she was also involved in school and church activities. The couple has two children, Todd, 9, and Cynthia, 8.

"We've grown apart," she said. "I felt it would be difficult for us to get together."

Kramer arrived in the Philippines with the first load of POWs Monday. He was photographed carrying a "God Bless America and Nixon" sign as he stepped off the plane.

The Tiburon City Council unanimously adopted a resolution last night asking the county not to approve any more subdivisions on the city doorsteps until Tiburon and the county agree on a land use policy for these unincorporated areas. (Another Tiburon City Council story, page 1.)

Mayor Albert H. Sennett said he had introduced the measure after writing many letters to Supervisor Michael Wornum and county planners "expressing concern about county laxity and asking that we come to a common agreement on this type of development."

But minutes later, the council only squeaked by with a 3-2 vote on a second resolution "deploring and opposing" proposed massive developments in the Ring Mountain area just outside Tiburon.

The resolution, proposed by a citizens group calling itself Friends of Ring Mountain, asked the county to buy parts of the area as open space. It said that the county might take legal action to protect public access to the land which had been gained through extensive public use. It also recommended that the county issue no development permits in the area until the countywide plan is approved.

Councilman Allan N. Littman, a dissenter, said that property owners on Ring Mountain should have had a chance to comment on the resolution. "We shouldn't act without at least hearing the views of the fellow who owns the land," he said. "Even if he's dead wrong."

The county should be the one to hold the public hearings and get the property owner's point of view, responded Councilman Branwell D. Fanning.

Councilman M. Carlisle Becker said he was opposing the resolution because it was poorly worded.

The Tiburon City Council also:

SIGNS — Amended its sign ordinances to allow signs for second floor as well as first floor businesses and to limit each property to one free standing sign. The vote was 3-1 on first reading of the ordinance with Councilman Branwell D. Fanning dissenting.

REZONING — Unanimously approved at first reading the rezoning from a single-family zone to a single-family cluster zone 19 acres at 4531 Paradise Drive. Action was requested by David C. and Barbara E. Mathew.

PARK — Received a report from the parks and recreation commission on the progress on a proposed Richardson Bay Park. The council was told that Sasaki-Walker Associates will now go ahead with the second phase in planning for the park. A second public hearing on the project will be held in April.

SPECIAL MEETING — Adjourned until a hearing at 7:30 p.m. tonight at city hall when they will consider whether construction revisions for the Hilarita development are consistent with precise plans already approved by the city.

The planning commission has already ruled that the revisions in the proposed moderate income housing complex are acceptable.

Bound Over In Forgery Check Case

The check for $550 was cashed last Aug. 14 at the main San Rafael branch of the Bank of America, but was not reported missing until two days later by its owner, former San Quentin chaplain Carlton A. Eshelman.

Wife Tells Why She Got Divorce

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — The wife of an Air Force captain released by North Vietnam divorced her husband last year when he was a prisoner because the "neat and docile" life she once lived had become politically and religiously active, she said Tuesday.

"I knew I couldn't go back," said Mrs. Mary Kramer, former wife of Air Force pilot Galand Kramer, who was shot down in January, 1967. The formerly quiet housewife now works for Rep. James Jones, D-Okla., and said she was also involved in school and church activities. The couple has two children, Todd, 9, and Cynthia, 8.

"We've grown apart," she said. "I felt it would be difficult for us to get together."

Kramer arrived in the Philippines with the first load of POWs Monday. He was photographed carrying a "God Bless America and Nixon" sign as he stepped off the plane.

Call Spanned 'The Time Gap'

WEST MONROE, La. (UPI) — Lt. Col. Bruce Seeber of the Air Force was shot down over North Vietnam more than seven years ago. His wife Jane got a telephone call from him Monday from Clark Air Force Base in the Philippines.

"That one phone call seemed to erase those seven years," she said Tuesday. "It spanned the time gap.

"I'm looking forward to our being a real family again," she said. "I'm not looking to special things, but to the ordinary, everyday family things that we enjoyed so much seven and a half years ago.

"That's what I have so much wanted," she said. "It's just cooking a meal, taking a drive Sunday afternoons, playing a game of Monopoly."

Leary Will Face Escape Charge

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Calif. (UPI) — Timothy Leary, apostle of LSD, was ordered Tuesday to stand trial March 13 on charges of escaping 29 months ago from a prison work camp where he was serving a marijuana possession sentence.

In contrast to his outspoken courtroom behavior in his younger days, Leary, 51, listened politely as a superior court judge denied a series of motions by Leary's lawyer.

Bagley's Solution To Span Approach Funds

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — The state should lend itself $7 million so it can begin work immediately to widen the dangerous San Francisco approach to the Golden Gate Bridge, Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, proposed yesterday.

The California Highway Commission claims it cannot start the project until 1977 because it has only half its $14 million cost, Bagley noted. The solution would be to lend the commission $7 million from the state's $850 million surplus, he proposed.

The commission would repay the state's general fund in 1977, with interest, the assemblyman said.

Widening of the approach, which has been the scene of repeated fatal accidents, long has been stalled by the state in its battle to force more freeways through San Francisco. Other bills have been introduced in the new legislative session to order the project built next fiscal year, but they provide no funds to do so.

Bagley noted that a similar loan financed construction of the second Waldo Tunnel 20 years ago. That loan, however, had to be repaid by the bridge district. Bagley stressed the bridge district needed its funds for transit now, and could not also help pay for widening the approach.

Bagley yesterday launched negotiations with the Reagan administration to get its agreement to the loan. The assemblyman is the administration's prime fiscal spokesman in the Legislature.

The loan will take legislation, but Bagley said he first wanted "to get everyone together on it."

Full Value Claims Are Being Pushed

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Legislation to require insurance companies to pay claims for full appraised value has been introduced by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael.

Insurance companies commonly refuse to pay full value based on appraisals obtained by customers, but nevertheless charge premiums based on the appraisals. The customer thus can end up without full coverage and without any return of the premiums which allegedly bought full coverage, Bagley said.

The bill, AR 342, would require insurance companies to pay loss and damage claims on the basis of the appraisals they use as a basis for premiums. The bill, however, would allow insurance companies to use "a different method in the computation of loss" if the policy and application for a policy "set forth, in type of a prominent size and color, the actual method of such loss computation."

Turkey, Cornbread Dressing Ordered

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI) — Glenda Jones of Baton Rouge said her husband, Air Force Maj. Neal Jones, used part of his telephone time from Clark Air Force Base in the Philippines to order some food.

"Tell mother the first thing I want is a big turkey and cornbread dressing," she quoted him as saying. "He said he was in good physical condition, that he didn't see any problems."

Fiancee At GI's Bedside

Now, Parks said Tuesday, "All the tests showed that the malignancy has been removed but we'll have to wait and see. The type of cancer I have could recur, say, in five or 10 years." He plans to marry Chong Kil Soon April 6.

A COVER — Newspapers are used for many things — reading, lining garbage cans, wrapping fish and if it's bad weather, a protective covering. Patricia Eklund of Minneapolis found such a use for it yesterday as snow paid a visit to the area again yesterday.

Inmate Leaves Security Ranch

A San Quentin inmate, serving a term for assault, walked away last night from the minimum security ranch dormitory at the prison, a spokesman said.

Still missing today was Philip Kirk, 28, of Fall River Mills, Shasta County.

Lee DeBord, prison information officer, said Kirk was present at the 8 p.m. head count but was gone at 9 p.m.

He was described as a Caucasian, five feet five inches tall, 140 pounds with brown hair and blue eyes. He has a muscular build and is a boxer, DeBord said. He was believed to be wearing prison garb, jeans and a denim shirt.

Kirk, who was sent to prison in 1968, paroled in 1971 and returned last November as a parole violator, was serving a six-months-to-life term.

Behr Aims Guns At Medi-Cal Providers

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Legislation aimed at recapturing fraudulent and erroneous Medi-Cal payments was to be introduced today by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael.

The measure would empower the state Department of Health Care Services to slap judgment liens against corporations and individuals involved in disputed Medi-Cal payments.

According to the department, which operates the six-year-old Medi-Cal program, $35 million is owed the state by providers of health care because of fraudulent or erroneous payments. Of this total, $11.8 million was paid hospitals and nursing homes which probably have escaped prosecution by going out of business, according to department figures.

The annual state loss in the future will be about $4.3 million just from hospitals and nursing homes, the department estimated. It had no figure on the loss from some 2,000 cases of fraud a year, but said these involved frauds ranging from $5,000 up to $1 million.

The bill, certain to arouse a storm of protest from the medical profession, would allow liens to be filed with county recorders to prevent sale of hospitals or nursing homes, or medical practices, without notice to prospective buyers that the title was clouded.

This would prevent persons with disputed Medi-Cal payments from "skipping town," a spokesman for the senator said.

The bill was asked by the department. Its only recourse under present law is through the courts, which takes so long that defendants have vanished after selling their businesses.

The liens would be against all property owned in the county by anyone involved in such prosecutions by the state.

Plans For Preservation Of Dollar Estate Eyed

Directors of Marin Heritage last night reviewed first steps of a feasibility study of preservation and use of the Dollar Estate on Mission Avenue in San Rafael, and issued a call for commitments from organizations that would like to make use of some of the estate's facilities.

Such organizations may call Mr. or Mrs. Frederick Dekker of 12 Center Street, San Rafael.

Steps to be taken in the feasibility study were outlined by Charles H. Page of Page and Wheeler, San Francisco urban planning firm, at the meeting at the Dekker home. Page and Wheeler is making the study jointly with Kaiser and Marston Associates, economic consultants, under a $2,000 contract, half to be paid by Marin Heritage and half by the City of San Rafael.

Marin Heritage plans a major fund-raising event March 10 at 8 p.m. consisting of an auction of antiques, plants, paintings, etc. at the home of Herminia Kleiber Richards, 201 Locust Avenue, San Rafael. Mrs. Scot MacInnis of Mill Valley, who is in charge of the auction, said donations for it are being sought.

Contract Awarded For Restrooms

The Sausalito School District board last night awarded a contract to construct two restrooms at Bayside School to Joseph E. Redmond, San Rafael contractor.

Returning POW 'Sounds Real Good'

ALEXANDRIA, La. (UPI) — Terry Curtis of Alexandria, La., got a phone call Tuesday from her husband, Air Force Lt. Col. Thomas J. Curtis, who had been a prisoner of war.

"He asked how the family is doing, and we told him we were just anxious to get him home," she said. "He sounds real good."

Reagan Hits Critics Of Tax Proposal

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Accusing his Democratic critics of "pure demagoguery," Gov. Ronald Reagan predicted yesterday his new state tax rationing plan can spread across the continent and lead to a needed lid on federal spending.

"Something different must be done if we're going to preserve this economic system and allow people to provide for their own livelihoods," he said.

Reagan devoted practically all his weekly news conference to the first-in-the-nation tax control plan he proposed last week. Basically, it would limit total state taxes to a percentage of personal income. The percentage would decrease from 8.75 to 7.15 during the next 15 years, resulting in an overall tax cut of 20 per cent, he said.

The Republican governor is asking the Legislature to place the measure on the ballot so it can be approved as a state constitutional amendment by the voters. If the Legislature does not act, Reagan has said he will sponsor his own signature drive to qualify the measure on the ballot.

"That smacks of the same kind of demagoguery that has led to the economic mythology so prevalent today," said Reagan, referring to Democratic alternatives that would close big business "loopholes."

"It's pure demagoguery that it is economic nonsense and there is no other way to portray it."

Reagan, who has left the door open for a possible 1976 presidential bid, was asked whether he thought the tax ceiling plan could work at the federal level:

"Yes, I do," he said.

"Perhaps the duty of the states is to innovate, to try reforms and changes, and then the federal government would see whether they work. And California is particularly fitted to do this. We're a microcosim. We're literally a nation in ourselves."

Reagan said if California tried his plan for "a few years" and was forced to cancel it because it did not work, there would be "no great chaos" on the national level. "But if it does work," he added, "the federal government could take a look at it and say, 'why can't it be a solution to the problem here.'"

Reagan told newsmen he will delay his signature collecting drive "as long as it looks like the Legislature is honestly dealing with this problem and trying to make a decision on it. If on the other hand, they start loving it to death" then he will start the initiative process, aimed toward a special fall election.

Under Reagan's plan, the voters would have to approve any subsequent increase in the total tax ceiling.

"We are not omnipotent. We don't have a market on brains. And I don't think we were sent up here to rule the people's lives," the governor said.

Reagan noted that under the proposal the state budget still would increase by three times in 15 years. If he had emphasized that in his original announcement, the fiscal conservative told newsmen, "you would have gone screaming out of here saying, 'see how extravant Old Scrooge has suddenly become.'"

Indirectly related to the tax rationing plan is a separate proposal to return a $852 million revenue surplus to Californians through a 20 per cent one-time income tax cut and a seven month delay in a scheduled June 1 sales tax increase.

Body Identified As College Coed

SANTA CRUZ (UPI) — A body found in a remote area near Bonny Doon was identified yesterday as that of a Cabrillo College coed missing since last October.

Dental charts were used to make the identification of the remains of Mary Guilfoyle, 24, who was last seen when she left the campus to go to Santa Cruz Oct. 24. She never arrived at her appointment here.

The cause of death was not determined.

Bagley's Solution To Span Approach Funds

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — The state should lend itself $7 million so it can begin work immediately to widen the dangerous San Francisco approach to the Golden Gate Bridge, Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, proposed yesterday.

The California Highway Commission claims it cannot start the project until 1977 because it has only half its $14 million cost, Bagley noted. The solution would be to lend the commission $7 million from the state's $850 million surplus, he proposed.

The commission would repay the state's general fund in 1977, with interest, the assemblyman said.

Widening of the approach, which has been the scene of repeated fatal accidents, long has been stalled by the state in its battle to force more freeways through San Francisco. Other bills have been introduced in the new legislative session to order the project built next fiscal year, but they provide no funds to do so.

Bagley noted that a similar loan financed construction of the second Waldo Tunnel 20 years ago. That loan, however, had to be repaid by the bridge district. Bagley stressed the bridge district needed its funds for transit now, and could not also help pay for widening the approach.

Bagley yesterday launched negotiations with the Reagan administration to get its agreement to the loan. The assemblyman is the administration's prime fiscal spokesman in the Legislature.

The loan will take legislation, but Bagley said he first wanted "to get everyone together on it."

Full Value Claims Are Being Pushed

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Legislation to require insurance companies to pay claims for full appraised value has been introduced by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael.

Insurance companies commonly refuse to pay full value based on appraisals obtained by customers, but nevertheless charge premiums based on the appraisals. The customer thus can end up without full coverage and without any return of the premiums which allegedly bought full coverage, Bagley said.

The bill, AB 342, would require insurance companies to pay loss and damage claims on the basis of the appraisals they use as a basis for premiums. The bill, however, would allow insurance companies to use "a different method in the computation of loss" if the policy and application for a policy "set forth, in type of a prominent size and color, the actual method of such loss computation."

Turkey, Cornbread Dressing Ordered

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI) — Glenda Jones of Baton Rouge said her husband, Air Force Maj. Neal Jones, used part of his telephone time from Clark Air Force Base in the Philippines to order some food.

"Tell mother the first thing I want is a big turkey and cornbread dressing," she quoted him as saying. "He said he was in good physical condition, that he didn't see any problems."

Fiancee At GI's Bedside

Now, Parks said Tuesday, "All the tests showed that the malignancy has been removed but we'll have to wait and see. The type of cancer I have could recur, say, in five or 10 years." He plans to marry Chong Kil Soon April 6.

A COVER — Newspapers are used for many things — reading, lining garbage cans, wrapping fish and if it's bad weather, a protective covering. Patricia Eklund of Minneapolis found such a use for it yesterday as snow paid a visit to the area again yesterday.

Inmate Leaves Security Ranch

A San Quentin inmate, serving a term for assault, walked away last night from the minimum security ranch dormitory at the prison, a spokesman said.

Still missing today was Philip Kirk, 28, of Fall River Mills, Shasta County.

Lee DeBord, prison information officer, said Kirk was present at the 8 p.m. head count but was gone at 9 p.m.

He was described as a Caucasian, five feet five inches tall, 140 pounds with brown hair and blue eyes. He has a muscular build and is a boxer, DeBord said. He was believed to be wearing prison garb, jeans and a denim shirt.

Kirk, who was sent to prison in 1968, paroled in 1971 and returned last November as a parole violator, was serving a six-months-to-life term.

Behr Aims Guns At Medi-Cal Providers

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Legislation aimed at recapturing fraudulent and erroneous Medi-Cal payments was to be introduced today by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael.

The measure would empower the state Department of Health Care Services to slap judgment liens against corporations and individuals involved in disputed Medi-Cal payments.

According to the department, which operates the six-year-old Medi-Cal program, $35 million is owed the state by providers of health care because of fraudulent or erroneous payments. Of this total, $11.8 million was paid hospitals and nursing homes which probably have escaped prosecution by going out of business, according to department figures.

The annual state loss in the future will be about $4.3 million just from hospitals and nursing homes, the department estimated. It had no figure on the loss from some 2,000 cases of fraud a year, but said these involved frauds ranging from $5,000 up to $1 million.

The bill, certain to arouse a storm of protest from the medical profession, would allow liens to be filed with county recorders to prevent sale of hospitals or nursing homes, or medical practices, without notice to prospective buyers that the title was clouded.

This would prevent persons with disputed Medi-Cal payments from "skipping town," a spokesman for the senator said.

The bill was asked by the department. Its only recourse under present law is through the courts, which takes so long that defendants have vanished after selling their businesses.

The liens would be against all property owned in the county by anyone involved in such prosecutions by the state.

Plans For Preservation Of Dollar Estate Eyed

Directors of Marin Heritage last night reviewed first steps of a feasibility study of preservation and use of the Dollar Estate on Mission Avenue in San Rafael, and issued a call for commitments from organizations that would like to make use of some of the estate's facilities.

Such organizations may call Mr. or Mrs. Frederick Dekker of 12 Center Street, San Rafael.

Steps to be taken in the feasibility study were outlined by Charles H. Page of Page and Wheeler, San Francisco urban planning firm, at the meeting at the Dekker home. Page and Wheeler is making the study jointly with Kaiser and Marston Associates, economic consultants, under a $2,000 contract, half to be paid by Marin Heritage and half by the City of San Rafael.

Marin Heritage plans a major fund-raising event March 10 at 8 p.m. consisting of an auction of antiques, plants, paintings, etc. at the home of Herminia Kleiber Richards, 201 Locust Avenue, San Rafael. Mrs. Scot MacInnis of Mill Valley, who is in charge of the auction, said donations for it are being sought.

Contract Awarded For Restrooms

The Sausalito School District board last night awarded a contract to construct two restrooms at Bayside School to Joseph E. Redmond, San Rafael contractor.

Returning POW 'Sounds Real Good'

ALEXANDRIA, La. (UPI) — Terry Curtis of Alexandria, La., got a phone call Tuesday from her husband, Air Force Lt. Col. Thomas J. Curtis, who had been a prisoner of war.

"He asked how the family is doing, and we told him we were just anxious to get him home," she said. "He sounds real good."

Six More Enter School Elections

With the filing deadline only two days away, six more candidates emerged yesterday and today in the 22 school board elections that will be held in Marin April 17.

Two of the new hopefuls, O'Brien Young and Peter B. Weston, filed candidacy papers in the Bolinas-Stinson School District. Others filing papers were Edward A. Tibbetts, for a Marin County Board of Education seat; Thomas Spencer, for the Mill Valley School District board, and Allan J. Kirchem, in the Lagunitas School District.

Today, attorney Jerrold M. Ladar returned papers to seek reelection to his seat on the Tamalpais High School District board.

Deadline for filings is 5 p.m. Friday.

The candidacies of Mrs. Young and Weston swelled the Bolinas-Stinson field to six hopefuls for four seats.

Mrs. Young, a 35-year-old graduate of Radcliffe College, told the Independent-Journal today she seeks a board seat because of a belief that the district's one school should take added steps to stimulate children who are not self-motivated.

Mrs. Young, mother of two Bolinas School children, lives at 275 Dogwood Road, Bolinas. Her husband, Landon, is director of the Community Music Center in San Francisco.

Like Mrs. Young, Weston, a 42-year-old electrician, and former teacher, is making his first try at public office. Calling for "new directions" in the district, Weston expressed an awareness of the "kinds of special education people in the community would like to see in the schools."

Weston, also with two children in Bolinas School, has lived in the Bolinas-Stinson Beach area for nearly five years.

Tibbetts, the first official candidate to seek the Area 3 seat on the Marin County Board of Education, is a 29-year-old civil engineer, serving as district engineer in the Las Gallinas Valley Sanitary District.

The Area 3 seat now is held by Patrick W. Pollock, who can't run because of redistricting.

Tibbetts, father of three boys, lives at 1020E Los Gamos Road, San Rafael. He has been a Marin resident nearly four years.

Spencer, joining two other candidates for three Mill Valley seats, is an associate professor of child psychology at California State University, San Francisco, as well as a director of the university's child study center.

The 35-year-old candidate lives with his wife and two daughters at 429 Live Oak Drive, Tamalpais Valley. He has lived in the Mill Valley district for five years.

Spencer said he believes the school board must "assure that all points of view are heard and given equal consideration in a diverse community such as Mill Valley. It is imperative to prove to the overburdened taxpayers that the board is obtaining the best education value from the funds available," he said.

The candidate said "too much importance has been placed on methods and techniques of teaching rather than on ability, skill and enthusiasm of the teacher."

No other biographical information or reasons for his election bid was available today.

Ladar, a Mill Valley resident, was elected to the board in 1970.

The 39-year-old Ladar, who obtained his law degree from Boalt Hall in San Francisco, formerly served for two years as chief of the criminal division in the U.S. Attorney's Office in San Francisco. He now is in private practice in that city.

Meantime, a candidate who filed yesterday in the Kentfield School District told the Independent-Journal he is concerned over the effect of the state's new tax shift-school finance legislation on district schools.

Attorney Neil M. Park, who could not be reached in time for yesterday's I-J, said he seeks one of three open Kentfield seats to try to help solve the money dilemma arising from S.B. 90.

Park, 30, an attorney with the San Francisco firm of Park, Swaner and Leslie, has two children in district schools.

He has been a Marinite for nine years and a Kentfield resident for four.

It's Park's first try for public office.

Devalued Dollar Creating Chaos On World Markets

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

World money markets reopened today and early prices indicated dealers did not know quite what to make of the new, devalued dollar. The dollar was strong in Belgium and Frankfurt, weak in London and Amsterdam and at an all time low in Tokyo.

In London the price of gold jumped $1.20 an ounce to an all time high of $70.10 on the bullion market and market sources said it was selling for as high as $72 an ounce in unofficial trades. The previous record was $69.50 set only a week ago.

Greece formally announced a 10 per cent devaluation of the drachma but in Spain many tourists continued to receive pre-devaluation prices for their dollars. Brazil reported an upward revaluation of 3 per cent of the cruzeiro —the first time in this century itihas been marked upward in relation to the dollar.

In Tokyo the price of the dollar fell to a record low when the markets reopened today and the state bank bought 150 million unwanted dollars to keep its price from falling below 271.10 yen.

The dollar opened well above its new parity in Belgium. In London and the Netherlands, it sagged slightly from the prices —official and unofficial — posted Tuesday.

Swiss banks today devalued the dollar by up to 14 per cent instead of the official 10 per cent while waiting for the Federal Bank and government to fix the new dollar-Swiss franc parity. By the end of trading today banks were giving only 3.35 to 3.36 francs for one dollar compared to the former official rate of 3.84 francs to the dollar.

In Italy, the government let the lira float away from its previous parity and it quickly rose against the dollar, but dipped as compared to stronger European currencies.

The Hong Kong dollar today was revalued upward nearly 10 per cent in relation to the U.S. dollar.

Finance ministers of the nine Common Market nations called a meeting later today to study the new situation. High on the agenda were the Italian float, which threatened the Market's economic unity, and the dollar devaluation, which will force recalculation of Europe's complex farm support prices.

Candidate Disqualified —Residency

An 18-year-old candidate for election to the San Rafael Board of Education was disqualified today because he fails to meet a three-year residency requirement under the city charter, a requirement held unconstitutional by Marin Superior Court.

Jeff D. Yarbrough III, a senior at San Rafael High School, is not eligible under the charter to run for the board because he has only lived in the city for two years, according to City Clerk Marion A. Grady.

The city clerk, noting that the residency requirement has been held unconstitutional in Marin Superior Court, said young Yarbrough will have to petition the court to get his name on the April 17 ballot.

A proposal to amend the city charter's three-year residency requirement to a one-year requirement only will appear on the April 17 ballot, she added.

Yarbrough was unavailable today for comment.

The disqualification leaves seven candidates in the race for two board seats: incumbent Paul K. McMullen, Lewis S. Pollock, Marie J. Sessi, Joan Lisetor, Suzanne L. Beittel, Gale B. Fisher and Clarence W. Koop.

Canyon Road Sewer Line Due Study

The Novato Sanitary District staff is going to study the feasibility of providing a sewer line in the Canyon Road area to serve about 15 homes, according to Dist. Mgr. Charles A. Joseph.

Directors authorized the study Monday night after Richard A. Knight of 10 Laurie Drive reported about 60 per cent of property owners in the area, now on septic tanks, are interested in sewer service. Joseph estimated about 1,000 feet of line would be needed.

Directors also gave initial approval to annexation of 10 acres on the west side of Eucalyptus Avenue, south of Center Road, and five acres on the south side of Vineyard Road west of Wild Horse Valley Drive.

Reagan Hits Critics Of Tax Proposal

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Accusing his Democratic critics of "pure demagoguery," Gov. Ronald Reagan predicted yesterday his new state tax rationing plan can spread across the continent and lead to a needed lid on federal spending.

"Something different must be done if we're going to preserve this economic system and allow people to provide for their own livelihoods," he said.

Reagan devoted practically all his weekly news conference to the first-in-the-nation tax control plan he proposed last week. Basically, it would limit total state taxes to a percentage of personal income. The percentage would decrease from 8.75 to 7.15 during the next 15 years, resulting in an overall tax cut of 20 per cent, he said.

The Republican governor is asking the Legislature to place the measure on the ballot so it can be approved as a state constitutional amendment by the voters. If the Legislature does not act, Reagan has said he will sponsor his own signature drive to qualify the measure on the ballot.

"That smacks of the same kind of demagoguery that has led to the economic mythology so prevalent today," said Reagan, referring to Democratic alternatives that would close big business "loopholes."

"It's pure demagoguery that it is economic nonsense and there is no other way to portray it."

Reagan, who has left the door open for a possible 1976 presidential bid, was asked whether he thought the tax ceiling plan could work at the federal level:

"Yes, I do," he said.

"Perhaps the duty of the states is to innovate, to try reforms and changes, and then the federal government would see whether they work. And California is particularly fitted to do this. We're a microcosim. We're literally a nation in ourselves."

Reagan said if California tried his plan for "a few years" and was forced to cancel it because it did not work, there would be "no great chaos" on the national level. "But if it does work," he added, "the federal government could take a look at it and say, 'why can't it be a solution to the problem here.'"

Reagan told newsmen he will delay his signature collecting drive "as long as it looks like the Legislature is honestly dealing with this problem and trying to make a decision on it. If on the other hand, they start loving it to death" then he will start the initiative process, aimed toward a special fall election.

Under Reagan's plan, the voters would have to approve any subsequent increase in the total tax ceiling.

"We are not omnipotent. We don't have a market on brains. And I don't think we were sent up here to rule the people's lives," the governor said.

Reagan noted that under the proposal the state budget still would increase by three times in 15 years. If he had emphasized that in his original announcement, the fiscal conservative told newsmen, "you would have gone screaming out of here saying, 'see how extravant Old Scrooge has suddenly become.'"

Indirectly related to the tax rationing plan is a separate proposal to return a $852 million revenue surplus to Californians through a 20 per cent one-time income tax cut and a seven month delay in a scheduled June 1 sales tax increase.

Body Identified As College Coed

SANTA CRUZ (UPI) — A body found in a remote area near Bonny Doon was identified yesterday as that of a Cabrillo College coed missing since last October.

Dental charts were used to make the identification of the remains of Mary Guilfoyle, 24, who was last seen when she left the campus to go to Santa Cruz Oct. 24. She never arrived at her appointment here.

The cause of death was not determined.

A VALENTINE HUG

Kay Perkins threw herself into the arms of her husband, Maj. Glendon Perkins, in the rear seat of a Maxwell Air Force Base Command car after his return to Montgomery, Ala., last night after seven years as a prisoner of war in Vietnam. Major Perkins was one of two prisoners rushed home because of critical illness in the family.

Support To Bike Path Across Bay

The Mill Valley Planning Commission recommended last night that the city participate in construction of a bicycle and pedestrian path and bridge across Richardson Bay.

Planning Secretary Carol Defenderfer said the path would begin at the end of Sycamore Avenue and run to Shelter Bay Avenue in the Enchanted Knolls area across the bay. (The Enchanted Knolls Homeowners Association has been lobbying for the bridge-path for more than a year.)

Cost of the pathway is undetermined. It would be shared by the county, which would pay for constructing the bridge, and the city, which would foot the bill for paving, she said.

In other business, the commission agreed to recommend that the council accept an offer from an anonymous donor to give the city 1.23 acres of land south of Blithedale Park. The property, located on Elaine Avenue, would probably be used for a park.

Docks on the Ohio River at Louisville, Ky., handle 1,000 to 1,500 tons of steel daily.

Clark Rumored As Attorney For Magee

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Rommel Bondoc, court-appointed co-counsel for convict Ruchell Magee, yesterday withdrew from the case and it was rumored that former Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark will replace him.

Bondoc made no immediate statement on reasons for his withdrawal, but court observers said there appeared to be a rift between him and Magee's other attorney, Robert D. Carrow of Novato.

Carrow reportedly has told Judge Morton Colvin of San Francisco Superior Court that he plans to bring Clark into the case.

Magee, charged with fatally shooting Judge Harold J. Haley during the Marin Civic Center shoot-out in August 1971, has been on trial more than four weeks in a heavily guarded courtroom.

Yesterday San Quentin Correctional Officer Theodore Zink testified that shortly after the shooting Magee told him, "If I was running that kidnap there would be a lot of dead pigs."

He said Magee made the statement three days after the escape attempt while he was hooked to a lung suction machine in the prison hospital.

Magee was shot through the chest during the shoot-out in the Civic Center parking lot. A hostage juror in the escape van and prosecutor Gary W. Thomas were also wounded and two convicts and their accomplice died.

Mount Burdell Walk Planned

A newly formed weekday walking group in Novato will hike on Mount Burdell, starting at 9:30 a.m. tomorrow, weather permitting, according to Kay Spitler, one of the group which has invited other residents to join.

The walk will start from the end of San Andreas Drive, opposite the San Marin Club, with an early group to return at 1 p.m. and a later group at 2:45 p.m., Mrs. Spitler said. If the walk is rained out, it will be held Feb. 22 at the same time and place.

Additional information can be obtained from Mrs. Spitler of 3 Syosset Lane or Ann Brown of 490 Estado Way.

Wallet Theft Denied By Man

A preliminary hearing was scheduled for Feb. 23.

Lane is said to have grabbed a wallet from a woman in the United Market at 515 Third Street, San Rafael. Police said he tried to flee, but was trapped in his car by store employees.

Mail Security Plan Considered

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Officials of the state Franchise Tax Board are considering setting up a security program to inspect mail that might contain explosives.

Martin Huff, executive officer of the board, was reluctant to discuss the matter Tuesday but said, "we're contemplating doing it (starting a new mail security program.) We're a little concerned."

About 1,000 board employes will process an estimated 8 million state income tax forms in Sacramento through April 16.

Stinson To Proceed On Waste Plan

Directors of the Stinson Beach County Water District have decided to proceed with an $850,000 waste disposal system in the Stinson Ranch area, although the district is not certain state and federal funds will be available for the proposed system during the current fiscal year.

On Saturday, the board chose the Stinson Ranch project over another being considered — the Webb Creek system — and agreed to pay approximately $5,000 for a soils feasibility study for the area where the planned treatment plant would be located.

The chosen project would feature a secondary treatment facility in a gulch behind the Alder Grove about two miles north of Stinson Beach and would sewer only the calles and patios areas and the downtown business and residential sections of the community.

Disposal would be through spray irrigation of hillsides around the plant in summer and a percolation gallery in winter.

The district board has been informed that the state Water Quality Control Board has decided other disposal projects have higher priorities in the race for federal and state funds, according to director John L. Jones.

Jones said this means that no funds are available for a Stinson project during 1972-73, unless another high priority project fails to qualify for the money and grants because it is unable to meet its schedule.

He went on to say the district plans to "get ready to go" anyway, in the hope it can obtain funds earmarked for some other project. If this is not possible, he said the district may have to wait for money until the beginning of the 1973-74 fiscal year.

To Install Friday

The Marin Chapter 102 Royal Arch Masons will install new officers at 8 p.m. Friday at the Masonic Building in San Rafael. A headline on the story which appeared in yesterday's Independent-Journal said the installation would be Saturday.

Alto-Edna Maguire Principal To Retire

The Mill Valley School District board last night accepted the resignation of Dominic Bobbio, principal of Alto-Edna Maguire School, who plans to retire at the end of this school year.

Bobbio, 60, came to the district as a teacher in 1956 and was named principal of Edna Maguire in 1960. In 1968, he was selected principal of Alto School (the name was changed to Alto-Edna Maguire School when it moved to the Maguire site this year).

Before going into education, Bobbio was a professional pianist and had his own band at one time.

His retirement will begin June 30, according to Patsy White, district secretary.

The Mill Valley School District Board Also:

BUSING — Agreed to continue busing about 60 Old Mill kindergarten students to the Alto-Edna Maguire School to alleviate overcrowding at Old Mill. The busing will continue through next year while the district staff studies such possibilities as some kind of merger with the Sausalito School District and a year-round school program.

EMPLOYMENT — Hired Carol Place as a temporary second grade teacher at Homestead School at $11,373 a year and Linda Reck as a half-time vocal music teacher at a salary of $5,899.

MOVE — Learned that the district office plans to move from its present location, at 26 Miller Avenue, to the Old Alto School, 70 Lomita Drive, by Feb. 22. The move will consolidate administrative offices with the district's maintenance and transportation operation and instructional materials center.

BUS — Voted to purchase a 79-passenger bus from the Gillig Co. whose low bid was $32,200.

MEETING — Agreed to meet at 8 p.m. Tuesday in Middle School to form a citizens screening committee to participate in selection of a new superintendent.

Cannibal Chief's Bride Ordered Out Of Country

JAKARTA (UPI) — Mrs. Wynn Sargent, an American anthropologist whose marriage to a West Irianese tribal chieftain stirred worldwide interest and controversy, today was ordered to leave Indonesia by Saturday.

An immigration office spokesman said authorities decided not to extend Mrs. Sargent's visa "for technical reasons only."

He said the reason for not extending her visa was that she had conducted research on Indonesian territory without a license from the government's Institute of Sciences.

"We had a friendly talk with her to clear up things," he said.

Ross Psychiatric Center On Panel

Three members of the Ross Psychiatric Center staff will discuss the function of the center and answer listener questions during KTIM radio's "Marin Sounding Board" to be aired at 9 a.m. Thursday.

The center is sponsored by the Marin Mental Health Foundation. The program will be taped and repeated at 10:05 a.m. Sunday.

4 Vehicles Taken In San Rafael

Four vehicles were reported stolen the past two days in San Rafael.

A taxi, belonging to San Rafael Taxi Co. of 20 Bellam Boulevard, was taken from the parking lot of Kentucky Fried Chicken at 555 Second Street, San Rafael at 9:20 p.m. yesterday. The driver, Daniel Sullivan McDermott, according to police, said that he was inside the food establishment only two or three minutes when the cab was taken.

A 1939 Harley Davidson motorcycle, license 984513 was taken between 1:30 and 4:30 a.m. today from his unlocked garage at 28 Bryn Mawr Drive, San Rafael, Joseph Henry Barni reported.

His 1961 Ford, license DOV 995, was taken between 7 a.m. Saturday and 3 p.m. yesterday from the street in front of 930 830 Tamalpais Avenue, San Rafael, Michael Moore Shields of 705 Fourth Street, San Rafael, told police.

A 1959 Volkswagon, license DNL 731, was taken between 8 p.m. Monday and 10 a.m. yesterday from the driveway of 141 Mountain View Avenue, San Rafael, Raymond Albert Papsys of 101 Woodland Road, Fairfax, reported to San Rafael police.

Six More Enter School Elections

With the filing deadline only two days away, six more candidates emerged yesterday and today in the 22 school board elections that will be held in Marin April 17.

Two of the new hopefuls, O'Brien Young and Peter B. Weston, filed candidacy papers in the Bolinas-Stinson School District. Others filing papers were Edward A. Tibbetts, for a Marin County Board of Education seat; Thomas Spencer, for the Mill Valley School District board, and Allan J. Kirchem, in the Lagunitas School District.

Today, attorney Jerrold M. Ladar returned papers to seek reelection to his seat on the Tamalpais High School District board.

Deadline for filings is 5 p.m. Friday.

The candidacies of Mrs. Young and Weston swelled the Bolinas-Stinson field to six hopefuls for four seats.

Mrs. Young, a 35-year-old graduate of Radcliffe College, told the Independent-Journal today she seeks a board seat because of a belief that the district's one school should take added steps to stimulate children who are not self-motivated.

Mrs. Young, mother of two Bolinas School children, lives at 275 Dogwood Road, Bolinas. Her husband, Landon, is director of the Community Music Center in San Francisco.

Like Mrs. Young, Weston, a 42-year-old electrician, and former teacher, is making his first try at public office. Calling for "new directions" in the district, Weston expressed an awareness of the "kinds of special education people in the community would like to see in the schools."

Weston, also with two children in Bolinas School, has lived in the Bolinas-Stinson Beach area for nearly five years.

Tibbetts, the first official candidate to seek the Area 3 seat on the Marin County Board of Education, is a 29-year-old civil engineer, serving as district engineer in the Las Gallinas Valley Sanitary District.

The Area 3 seat now is held by Patrick W. Pollock, who can't run because of redistricting.

Tibbetts, father of three boys, lives at 1020E Los Gamos Road, San Rafael. He has been a Marin resident nearly four years.

Spencer, joining two other candidates for three Mill Valley seats, is an associate professor of child psychology at California State University, San Francisco, as well as a director of the university's child study center.

The 35-year-old candidate lives with his wife and two daughters at 429 Live Oak Drive, Tamalpais Valley. He has lived in the Mill Valley district for five years.

Spencer said he believes the school board must "assure that all points of view are heard and given equal consideration in a diverse community such as Mill Valley. It is imperative to prove to the overburdened taxpayers that the board is obtaining the best education value from the funds available," he said.

The candidate said "too much importance has been placed on methods and techniques of teaching rather than on ability, skill and enthusiasm of the teacher."

No other biographical information or reasons for his election bid was available today.

Ladar, a Mill Valley resident, was elected to the board in 1970.

The 39-year-old Ladar, who obtained his law degree from Boalt Hall in San Francisco, formerly served for two years as chief of the criminal division in the U.S. Attorney's Office in San Francisco. He now is in private practice in that city.

Meantime, a candidate who filed yesterday in the Kentfield School District told the Independent-Journal he is concerned over the effect of the state's new tax shift-school finance legislation on district schools.

Attorney Neil M. Park, who could not be reached in time for yesterday's I-J, said he seeks one of three open Kentfield seats to try to help solve the money dilemma arising from S.B. 90.

Park, 30, an attorney with the San Francisco firm of Park, Swaner and Leslie, has two children in district schools.

He has been a Marinite for nine years and a Kentfield resident for four.

It's Park's first try for public office.

Devalued Dollar Creating Chaos On World Markets

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

World money markets reopened today and early prices indicated dealers did not know quite what to make of the new, devalued dollar. The dollar was strong in Belgium and Frankfurt, weak in London and Amsterdam and at an all time low in Tokyo.

In London the price of gold jumped $1.20 an ounce to an all time high of $70.10 on the bullion market and market sources said it was selling for as high as $72 an ounce in unofficial trades. The previous record was $69.50 set only a week ago.

Greece formally announced a 10 per cent devaluation of the drachma but in Spain many tourists continued to receive pre-devaluation prices for their dollars. Brazil reported an upward revaluation of 3 per cent of the cruzeiro —the first time in this century itihas been marked upward in relation to the dollar.

In Tokyo the price of the dollar fell to a record low when the markets reopened today and the state bank bought 150 million unwanted dollars to keep its price from falling below 271.10 yen.

The dollar opened well above its new parity in Belgium. In London and the Netherlands, it sagged slightly from the prices —official and unofficial — posted Tuesday.

Swiss banks today devalued the dollar by up to 14 per cent instead of the official 10 per cent while waiting for the Federal Bank and government to fix the new dollar-Swiss franc parity. By the end of trading today banks were giving only 3.35 to 3.36 francs for one dollar compared to the former official rate of 3.84 francs to the dollar.

In Italy, the government let the lira float away from its previous parity and it quickly rose against the dollar, but dipped as compared to stronger European currencies.

The Hong Kong dollar today was revalued upward nearly 10 per cent in relation to the U.S. dollar.

Finance ministers of the nine Common Market nations called a meeting later today to study the new situation. High on the agenda were the Italian float, which threatened the Market's economic unity, and the dollar devaluation, which will force recalculation of Europe's complex farm support prices.

Candidate Disqualified —Residency

An 18-year-old candidate for election to the San Rafael Board of Education was disqualified today because he fails to meet a three-year residency requirement under the city charter, a requirement held unconstitutional by Marin Superior Court.

Jeff D. Yarbrough III, a senior at San Rafael High School, is not eligible under the charter to run for the board because he has only lived in the city for two years, according to City Clerk Marion A. Grady.

The city clerk, noting that the residency requirement has been held unconstitutional in Marin Superior Court, said young Yarbrough will have to petition the court to get his name on the April 17 ballot.

A proposal to amend the city charter's three-year residency requirement to a one-year requirement only will appear on the April 17 ballot, she added.

Yarbrough was unavailable today for comment.

The disqualification leaves seven candidates in the race for two board seats: incumbent Paul K. McMullen, Lewis S. Pollock, Marie J. Sessi,Joan Lisetor, Suzanne L. Beittel, Gale B. Fisher and Clarence W. Koop.

Canyon Road Sewer Line Due Study

The Novato Sanitary District staff is going to study the feasibility of providing a sewer line in the Canyon Road area to serve about 15 homes, according to Dist. Mgr. Charles A. Joseph.

Directors authorized the study Monday night after Richard A. Knight of 10 Laurie Drive reported about 60 per cent of property owners in the area, now on septic tanks, are interested in sewer service. Joseph estimated about 1,000 feet of line would be needed.

Directors also gave initial approval to annexation of 10 acres on the west side of Eucalyptus Avenue, south of Center Road, and five acres on the south side of Vineyard Road west of Wild Horse Valley Drive.

A VALENTINE HUG

Kay Perkins threw herself into the arms of her husband, Maj. Glendon Perkins, in the rear seat of a Maxwell Air Force Base Command car after his return to Montgomery, Ala., last night after seven years as a prisoner of war in Vietnam. Major Perkins was one of two prisoners rushed home because of critical illness in the family.

Support To Bike Path Across Bay

The Mill Valley Planning Commission recommended last night that the city participate in construction of a bicycle and pedestrian path and bridge across Richardson Bay.

Planning Secretary Carol Defenderfer said the path would begin at the end of Sycamore Avenue and run to Shelter Bay Avenue in the Enchanted Knolls area across the bay. (The Enchanted Knolls Homeowners Association has been lobbying for the bridge-path for more than a year.)

Cost of the pathway is undetermined. It would be shared by the county, which would pay for constructing the bridge, and the city, which would foot the bill for paving, she said.

In other business, the commission agreed to recommend that the council accept an offer from an anonymous donor to give the city 1.23 acres of land south of Blithedale Park. The property, located on Elaine Avenue, would probably be used for a park.

Docks on the Ohio River at Louisville, Ky., handle 1,000 to 1,500 tons of steel daily.

Clark Rumored As Attorney For Magee

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Rommel Bondoc, court-appointed co-counsel for convict Ruchell Magee, yesterday withdrew from the case and it was rumored that former Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark will replace him.

Bondoc made no immediate statement on reasons for his withdrawal, but court observers said there appeared to be a rift between him and Magee's other attorney, Robert D. Carrow of Novato.

Carrow reportedly has told Judge Morton Colvin of San Francisco Superior Court that he plans to bring Clark into the case.

Magee, charged with fatally shooting Judge Harold J. Haley during the Marin Civic Center shoot-out in August 1971, has been on trial more than four weeks in a heavily guarded courtroom.

Yesterday San Quentin Correctional Officer Theodore Zink testified that shortly after the shooting Magee told him, "If I was running that kidnap there would be a lot of dead pigs."

He said Magee made the statement three days after the escape attempt while he was hooked to a lung suction machine in the prison hospital.

Magee was shot through the chest during the shoot-out in the Civic Center parking lot. A hostage juror in the escape van and prosecutor Gary W. Thomas were also wounded and two convicts and their accomplice died.

Mount Burdell Walk Planned

A newly formed weekday walking group in Novato will hike on Mount Burdell, starting at 9:30 a.m. tomorrow, weather permitting, according to Kay Spitler, one of the group which has invited other residents to join.

The walk will start from the end of San Andreas Drive, opposite the San Marin Club, with an early group to return at 1 p.m. and a later group at 2:45 p.m., Mrs. Spitler said. If the walk is rained out, it will be held Feb. 22 at the same time and place.

Additional information can be obtained from Mrs. Spitler of 3 Syosset Lane or Ann Brown of 490 Estado Way.

Wallet Theft Denied By Man

A preliminary hearing was scheduled for Feb. 23.

Lane is said to have grabbed a wallet from a woman in the United Market at 515 Third Street, San Rafael. Police said he tried to flee, but was trapped in his car by store employees.

Mail Security Plan Considered

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Officials of the state Franchise Tax Board are considering setting up a security program to inspect mail that might contain explosives.

Martin Huff, executive officer of the board, was reluctant to discuss the matter Tuesday but said, "we're contemplating doing it (starting a new mail security program.) We're a little concerned."

About 1,000 board employes will process an estimated 8 million state income tax forms in Sacramento through April 16.

Stinson To Proceed On Waste Plan

Directors of the Stinson Beach County Water District have decided to proceed with an $350,000 waste disposal system in the Stinson Ranch area, although the district is not certain state and federal funds will be available for the proposed system during the current fiscal year.

On Saturday, the board chose the Stinson Ranch project over another being considered — the Webb Creek system — and agreed to pay approximately $5,000 for a soils feasibility study for the area where the planned treatment plant would be located.

The chosen project would feature a secondary treatment facility in a gulch behind the Alder Grove about two miles north of Stinson Beach and would sewer only the calles and patios areas and the downtown business and residential sections of the community.

Disposal would be through spray irrigation of hillsides around the plant in summer and a percolation gallery in winter.

The district board has been informed that the state Water Quality Control Board has decided other disposal projects have higher priorities in the race for federal and state funds, according to director John L. Jones.

Jones said this means that no funds are available for a Stinson project during 1972-73, unless another high priority project fails to qualify for the money and grants because it is unable to meet its schedule.

He went on to say the district plans to "get ready to go" anyway, in the hope it can obtain funds earmarked for some other project. If this is not possible, he said the district may have to wait for money until the beginning of the 1973-74 fiscal year.

To Install Friday

The Marin Chapter 102 Royal Arch Masons will install new officers at 8 p.m. Friday at the Masonic Building in San Rafael. A headline on the story which appeared in yesterday's Independent-Journal said the installation would be Saturday.

Alto-Edna Maguire Principal To Retire

The Mill Valley School District board last night accepted the resignation of Dominic Bobbio, principal of Alto-Edna Maguire School, who plans to retire at the end of this school year.

Bobbio, 60, came to the district as a teacher in 1956 and was named principal of Edna Maguire in 1960. In 1968, he was selected principal of Alto School (the name was changed to Alto-Edna Maguire School when it moved to the Maguire site this year).

Before going into education, Bobbio was a professional pianist and had his own band at one time.

His retirement will begin June 30, according to Patsy White, district secretary.

The Mill Valley School District Board Also:

BUSING — Agreed to continue busing about 60 Old Mill kindergarten students to the Alto-Edna Maguire School to alleviate overcrowding at Old Mill. The busing will continue through next year while the district staff studies such possibilities as some kind of merger with the Sausalito School District and a year-round school program.

EMPLOYMENT — Hired Carol Place as a temporary second grade teacher at Homestead School at $11,373 a year and Linda Reck as a half-time vocal music teacher at a salary of $5,899.

MOVE — Learned that the district office plans to move from its present location, at 26 Miller Avenue, to the Old Alto School, 70 Lomita Drive, by Feb. 22. The move will consolidate administrative offices with the district's maintenance and transportation operation and instructional materials center.

BUS — Voted to purchase a 79-passenger bus from the Gillig Co. whose low bid was $32,200.

MEETING — Agreed to meet at 8 p.m. Tuesday in Middle School to form a citizens screening committee to participate in selection of a new superintendent.

Cannibal Chief's Bride Ordered Out Of Country

JAKARTA (UPI) — Mrs. Wynn Sargent, an American anthropologist whose marriage to a West Irianese tribal chieftain stirred worldwide interest and controversy, today was ordered to leave Indonesia by Saturday.

An immigration office spokesman said authorities decided not to extend Mrs. Sargent's visa "for technical reasons only."

He said the reason for not extending her visa was that she had conducted research on Indonesian territory without a license from the government's Institute of Sciences.

"We had a friendly talk with her to clear up things," he said.

Ross Psychiatric Center On Panel

Three members of the Ross Psychiatric Center staff will discuss the function of the center and answer listener questions during KTIM radio's "Marin Sounding Board" to be aired at 9 a.m. Thursday.

The center is sponsored by the Marin Mental Health Foundation. The program will be taped and repeated at 10:05 a.m. Sunday.

4 Vehicles Taken In San Rafael

Four vehicles were reported stolen the past two days in San Rafael.

A taxi, belonging to San Rafael Taxi Co. of 20 Bellam Boulevard, was taken from the parking lot of Kentucky Fried Chicken at 555 Second Street, San Rafael at 9:20 p.m. yesterday. The driver, Daniel Sullivan McDermott, according to police, said that he was inside the food establishment only two or three minutes when the cab was taken.

A 1939 Harley Davidson motorcycle, license 984513 was taken between 1:30 and 4:30 a.m. today from his unlocked garage at 28 Bryn Mawr Drive, San Rafael, Joseph Henry Barni reported.

His 1961 Ford, license DOV 995, was taken between 7 a.m. Saturday and 3 p.m. yesterday from the street in front of 930 830 Tamalpais Avenue, San Rafael, Michael Moore Shields of 705 Fourth Street, San Rafael, told police.

A 1959 Volkswagon, license DNL 731, was taken between 8 p.m. Monday and 10 a.m. yesterday from the driveway of 141 Mountain View Avenue, San Rafael, Raymond Albert Pappsys of 101 Woodland Road, Fairfax, reported to San Rafael police.

1,000 Players Expected For Marin Bridge Tourney

More than 1,000 duplicate bridge players, ranging from novices to national experts, will converge on San Rafael March 2 through 4 for the annual Marin County Sectional Bridge Tournament, sponsored by the Marin chapter of the American Contract Bridge League.

"The public is invited to play or to observe," said Edsel Yarling of San Rafael, chairman of the tournament. "You need not be a member of the American Contract Bridge League to participate. We encourage the casual bridge player to join in. One half hour before each game, free instructions will be given on the mechanics of duplicate play."

The three-day tournament will be held in the Veterans Memorial Buidling at the Marin County Civic Center.

March 2 at 1:30 p.m. — Men's and women's pairs championships; 8 p.m., mixed pairs championship and junior pairs.

March 3, 1:30 p.m. — Open pairs championships (qualifying) and junior pairs; 8 p.m., open pairs championship (finals and consolation) and junior pairs.

March 4 — Swiss teams championships two sessions (at 12:30 p.m. and 6:30 p.m.)

Side games will be available during each session of the tournament for those who do not want to play in the championship or junior (novice) events.

Repeat Performance Of "Charlie Brown"

The Sonoma State College Children's Workshop will present a repeat performance of "You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown" at 2 p.m. Sunday in Ives Hall.

The repeat was scheduled after all performances last week were sold out. Tickets may be reserved by calling the Office of Instructional Services and Continuing Education.

Policy 'War Clauses' Hit

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI) — State Insurance Commissioner Paul B. Altermatt says life insurance policies bearing so-called "war clauses" will no longer be tolerated by the Connecticut Insurance Department.

"War clauses" attached to insurance policies make it possible for insurance firms to pay no money or reduced benefits to survivors of a policyholder who died while serving the country in time of war.

Some policies cancel the benefits regardless of the cause or place of death, others result in forfeited payments if the death results from military action in a war zone.

Rules Group Accepts Ghost Vote Proposal

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Assembly Rules Committee Tuesday accepted a compromise proposal to curtail the long-accepted practice of "ghost voting."

Spurred by Assemblyman Raymond T. Seeley, R-Blythe, the powerful panel agreed to implement a new voting system which would restrict the practice of assemblymen voting for absent members by pressing their electronic switches.

Seeley told the committee that "ghost voting" had been "badly abused" in the past with some bills clearing the Assembly with 41 or more votes officially when actually there were only 30 members present.

"I think you're mistaken," retorted Assemblyman John Burton, chairman of the committee. But the San Francisco Democrat said he agreed the new voting rules would reduce the possibility of abuse.

The new policy, which soon will be adopted by the full Assembly with blessings from Speaker Bob Moretti, will require lawmakers to be within the confines of the Assembly chamber unless he or she obtains a special pass.

When the pass is issued, the sergeant at arms will lock the member's electronic voting switch so it cannot be pressed while the assemblyman is absent from the floor. The lawmaker can unlock his own switch when he returns.

Assemblymen will still be able to cast "ghost votes" for their colleagues, but the colleague must be within the chambers at the time.

The new voting policy would not affect the Senate where a voice-vote system is used.

The compromise policy was proposed by Assemblyman Ray Johnson, R-Chico, a member of the Rules Committee. Seeley originally had wanted the policy to require assemblymen to be on the floor when their voting switch was turned on.

The compromise would allow assemblymen to go anywhere in the chamber with a pass. The chamber includes the floor, a coffee shop, a hearing room, telephone booths and toilets. It also includes Moretti's office.

Seeley said the policy would not only reduce "ghost voting" but also "promote better attendance on the floor."

For years, assemblymen had voted for their absent seatmates or friends by pressing their electronic switches. A lawmaker would tell his friends how he wanted to be recorded on a bill and then leave the chamber to attend a Senate committee.

But the practice was abused sometimes when an assemblyman would press the switch without specific instructions.

On the final day of the 1972 session, the practice led to the casting of a vote for a dead man. Assemblyman Frank Belotti, R-Eureka, had died the day before but someone pressed his switch anyway.

Flags Will Be Raised To Greet Returning POWs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — American flags were ordered raised to full staff today to honor returning U.S. prisoners of war.

"Mrs. Johnson and I agreed that for the American flag to be flying high for the prisoners' return to American soil would be the finest possible tribute both to her husband's memory and to the heroism of the prisoners and their families—as well as to the missing men, the men who gave their lives and all who helped to win peace with honor in Vietnam," the statement said.

1,000 Players Expected For Marin Bridge Tourney

More than 1,000 duplicate bridge players, ranging from novices to national experts, will converge on San Rafael March 2 through 4 for the annual Marin County Sectional Bridge Tournament, sponsored by the Marin chapter of the American Contract Bridge League.

"The public is invited to play or to observe," said Edsel Yarling of San Rafael, chairman of the tournament. "You need not be a member of the American Contract Bridge League to participate. We encourage the casual bridge player to join in. One half hour before each game, free instructions will be given on the mechanics of duplicate play."

The three-day tournament will be held in the Veterans Memorial Buidling at the Marin County Civic Center.

March 2 at 1:30 p.m. — Men's and women's pairs championships; 8 p.m., mixed pairs championship and junior pairs.

March 3, 1:30 p.m. — Open pairs championships (qualifying) and junior pairs; 8 p.m., open pairs championship (finals and consolation) and junior pairs.

March 4 — Swiss teams championships two sessions (at 12:30 p.m. and 6:30 p.m.)

Side games will be available during each session of the tournament for those who do not want to play in the championship or junior (novice) events.

Repeat Performance Of "Charlie Brown"

The Sonoma State College Children's Workshop will present a repeat performance of "You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown" at 2 p.m. Sunday in Ives Hall.

The repeat was scheduled after all performances last week were sold out. Tickets may be reserved by calling the Office of Instructional Services and Continuing Education.

Policy 'War Clauses' Hit

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI) — State Insurance Commissioner Paul B. Altermatt says life insurance policies bearing so-called "war clauses" will no longer be tolerated by the Connecticut Insurance Department.

"War clauses" attached to insurance policies make it possible for insurance firms to pay no money or reduced benefits to survivors of a policyholder who died while serving the country in time of war.

Some policies cancel the benefits regardless of the cause or place of death, others result in forfeited payments if the death results from military action in a war zone.

DEPUTY CHECKS HOT CAR

Deputy Sheriff Robert Richmond inspects charred remains of a 1966 Dodge Charger set afire yesterday just below the abandoned Nike missile site above Black Canyon. The car was traced to Francisco Dodge in San Rafael. The auto dealership said the car was stolen from their used car lot at 1075 Francisco Boulevard Monday night.

Board Of Education Will Delay Teacher Reductions

The San Rafael Board of Education last night postponed ordering a reduction in teaching staff amid pleas by teachers to delay a decision on the matter.

Teachers urged the board to find new ways of absorbing excess staff members, according to Supt. John F. Plank. The layoffs, necessary because of sagging enrollment, will be reviewed at 7:30 p.m. Feb. 27, he said.

Proposals offered by teachers for absorbing excess staff 'include splitting assignments between two teachers, assigning teachers to other posts and early retirement for veteran teachers, he said.

Plank said staff reductions are likely in the elementary school district because this year's enrollment of 4,300 pupils is expected to drop by about 200 next year. He added that normal attrition has not provided proportionate reduction in teaching staff.

The San Rafael Board of Education also:

PRINCIPALS — Announced the following principal assignments in the elementary district for 1973-74: Harry Holland, Bahia Vista; Hoyt Howlett, Coleman; Virgil Birdsall, Davidson; Lawrence McArdell, Gallinas-Hartzell; Robert McCurdy, Glenwood; Patricia Sweeny, MacPhail; Martin Parlan, Laurel Dell, intermediate and primary; Han Tharp, San Pedro; Herbert Witt, Santa Venetia; Anne Philbert, Short, and Larry Geiger, Sun Valley-West End. There will be no change in the administrations of the high schools, Plank said.

ADMINISTRATION — Announced the following administrative assigments for 1973-74: Donald Leisey, director of administrative services; Anne Philbert, director of educational services; Lee Heise, director of special programs; Jerald Gill, coordinator of personnel and community services, and Wayne Boone, coordinator of vocational programs. Boone, formerly assistant superintendent, was reassigned due to a reduction in force, Plank said.

NEW VOTER — Heard Peter Meyer, county elections officer, report on the "New Voter Project," a program of civic awareness for students.

SCHOOL CALENDAR — Adopted a school calendar for next year which sets the first day of school as Sept. 11, and the last day of school as June 14.

SANTA BARBARA — Reviewed the Santa Barbara County Superior Court decision which requires separate governing boards for that city's elementary and high school districts, an action which might affect the San Rafael school system pending a state Supreme Court decision.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to 7:30 p.m. Feb. 27.

Auto Dealer Relocation Is Refused

The San Rafael Planning Commission last night unanimously rejected a request by a Francisco Boulevard automobile dealer to relocate his business on Los Gamos Road off Highway 101 and adjacent to lands owned by Firemen's Fund Insurance Co.

De Long Chevrolet, Inc., now located at 550 Francisco Boulevard, must move since the site is now being acquired by the state for widening of Highway 101. According to Charles J. Linthicum, senior planner, Commissioner Joseph J. Garbarino called the proposal "totally out of place," and was backed by colleagues in finding the matter might conflict with the city's new general plan.

Terra Lindans, who last night warned that approval of the relocation might set the stage for commercialization of the area, applauded the commission's action, he added.

Planning Commission Chairman Thomas R. O'Toole was absent due to illness, Linthicum said.

Library Plans

The San Rafael Library Board will meet Friday at 7:45 p.m. in the children's room of the city library to continue discussions of library expansion plans with architect James Andrew Ring III. The meeting will replace the regular monthly meeting scheduled for next Monday night, said Bryce W. Anderson, board chairman.

Impact Reports Of Contested Developments Given Approval

The San Rafael Planning Commission last night approved environmental impact reports for two controversial developments proposed near the Marin County Civic Center.

The commission approved a report for development of a graded hillside north of the Civic Center as proposed by contractor Arthur R. Nicolaisen, who plans construction of a six-story office building, restaurant and service station and car wash on the 15 acre site.

Also approved was a report for a 292-unit apartment and townhouse development off San Pablo Road on a 54-acre site off in view of the Civic Center.

The commission approved both environmental impact reports on 5-1 votes, with Albert J. Boro opposed, according to Charles J. Linthicum, senior planner.

Both projects will now be reconsidered by the city council, which had referred them to the commission for environmental review. Commissioners last night said the developments may be considered by the council in about four weeks, with review by the Las Gallinas Valley Sanitary District board in the interim, Linthicum said.

Linthicum said the report on the apartment complex, called Foothills Oaks, found the project "wouldn't have much adverse impact" on the environment. The report expressed concern that runoff from the project might muddy the Civic Center lagoon, however, and recommends a monitoring system be set up, he said.

The report on the Nicolaisen project, which compares the current proposal with an earlier plan to develop the hillside with a motel and office complex, found that both plans would have an adverse impact on the environment, Linthicum said. The contractor received approval to proceed with his first plan in 1970, but scrapped the proposal in the face of competition from nearby Holiday Inn.

The report found his earlier project might blend better with the environment, but that both would create traffic congestion at the Terra Linda interchange, he said. The commission, noting the state plans to improve the interchange, approved the report after declaring that the car wash should recycle water, he said.

Terra Lindans, who have long fought plans by Nicolaisen to develop the hillside, last night opposed the project because of appearance and traffic congestion, he said.

Both impact reports were prepared by city consultants.

The San Rafael Planning Commission also:

YACHT CLUB — Approved a proposal by the Marin Yacht Club for parking and one tennis court within six feet of a property line on San Pedro Road, and within five feet of Summit Avenue.

USE PERMITS — Approved use permits for duplex use of lots at 260 C Street; multiple residential use of 123 Union Street; multiple residential use of 513 and 517 B Street and two-lot subdivisions requested by Joseph Lais and Richard Lockman on two parcels on Lockwood Drive. Also approved were permits for a three-lot subdivision and a public utility station on the Jacoby Street extension; a residential and office facility for a night watchman at 51 Harbor Street; a vehicle storage lot at 653 DuBois Street and a temporary office trailer at 99 Montecillo Road.

RUBBISH — Approved extension for 10 years of a rubbish disposal operation at 1515 Francisco Boulevard.

Smothers Brothers, CBS Still Feuding

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Smothers Brothers and CBS are still fighting over the comedy team's humor, which the network found objectionable.

A pretrial hearing was held Tuesday in a $10 million suit brought by the brothers, Tommy and Dick, against the network, charging breach of contract for cancelling their show in 1969. Lawyers for the network argued that the brothers had violated the contract by failing to provide programs that met with the network's "program practices and standards."

Rules Group Accepts Ghost Vote Proposal

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Assembly Rules Committee Tuesday accepted a compromise proposal to curtail the long-accepted practice of "ghost voting."

Spurred by Assemblyman Raymond T. Seeley, R-Blythe, the powerful panel agreed to implement a new voting system which would restrict the practice of assemblymen voting for absent members by pressing their electronic switches.

Seeley told the committee that "ghost voting" had been "badly abused" in the past with some bills clearing the Assembly with 41 or more votes officially when actually there were only 30 members present.

"I think you're mistaken," retorted Assemblyman John Burton, chairman of the committee. But the San Francisco Democrat said he agreed the new voting rules would reduce the possibility of abuse.

The new policy, which soon will be adopted by the full Assembly with blessings from Speaker Bob Moretti, will require lawmakers to be within the confines of the Assembly chamber unless he or she obtains a special pass.

When the pass is issued, the sergeant at arms will lock the member's electronic voting switch so it cannot be pressed while the assemblyman is absent from the floor. The lawmaker can unlock his own switch when he returns.

Assemblymen will still be able to cast "ghost votes" for their colleagues, but the colleague must be within the chambers at the time.

The new voting policy would not affect the Senate where a voice-vote system is used.

The compromise policy was proposed by Assemblyman Ray Johnson, R-Chico, a member of the Rules Committee. Seeley originally had wanted the policy to require assemblymen to be on the floor when their voting switch was turned on.

The compromise would allow assemblymen to go anywhere in the chamber with a pass. The chamber includes the floor, a coffee shop, a hearing room, telephone booths and toilets. It also includes Moretti's office.

Seeley said the policy would not only reduce "ghost voting" but also "promote better attendance on the floor."

For years, assemblymen had voted for their absent seatmates or friends by pressing their electronic switches. A lawmaker would tell his friends how he wanted to be recorded on a bill and then leave the chamber to attend a Senate committee.

But the practice was abused sometimes when an assemblyman would press the switch without specific instructions.

On the final day of the 1972 session, the practice led to the casting of a vote for a dead man. Assemblyman Frank Belotti, R-Eureka, had died the day before but someone pressed his switch anyway.

Flags Will Be Raised To Greet Returning POWs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — American flags were ordered raised to full staff today to honor returning U.S. prisoners of war.

"Mrs. Johnson and I agreed that for the American flag to be flying high for the prisoners' return to American soil would be the finest possible tribute both to her husband's memory and to the heroism of the prisoners and their families—as well as to the missing men, the men who gave their lives and all who helped to win peace with honor in Vietnam," the statement said.

Pet Rabbits Are Killed By Ocelot

An ocelot, loose from its keeper, killed two pet rabbits in a Santa Venetia yard Sunday night.

A search for the exotic animal's owner has been unsuccessful, and the rabbits' owner is prepared to shoot if the ocelot returns.

The ocelot — a wildcat native to Texas and South America — first appeared in the garage of the Everett L. Bigbee home at 805 Hacienda Way on Sunday morning.

Mrs. Bigbee said she spotted the large yellow and black cat up in the rafters, and chased it out.

"But later that evening it came back, tore the sides from the rabbit hutches by the side of the house and killed my son's rabbits," said Mrs. Bigbee.

The two pets, Belgian rabbits called Spots and Buttons, had been 6-year-old Michael Bigbee's pets since last Easter.

Mrs. Bigbee and neighbors heard the noise of the attack and rushed to the pens.

"A neighbor tried to beat off the ocelot with a club, but it ran under our boat, and by the time police (Marin sheriff's deputies) arrived it had escaped," said Mrs. Bigbee.

Attempts by deputies and the Bigbees to locate anyone who has missed the ocelot has been unsuccessful, and Mrs. Bigbee said she has been advised she can shoot it if it returns — and she intends to.

Al Giddings, Marin County game warden, said the animal is undoubtedly a pet that has strayed, since it is not native to Northern California.

Giddings advised anyone who spots the animal not to approach it but to notify the Marin County Humane Society.

Robbery Case Bound Over To Superior Court

Rudolph Anthony Fourshey, 29, of Marin City was bound over yesterday to Marin Superior Court to appear Feb. 21 on a felony charge of robbing a hitchhiker in Larkspur Jan. 14.

He was arrested Feb. 1 by Larkspur police in connection with the robbery of 19-year-old Robert Gorman. Gorman told police two men robbed him with a gun and a knife, then forced him to strip before leaving him in Mill Valley.

Fourshey was first picked up by sheriff's deputies on unpaid traffic warrants, then identified by authorities as a man sought in the robbery case.

The case of codefendant Stanley Herbert Mitchell, 21, of Petaluma is already in Superior Court awaiting trial.

Colin To Head Bicentennial Panel Chairman

Kenneth J. Colin, former Petaluma vice mayor, has been named chairman of the Petaluma Bicentennial Committee.

Mayor Helen Putnam said he and a steering committee to be named later will work on plans for Petaluma to mark the 200th anniversary of the United States.

Mrs. Putnam, who is chairman of the mayors' advisory committee to the California Bicentennial Commission, said it is hoped that at least one project by the committee will be permanent in nature.

Session Postponed

The regular meeting of the Nicasio School Board of Trustees, scheduled for 7 p.m. tomorrow, has been postponed because the board secretary, Beverly Alberigi cannot be there. The meeting will be held at 7 p.m. next Wednesday at the school, she said.

DEPUTY CHECKS HOT CAR

Deputy Sheriff Robert Richmond inspects charred remains of a 1966 Dodge Charger set afire yesterday just below the abandoned Nike missile site above Black Canyon. The car was traced to Francisco Dodge in San Rafael. The auto dealership said the car was stolen from their used car lot at 1075 Francisco Boulevard Monday night.

Board Of Education Will Delay Teacher Reductions

The San Rafael Board of Education last night postponed ordering a reduction in teaching staff amid pleas by teachers to delay a decision on the matter.

Teachers urged the board to find new ways of absorbing excess staff members, according to Supt. John F. Plank. The layoffs, necessary because of sagging enrollment, will be reviewed at 7:30 p.m. Feb. 27, he said.

Proposals offered by teachers for absorbing excess staff 'include splitting assignments between two teachers, assigning teachers to other posts and early retirement for veteran teachers, he said.

Plank said staff reductions are likely in the elementary school district because this year's enrollment of 4,300 pupils is expected to drop by about 200 next year. He added that normal attrition has not provided proportionate reduction in teaching staff.

The San Rafael Board of Education also:

PRINCIPALS — Announced the following principal assignments in the elementary district for 1973-74: Harry Holland, Bahia Vista; Hoyt Howlett, Coleman; Virgil Birdsall, Davidson; Lawrence McArdell, Gallinas-Hartzell; Robert McCurdy, Glenwood; Patricia Sweeny, MacPhail; Martin Parlan, Laurel Dell, intermediate and primary; Han Tharp, San Pedro; Herbert Witt, Santa Venetia; Anne Philbert, Short, and Larry Geiger, Sun Valley-West End. There will be no change in the administrations of the high schools, Plank said.

ADMINISTRATION — Announced the following administrative assigments for 1973-74: Donald Leisey, director of administrative services; Anne Philbert, director of educational services; Lee Heise, director of special programs; Jerald Gill, coordinator of personnel and community services, and Wayne Boone, coordinator of vocational programs. Boone, formerly assistant superintendent, was reassigned due to a reduction in force, Plank said.

NEW VOTER — Heard Peter Meyer, county elections officer, report on the "New Voter Project," a program of civic awareness for students.

SCHOOL CALENDAR — Adopted a school calendar for next year which sets the first day of school as Sept. 11, and the last day of school as June 14.

SANTA BARBARA — Reviewed the Santa Barbara County Superior Court decision which requires separate governing boards for that city's elementary and high school districts, an action which might affect the San Rafael school system pending a state Supreme Court decision.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to 7:30 p.m. Feb. 27.

Auto Dealer Relocation Is Refused

The San Rafael Planning Commission last night unanimously rejected a request by a Francisco Boulevard automobile dealer to relocate his business on Los Gamos Road off Highway 101 and adjacent to lands owned by Firemen's Fund Insurance Co.

De Long Chevrolet, Inc., now located at 550 Francisco Boulevard, must move since the site is now being acquired by the state for widening of Highway 101. According to Charles J. Linthicum, senior planner, Commissioner Joseph J. Garbarino called the proposal "totally out of place," and was backed by colleagues in finding the matter might conflict with the city's new general plan.

Terra Lindans, who last night warned that approval of the relocation might set the stage for commercialization of the area, applauded the commission's action, he added.

Planning Commission Chairman Thomas R. O'Toole was absent due to illness, Linthicum said.

Library Plans

The San Rafael Library Board will meet Friday at 7:45 p.m. in the children's room of the city library to continue discussions of library expansion plans with architect James Andrew Ring III. The meeting will replace the regular monthly meeting scheduled for next Monday night, said Bryce W. Anderson, board chairman.

Impact Reports Of Contested Developments Given Approval

The San Rafael Planning Commission last night approved environmental impact reports for two controversial developments proposed near the Marin County Civic Center.

The commission approved a report for development of a graded hillside north of the Civic Center as proposed by contractor Arthur R. Nicolaisen, who plans construction of a six-story office building, restaurant and service station and car wash on the 15 acre site.

Also approved was a report for a 292-unit apartment and townhouse development off San Pablo Road on a 54-acre site off in view of the Civic Center.

The commission approved both environmental impact reports on 5-1 votes, with Albert J. Boro opposed, according to Charles J. Linthicum, senior planner.

Both projects will now be reconsidered by the city council, which had referred them to the commission for environmental review. Commissioners last night said the developments may be considered by the council in about four weeks, with review by the Las Gallinas Valley Sanitary District board in the interim, Linthicum said.

Linthicum said the report on the apartment complex, called Foothills Oaks, found the project "wouldn't have much adverse impact" on the environment. The report expressed concern that runoff from the project might muddy the Civic Center lagoon, however, and recommends a monitoring system be set up, he said.

The report on the Nicolaisen project, which compares the current proposal with an earlier plan to develop the hillside with a motel and office complex, found that both plans would have an adverse impact on the environment, Linthicum said. The contractor received approval to proceed with his first plan in 1970, but scrapped the proposal in the face of competition from nearby Holiday Inn.

The report found his earlier project might blend better with the environment, but that both would create traffic congestion at the Terra Linda interchange, he said. The commission, noting the state plans to improve the interchange, approved the report after declaring that the car wash should recycle water, he said.

Terra Lindans, who have long fought plans by Nicolaisen to develop the hillside, last night opposed the project because of appearance and traffic congestion, he said.

Both impact reports were prepared by city consultants.

The San Rafael Planning Commission also:

YACHT CLUB — Approved a proposal by the Marin Yacht Club for parking and one tennis court within six feet of a property line on San Pedro Road, and within five feet of Summit Avenue.

USE PERMITS — Approved use permits for duplex use of lots at 260 C Street; multiple residential use of 123 Union Street; multiple residential use of 513 and 517 B Street and two-lot subdivisions requested by Joseph Lais and Richard Lockman on two parcels on Lockwood Drive. Also approved were permits for a three-lot subdivision and a public utility station on the Jacoby Street extension; a residential and office facility for a night watchman at 51 Harbor Street; a vehicle storage lot at 653 DuBois Street and a temporary office trailer at 99 Montecillo Road.

RUBBISH — Approved extension for 10 years of a rubbish disposal operation at 1515 Francisco Boulevard.

Smothers Brothers, CBS Still Feuding

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Smothers Brothers and CBS are still fighting over the comedy team's humor, which the network found objectionable.

A pretrial hearing was held Tuesday in a $10 million suit brought by the brothers, Tommy and Dick, against the network, charging breach of contract for cancelling their show in 1969. Lawyers for the network argued that the brothers had violated the contract by failing to provide programs that met with the network's "program practices and standards."

Pet Rabbits Are Killed By Ocelot

An ocelot, loose from its keeper, killed two pet rabbits in a Santa Venetia yard Sunday night.

A search for the exotic animal's owner has been unsuccessful, and the rabbits' owner is prepared to shoot if the ocelot returns.

The ocelot — a wildcat native to Texas and South America — first appeared in the garage of the Everett L. Bigbee home at 805 Hacienda Way on Sunday morning.

Mrs. Bigbee said she spotted the large yellow and black cat up in the rafters, and chased it out.

"But later that evening it came back, tore the sides from the rabbit hutches by the side of the house and killed my son's rabbits," said Mrs. Bigbee.

The two pets, Belgian rabbits called Spots and Buttons, had been 6-year-old Michael Bigbee's pets since last Easter.

Mrs. Bigbee and neighbors heard the noise of the attack and rushed to the pens.

"A neighbor tried to beat off the ocelot with a club, but it ran under our boat, and by the time police (Marin sheriff's deputies) arrived it had escaped," said Mrs. Bigbee.

Attempts by deputies and the Bigbees to locate anyone who has missed the ocelot has been unsuccessful, and Mrs. Bigbee said she has been advised she can shoot it if it returns — and she intends to.

Al Giddings, Marin County game warden, said the animal is undoubtedly a pet that has strayed, since it is not native to Northern California.

Giddings advised anyone who spots the animal not to approach it but to notify the Marin County Humane Society.

Robbery Case Bound Over To Superior Court

Rudolph Anthony Fourshey, 29, of Marin City was bound over yesterday to Marin Superior Court to appear Feb. 21 on a felony charge of robbing a hitchhiker in Larkspur Jan. 14.

He was arrested Feb. 1 by Larkspur police in connection with the robbery of 19-year-old Robert Gorman. Gorman told police two men robbed him with a gun and a knife, then forced him to strip before leaving him in Mill Valley.

Fourshey was first picked up by sheriff's deputies on unpaid traffic warrants, then identified by authorities as a man sought in the robbery case.

The case of codefendant Stanley Herbert Mitchell, 21, of Petaluma is already in Superiour Court awaiting trial.

Colin To Head Bicentennial Panel Chairman

Kenneth J. Colin, former Petaluma vice mayor, has been named chairman of the Petaluma Bicentennial Committee.

Mayor Helen Putnam said he and a steering committee to be named later will work on plans for Petaluma to mark the 200th anniversary of the United States.

Mrs. Putnam, who is chairman of the mayors' advisory committee to the California Bicentennial Commission, said it is hoped that at least one project by the committee will be permanent in nature.

Session Postponed

The regular meeting of the Nicasio School Board of Trustees, scheduled for 7 p.m. tomorrow, has been postponed because the board secretary, Beverly Alberigi cannot be there. The meeting will be held at 7 p.m. next Wednesday at the school, she said.

HERE'S A COUNTRY French chicken stew to serve to the family or when friends come over.

COUNTRY FRENCH DISH

A Tasty Entree For Company

Fortunately in California we have fresh, quality chicken all year round. And here's a spicy idea from them for any occasion.

COUNTRY FRENCH CHICKEN STEW

1 frying chicken (about three pounds), cut into serving pieces
Salt and freshly ground black pepper
Flour
3 tablespoons butter
3 thin slices lean bacon, cut up
1 large onion, chopped
6 ounces fresh mushrooms, thinly sliced
4 or 6 peeled small new potatoes, or 2 medium potatoes, cut up
1 cup brandy
1 cup water
2 by 1 inch piece of lemon peel (yellow part only)
1 bay leaf
½ teaspoon crumbled dried thyme
1 large clove garlic, minced or mashed

Wipe chicken dry, season with salt and pepper, and dust lightly with flour. In a large frying pan over medium heat, saute chicken in butter until golden on both sides. Remove from pan. Add bacon, and saute until golden. Add onions and mushrooms, and saute until limp.

Return chicken to the pan along with the potatoes, brandy, water, lemon peel, bay leaf, thyme, and garlic. Cover and simmer for one hour, or until the chicken and potatoes are tender. Correct seasoning with salt and pepper. Serve with juices spooned over. Sprinkle lightly with parsley. Makes four servings.

Try Fondue For Winter Evening

A weekend vacation at a winter resort is lots of fun — until you have to satisfy all those cold-weather appetites with a stick-to-the-ribs meal. One way is to pack the ingredients for curry fondue.

Convenient condensed cream of chicken soup right from the can is combined with nutritious Swiss cheese and zesty dairy sour cream for a smooth, creamy hot dip. Curry powder, garlic and ginger are added to season and spice this nourishing fondue into a tastebud tantalizer.

Invite family and friends to "dip in" to the bubbling pot with chunks of ham or chicken, whole shrimp, cubes of French or rye bread, celery or carrot sticks, cherry tomatoes, apple slices or pear cubes. For the go-along beverage, serve the adults a dry white wine and hot apple cider to the youngsters.

CURRY FONDUE

2 - 3 teaspoons curry powder
¼ teaspoon ginger
1 small clove garlic, crushed
3 cups (12 oz.) shredded Swiss cheese
1 tablespoon all-purpose flour
¾ cup dairy sour cream

In 1½-quart saucepan heat together soup, curry powder, ginger and garlic. Toss together cheese and flour. Over low heat add cheese to soup and stir until cheese is melted. Stir in sour cream. Transfer to fondue pot. Serve with a selection of the following: celery sticks, carrot sticks, cherry tomatoes, apple slices; cubes of pear, ham or chicken; chunks of French or rye bread, or whole shrimp. Makes three cups.

Take Gamble Out Of Cheese Buying

On the West Coast, natural cheese gets a great amount of attention from the simplest to the most elegant methods of cookery. Whether you purchase the natural cheese for snacking or cooking, be sure that the cheese has been carefully selected and cured, cut and packaged to give you consistent quality in texture and characteristic flavor.

Monterey Jack, which was named for Monterey County, is one of the most versatile of the natural cheeses in the line and is suited to universal tastes. This mild, smooth, semisoft open textured cheese can stand alone or be served as a topper to the most spectacular cheeseburger ever.

Cheeses of distinction and character are rapidly moving into the lead in popularity within culinary circles, with American adaptations of European specialties often exceeding their foreign counterparts in both flavor and quality.

Mozzarella, or pizza cheese from Italy, is used largely in recipes which require baking or heating.

Muenster is one of the best melting cheeses around and boasts a strong, pungent flavor, nearly limburger-like in flavor and aroma. Originating in Muenster, Germany, the American adaptation has been modified through the years to become a mild flavored cheese to meet our taste preferences.

Brick is an American development with a taste close to that of Muenster. Originally it was made in a size very similar to the size and shape of bricks, with bricks used almost exclusively for weighting presses during its production. An excellent use for this natural cheese is an "anytime" fondue served with bread cubes.

Caraway, a spicy cheese with caraway seeds is a native Scandinavian cheese which makes an attractive addition to party trays or open-face Danish smorrebrod sandwiches and is flavorsome in combination with your favorite fruit and wine.

Chef's Idea On Serving Filet Of Sole

Marin chef Raymond Bar has passed along his recipe for Filet of Sole Bretonne for I-J food page readers. He also was guest on the "Kitchen Time in Marin," show hosted by Diane MacMillan and discussed the recipe there this morning.

FILET OF SOLE BRETONNE

2½ to 3 pounds fish filets
4 ounces fresh shrimp (¼ lb.)
4 ounces fresh sliced mushrooms
milk
flour
oil and butter
2 tablespoons lemon juice

Soak fish filets in milk, drain, dust with flour. Preheat skillet. Add a thin layer of vegetable oil. Saute filets until just golden brown on each side, turning only once. Add a few tablespoons of butter. Allow the butter to turn a light nut brown, but do not allow to burn. Immediately, transfer filets to a warm platter.

Toss in the mushrooms and saute quickly, then the shrimp. This step is last minute and must be done rapidly so that the butter will not burn. Blend in the lemon juice, stir and pour over the warm fish filets. Serve at once. Garnish with lemon wedges. Serves six.

To Check Grease

If you have a ventilating hood over your kitchen range, turn on the fan in it before you begin cooking. This helps keep grease-laden moisture from sticking to the walls and ceiling, says the American Gas Assn.

When Baked

Soft cookies are done when delicately browned and when the imprint of a finger is slightly visible when you touch the cookie centers.

Oatmeal Gives This Gingerbread Specialty Tasty Nutty Flavor

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press

A New Yorker who comes from Yorkshire, England, still remembers the gingerbread she was brought up on. She says it is called Parkin and is a rough country dish, served to youngsters with milk to drink and to grownups with mugs of tea or coffee. She adds that in her day "it was always enjoyed in the kitchen and was never served to the gentry!"

Our curiosity aroused, we dipped into Audrey Allen Gorton's cookbook, "In Defense of British Cooking," published by The Stephen Greene Press, and here is what Mrs. Gorton has to say about this cake:

"Parkin is a north country gingerbread and is assocated particulary with Yorkshire fare. It is also found in Lancashire and Cheshire and may be bought in almost every bakery there. The oatmeal used gives it a nutty flavor and it is very good with cheese. It keeps for a long time when stored in a tightly covered biscuit tin."

PARKIN

1 cup unsifted flour
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon salt
½ cup sugar
1 tablespoon ground ginger
4 cups quick-cooking oats, uncooked
½ cup butter or margarine, melted
1 cup light molasses
2 eggs
1 cup milk
Confectioners' sugar, if desired

Into a large mixing bowl turn the flour, baking soda, salt, sugar, ginger; stir together thoroughly. Stir in oats.

Turn into a greased rectangular baking pan (13 by 9 by 2 inches); spread evenly.

Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until top is firm to the touch and sides have separated from edge of pan — 40 to 45 minutes.

Place pan on wire rack and cool. Cut into forty-eight 2 by 1 inch bars. With a small spatula, remove from pan. If used, sprinkle lightly with the confectioners' sugar.

Makes 48 bars.

Now Is The Time For Serving A Cherry Pie

There is that about February that calls for special days to brighten bleak late winter. Fortunately, we have three days that are cause for celebration.

At least they call for a special dessert to mark the occasion. Right at the top of the list for Washington's Birthday is the Cherry pie.

CHERRY PIE

Pastry for 2-crust pie
3 tablespoons corn starch
⅔ cup sugar
½ teaspoon salt
1 can juice, drained from canned cherries
2 tablespoons margarine
1 teaspoon lemon juice
¼ teaspoon red food coloring
2 (1-pound) cans red pitted sour cherries, water packed

Mix together corn starch, sugar, salt and cherry juice in a saucepan. Place over medium heat and cook, stirring constantly, until mixture comes to a boil and boils one minute. Remove from heat. Stir in margarine, lemon juice, food coloring and cherries. Pour into pastry lined nine-inch pie pan. Cover with top crust. Seal and flute edges. Prick top crust and decorate with pastry as desired. Bake in a 425 degree oven 35 to 40 minutes or until crust is golden brown.

A New Idea For Chicken

TANGY STUFFED CHICKEN BREASTS
(4 servings)

4 chicken breasts, boned, seasoned with salt and pepper
1 cup stuffing mix
¼ teaspoon thyme
1 teaspoon fresh grated tangerine peel
2 tangerines, peeled, seeded, cut into bite-size pieces
2 tablespoons finely chopped green onion
2 tablespoons slivered almonds
2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine
1 cup fresh squeezed tangerine juice

Wash chicken breasts. Pat dry. With skin side down, flatten and season with salt and pepper. Mix together stuffing mix, thyme, tangerine peel, tangerine pieces, green onion, almonds, butter and three tablespoons tangerine juice. Pile one-fourth of stuffing mixture on each chicken breast. Fold edges over and secure with wooden picks or poultry pins. Place, skin side up, in a shallow baking pan. Pour remaining tangerine juice over chicken. Cover and bake at 375°F. for 30 minutes. Remove cover and bake an additional 30 to 40 minutes, basting two or three times with juice. Remove chicken to serving platter. Pour pan drippings into saucepan and boil for five minutes until slightly thickened and reduced to about one-fourth cup.

Use Bacon For Eggs Benedict

Poaching eggs can be difficult unless you know the several tricks to insure easy preparation and attractive appearance. Here are a few tips that can help.

The problem is how to keep whites and yolks together. One way to do this is to fill a shallow pan with enough water to cover the eggs and add half teaspoon each of salt and vinegar to the water and bring water to boiling point. Break each egg into a saucer and slip into the water. Then lower heat and simmer gently.

The egg will poach to firm white with soft yolk in about 2½ to 3 minutes; to hard in 4½ to 5 minutes. Remove poached eggs with slotted spoon and drain before serving.

A classic recipe calling for poached eggs, as attractive appearing as they are appetizing, is Eggs Benedict. Here is a recipe using not only bacon but leftover ham or poultry with cream of chicken soup instead of the traditional Hollandaise sauce.

EGGS AND BACON BENEDICT

4 English muffins, split
Butter or margarine
8 slices leftover smoked ham, chicken or turkey
8 slices crisp bacon
8 poached eggs
1 can (10¾ ounces) condensed cream of chicken soup
⅓ cup mayonnaise
1 tablespoon lemon juice

Toast muffins and spread with butter. Place on serving plates. Saute ham slices in two tablespoons butter in a skillet until hot. Place ham and bacon on muffins. Top with a hot poached egg. In a saucepan, combine soup, mayonnaise and lemon juice and heat until bubbly. Spoon sauce over poached egg. Garnish with parsley and cherry tomatoes. Makes eight servings.

New Twist To Chowder

Steamy clam chowder served on a cold, grey weekend can change one's expectations from dreary to sunny. This recipe calls for a change in the potato form. A cooked potato submerged in the delicate seasoned clam liquor is unexpected and so is the invigoration.

CREAMY CLAM CHOWDER

4 small potatoes peeled
¼ wedge of onion
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup milk
¼ cup thinly sliced celery
1 8 oz. can chopped clams
½ cup half and half
Paprika

Cook potatoes and onion in one cup of boiling water, covered (about 20 minutes). Blend butter, flour and salt together over low heat. Gradually add hot water from potatoes, milk, celery, and clam juice. Blend thoroughly.

When the liquid is to the boiling point, add clams and half and half. Let it heat through but don't boil. Adjust seasoning. Put a hot potato in each soup bowl and add three-fourths cup of chowder in each bowl. Dash with paprika. Makes four servings.

Practice Proves Winner For Those Special Dinners

Here's a tip for surviving the current dinner-party season and establishing your reputation as one of the top hostesses on the circuit.

Home economists at U.S. Stamping Co. in Moundsville, W.Va., suggest selecting two or three unusual recipes and practicing on the family before serving dinner guests.

The practice makes perfect, and also gives the cook the opportunity to stock up on all the necessary ingredients, spices and cookware and serving pieces that may be needed.

One dish that's guaranteed to dazzle guests is Paella Catalan.

PAELLA CATALAN

½ cup olive oil
4 pieces chicken
1 clove garlic, crushed
1 onion, peeled and crushed
¼ cooked ham, cut in thin strips
1 cup long grain rice
12 large uncooked shrimp
½ pound whitefish (cod or swordfish) cut into large cubes
2 canned pimientos (one 4 oz. jar) drained and chopped
12 large mussels
1 cup green peas cooked, or one small package frozen peas
⅛ teaspoon saffron (soaked in 3 tablespoons hot water for ½ hour)
2½ cups of stock or water
Salt and pepper

Heat oil in a paella pan and fry chicken over moderate heat until brown on all sides. Remove chicken, add garlic and onion; fry onion until transparent. Add ham and rice, cook and stir until rice is golden. Remove from heat. Peel and devein shrimp.

Gather shrimp, fish, pimiento and mussels so they are ready to use. Scrub mussels under running water. Arrange all these ingredients on the rice. Add chicken and peas. Push mussels deep into the rice. Lay shrimp on top.

Add saffron and liquid to stock, or water, and pour ingredients into paella pan. Season to taste, bring to rapid boil and boil for three minutes. Turn heat down and simmer uncovered, until all ingredients are cooked and liquid is absorbed (about 20 minutes). Serves four.

This recipe is best prepared and served in a specially made Paella pan, available at hardware and department stores.

Idaho-Oregon Area Big Onion Producers

The Idaho-Oregon area produces about 20 per cent of all onions available in the United States from September through March.

About 90 per cent of the onions, or 360 million pounds, are sweet Spanish varieties.

Among them are many that have a diameter of more than five inches.

HERE'S A COUNTRY French chicken stew to serve to the family or when friends come over.

COUNTRY FRENCH DISH

A Tasty Entree For Company

Fortunately in California we have fresh, quality chicken all year round. And here's a spicy idea from them for any occasion.

COUNTRY FRENCH CHICKEN STEW

1 frying chicken (about three pounds), cut into serving pieces
Salt and freshly ground black pepper
Flour
3 tablespoons butter
3 thin slices lean bacon, cut up
1 large onion, chopped
6 ounces fresh mushrooms, thinly sliced
4 or 6 peeled small new potatoes, or 2 medium potatoes, cut up
1 cup brandy
1 cup water
2 by 1 inch piece of lemon peel (yellow part only)
1 bay leaf
½ teaspoon crumbled dried thyme
1 large clove garlic, minced or mashed

Wipe chicken dry, season with salt and pepper, and dust lightly with flour. In a large frying pan over medium heat, saute chicken in butter until golden on both sides. Remove from pan. Add bacon, and saute until golden. Add onions and mushrooms, and saute until limp.

Return chicken to the pan along with the potatoes, brandy, water, lemon peel, bay leaf, thyme, and garlic. Cover and simmer for one hour, or until the chicken and potatoes are tender. Correct seasoning with salt and pepper. Serve with juices spooned over. Sprinkle lightly with parsley. Makes four servings.

Try Fondue For Winter Evening

A weekend vacation at a winter resort is lots of fun — until you have to satisfy all those cold-weather appetites with a stick-to-the-ribs meal. One way is to pack the ingredients for curry fondue.

Convenient condensed cream of chicken soup right from the can is combined with nutritious Swiss cheese and zesty dairy sour cream for a smooth, creamy hot dip. Curry powder, garlic and ginger are added to season and spice this nourishing fondue into a tastebud tantalizer.

Invite family and friends to "dip in" to the bubbling pot with chunks of ham or chicken, whole shrimp, cubes of French or rye bread, celery or carrot sticks, cherry tomatoes, apple slices or pear cubes. For the go-along beverage, serve the adults a dry white wine and hot apple cider to the youngsters.

CURRY FONDUE

2 - 3 teaspoons curry powder
¼ teaspoon ginger
1 small clove garlic, crushed
3 cups (12 oz.) shredded Swiss cheese
1 tablespoon all-purpose flour
¾ cup dairy sour cream

In 1½-quart saucepan heat together soup, curry powder, ginger and garlic. Toss together cheese and flour. Over low heat add cheese to soup and stir until cheese is melted. Stir in sour cream. Transfer to fondue pot. Serve with a selection of the following: celery sticks, carrot sticks, cherry tomatoes, apple slices; cubes of pear, ham or chicken; chunks of French or rye bread, or whole shrimp. Makes three cups.

Take Gamble Out Of Cheese Buying

On the West Coast, natural cheese gets a great amount of attention from the simplest to the most elegant methods of cookery. Whether you purchase the natural cheese for snacking or cooking, be sure that the cheese has been carefully selected and cured, cut and packaged to give you consistent quality in texture and characteristic flavor.

Monterey Jack, which was named for Monterey County, is one of the most versatile of the natural cheeses in the line and is suited to universal tastes. This mild, smooth, semisoft open textured cheese can stand alone or be served as a topper to the most spectacular cheeseburger ever.

Cheeses of distinction and character are rapidly moving into the lead in popularity within culinary circles, with American adaptations of European specialties often exceeding their foreign counterparts in both flavor and quality.

Mozzarella, or pizza cheese from Italy, is used largely in recipes which require baking or heating.

Muenster is one of the best melting cheeses around and boasts a strong, pungent flavor, nearly limburger-like in flavor and aroma. Originating in Muenster, Germany, the American adaptation has been modified through the years to become a mild flavored cheese to meet our taste preferences.

Brick is an American development with a taste close to that of Muenster. Originally it was made in a size very similar to the size and shape of bricks, with bricks used almost exclusively for weighting presses during its production. An excellent use for this natural cheese is an "anytime" fondue served with bread cubes.

Caraway, a spicy cheese with caraway seeds is a native Scandinavian cheese which makes an attractive addition to party trays or open-face Danish smorrebrod sandwiches and is flavorsome in combination with your favorite fruit and wine.

Chef's Idea On Serving Filet Of Sole

Marin chef Raymond Bar has passed along his recipe for Filet of Sole Bretonne for I-J food page readers. He also was guest on the "Kitchen Time in Marin," show hosted by Diane MacMillan and discussed the recipe there this morning.

FILET OF SOLE BRETONNE

2½ to 3 pounds fish filets
4 ounces fresh shrimp (¼ lb.)
4 ounces fresh sliced mushrooms
milk
flour
oil and butter
2 tablespoons lemon juice

Soak fish filets in milk, drain, dust with flour. Preheat skillet. Add a thin layer of vegetable oil. Saute filets until just golden brown on each side, turning only once. Add a few tablespoons of butter. Allow the butter to turn a light nut brown, but do not allow to burn. Immediately, transfer filets to a warm platter.

Toss in the mushrooms and saute quickly, then the shrimp. This step is last minute and must be done rapidly so that the butter will not burn. Blend in the lemon juice, stir and pour over the warm fish filets. Serve at once. Garnish with lemon wedges. Serves six.

To Check Grease

If you have a ventilating hood over your kitchen range, turn on the fan in it before you begin cooking. This helps keep grease-laden moisture from sticking to the walls and ceiling, says the American Gas Assn.

When Baked

Soft cookies are done when delicately browned and when the imprint of a finger is slightly visible when you touch the cookie centers.

Oatmeal Gives This Gingerbread Specialty Tasty Nutty Flavor

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press

A New Yorker who comes from Yorkshire, England, still remembers the gingerbread she was brought up on. She says it is called Parkin and is a rough country dish, served to youngsters with milk to drink and to grownups with mugs of tea or coffee. She adds that in her day "it was always enjoyed in the kitchen and was never served to the gentry!"

Our curiosity aroused, we dipped into Audrey Allen Gorton's cookbook, "In Defense of British Cooking," published by The Stephen Greene Press, and here is what Mrs. Gorton has to say about this cake:

"Parkin is a north country gingerbread and is assocated particulary with Yorkshire fare. It is also found in Lancashire and Cheshire and may be bought in almost every bakery there. The oatmeal used gives it a nutty flavor and it is very good with cheese. It keeps for a long time when stored in a tightly covered biscuit tin."

PARKIN

1 cup unsifted flour
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon salt
½ cup sugar
1 tablespoon ground ginger
4 cups quick-cooking oats, uncooked
½ cup butter or margarine, melted
1 cup light molasses
2 eggs
1 cup milk
Confectioners' sugar, if desired

Into a large mixing bowl turn the flour, baking soda, salt, sugar, ginger; stir together thoroughly. Stir in oats.

Turn into a greased rectangular baking pan (13 by 9 by 2 inches); spread evenly.

Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until top is firm to the touch and sides have separated from edge of pan — 40 to 45 minutes.

Place pan on wire rack and cool. Cut into forty-eight 2 by 1 inch bars. With a small spatula, remove from pan. If used, sprinkle lightly with the confectioners' sugar.

Makes 48 bars.

Now Is The Time For Serving A Cherry Pie

There is that about February that calls for special days to brighten bleak late winter. Fortunately, we have three days that are cause for celebration.

At least they call for a special dessert to mark the occasion. Right at the top of the list for Washington's Birthday is the Cherry pie.

CHERRY PIE

Pastry for 2-crust pie
3 tablespoons corn starch
⅔ cup sugar
½ teaspoon salt
1 can juice, drained from canned cherries
2 tablespoons margarine
1 teaspoon lemon juice
¼ teaspoon red food coloring
2 (1-pound) cans red pitted sour cherries, water packed

Mix together corn starch, sugar, salt and cherry juice in a saucepan. Place over medium heat and cook, stirring constantly, until mixture comes to a boil and boils one minute. Remove from heat. Stir in margarine, lemon juice, food coloring and cherries. Pour into pastry lined nine-inch pie pan. Cover with top crust. Seal and flute edges. Prick top crust and decorate with pastry as desired. Bake in a 425 degree oven 35 to 40 minutes or until crust is golden brown.

A New Idea For Chicken

TANGY STUFFED CHICKEN BREASTS

(4 servings)

4 chicken breasts, boned, seasoned with salt and pepper
1 cup stuffing mix
¼ teaspoon thyme
1 teaspoon fresh grated tangerine peel
2 tangerines, peeled, seeded, cut into bite-size pieces
2 tablespoons finely chopped green onion
2 tablespoons slivered almonds
2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine
1 cup fresh squeezed tangerine juice

Wash chicken breasts. Pat dry. With skin side down, flatten and season with salt and pepper. Mix together stuffing mix, thyme, tangerine peel, tangerine pieces, green onion, almonds, butter and three tablespoons tangerine juice. Pile one-fourth of stuffing mixture on each chicken breast. Fold edges over and secure with wooden picks or poultry pins. Place, skin side up, in a shallow baking pan. Pour remaining tangerine juice over chicken. Cover and bake at 375°F. for 30 minutes. Remove cover and bake an additional 30 to 40 minutes, basting two or three times with juice. Remove chicken to serving platter. Pour pan drippings into saucepan and boil for five minutes until slightly thickened and reduced to about one-fourth cup.

A BUSY MARIN GROUP

Health Collective Will Launch Telephone Service

By BARBARA HOSMER

The Marin Women's Health Collective, organized a year ago by a small group of Marin women, plans to initiate its telephone information service next week.

The collective is set up to educate women about the nature and costs of health services available to them, both in Marin and other parts of the Bay Area; to help women learn about their own physical processes so that they can become more intelligent medical and health care consumers, and to change attitudes toward health care for women among professionals where needed.

The collective began by last year surveying Marin County obstetrics and gynecology specialists and physicians in general practice to determine costs and services each offered regarding female medical procedures. It has followed up to obtain further information and plans to continue collecting and updating health and medical information for its files.

The telephone information system will be operated through the Marin Women's Switchboard.

THE HEALTH Collective also will present educational programs for women through films and discussions, with a series tentatively scheduled in San Rafael for May to assist women in evaluating medical care they receive and in asking questions about their care from health professionals.

It has a consumer orientation and plans to open dialogue with various Marin physicians about female patient care.

Originally, the founders were largely members of the Marin Chapter, National Organization for Women concerned with its task force on reproduction and its control, but they set up the Health Collective separately so that other women could join the collective. Currently the collective is made up of about 50 per cent NOW members and is expanding its action program to others in the community.

The collective also plans to collect on a continuing basis women's evaluations of their experiences with varying phases of health care in Marin on a confidential basis.

THE COLLECTIVE meets each second Thursday of the month in members' homes and has held one benefit by sponsoring a conversation evening with Gloria Steinem following the latter's College of Marin appearance last month. It is planning more benefit functions and also a film and discussion series for women about such subjects as self-help clinics, abortion, natural childbirth, breast and pelvic examinations and sexuality as a part of its program to educate women about their bodies.

On May 18 the Health Collective will co-sponsor with the College of Marin a showing of the Kate Millett film, "Three Lives," and the KQED short made in Marin of Miss Steinem's appearance. Proceeds will go to the Women's Health Collective.

The Marin Women's Health Collective, 14 Claus Circle, Fairfax, may be reached through the Women's Switchboard on weekdays, beginning Monday.

ON THE AGENDA

Champagne Reception To Honor Colonel Garrison At Hamilton

A champagne reception to honor Col. and Mrs. Vermont Garrison will be held from 7 to 8 p.m. Saturday at the Officers Club at Hamilton Air Force Base.

The reception will precede the annual Officers Wives Club spring formal, also at the Officers Club. Theme of the formal, a dinner dance, is Chinese New Year. Chairman is Mrs. Jack Cremin, and Mmes. Philip Nelson and Scott Murray are decorations chairmen. Reservations chairmen are Mmes. Carl Bibb and Albert Mullen.

MRS. JOHN Starkweather of San Rafael will discuss birds native to the Audubon Canyon Ranch at the Newcomers Club of Central Marin luncheon Tuesday at 11:30 a.m. at Peacock Gap Country Club.

Mrs. Starkweather will show slides of the blue heron nesting habits.

The Ins, Outs For Fashion Accessories

Ins and outs of fashion accessories were defined by Women's Wear Daily.

Simple beads and pearls are in; masses of chains and charms are out. The clutch bag is in; bulky shoulder bags are out. Big clip-on earrings are in; earrings for pierced ears are out. One or two rings are in; rings worn on every finger are out.

Narrow belts with simple buckles are in; wide belts with low slung jeans are out. Clusters of plastic and wood bangle bracelets are in, and clusters of rhinestones are out. Ivory beads and bracelets are in; tortoise jewelry is out.

Full Slip Back For Day Wear

Lingerie trends show a return of the full slip for daytime wear, and the return of cotton blends and tricot for sleepwear, according to Women's Wear Daily.

In loungewear, caftans remain popular. Robes wrapped with a soft belt are in again, and robe and gown sets are featured for travel.

The soft, medium control bra, with stitched or seamless cups, fiberfill and underwired support is making a comeback.

A Summer Wedding Is Being Planned By Pair

June Elizabeth Howard of Ventura and Frank John Guidice Jr. are planning a July 7 wedding.

The future bride is the daughter of Mrs. Sandy Biggie of Ventura and the sister of Julie Ann and Leah Carol Howard. June was graduated from Ventura High School and is employed by Longs Drugs in Northgate. Mrs. Mildred Spharler is her grandmother.

Frank is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Guidice of San Rafael and the brother of Sal, Paul and Rina Ann Guidice. Mr. and Mrs. Salvatore Intagliata and Mrs. Serafina Guidice are his grandparents. He was graduated from Redwood High School and is employed by BART Trucking Co. in San Francisco.

FROM PARIS FOR MEN

Marin Women

The Edward Keppels Living In Arkansas

Mr. and Mrs. Edward E. Keppel (Lois Diane Short) are living in Fayetteville, Ark., following their marriage Feb. 3 at Marin Lutheran Church in Corte Madera.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dean F. Short of Corte Madera, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Erven Keppel of Rohnert Park.

Maid of honor was Donna Grewe of Ignacio and bridesmaids were the bride's sister, Anita Short of Corte Madera; the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Michael Wlodarczyk and Mrs. Michael Dunham of Stockton.

Jim DeJoria of Windsor was best man, and guests were ushered to their seats by Ron Peetz of San Francisco, Dean Short of San Rafael and Michael Wlodarczyk.

Lois is a graduate of Redwood High School and California Lutheran College. She is also the sister of Mrs. Gary Schulte of Fridley, Minn., and Dean S. Short of Taunton, Mass., is her grandfather.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Rohnert Park High School and Santa Rosa Junior College. He is in the Army. Mr. and Mrs. Albert G. Starz of Lake City, Minn., are his grandparents.

Blass Forecasts "Status Dressing"

"We are in a reactionary period, and it is reflected in the clothes we wear," designer Bill Blass told Women's Wear Daily.

"The men's wear industry is 30 years behind the times. It doesn't allow for changes in taste and is geared to a pre-World War II society."

Mary Pat Kinsey Will Wed

Mr. and Mrs. Eric C. Kinsey Jr. are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Mary Pat Kinsey of Novato, to Roy E. Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Grover Wilson of San Rafael.

Mary is the sister of Anne Kinsey and the granddaughter of Eric C. Kinsey of Ross. She was graduated from Marin Catholic High School and Dominican College. She is presently working toward an elementary teaching credential.

The future bridegroom was graduated from Terra Linda High School and attended Heald Engineering College. He is employed as an engineer at the Marin Municipal Water District in Corte Madera.

The couple plans to be married on June 2.

Cornhusker's Reunion Slated

University of Nebraska alumni's annual reunion and charter day banquet will be held Monday at the Blue Dolphin Restaurant in San Leandro.

Chancellor James H. Zumberge and alumni executive vice president Jack Miller will attend, and highlights of the Orange Bowl game will be shown.

Jill W. Vernon Betrothal Told

Mr. and Mrs. Willard Elliott Vernon of San Rafael announce the engagement of their daughter Jill Ward Vernon of San Jose to Dennis Kemp Prober, also of San Jose.

JILL W. VERNON
July date set

Holly Ward Vernon is the future bride's sister. She is the granddaughter of Mrs. Andrew E. Ward of San Rafael and Mrs. Bruce Vernon of San Marino. Jill was graduated from San Rafael High School and received the B.S. degree and teacher's credential from the University of California at Davis. She is a member of Prytanean and is employed by the San Jose Unified School District as a media library resource teacher.

Dennis is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Prober of Uplands and is the brother of Alan Prober of Azusa, Paul Prober of Santa Barbara and Gary Prober of Santa Maria. He is a graduate of Azusa High School and has a BS degree from California State Polytechnic College and an MS degree from Oregon State University. He is employed by Neil A. Maclean Co., Inc., in Milpitas as a quality control and production coordinator. The future bridegroom is a member of Beta Beta Beta, Gamma Sigma Delta and Alpha Zeta honorary societies.

The couple plans to be married July 7 in San Rafael.

Dan Granucci Will Wed Sherry Haas

Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Haas of Rohnert Park are announcing the engagement of their daughter Sherry to Dan Granucci, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tino Granucci Jr. of Novato.

SHERRY HAAS
September wedding

Sherry is the sister of Bob and Ron Haas and Mrs. Curtiss D. Lewis of Rohnert Park. She is the grand-daughter of Mrs. Anne Haas of North Hollywood. She was graduated from Rancho Cotate High School and is employed at Storer Cable TV in Rohnert Park.

Dan is the brother of Mrs. Ray Hill III of Petaluma and Mrs. Barry Beringer of Corte Madera. He is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Tino Granucci of San Francisco and Jack Mello of Mill Valley. The future bridegroom was graduated from Novato High School and attended College of Marin. He is employed at Volonte Motors in South San Francisco.

The couple plans a September wedding.

Nancy Jeanne Fairchild To Wed Norman Collins

Dr. and Mrs. Roy W. Fairchild of San Anselmo are announcing the engagement of their daughter Nancy Jeanne to Norman B. Collins of Glendale.

NANCY J. FAIRCHILD
April wedding

Nancy is the sister of Jan and Christie Fairchild. She is a graduate of Sir Francis Drake High School and College of Marin and attends California State University, San Jose.

Norman's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Collins of Glendale. He was graduated from Herbert Hoover High School in Glendale and also attends CSU, San Jose.

Use Bacon For Eggs Benedict

Poaching eggs can be difficult unless you know the several tricks to insure easy preparation and attractive appearance. Here are a few tips that can help.

The problem is how to keep whites and yolks together. One way to do this is to fill a shallow pan with enough water to cover the eggs and add half teaspoon each of salt and vinegar to the water and bring water to boiling point. Break each egg into a saucer and slip into the water. Then lower heat and simmer gently.

The egg will poach to firm white with soft yolk in about 2½ to 3 minutes; to hard in 4½ to 5 minutes. Remove poached eggs with slotted spoon and drain before serving.

A classic recipe calling for poached eggs, as attractive appearing as they are appetizing, is Eggs Benedict. Here is a recipe using not only bacon but leftover ham or poultry with cream of chicken soup instead of the traditional Hollandaise sauce.

EGGS AND BACON BENEDICT

4 English muffins, split
Butter or margarine
8 slices leftover smoked ham, chicken or turkey
8 slices crisp bacon
8 poached eggs
1 can (10¾ ounces) condensed cream of chicken soup
⅓ cup mayonnaise
1 tablespoon lemon juice

Toast muffins and spread with butter. Place on serving plates. Saute ham slices in two tablespoons butter in a skillet until hot. Place ham and bacon on muffins. Top with a hot poached egg. In a saucepan, combine soup, mayonnaise and lemon juice and heat until bubbly. Spoon sauce over poached egg. Garnish with parsley and cherry tomatoes. Makes eight servings.

New Twist To Chowder

Steamy clam chowder served on a cold, grey weekend can change one's expectations from dreary to sunny. This recipe calls for a change in the potato form. A cooked potato submerged in the delicate seasoned clam liquor is unexpected and so is the invigoration.

CREAMY CLAM CHOWDER

4 small potatoes peeled
¼ wedge of onion
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup milk
¼ cup thinly sliced celery
1 8 oz. can chopped clams
½ cup half and half
Paprika

Cook potatoes and onion in one cup of boiling water, covered (about 20 minutes). Blend butter, flour and salt together over low heat. Gradually add hot water from potatoes, milk, celery, and clam juice. Blend thoroughly.

When the liquid is to the boiling point, add clams and half and half. Let it heat through but don't boil. Adjust seasoning. Put a hot potato in each soup bowl and add three-fourths cup of chowder in each bowl. Dash with paprika. Makes four servings.

Practice Proves Winner For Those Special Dinners

Here's a tip for surviving the current dinner-party season and establishing your reputation as one of the top hostesses on the circuit.

Home economists at U.S. Stamping Co. in Moundsville, W.Va., suggest selecting two or three unusual recipes and practicing on the family before serving dinner guests.

The practice makes perfect, and also gives the cook the opportunity to stock up on all the necessary ingredients, spices and cookware and serving pieces that may be needed.

One dish that's guaranteed to dazzle guests is Paella Catalan.

PAELLA CATALAN

½ cup olive oil
4 pieces chicken
1 clove garlic, crushed
1 onion, peeled and crushed
¼ cooked ham, cut in thin strips
1 cup long grain rice
12 large uncooked shrimp
½ pound whitefish (cod or swordfish) cut into large cubes
2 canned pimientos (one 4 oz. jar) drained and chopped
12 large mussels
1 cup green peas cooked, or one small package frozen peas
⅛ teaspoon saffron (soaked in 3 tablespoons hot water for ½ hour)
2½ cups of stock or water
Salt and pepper

Heat oil in a paella pan and fry chicken over moderate heat until brown on all sides. Remove chicken, add garlic and onion; fry onion until transparent. Add ham and rice, cook and stir until rice is golden. Remove from heat. Peel and devein shrimp.

Gather shrimp, fish, pimiento and mussels so they are ready to use. Scrub mussels under running water. Arrange all these ingredients on the rice. Add chicken and peas. Push mussels deep into the rice. Lay shrimp on top.

Add saffron and liquid to stock, or water, and pour ingredients into paella pan. Season to taste, bring to rapid boil and boil for three minutes. Turn heat down and simmer uncovered, until all ingredients are cooked and liquid is absorbed (about 20 minutes). Serves four.

This recipe is best prepared and served in a specially made Paella pan, available at hardware and department stores.

Idaho-Oregon Area Big Onion Producers

The Idaho-Oregon area produces about 20 per cent of all onions available in the United States from September through March.

About 90 per cent of the onions, or 360 million pounds, are sweet Spanish varieties.

Among them are many that have a diameter of more than five inches.

Programs That Always Depict Shoplifters As Women Rapped

DEAR HELEN:

I'm much in favor of the current local commercials that warn against shoplifting, but why is it that on radio and television, the shoplifter is always female? My dad says this is because she almost always is, but I disagree. Boys and men go into stores too —and come out secretly loaded.

Maybe a few public service ad people will read this and tell their writers about discrimination. — LET'S PLAY FAIR

DEAR LET'S:

What do you bet they've already been told — and the change will come sooner than you think? If women can spot discrimination in first-grade readers (fathers and boys, brave strong leaders; mothers and girls, helpless followers), they'll surely demand equal time to name men shoplifters. Let m know if I'm right. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Ifeel like my husband and I are headed for divorce. He treats me very bad. He pulls off my wig when we have a fight. He won't let me go into the bathroom alone when we're arguing, just blocks my way so we'll keep on fighting.

He doesn't like my family, and my mother says marriage is ruining my health. He's very jealous, too. He doesn't want me to get a job, and he won't let me go to Mexico for a vacation (alone). On his days off I get very bored with him, as he's very passive except when mad. So-o-o?

I have a couple of careers I'd like to know more about: nude photography modeling, and massaging. I know a girl who makes good money at both and she says it doesn't take much training or effort, and I wouldn't have any trouble breaking into the field. Is she right? — ABOUT TO LEAVE HIM

DEAR ATLH:

I suspect the trouble would come after you break into the field. A nude modeling-plus-massage job that "doesn't take much training" might require considerable later "effort," not the least of which is staying out of jail!

Maybe your husband has a right to be jealous. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I'm surprised at the findings of the teen hot line manager who said his anonymous telephone service gets more distraught calls during a new moon.

I work in an expensive department store and our usual customers are pleasant, but they are strange sometimes — when the moon is full!

This is when we get people returning two-year-old coats "only worn a bit," or maternity dresses, after the baby has arrived.

Saturday nights when the moon is full are the worst. During the last full moon weekend, an entire family of six, from Grandma on down, spent two hours in my department scrounging through the coats, tossing them on the floor, etc. Finally the mother complained that our selection was lousy (we have 2,000 coats!) and she was very disappointed in the store.

Come to think of it, I didn't consider suicide but contemplated murder as I spent the next 45 minutes picking up after them. — SALESCLERK

DEAR HELEN:

My husband (now ex) told me it was all my fault that our love life was so poor. Like a fool, I believed him, took all the blame and began to think I was hopeless. After the divorce, I met his former wife, now happily married, and we became friends. It finally came out that she too lost her self-confidence because of this man's constant criticisms. (Neither of us had been very experienced.)

Only when she was married again and to a real man, did she realize she wasn't the one with the problem. This is to let other "blamed wives" know that sometimes they're called frigid because their husbands won't admit —or don't understand — their own shortcomings. — NO LONGER AFRAID

This column is dedicated to family living so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. She will also welcome your own amusing experiences. Write to Helen Bottel care of the Independent-Journal.

Drives Against Shoplifting

Long-term antishoplifting campaigns have been launched in St. Louis and Kansas City, Mo.

In St. Louis, the effort is called STOP for Stop Theft on Premises, and is aimed to prevent employee theft as well as shoplifting.

Stealing losses throughout Missouri are estimated to be $180 million a year.

A BUSY MARIN GROUP

Health Collective Will Launch Telephone Service

By BARBARA HOSMER

The Marin Women's Health Collective, organized a year ago by a small group of Marin women, plans to initiate its telephone information service next week.

The collective is set up to educate women about the nature and costs of health services available to them, both in Marin and other parts of the Bay Area; to help women learn about their own physical processes so that they can become more intelligent medical and health care consumers, and to change attitudes toward health care for women among professionals where needed.

The collective began by last year surveying Marin County obstetrics and gynecology specialists and physicians in general practice to determine costs and services each offered regarding female medical procedures. It has followed up to obtain further information and plans to continue collecting and updating health and medical information for its files.

The telephone information system will be operated through the Marin Women's Switchboard.

THE HEALTH Collective also will present educational programs for women through films and discussions, with a series tentatively scheduled in San Rafael for May to assist women in evaluating medical care they receive and in asking questions about their care from health professionals.

It has a consumer orientation and plans to open dialogue with various Marin physicians about female patient care.

Originally, the founders were largely members of the Marin Chapter, National Organization for Women concerned with its task force on reproduction and its control, but they set up the Health Collective separately so that other women could join the collective. Currently the collective is made up of about 50 per cent NOW members and is expanding its action program to others in the community.

The collective also plans to collect on a continuing basis women's evaluations of their experiences with varying phases of health care in Marin on a confidential basis.

THE COLLECTIVE meets each second Thursday of the month in members' homes and has held one benefit by sponsoring a conversation evening with Gloria Steinem following the latter's College of Marin appearance last month. It is planning more benefit functions and also a film and discussion series for women about such subjects as self-help clinics, abortion, natural childbirth, breast and pelvic examinations and sexuality as a part of its program to educate women about their bodies.

On May 18 the Health Collective will co-sponsor with the College of Marin a showing of the Kate Millett film, "Three Lives," and the KQED short made in Marin of Miss Steinem's appearance. Proceeds will go to the Women's Health Collective.

The Marin Women's Health Collective, 14 Claus Circle, Fairfax, may be reached through the Women's Switchboard on weekdays, beginning Monday.

ON THE AGENDA

Champagne Reception To Honor Colonel Garrison At Hamilton

A champagne reception to honor Col. and Mrs. Vermont Garrison will be held from 7 to 8 p.m. Saturday at the Officers Club at Hamilton Air Force Base.

The reception will precede the annual Officers Wives Club spring formal, also at the Officers Club. Theme of the formal, a dinner dance, is Chinese New Year. The Ins, Outs For Fashion Accessories

Ins and outs of fashion accessories were defined by Women's Wear Daily.

Simple beads and pearls are in; masses of chains and charms are out. The clutch bag is in; bulky shoulder bags are out. Big clip-on earrings are in; earrings for pierced ears are out. One or two rings are in; rings worn on every finger are out.

Narrow belts with simple buckles are in; wide belts with low slung jeans are out. Clusters of plastic and wood bangle bracelets are in, and clusters of rhinestones are out. Ivory beads and bracelets are in; tortoise jewelry is out.

Full Slip Back For Day Wear

Lingerie trends show a return of the full slip for daytime wear, and the return of cotton blends and tricot for sleepwear, according to Women's Wear Daily.

In loungewear, caftans remain popular. Robes wrapped with a soft belt are in again, and robe and gown sets are featured for travel.

The soft, medium control bra, with stitched or seamless cups, fiberfill and underwired support is making a comeback.

Marin Women

The Edward Keppels Living In Arkansas

Mr. and Mrs. Edward E. Keppel (Lois Diane Short) are living in Fayetteville, Ark., following their marriage Feb. 3 at Marin Lutheran Church in Corte Madera.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dean F. Short of Corte Madera, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Erven Keppel of Rohnert Park.

Maid of honor was Donna Grewe of Ignacio and bridesmaids were the bride's sister, Anita Short of Corte Madera; the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Michael Wlodarczyk and Mrs. Michael Dunham of Stockton.

Jim DeJoria of Windsor was best man, and guests were ushered to their seats by Ron Peetz of San Francisco, Dean Short of San Rafael and Michael Wlodarczyk.

Lois is a graduate of Redwood High School and California Lutheran College. She is also the sister of Mrs. Gary Schulte of Fridley, Minn., and Dean S. Short of Taunton, Mass., is her grandfather.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Rohnert Park High School and Santa Rosa Junior College. He is in the Army. Mr. and Mrs. Albert G. Starz of Lake City, Minn., are his grandparents.

Blass Forecasts "Status Dressing"

"We are in a reactionary period, and it is reflected in the clothes we wear," designer Bill Blass told Women's Wear Daily.

"The men's wear industry is 30 years behind the times. It doesn't allow for changes in taste and is geared to a pre-World War II society."

Mary Pat Kinsey Will Wed

Mr. and Mrs. Eric C. Kinsey Jr. are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Mary Pat Kinsey of Novato, to Roy E. Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Grover Wilson of San Rafael.

Mary is the sister of Anne Kinsey and the granddaughter of Eric C. Kinsey of Ross. She was graduated from Marin Catholic High School and Dominican College. She is presently working toward an elementary teaching credential.

The future bridegroom was graduated from Terra Linda High School and attended Heald Engineering College. He is employed as an engineer at the Marin Municipal Water District in Corte Madera.

The couple plans to be married on June 2.

Cornhusker's Reunion Slated

University of Nebraska alumni's annual reunion and charter day banquet will be held Monday at the Blue Dolphin Restaurant in San Leandro.

Chancellor James H. Zumberge and alumni executive vice president Jack Miller will attend, and highlights of the Orange Bowl game will be shown.

Jill W. Vernon Betrothal Told

Mr. and Mrs. Willard Elliott Vernon of San Rafael announce the engagement of their daughter Jill Ward Vernon of San Jose to Dennis Kemp Prober, also of San Jose.

Holly Ward Vernon is the future bride's sister. She is the granddaughter of Mrs. Andrew E. Ward of San Rafael and Mrs. Bruce Vernon of San Marino. Jill was graduated from San Rafael High School and received the B.S. degree and teacher's credential from the University of California at Davis. She is a member of Prytanean and is employed by the San Jose Unified School District as a media library resource teacher.

JILL W. VERNON
July date set

Dennis is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Prober of Uplands and is the brother of Alan Prober of Azusa, Paul Prober of Santa Barbara and Gary Prober of Santa Maria. He is a graduate of Azusa High School and has a BS degree from California State Polytechnic College and an MS degree from Oregon State University. He is employed by Neil A. Maclean Co., Inc., in Milpitas as a quality control and production coordinator. The future bridegroom is a member of Beta Beta Beta, Gamma Sigma Delta and Alpha Zeta honorary societies.

The couple plans to be married July 7 in San Rafael.

Dan Granucci Will Wed Sherry Haas

Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Haas of Rohnert Park are announcing the engagement of their daughter Sherry to Dan Granucci, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tino Granucci Jr. of Novato.

Sherry is the sister of Bob and Ron Haas and Mrs. Curtiss D. Lewis of Rohnert Park. She is the grand-daughter of Mrs. Anne Haas of North Hollywood. She was graduated from Rancho Cotate High School and is employed at Storer Cable TV in Rohnert Park.

SHERRY HAAS
September wedding

Dan is the brother of Mrs. Ray Hill III of Petaluma and Mrs. Barry Beringer of Corte Madera. He is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Tino Granucci of San Francisco and Jack Mello of Mill Valley. The future bridegroom was graduated from Novato High School and attended College of Marin. He is employed at Volonte Motors in South San Francisco.

The couple plans a September wedding.

Nancy Jeanne Fairchild To Wed Norman Collins

Dr. and Mrs. Roy W. Fairchild of San Anselmo are announcing the engagement of their daughter Nancy Jeanne to Norman B. Collins of Glendale.

Nancy is the sister of Jan and Christie Fairchild. She is a graduate of Sir Francis Drake High School and College of Marin and attends California State Univeristy, San Jose.

Norman's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Collins of Glendale. He was graduated from Herbert Hoover High School in Glendale and also attends CSU, San Jose.

Water Polo Fans Can See The Best

If you're a water polo fan, you'll get a chance to see the best competition available when the Soviet Union's Olympic gold medal-winning team is in the Bay Area this weekend for a series of three games.

On Thursday, 3:30 p.m., the Russians will oppose the San Jose State College team second-place winner in the National Collegiate Athletic Association championships last year, at De Anza College in Cupertino.

Then on Friday, the Soviets will oppose the U.S. National team, 4 p.m., at Diablo Valley College in Pleasant Hill, followed by a rematch of those two teams Saturday, 1:30 p.m., at De Anza College.

Chuck Metz, who coaches water polo and swimming at Terra Linda High School, says about one-half of the U.S. National team competed in the Olympics at Munich. Chuck has more than a passing interest in water polo, since he's a member of the Pacific Association AAU water polo committee. He's hoping Marinites will head for the Peninsula to see the games. Tariff will be $2 for students and $3 for adults.

Dave Beronio, Vallejo Times-Herald sports editor who covered the Munich Olympics, wrote the other day: "We watched the Russians (in water polo) at Munich and came away impressed with their size. Every member of the team looked big enough to play pro football. They practiced firing shots at their goalie from 10 meters out, twice the distance practiced by U.S. water poloists."

It should be quite a water poloing time, rain and all.

SAN FRANCISCO 49ER superstar wide receiver Gene Washington will be at Good Vi's men's clothing store, 3200 Northgate Mall in Terra Linda, Saturday from noon to 2 p.m. He'll be there to sign autographs and talk to the kids — even the middle-aged ones — during that two-hour stint. And judging by the mod attire I've seen Gene wear, I know he'll feel comfortable in a clothing store.

IF THERE IS such a thing as spring training this baseball season, KTIM has plans for a Monday through Friday report. from Arizona training camps of the Giants and A's. Allan B. Murray, president of the Giants Boosters of Northern California, will be telephoning in reports from Phoenix about his Giants, and will be sneaking around the A's headquarters gathering information to relay back to Marin. The 5 p.m. reports, starting Feb. 26, will include interviews with Marin people and Giants and A's ball players, says station manager Bob Dinsmore.

MILT SCHWARTZ, the furniture tycoon, and Bill Nave Jr., the bowling man, were each trying to become the young Old Man of the Sea last week when they flew to Baja California for a fishing trip in pursuit of marlin and sailfish. They came back to Marin with beautiful tans, but no fish. You can't count those sharks and pelicans which went after their baits. "It was really something getting those pelicans off the hooks," laughed Schwartz.

$2 Million Hockey Sale Is Reported

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — The Milwaukee Sentinel reported Tuesday night a group of Milwaukeeans had purchased the Ottawa Nationals of the World Hockey Association for $2 million.

The newspaper quoted a spokesman for the purchasing group as saying, "The financing has been completed by local banking sources—the bank has made its commitment."

However, a WHA official in Minneapolis said he had spoken earlier in the day to Doug Michel, one of the team's co-owners and that Michel told him that the Nationals were not conducting negotiations to relocate the team.

"Michel said they would have an announcement in Ottawa on the status of the team prior to their next home game (Feb. 20)."

The spokesman for the purchasing group, apparently headed by realtor Marv Fishman who was instrumental in bringing the National Basketball Association Milwaukee Bucks franchise here, said the deal has been kept quiet because the group "did not want to blow the deal."

The spokesman told the newspaper the transfer and sale of the franchise "will not be announced until the end of the Nationals' current season."

On Monday it was reported the Milwaukee group was negotiating the purchase of the franchise for $1.5 million with a Monday midnight deadline for closing the deal. When the deadline passed it appeared the deal had fallen through.

It was widely known the Nationals were for sale. The club was averaging only about 2,000 in attendance this season, its first in the WHA.

Nixon Sends Frisch 'Get Well' Wishes

WILMINGTON, Del. (UPI) — Baseball Hall of Famer Frankie Frisch, in critical condition with injuries suffered in a Feb. 8 automobile accident, received "get well" wishes today from President Nixon.

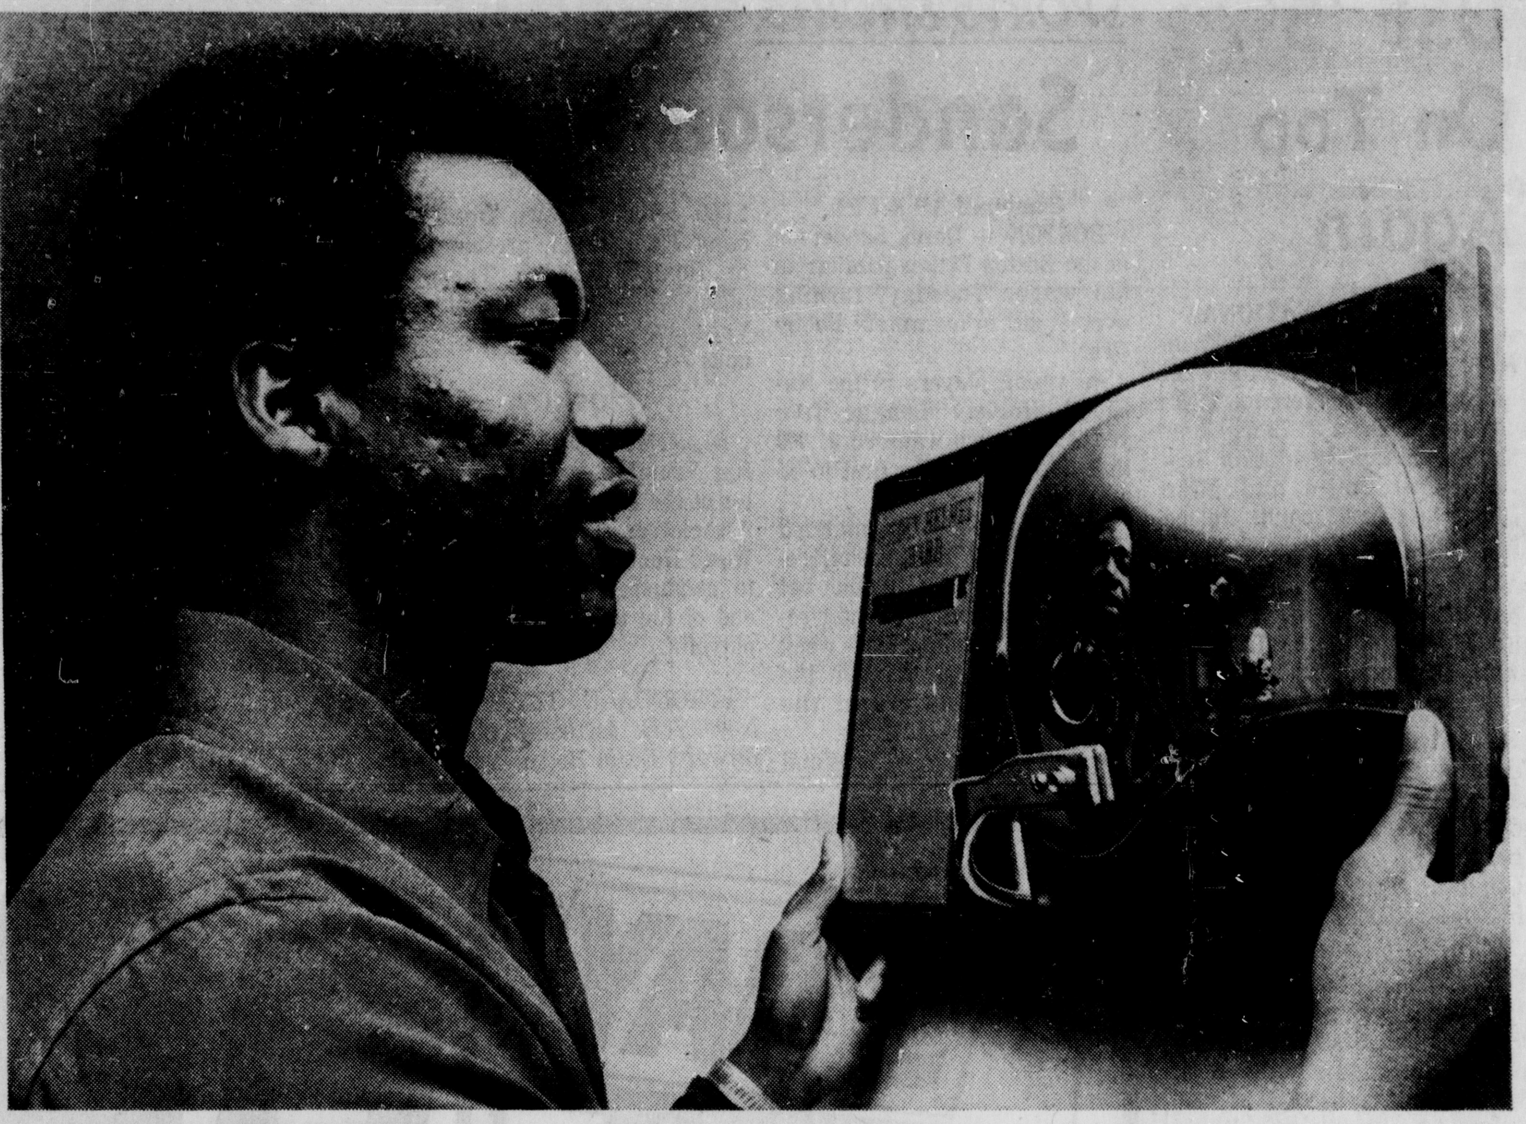
The 74-year-old Frisch is in the intensive care unit of the Wilmington Medical Center, where he is being treated for back and head injuries.

"I was sorry to hear of your injury," President Nixon wired. "It must be extremely uncomfortable for you. I am among your many friends hoping for your recovery and trust that you will be on your feet soon."

Frisch, player-manager of the 1934 "Gashouse Gang" St. Louis Cardinals, was supposed to undergo several tests Tuesday, but his weakened condition forced doctors to postpone them until he regains some of his strength.

Marin Academy Wins

Marin Academy of San Rafael concluded its first wrestling season with a 3-5 record by defeating Mt. Tamalpais School of Ross yesterday, 45-3, in a dual meet. "I'm pretty happy," said Marin Academy coach Corby Smith. "We were just starting the program off, and usually you lose them all, or close to it."



AN HONOR FOR HONOR — Former Tamalpais High and College of Marin star Honor Jackson, now a safety for the New England Patriots, is shown with a plaque awarded him last season by the New England area sports writers. He is now living in San Rafael.

SEEKING OFF-SEASON JOB

A Good Year For Jackson

By RON LENT

Honor W. Jackson Jr. has reached a critical point in his life.

The 24-year-old College of Marin product made a major transition in pro football in 1972 — from pass receiver to defensive back — but now he has one more to make.

After completing his first full season in the National Football League with New England as a strong safety, the 6-foot-2, 195-pound Jackson returned to Marin County to pursue a second career.

Speaking in the living room of his San Rafael apartment at 320 Channing Way, Jackson said: "I want to work in this area as a counselor to minorities. I came back here because this is my home . . . this is where my friends are. I have had the training and now I want to use it."

The Patriots' front office said it could arrange a counseling job with the Boy's Club in Boston, "but I didn't want it there; I wanted to come back to California."

Upon his return, the soft-spoken athlete discovered that he was virtually forgotten. "Nobody knew I was back." Undaunted, he began job-hunting but has nothing definite lined up yet. Nonetheless, the University of Pacific graduate is determined to obtain a position where he can utilize the knowledge gained from his Black Studies major and Sociology minor at UOP. Additionally, Jackson did community relations work in Stockton in 1971.

A Tamalpais High School graduate, Jackson is facing one more obstacle in his path toward a sociology career. "I've found that the jobs working with kids generally open up in the summer when school is out. In July, I'm in camp with the Patriots."

Regardless of his success in gaining a spot in counseling, Jackson is apparently secure in his role with New England. However, his pro football status was not always this solid.

Jackson reported to the Dallas Cowboys in 1971 as a ninth round draft choice. Jackson attempted to crack the talented, veteran-laden Dallas pass catching corps. "Coach (Tom) Landry told me I had the talent to make it, but I was a rookie and he wanted to go with the veterans."

So Jackson was traded on Aug. 1 with running back Duane Thomas and guard Halvor Hagen to New England for running back Carl Garrett and a 1972 draft choice, but Thomas walked out of the Patriots camp, and the deal was nullified.

John Mazur, then the Patriots coach, asked Jackson if he wanted to stay with the Patriots or return to the Cowboys. "I wasn't going to play in Dallas, so I told him I wanted to play here."

However, Jackson began the season on the taxi squad. He said he wanted to play but wasn't going to get that chance. "I had a talk with Upton Bell (Patriots' general manager at that time) and he told me to work on my concentration, because I had all the physical skills to be a defensive back.

"Up until then, I guess I was going around in a fog. I figured I would make it because I was a good athlete. But football is more than that. It is a job; you have to work at it, study films, and look for ways to improve."

Jackson apparently learned his lesson for he was selected as the Patriots' Most Improved Player in 1972. He intercepted four passes, recovered a fumble and did not allow a touchdown when playing strong safety.

He started the year as a reserve cornerback but was pressed into service when starting free safety Rickie Harris, Jackson's road roommate, was injured. Clarance Scott re-

Unanimous Victory For Lara

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Rogelio Lara of Mexico scored a unanimous 10-round decision over Yoshio Kajimoto of Japan Tuesday night in the feature bout of a card fought for relief of the Nicaraguan earthquake victims.

Lara, 117, was floored in the fifth round by Kajimoto, 117 ¾, but used a superior left hand to pile up the points and win the unanimous nod. Lara is rated fifth on the WBC list of bantamweight contenders and ninth on the WBA list.

The gross gate of $16,136 was contributed by 2,820 fans.

In two other 10-rounders, flyweight contender Famosito Gomez, 115 ¾, outpointed Hiro Hamada, 114 ½, Japan on a unanimous decision and Alberto Reyes, 129, took the decision over El Costenito Rodriguez, 18, of Mexicali.

Gomez tired in the later rounds, but his early lead stood up.

Reyes, the state featherweight champ, broke a two-bout losing streak by winning handily with superior infighting.

Bryant 'Pupil' Becomes Coach At Vanderbilt

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Georgia Tech offensive coordinator Steve Sloan, who learned his football from Paul "Bear" Bryant of Alabama was named today to lead Vanderbilt's football program out of the doldrums.

The announcement was made by Athletic Director Clay Stapleton who only last week was hired to administer the entire Vanderbilt athletic program.

Sloan replaces Bill Pace who compiled a six-year mark as head coach of 22-38-3.

USE OF EPHEDRINE BACKED BY DOCTORS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The American Academy of Allergy unanimously approved a resolution Tuesday that athletes suffering from asthma should be allowed to take ephedrine treatments without disqualification.

The resolution approved by 2,000 physicians who specialize in allergies said ephedrine does not improve the athlete's endurance, but only permits an asthmatic athlete to compete on a fair and equal basis with non-asthmatics.

At the Olympics in Munich, Rick DeMont, 16, of Terra Linda, was stripped of his gold medal for winning the 400-meter freestyle swim when a post-race analysis showed that he had taken ephedrine before the race.

DeMont, who is asthmatic and had been taking the drug for years, was also barred from other competition for the U.S. swimming team.

Record, Fight Mark Rancho Cage Victory

By PAUL DWORIN

Marshall Brant scored 33 points to break the school record and lead Rancho Cotate High School to a melee-shortened 77-66 Sonoma County League basketball victory over Sonoma High before 1,000 roaring fans in Rohnert Park last night.

With six seconds left, Brant was driving toward the basket when he was hit in the stomach by Sonoma's Bill Cooper. Brant reacted by swinging at Cooper and spectators from both stands spilled onto the floor for a fight. When the fans and players were finally cleared, the referees called the game.

"I went up for the jump shot and he came in and hit me in the stomach," said Brant after the game.

The victory, which avenged an early-season 66-55 loss to the Dragons, improved the Cougars' record to 4-5 in SCL play. It also eliminated Sonoma from the league race.

The Cougars, who played perhaps their finest game of the year, led from the outset and built their lead up to 19 points with two minutes to play in the first half.

The final margin of victory did not really reflect Rancho Cotate's complete dominance, as Sonoma never got closer than nine points behind after the first few minutes of play.

"It was a helluva game," Cougar coach Mike Francis commented, though visibly upset by the fight a few moments earlier. "When we run like that, we do well. I enjoyed watching the game."

Brant, who was 13 for 17 from the floor, broke the previous school record of 32 points set by Steve Wlodarczyk last year. "It means something," he said about the record, "but not a heckuva lot. I couldn't do it by myself. The team kept on feeding it to me."

Barry Comes Through

CLEVELAND (UPI) — The Golden State Warriors needed a big game from Rick Barry, and they got it.

The Warriors were leading the Cavaliers 33-29 at Cleveland Tuesday night when Barry bombed in four straight shots. Coach Al Attles pulled his blond star out of action to give him a rest and Cleveland promptly closed in to within four points again.

Attles put Barry back in again and he ignited the drive that opened up the game again and led the Warriors to a 103-90 win over the Cavs.

Barry hit 16 of 29 from the field and wound up with 36 points. Jeff Mullins added 21 and Nate Thurmond did his thing by grabbing 19 rebounds.

Cleveland coach Bill Fitch, who threw a chair in a fit of temper Sunday night, was fined $1,000 by NBA Commissioner Walter Kennedy Tuesday and was more or less a model of decorum through the contest.

The Warriors, who have won four of their last five, now return home and will learn quickly if their recent improvement is genuine. They'll host Baltimore Thursday night and the Bullets are currently one of the NBA's hottest.

SCHNELLENBERGER

Colts Name New Coach

Joe Thomas, the wheelingdealing general manager of the Colts who has been trading away players in wholesale lots, named Schnellenberger to succeed John Sandusky.

This is the third coaching change for the Colts in less than a year. Don McCafferty, now head coach of the Detroit Lions, started the 1972 National Football League season as Baltimore mentor and was succeeded by Sandusky before the campaign ended.

"I decided I wanted Howard right after I got rid of the other coaches, but I had to wait until the Super Bowl was over, Thomas said. "If you want a good man, you have to wait for him."

Schnellenberger said the things he and Don Shula did in the last three years at Miami "will have a great deal to do with what I accomplish with the Colts, but the team will not look like Miami, it will look like the new Baltimore Colts."

Schnellenberger said he would immediately begin a search for a team of assistant coaches, saying he would talk to applicants from both the pro and college ranks. Specifics of his "long term contract" were not disclosed. The new coach said Shula "was just elated" when the Miami coach learned of his former assistant's promotion.

Two other Miami coaches considered for the Colts job said earlier this week they were eliminated from Thomas' list.

Bill Arnsparger, Dolphins' defensive coordinator and defensive line coach under Don Shula at Baltimore, said he will remain in Miami.

"I'm out of the picture," said Monte Clark, Miami's offensive line coach, who said he talked with Thomas over the weekend.

Schnellenberger, 38, has the background Thomas has been seeking.

He gave up a chance to play with the Redskins in 1956 and went with the Hamilton Tiger Cats in the Canadian League.

In 1959, he headed for the college coaching ranks at alma mater Kentucky under Shula.

In 1961, Schnellenberger joined Bear Bryant at Alabama, and was offensive coach of the 1964 and 1965 national champions.

The next season, Schnellenberger began pro coaching as an assistant at Los Angeles under George Allen, and then rejoined Shula at Miami in 1970.

He's been with winners all the way and that's what Thomas wants.

Baseball Clinic Set In Novato

Three professional baseball players, including two former Novato High School stars, will help the Novato Parks and Recreation Department conduct a one-day baseball clinic for boys and girls aged 9-12 on Sunday, March 4, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at Marion School, 1705 Marion Avenue.

On hand will be John Dolinsek of the Houston Astros' chain and Tom Corder of the Los Angeles Dodgers' chain, both Novato High graduates, and Rolf Dick a player-caoch from the Minnesota Twins' chain.

The clinic will include instruction in batting, fielding, strategy and how to play each position, and will conclude with an intrasquad game. Registration can be made prior to the clinic at the Parks and Recreation Department office, Sherman and DeLong Avenues, or at the clinic from 9:30-10 a.m. on March 4. Fee is $3.

Baseball Shouting Is Louder

NEW YORK (UPI) — The shouting gets louder; the parties get farther apart; the fans get more fed up, and baseball's black eye gets more pronounced as each day passes.

Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn became the latest figure to plunge into a public shouting match between baseball's warring parties Tuesday when he denounced Marvin Miller, Executive Director of the Players Association for a "deliberate effort to create confusion over the status of the current negotiations."

Kuhn, responding to Miller's charges on Monday that the owners have threatened an illegal lockout of sping training, said that "no decision has been made by the clubs as to whether or not spring training should be opened March 1."

Last week, American League President Joe Cronin and National League President Chub Feeney ordered a shutdown of all spring training facilities until March 1, the official start of baseball's "preseason." Should that date pass and the deadlock still not be resolved, Miller claims the owners will be guilty of a "lockout" under the Taft-Hartley Law.

"Both the players and the clubs have from time to time had to ask for recesses while they sought to adjust their positions," Kuhn said in soft-peddling any likelihood of a shutdown of spring training after the March 1 date.

Hendrick Signs A's Contract

OAKLAND (UPI) — The signing of outfielder George Hendrick gives the Oakland Athletics 17 players under contract for 1973.

That leaves 19 more to go before everybody has checked in for the season.

Hendrick hit .273 at Iowa and .182 in 58 games for the A's last season, but on May 28 and 29, Hendrick hit game-winning homers.

The 195-pound Los Angeles native is considered a prime candidate for a starting outfield job this season.

Programs That Always Depict Shoplifters As Women Rapped

DEAR HELEN:

I'm much in favor of the current local commercials that warn against shoplifting, but why is it that on radio and television, the shoplifter is always female? My dad says this is because she almost always is, but I disagree. Boys and men go into stores too —and come out secretly loaded.

Maybe a few public service ad people will read this and tell their writers about discrimination. — LET'S PLAY FAIR

DEAR LET'S:

What do you bet they've already been told — and the change will come sooner than you think? If women can spot discrimination in first-grade readers (fathers and boys, brave strong leaders; mothers and girls, helpless followers), they'll surely demand equal time to name men shoplifters. Let m know if I'm right. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Ifeel like my husband and I are headed for divorce. He treats me very bad. He pulls off my wig when we have a fight. He won't let me go into the bathroom alone when we're arguing, just blocks my way so we'll keep on fighting.

He doesn't like my family, and my mother says marriage is ruining my health. He's very jealous, too. He doesn't want me to get a job, and he won't let me go to Mexico for a vacation (alone). On his days off I get very bored with him, as he's very passive except when mad. So-o-o?

I have a couple of careers I'd like to know more about: nude photography modeling, and massaging. I know a girl who makes good money at both and she says it doesn't take much training or effort, and I wouldn't have any trouble breaking into the field. Is she right? — ABOUT TO LEAVE HIM

DEAR ATLH:

I suspect the trouble would come after you break into the field. A nude modeling-plus-massage job that "doesn't take much training" might require considerable later "effort," not the least of which is staying out of jail!

Maybe your husband has a right to be jealous. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I'm surprised at the findings of the teen hot line manager who said his anonymous telephone service gets more distraught calls during a new moon.

I work in an expensive department store and our usual customers are pleasant, but they are strange sometimes — when the moon is full!

This is when we get people returning two-year-old coats "only worn a bit," or maternity dresses, after the baby has arrived.

Saturday nights when the moon is full are the worst. During the last full moon weekend, an entire family of six, from Grandma on down, spent two hours in my department scrounging through the coats, tossing them on the floor, etc. Finally the mother complained that our selection was lousy (we have 2,000 coats!) and she was very disappointed in the store.

Come to think of it, I didn't consider suicide but contemplated murder as I spent the next 45 minutes picking up after them. — SALESCLERK

DEAR HELEN:

My husband (now ex) told me it was all my fault that our love life was so poor. Like a fool, I believed him, took all the blame and began to think I was hopeless. After the divorce, I met his former wife, now happily married, and we became friends. It finally came out that she too lost her self-confidence because of this man's constant criticisms. (Neither of us had been very experienced.)

Only when she was married again and to a real man, did she realize she wasn't the one with the problem. This is to let other "blamed wives" know that sometimes they're called frigid because their husbands won't admit —or don't understand — their own shortcomings. — NO LONGER AFRAID

NBA ROUNDUP

Celts' Defense Beats Chicago

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The name "Boston Celtics" is, to most National Basketball Association fans, synonymous with defense and fastbreak. Last night's victory over the Chicago Bulls is a good example why.

Led by the run and gun offense of John Havlicek, who rolled up 31 points, and the rugged play of center Dave Cowens, who added 25 points, the Celts downed the Bulls 105-101 in Chicago.

But the most significant aspect of the game was the defensive job Boston's Paul Silas did on Chicago's All-Star forward Bob Love. Love came into the game riding the crest of the hottest scoring spree in the league.

In his last three outings, Love has scored 49 against Milwaukee, 49 against Kansas City - Omaha and 44 against Cleveland. That's 142 points in three games. For some people that's a whole season.

But last night's story was different and Love was reduced to mere mortal dimensions by Silas and Cowens and Boston's stiff, give-no-easy-shot defense. Love's scoring' line read six field goals, two of three from the foul line and just 14 points.

And that, more than Havlicek or Cowen's scoring or the fact that they each dropped two free throws in the final 58 seconds to break a tie, is why Chicago lost.

Jo Jo White contributed 18 points to the Celtics' cause, while Silas chipped in with 15. Jerry Sloan paced Chicago with 20 points and Chet Walker and Norm Van Lier each had 19.

The victory increased Boston's Atlantic Division lead over the idle New York Knicks to 1 ½ games and kept the Celtics on top in the league percentage race with 46 wins and 12 losses.

In other NBA action Tuesday night, Milwaukee beat Detroit 110-96, Golden State downed Cleveland 103-90, Los Angeles edged Seattle 101-98, Kansas City-Omaha walloped Houston 132-118 and Portland bombed Buffalo 120-100.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and Bob Dandridge each scored 28 points to lead the Bucks over the Pistons and help Milwaukee take advantage of Chicago's loss to move six games out in the Midwest Division race.

Nate Archibald showed once again why he is a leading candidate for Most Valuable Player honors as he contributed a whopping 49-point effort to lead the Kings over the Rockets. The Kings frittered away most of a 20-point lead before reeling off 10 straight points late in the fourth quarter to secure the victory.

USF '5' On Top Again

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The University of San Francisco moved back atop the West Coast Athletic Conference Tuesday night with a 93-72 win over St. Mary's that saw Kevin Restani, Phil Smith and Mike Quick toss in 22 points apiece for the Dons.

That left the Dons at 8-1 while Santa Clara, second at 71, can knot things up again Thursday with a win against Seattle.

Meanwhile, latest Pacific Eight scoring figures showed a shuffle in the top point-makers, especially since Doug Little of Oregon was held to just two points by California's John Coughran last Saturday in a fine defensive display.

The new leader is Mike Dolven of Washington State, with a 19.9 point per game average through the first half of the campaign. Louie Nelson of Washington is second at 18.6 followed by Ray Price of Washington (18.4), Clint Chapman of USC (18.0), Ron Lee of Oregon (17.7), Bill Walton of UCLA (17.0) and Little at 16.7.

In other coast basketball contests Tuesday, two small school powerhouses collided and UC Riverside, now 18-3, downed UC Irvine 69-54. The losers are 15-11 for the campaign.

Salvino Leads Money Winners

AKRON, Ohio (UPI) — Carmen Salvino of Chicago has taken the lead in the Professional Bowlers Association money-winning standings.

Salvino won $10,000 in last weekend's Lincoln-Mercury Open in New Orleans to boost his earnings after six tournaments to $21,225.

Previous leader Barry Asher of Costa Mesa, Calif., won only $325 in the New Orleans tourney and slipped to second place with $19,861. Don Johnson of Akron is third with $14,928.

The PBA tour stop this weekend is the $60,000 Fair Lanes Open in Baltimore.

Sanderson Pays Off His Wager

Combined AP & UPI

BOSTON — Derek Sanderson of the Boston Bruins paid off an old wager Tuesday, turning over $1,000 to teammate Bobby Orr.

As young players in the National Hockey League five years ago, each wagered $1,000 that he would be the first to be married.

Orr, engaged to be married at the end of the season, reminded Sanderson of the bet when the flamboyant center rejoined the Bruins last week after a brief tour with the Philadelphia Blazers of the World Hockey Association.

Sanderson had 990 $1 bills and 1,000 pennies drawn from the bank. He made the presentation at Boston Garden Tuesday night, where the Bruins played Vancouver, beating the Canucks 7-3.

Water Polo Fans Can See The Best

If you're a water polo fan, you'll get a chance to see the best competition available when the Soviet Union's Olympic gold medal-winning team is in the Bay Area this weekend for a series of three games.

On Thursday, 3:30 p.m., the Russians will oppose the San Jose State College team second-place winner in the National Collegiate Athletic Association championships last year, at De Anza College in Cupertino.

Then on Friday, the Soviets will oppose the U.S. National team, 4 p.m., at Diablo Valley College in Pleasant Hill, followed by a rematch of those two teams Saturday, 1:30 p.m., at De Anza College.

Chuck Metz, who coaches water polo and swimming at Terra Linda High School, says about one-half of the U.S. National team competed in the Olympics at Munich. Chuck has more than a passing interest in water polo, since he's a member of the Pacific Association AAU water polo committee. He's hoping Marinites will head for the Peninsula to see the games. Tariff will be $2 for students and $3 for adults.

Dave Beronio, Vallejo Times-Herald sports editor who covered the Munich Olympics, wrote the other day: "We watched the Russians (in water polo) at Munich and came away impressed with their size. Every member of the team looked big enough to play pro football. They practiced firing shots at their goalie from 10 meters out, twice the distance practiced by U.S. water poloists."

It should be quite a water poloing time, rain and all.

SAN FRANCISCO 49ER superstar wide receiver Gene Washington will be at Good Vi's men's clothing store, 3200 Northgate Mall in Terra Linda, Saturday from noon to 2 p.m. He'll be there to sign autographs and talk to the kids — even the middle-aged ones — during that two-hour stint. And judging by the mod attire I've seen Gene wear, I know he'll feel comfortable in a clothing store.

IF THERE IS such a thing as spring training this baseball season, KTIM has plans for a Monday through Friday report. from Arizona training camps of the Giants and A's. Allan B. Murray, president of the Giants Boosters of Northern California, will be telephoning in reports from Phoenix about his Giants, and will be sneaking around the A's headquarters gathering information to relay back to Marin. The 5 p.m. reports, starting Feb. 26, will include interviews with Marin people and Giants and A's ball players, says station manager Bob Dinsmore.

MILT SCHWARTZ, the furniture tycoon, and Bill Nave Jr., the bowling man, were each trying to become the young Old Man of the Sea last week when they flew to Baja California for a fishing trip in pursuit of marlin and sailfish. They came back to Marin with beautiful tans, but no fish. You can't count those sharks and pelicans which went after their baits. "It was really something getting those pelicans off the hooks," laughed Schwartz.

AN HONOR FOR HONOR — Former Tamalpais High and College of Marin star Honor Jackson, now a safety for the New England Patriots, is shown with a plaque awarded him last season by the New England area sports writers. He is now living in San Rafael.

SEEKING OFF-SEASON JOB

A Good Year For Jackson

By RON LENT

Honor W. Jackson Jr. has reached a critical point in his life.

The 24-year-old College of Marin product made a major transition in pro football in 1972 — from pass receiver to defensive back — but now he has one more to make.

After completing his first full season in the National Football League with New England as a strong safety, the 6-foot-2, 195-pound Jackson returned to Marin County to pursue a second career.

Speaking in the living room of his San Rafael apartment at 320 Channing Way, Jackson said: "I want to work in this area as a counselor to minorities. I came back here because this is my home . . . this is where my friends are. I have had the training and now I want to use it."

The Patriots' front office said it could arrange a counseling job with the Boy's Club in Boston, "but I didn't want it there; I wanted to come back to California."

Upon his return, the soft-spoken athlete discovered that he was virtually forgotten. "Nobody knew I was back." Undaunted, he began job-hunting but has nothing definite lined up yet. Nonetheless, the University of Pacific graduate is determined to obtain a position where he can utilize the knowledge gained from his Black Studies major and Sociology minor at UOP. Additionally, Jackson did community relations work in Stockton in 1971.

A Tamalpais High School graduate, Jackson is facing one more obstacle in his path toward a sociology career. "I've found that the jobs working with kids generally open up in the summer when school is out. In July, I'm in camp with the Patriots."

Regardless of his success in gaining a spot in counseling, Jackson is apparently secure in his role with New England. However, his pro football status was not always this solid.

Jackson reported to the Dallas Cowboys in 1971 as a ninth round draft choice. Jackson attempted to crack the talented, veteran-laden Dallas pass catching corps. "Coach (Tom) Landry told me I had the talent to make it, but I was a rookie and he wanted to go with the veterans."

So Jackson was traded on Aug. 1 with running back Duane Thomas and guard Halvor Hagen to New England for running back Carl Garrett and a 1972 draft choice, but Thomas walked out of the Patriots camp, and the deal was nullified.

John Mazur, then the Patriots coach, asked Jackson if he wanted to stay with the Patriots or return to the Cowboys. "I wasn't going to play in Dallas, so I told him I wanted to play here."

However, Jackson began the season on the taxi squad. He said he wanted to play but wasn't going to get that chance. "I had a talk with Upton Bell (Patriots' general manager at that time) and he told me to work on my concentration, because I had all the physical skills to be a defensive back.

"Up until then, I guess I was going around in a fog. I figured I would make it because I was a good athlete. But football is more than that. It is a job; you have to work at it, study films, and look for ways to improve."

Jackson apparently learned his lesson for he was selected as the Patriots' Most Improved Player in 1972. He intercepted four passes, recovered a fumble and did not allow a touchdown when playing strong safety.

He started the year as a reserve cornerback but was pressed into service when starting free safety Rickie Harris, Jackson's road roommate, was injured. Clarance Scott re-

SCHNELLENBERGER

Colts Name New Coach

Joe Thomas, the wheelingdealing general manager of the Colts who has been trading away players in wholesale lots, named Schnellenberger to succeed John Sandusky.

This is the third coaching change for the Colts in less than a year. Don McCafferty, now head coach of the Detroit Lions, started the 1972 National Football League season as Baltimore mentor and was succeeded by Sandusky before the campaign ended.

"I decided I wanted Howard right after I got rid of the other coaches, but I had to wait until the Super Bowl was over, Thomas said. "If you want a good man, you have to wait for him."

Schnellenberger said the things he and Don Shula did in the last three years at Miami "will have a great deal to do with what I accomplish with the Colts, but the team will not look like Miami, it will look like the new Baltimore Colts."

Schnellenberger said he would immediately begin a search for a team of assistant coaches, saying he would talk to applicants from both the pro and college ranks. Specifics of his "long term contract" were not disclosed. The new coach said Shula "was just elated" when the Miami coach learned of his former assistant's promotion.

Two other Miami coaches considered for the Colts job said earlier this week they were eliminated from Thomas' list.

Bill Arnsparger, Dolphins' defensive coordinator and defensive line coach under Don Shula at Baltimore, said he will remain in Miami.

"I'm out of the picture," said Monte Clark, Miami's offensive line coach, who said he talked with Thomas over the weekend.

Schnellenberger, 38, has the background Thomas has been seeking.

He gave up a chance to play with the Redskins in 1956 and went with the Hamilton Tiger Cats in the Canadian League.

In 1959, he headed for the college coaching ranks at alma mater Kentucky under Shula.

The next season, Schnellenberger began pro coaching as an assistant at Los Angeles under George Allen, and then rejoined Shula at Miami in 1970.

He's been with winners all the way and that's what Thomas wants.

Baseball Shouting Is Louder

NEW YORK (UPI) — The shouting gets louder; the parties get farther apart; the fans get more fed up, and baseball's black eye gets more pronounced as each day passes.

Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn became the latest figure to plunge into a public shouting match between baseball's warring parties Tuesday when he denounced Marvin Miller, Executive Director of the Players Association for a "deliberate effort to create confusion over the status of the current negotiations."

Kuhn, responding to Miller's charges on Monday that the owners have threatened an illegal lockout of sping training, said that "no decision has been made by the clubs as to whether or not spring training should be opened March 1."

Last week, American League President Joe Cronin and National League President Chub Feeney ordered a shutdown of all spring training facilities until March 1, the official start of baseball's "preseason." Should that date pass and the deadlock still not be resolved, Miller claims the owners will be guilty of a "lockout" under the Taft-Hartley Law.

"Both the players and the clubs have from time to time had to ask for recesses while they sought to adjust their positions," Kuhn said in soft-pedding any likelihood of a shutdown of spring training after the March 1 date.

$2 Million Hockey Sale Is Reported

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — The Milwaukee Sentinel reported Tuesday night a group of Milwaukeeans had purchased the Ottawa Nationals of the World Hockey Association for $2 million.

The newspaper quoted a spokesman for the purchasing group as saying, "The financing has been completed by local banking sources—the bank has made its commitment."

However, a WHA official in Minneapolis said he had spoken earlier in the day to Doug Michel, one of the team's co-owners and that Michel told him that the Nationals were not conducting negotiations to relocate the team.

"Michel said they would have an announcement in Ottawa on the status of the team prior to their next home game (Feb. 20)."

The spokesman for the purchasing group, apparently headed by realtor Marv Fishman who was instrumental in bringing the National Basketball Association Milwaukee Bucks franchise here, said the deal has been kept quiet because the group "did not want to blow the deal."

The spokesman told the newspaper the transfer and sale of the franchise "will not be announced until the end of the Nationals' current season."

On Monday it was reported the Milwaukee group was negotiating the purchase of the franchise for $1.5 million with a Monday midnight deadline for closing the deal. When the deadline passed it appeared the deal had fallen through.

It was widely known the Nationals were for sale. The club was averaging only about 2,000 in attendance this season, its first in the WHA.

Nixon Sends Frisch 'Get Well' Wishes

WILMINGTON, Del. (UPI) — Baseball Hall of Famer Frankie Frisch, in critical condition with injuries suffered in a Feb. 8 automobile accident, received "get well" wishes today from President Nixon.

The 74-year-old Frisch is in the intensive care unit of the Wilmington Medical Center, where he is being treated for back and head injuries.

"I was sorry to hear of your injury," President Nixon wired. "It must be extremely uncomfortable for you. I am among your many friends hoping for your recovery and trust that you will be on your feet soon."

Frisch, player-manager of the 1934 "Gashouse Gang" St. Louis Cardinals, was supposed to undergo several tests Tuesday, but his weakened condition forced doctors to postpone them until he regains some of his strength.

Marin Academy Wins

Marin Academy of San Rafael concluded its first wrestling season with a 3-5 record by defeating Mt. Tamalpais School of Ross yesterday, 45-3, in a dual meet. "I'm pretty happy," said Marin Academy coach Corby Smith. "We were just starting the program off, and usually you lose them all, or close to it."

Unanimous Victory For Lara

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Rogelio Lara of Mexico scored a unanimous 10-round decision over Yoshio Kajimoto of Japan Tuesday night in the feature bout of a card fought for relief of the Nicaraguan earthquake victims.

Lara, 117, was floored in the fifth round by Kajimoto, 117 ¾, but used a superior left hand to pile up the points and win the unanimous nod. Lara is rated fifth on the WBC list of bantamweight contenders and ninth on the WBA list.

The gross gate of $16,136 was contributed by 2,820 fans.

In two other 10-rounders, flyweight contender Famosito Gomez, 115 ¾, outpointed Hiro Hamada, 114 ½, Japan on a unanimous decision and Alberto Reyes, 129, took the decision over El Costenito Rodriguez, 18, of Mexicali.

Gomez tired in the later rounds, but his early lead stood up.

Bryant 'Pupil' Becomes Coach At Vanderbilt

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Georgia Tech offensive coordinator Steve Sloan, who learned his football from Paul "Bear" Bryant of Alabama was named today to lead Vanderbilt's football program out of the doldrums.

The announcement was made by Athletic Director Clay Stapleton who only last week was hired to administer the entire Vanderbilt athletic program.

Sloan replaces Bill Pace who compiled a six-year mark as head coach of 22-38-3.

USE OF EPHEDRINE BACKED BY DOCTORS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The American Academy of Allergy unanimously approved a resolution Tuesday that athletes suffering from asthma should be allowed to take ephedrine treatments without disqualification.

The resolution approved by 2,000 physicians who specialize in allergies said ephedrine does not improve the athlete's endurance, but only permits an asthmatic athlete to compete on a fair and equal basis with non-asthmatics.

At the Olympics in Munich, Rick DeMont, 16, of Terra Linda, was stripped of his gold medal for winning the 400-meter freestyle swim when a post-race analysis showed that he had taken ephedrine before the race.

DeMont, who is asthmatic and had been taking the drug for years, was also barred from other competition for the U.S. swimming team.

Record, Fight Mark Rancho Cage Victory

By PAUL DWORIN

Marshall Brant scored 33 points to break the school record and lead Rancho Cotate High School to a melee-shortened 77-66 Sonoma County League basketball victory over Sonoma High before 1,000 roaring fans in Rohnert Park last night.

With six seconds left, Brant was driving toward the basket when he was hit in the stomach by Sonoma's Bill Cooper. Brant reacted by swinging at Cooper and spectators from both stands spilled onto the floor for a fight. When the fans and players were finally cleared, the referees called the game.

"I went up for the jump shot and he came in and hit me in the stomach," said Brant after the game.

The victory, which avenged an early-season 66-55 loss to the Dragons, improved the Cougars' record to 4-5 in SCL play. It also eliminated Sonoma from the league race.

The Cougars, who played perhaps their finest game of the year, led from the outset and built their lead up to 19 points with two minutes to play in the first half.

The final margin of victory did not really reflect Rancho Cotate's complete dominance, as Sonoma never got closer than nine points behind after the first few minutes of play.

"It was a helluva game," Cougar coach Mike Francis commented, though visibly upset by the fight a few moments earlier. "When we run like that, we do well. I enjoyed watching the game."

Brant, who was 13 for 17 from the floor, broke the previous school record of 32 points set by Steve Wlodarczyk last year. "It means something," he said about the record, "but not a heckuva lot. I couldn't do it by myself. The team kept on feeding it to me."

Barry Comes Through

CLEVELAND (UPI) — The Golden State Warriors needed a big game from Rick Barry, and they got it.

The Warriors were leading the Cavaliers 33-29 at Cleveland Tuesday night when Barry bombed in four straight shots. Coach Al Attles pulled his blond star out of action to give him a rest and Cleveland promptly closed in to within four points again.

Attles put Barry back in again and he ignited the drive that opened up the game again and led the Warriors to a 103-90 win over the Cavs.

Barry hit 16 of 29 from the field and wound up with 36 points. Jeff Mullins added 21 and Nate Thurmond did his thing by grabbing 19 rebounds.

Cleveland coach Bill Fitch, who threw a chair in a fit of temper Sunday night, was fined $1,000 by NBA Commissioner Walter Kennedy Tuesday and was more or less a model of decorum through the contest.

The Warriors, who have won four of their last five, now return home and will learn quickly if their recent improvement is genuine. They'll host Baltimore Thursday night and the Bullets are currently one of the NBA's hottest.

Babe Ruth Signups

Signups for the Central Marin Babe Ruth baseball league will be held Saturday, Feb. 24, at noon at the Redwood High School gymnasium in Larkspur. Boys aged 13-15 are eligible, and the fee is $17. Boys should be accompanied by a parent or guardian, and proof of age is required.

Baseball Clinic Set In Novato

Three professional baseball players, including two former Novato High School stars, will help the Novato Parks and Recreation Department conduct a one-day baseball clinic for boys and girls aged 9-12 on Sunday, March 4, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at Marion School, 1705 Marion Avenue.

On hand will be John Dolinsek of the Houston Astros' chain and Tom Corder of the Los Angeles Dodgers' chain, both Novato High graduates, and Rolf Dick a player-caoch from the Minnesota Twins' chain.

The clinic will include instruction in batting, fielding, strategy and how to play each position, and will conclude with an intrasquad game. Registration can be made prior to the clinic at the Parks and Recreation Department office, Sherman and DeLong Avenues, or at the clinic from 9:30-10 a.m. on March 4. Fee is $3.

Hendrick Signs A's Contract

OAKLAND (UPI) — The signing of outfielder George Hendrick gives the Oakland Athletics 17 players under contract for 1973.

That leaves 19 more to go before everybody has checked in for the season.

Hendrick hit .273 at Iowa and .182 in 58 games for the A's last season, but on May 28 and 29, Hendrick hit game-winning homers.

Second-Half Barrage Wrecks Petaluma '5'

SANTA ROSA — Petaluma High School fell victim to a 52-point second half barrage by Montgomery High last night to lose a 77-39 North Bay League basketball game.

The defeat dropped the Trojans into last place in the NBL with a 2-9 mark, eight games behind front-running Vallejo. Montgomery kept its slim title hopes alive with the victory to post a 7-4 record.

The Trojans were behind by just seven at halftime, 25-18, but early in the third quarter Montgomery started to fast break and ran away with the game. "We just couldn't contain their break," commented Petaluma coach Mark Reischling after the game.

Petaluma, which shot only 30 per cent from the floor for the game, had trouble penetrating the Viking zone in the second half. The Trojans also had a little trouble at the free-throw line, missing seven straight one-on-one situations.

The Vikings, who shot a blistering 60 per cent in the second half and 50 per cent for the game, was led by Tom Buzzard with 19 points. Dan Aldridge led Petaluma with nine points.

Petaluma	10	8	9	12 — 39

Bruins Win 4th Straight Under New Head Coach

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

With his words, as well as his deeds, Armand (Bep) Guidolin gives a good indication of why he was hired recently as coach of the Boston Bruins.

In four games since he replaced Tom Johnson, Guidolin has guided the defending Stanley Cup champions to four wins. The latest was a 7-3 workout over the Vancouver Canucks Tuesday night.

"We got four quick goals in the first period, but then we relaxed," Guidolin said, perhaps with the intent of keeping his players from getting too self content. "The guys are trying to get too cute, they're too busy setting up a play when they should be shooting. You can't do that. There are clubs that can hurt you. They're not going anywhere but they can hurt somebody."

Nevertheless, the victory enabled third-place Boston to close within six points of the second-place New York Rangers, who were idle, in the National Hockey League's East Division.

In the only other two games Tuesday night, the Philadelphia Flyers overcame a two-goal deficit to club the New York Islanders, 8-2, and the St. Louis Blues beat the los Angeles Kings, 4-2.

Rookie Ross Brooks was in the Boston net, and he is now unbeaten in all eight of his starts with five victories and three ties.

Rick MacLeish scored four goals for Philadelphia, including three within a span of 6:55 during the second period to set a club record for the fastest hat trick.

Gymnastics Meet Set For Drake

Some 200 high school girls from Marin will compete in the Marin County Athletic League Optional Gymnastics Championships Saturday at Drake High School in San Anselmo, beginning at 9 a.m.

The field will be substantially the same one which vied in the MCAL compulsory meet Jan. 6, according to optional meet director Anne Scott of Drake. A compulsory meet involves doing specified exercises, while the more difficult optional meet permits gymnasts to create their own routines.

The combined scores of the top three finishers in each class will count toward the determination of the MCAL pennant-winner.

As in the compulsory meet, there will be entrants in the novice, beginner, intermediate school and intermediate open classes, but not in the advanced. Events will include balance beam, floor exercise, uneven parallel bars and vaulting.

Top performances in the optional meet are likely to be turned in by Lucia Tuffanelli of Redwood High in the intermediate school all-around, and Redwood in the team standings, the compulsory winners.

The meet is open to the public, with an admission charge of 50 cents per adult and 25 cents per child.

Thumbless Gloves For Tonight's Bout

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — European heavyweight champion Joe Bugner of England, who meets former world champ Muhammad Ali in a 12-round elimination bout here Wednesday night, won a preliminary skirmish Tuesday.

The Nevada Athletic Commission ruled Tuesday that 8-ounce gloves with encased thumbs will be used for the fight instead of gloves with a moveable thumb as originally stipulated.

Bugner and his manager, Andy Smith, had protested the use of gloves with a moveable thumb. When the Ali camp offered no serious objection to the "one-piece" glove, Nevada officials sustained the British group's protest.

"It won't make no difference," said the heavily-favored Ali. "Joe is still gonna be in heaven by seven."

The glove to be used in the fight makes it virtually impossible for a fighter to suffer an injured eye by being "thumbed."

Both Ali and Bugner were given perfect marks in final physical examinations Tuesday by Nevada Commission chief medical examiner Dr. Don Romeo. Romeo said Bugner seemed "a little jumpier" than Ali, but that his pulse and his blood pressure were "normal."

Ali's trainer, Angelo Dundee, an expert "cut-man," said the 31-year-old New Jersey fighter would be seconded by himself, Luis Sierria, Walter Youngblood and the "reinstated" Bundini Brown, with Dr. Ferdie Pacheco also in the corner.

NBA ROUNDUP

Celts' Defense Beats Chicago

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The name "Boston Celtics" is, to most National Basketball Association fans, synonymous with defense and fastbreak. Last night's victory over the Chicago Bulls is a good example why.

Led by the run and gun offense of John Havlicek, who rolled up 31 points, and the rugged play of center Dave Cowens, who added 25 points, the Celts downed the Bulls 105-101 in Chicago.

But the most significant aspect of the game was the defensive job Boston's Paul Silas did on Chicago's All-Star forward Bob Love. Love came into the game riding the crest of the hottest scoring spree in the league.

In his last three outings, Love has scored 49 against Milwaukee, 49 against Kansas City - Omaha and 44 against Cleveland. That's 142 points in three games. For some people that's a whole season.

But last night's story was different and Love was reduced to mere mortal dimensions by Silas and Cowens and Boston's stiff, give-no-easy-shot defense. Love's scoring line read six field goals, two of three from the foul line and just 14 points.

And that, more than Havlicek or Cowen's scoring or the fact that they each dropped two free throws in the final 58 seconds to break a tie, is why Chicago lost.

Jo Jo White contributed 18 points to the Celtics' cause, while Silas chipped in with 15. Jerry Sloan paced Chicago with 20 points and Chet Walker and Norm Van Lier each had 19.

The victory increased Boston's Atlantic Division lead over the idle New York Knicks to 1 ½ games and kept the Celtics on top in the league percentage race with 46 wins and 12 losses.

In other NBA action Tuesday night, Milwaukee beat Detroit 110-96, Golden State downed Cleveland 103-90, Los Angeles edged Seattle 101-98, Kansas City-Omaha walloped Houston 132-118 and Portland bombed Buffalo 120-100.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and Bob Dandridge each scored 28 points to lead the Bucks over the Pistons and help Milwaukee take advantage of Chicago's loss to move six games out in the Midwest Division race.

Nate Archibald showed once again why he is a leading candidate for Most Valuable Player honors as he contributed a whopping 49-point effort to lead the Kings over the Rockets. The Kings frittered away most of a 20-point lead before reeling off 10 straight points late in the fourth quarter to secure the victory.

USF '5' On Top Again

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The University of San Francisco moved back atop the West Coast Athletic Conference Tuesday night with a 93-72 win over St. Mary's that saw Kevin Restani, Phil Smith and Mike Quick toss in 22 points apiece for the Dons.

That left the Dons at 8-1 while Santa Clara, second at 71, can knot things up again Thursday with a win against Seattle.

Meanwhile, latest Pacific Eight scoring figures showed a shuffle in the top point-makers, especially since Doug Little of Oregon was held to just two points by California's John Coughran last Saturday in a fine defensive display.

The new leader is Mike Dolven of Washington State, with a 19.9 point per game average through the first half of the campaign. Louie Nelson of Washington is second at 18.6 followed by Ray Price of Washington (18.4), Clint Chapman of USC (18.0), Ron Lee of Oregon (17.7), Bill Walton of UCLA (17.0) and Little at 16.7.

In other coast basketball contests Tuesday, two small school powerhouses collided and UC Riverside, now 18-3, downed UC Irvine 69-54. The losers are 15-11 for the campaign.

Salvino Leads Money Winners

AKRON, Ohio (UPI) — Carmen Salvino of Chicago has taken the lead in the Professional Bowlers Association money-winning standings.

Salvino won $10,000 in last weekend's Lincoln-Mercury Open in New Orleans to boost his earnings after six tournaments to $21,225.

Previous leader Barry Asher of Costa Mesa, Calif., won only $325 in the New Orleans tourney and slipped to second place with $19,861. Don Johnson of Akron is third with $14,928.

The PBA tour stop this weekend is the $60,000 Fair Lanes Open in Baltimore.

Sanderson Pays Off His Wager

Combined AP & UPI

As young players in the National Hockey League five years ago, each wagered $1,000 that he would be the first to be married.

Orr, engaged to be married at the end of the season, reminded Sanderson of the bet when the flamboyant center rejoined the Bruins last week after a brief tour with the Philadelphia Blazers of the World Hockey Association.

Sanderson had 990 $1 bills and 1,000 pennies drawn from the bank. He made the presentation at Boston Garden Tuesday night, where the Bruins played Vancouver, beating the Canucks 7-3.

Hockey

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. — Hal Trumble, executive director of the U.S. Amateur Hockey Association, Tuesday protested World Hockey Association plans to conduct a draft before the end of the amateur season and playoffs.

UNIONDALE, N.Y. — The New York Islanders obtained forward Ernie Hicke, a former California Golden Seal, from the Atlanta Flames for veteran defenseman Arnie Brown and future considerations in a deal between National Hockey League expansion clubs.

Football

LAWRENCE, Kan. — Halfback Gale Sayers, forced to retire from the professional football Chicago Bears last season after a series of knee injuries, was named an assistant athletic director at the University of Kansas.

Ice Skating

RAETTVEIK, Sweden — Roar Groenvold of Norway captured both the 500 and 1,000-meter events to capture the all-around competition in the Professional World Cup Revenge skating meet.

Tennis

COPENHAGEN — Erik Van Dillen, of San Mateo and Tom Gorman of Seattle defeated No. 2 seeds Arthur Ashe of Richmond, Va., and Roscoe Tanner of Lookout Mountain, Tenn., 6-3, 6-3, in doubles play in the $50,000 Brown Label World Championship Tennis Tournament.

TORONTO — Top-seeded Rod Laver of Australia, defeated Keith Carpenter of Toronto, 6-2, 6-2, in the first round of the $50,000 Toronto International Tennis Tournament.

CALGARY, Alberta — Tony Beadsley of Vancouver, won two successive tie-breakers against Mike Estep of Dallas for a 7-6, 7-6 first round victory in the Canadian Indoor Tennis Championships.

BOATING

By STAN DAVIES

Boat Trailers Can Cause Accidents

Most talk about boating safety concerns the boat when it's in its natural element — afloat on water. But it has become apparent after observing more and more boats speeding along the highways on trailers, that boating education must be extended to consider the problems of boating safety on land.

There's no question that a trailer boat spends the greater part of its life on land, and due to the vulnerability of its trailer, is under greater hazards than when it's on the water.

The two safety weak spots I find in trailer boating are the trailer wheels and the tie downs. Wheel trouble is usually traced to under-inflation of the trailer tires. Many drivers are still only vaguely aware that trailer tires must be inflated to much greater pressures than car tires. For instance a 570/500 by 8 six-ply trailer tire — a very common size — must be inflated to 75 pounds pressure.

Under-inflated tires run hot. The heat is transmitted to the wheel hub, which melts the lubricant, and pretty soon the bearings are running dry. Then it is a toss up which goes first, the overheated tires or the bearings.

Other weak spots are the tie-downs. Always stop after you have driven a trailer boat a few miles and check to make sure it is held down securely.

Naturally it's very important to have a trailer that fits your boat properly. If you trailer a sailboat it's imperative to have a secure mast chock or similar device for holding the mast while under way on the road.

Imagine the chaos that would ensue if a 20-foot mast broke loose while you were travelling along a freeway at 60 miles per hour.

There are many hazards in trailering and we probably get asked more quesstions on these problems than on any other single boating topic:

Q. I know a trailer must have safety chains beside the main hitch. How strong must the chains be?

A. It's set out in some state highway traffic laws in specific terms, but generally it's worded that the safety chains must be strong enough so that the trailer will be held if the primary connection is broken. They have to be quite strong.

Q. My boat trailer rig sways badly at certain speeds. How can I stop this?

A. Swaying usually indicates that the trailer is tail-heavy. Try this — adjust the load so that one tenth of the entire trailer load, or a minimum of 50 pounds, is resting on the hitch. I use a bathroom scale to test it.

Q. Obviously trailer wheels turn much faster than the wheels on a car. But how much?

A. Take for an example a car with 850 by 14 tires towing a boat trailer with 570 by 8 tires (both common sizes). While the car's wheels make 100 revolutions, the trailer's wheels do 187, nearly twice as fast. No wonder they tend to heat up.

Q. Why are trailer wheels so small?

A. They were first designed this way so that the boat could overhang the wheels, yet still keep it low enough for easy launching.

Q. Water and dirt get into the bearings of my trailer wheels. How can they be made water tight?

A. Most modern trailer hubs are water tight until they are run into cold water while hot after a long highway trip. The hot air inside contracts and sucks in dirt and water. One answer is to cool them off before launching. Splash water over them.

Q. Can I trailer a Lightning class sailboat behind one of the new tiny U.S. compact cars?

A. Yes. The British, more familiar with small cars than we are, have a formula for figuring trailer weight: the total of all car, trailer, and all loads — should not exceed twice the weight of the empty car. For instance, if your compact weighs 1,700 pounds empty, and three passengers and baggage weigh 600 pounds (total is 2,300 pounds) it means the trailer with its load can weigh up to 1,100 pounds. The Lightning weight 700 pounds and the trailer about 400. You can just make it.

JACKSON

placed Harris at free safety, "and I was put in at strong safety," Jackson pointed out.

The Marinite responded by blanketing tight ends and stopping running plays. With his 4.2 timing in the 40-yard dash, Jackson had ideal speed for his position. In fact, his speed enabled the Patriots to use him at linebacker and cornerback on special defensive alignments. As a cornerback, he surrendered touchdown passes to Richard Caster of the New York Jets and Marlin Briscoe of the Miami Dolphins. Jackson didn't feel badly about either catch because "Caster caught the pass from Joe Namath, and he's about the best there is."

As for Briscoe, Jackson contended that the former Denver Bronco quarterback who was converted to a wide receiver, "would beat out Howard Twilley for a starting job if he ever got the chance. Miami has a winning combination with Howard in there, so why break it up. But if Twilley ever was injured, he would lose his job to Briscoe."

After discussing the merits of stand out receivers like Briscoe, Jackson analyzed the Patriots' 1973 prospects. "I feel we have the personnel to build a winning team around. Jim Plunkett is a fine quarterback. We need a better pass rush from our defensive line and some offensive line help, but he talent is there. We'll just have to play together more to bring it out."

While the Patriots attempt to bolster their weak areas, they are apparently satisfied with the improved play of Jackson who was voted the game ball by teammates after New England defeated New Orleans, 17-10, on Dec. 10.

Jackson will be going to training camp in July as the first-string strong safety, and he hopes to be a part of the future Patriots' team which plays in a Super Bowl.

Satellite Tourney Enters Final Round

HEMET, Calif. (UPI) — Gary McCord of Riverside, Calif., and Dick McLean of Carmel, Calif., take a slim one-stroke lead into today's final round of th3 $25,000 Western Tournament Golf Association satellite tournament.

McCord and McLean shot four-under-par 68s at Quail Lake Country Club Tuesday to share a one-stroke lead over Jim Anderson of Lakewood, Calif.

Terra Linda Cager Still Top Scorer

Mark Lowey of Terra Linda High School lost three points to challenger Hoza Wright, but remains 12 points ahead of the San Marin High star in the Marin County Athletic League basketball scoring race.

Lowey scored 18 points in his team's loss to San Rafael Friday and has 191 for the first 10 games of the league season, according to statistics compiled by the Independent-Journal.

Wright, who scored 21 as his Mustangs lost to Novato, has tallied 179 this year for a 17.9 average.

Two individuals moved up one place each in the standings — Byron Stewart of San Rafael from sixth to fifth and Mike Dinehart of Tamalpais from ninth to eighth.

League-leading Drake High (8-2) retained its scoring lead with a 68.1 average and a bulge of almost nine points over Redwood. The Pirates strengthened their hand as the No. 2 defensive team by holding Marin Catholic to 45 points, and their 54.8 average ranks behind only the Wildcats' 44.5.

Seals Host Atlantans

OAKLAND (UPI) — The California Golden Seals have a little something extra going for them tonight when they host Atlanta in the opener of a six-game home stand.

It will be the first time since Jan. 12 that their injury-riddled line of Joey Johnston, Walt McKechnie and Craig Patrick has been reunited.

That trio accounted for 43 goals and 55 assists in 41 starts and the Seals' home ice record was 6-10-9 when that line was operative. Since the team's season mark is 9-36-12, it's obvious the Seals need this line functioning together.

The Seals have had only one victory in their last 17 games, but hope to start to turn it around against the Flames.

Atlanta Tuesday traded away ex-Seal Ernie Hicke to the New York Islanders. They thus cut down their offense since Hickey had 14 goals and 23 assists and had contributed one game-tieing goal and two winners.

Athletic Participation High

By LEW CODDINGTON

Drake High School athletic director Carl (Red) Brown has shed light on a sometimes shadowy topic by assembling some figures on how many Marin high school students participate in athletics.

Brown polled the athletic directors at the nine Marin County Athletic League schools (including San Domenico School for Girls in Sleepy Hollow), and produced five pages of tables breaking down student participation by season, sport, team and sex.

The study concludes that almost a quarter of Marin's students, some 22.6 per cent, participated in athletics or related activities in the fall of 1972, and that 9.6 per cent participated in the winter of 1972-73.

Arguments about whether athletic programs, and their funding, should be increased or decreased often reach a dead end when opponents say, "Yeah, well, participation is small," and advocates claim, "Participation is huge," and neither side can cite data to back up its claim. Brown has done a service by providing information in this murky area.

Brown's tables show there are 12,724 students enrolled at the nine schools. Of this number, 2,272 were members of one of the eight boys teams or four girls teams in the fall. In addition, 600 were cheerleaders, mascots, trainers, managers, statisticians, majorettes, or band members. The total involvement is 2,872, or 22.6 per cent.

Involvement drops off in the winter because the number of sports does. There are only four boys sports and one girls sport in the winter.

Of the 2,272 fall athletes, there are rougly twice as many boys (1,561) as girls (711).

Students who participate in fall sports and later in winter sports are counted once in each season. Of the 9.6 per cent in winter sports, the majority probably participated in the fall as well.

Spring sports are not included. The spring percentage probably would be about as high as the fall percentage because the number of sports increases.

San Rafael High has the largest male participation in fall sports, 282, even though it does not have the largest enrollment. It has 2,009 students, third behind Redwood (2,500) and Terra Linda (2,126). Those schools have 254 and 228, respectively.

Tamalpais, with a student body of 1,814, leads in female participation with 130. Drake has 116 and Redwood 102.

Redwood has a total of 356 male and female students involved in fall sports, with San Rafael second at 353.

Much of the participation, of course, occurs below the varsity level. Of the 793 football players in the county, 527 play junior varsity or freshman ball. Of the 469 male basketball players, 359 play Class B, Class C, freshman or junior varsity.

At Marin Catholic High, almost one student in every three is an athlete. Of the 752 enrolled, some 222, or 30 per cent, were on teams and another 21 were involved in related activities.

OVERFLOW — A number of people were unable to get into the Marin Catholic-Drake basketball game Friday night at Marin Catholic — including the commissioner of the MCAL!

George Corson reports that he drove up about half an hour before game time, contemplated the milling hundreds, and decided not to try.

WEATHER REPORT — MCAL baseball, like its major league counterpart, has problems, they are different ones. Steady rains in Marin have made quagmire of practice and playing fields.

"I can't remember when the ground was so saturated," said Al Endriss, head coach of defending champion Redwood.

Wall, Harms Lead King Realty Cagers

The San Rafael Saints ran into a Wall last night, and considerable Harm was done, as Gary Wall scored 24 points and Fred Harms 17 to lead King Realty to a 66-54 victory in the San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department adult basketball league.

In other games, Glenn Glynn dropped in 18 to lead McKee's over the Over The Hill Gang, 55-41; and Jim Tucker scored 17 and Tim Stone and Dennis Staub 12 each as Suburban Auto whipped Mike's Bar and Grill, 70-37.

Second-Half Barrage Wrecks Petaluma '5'

SANTA ROSA — Petaluma High School fell victim to a 52-point second half barrage by Montgomery High last night to lose a 77-39 North Bay League basketball game.

The defeat dropped the Trojans into last place in the NBL with a 2-9 mark, eight games behind front-running Vallejo. Montgomery kept its slim title hopes alive with the victory to post a 7-4 record.

The Trojans were behind by just seven at halftime, 25-18, but early in the third quarter Montgomery started to fast break and ran away with the game. "We just couldn't contain their break," commented Petaluma coach Mark Reischling after the game.

Petaluma, which shot only 30 per cent from the floor for the game, had trouble penetrating the Viking zone in the second half. The Trojans also had a little trouble at the free-throw line, missing seven straight one-on-one situations.

The Vikings, who shot a blistering 60 per cent in the second half and 50 per cent for the game, was led by Tom Buzzard with 19 points. Dan Aldridge led Petaluma with nine points.

NHL ROUNDUP

Bruins Win 4th Straight Under New Head Coach

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

With his words, as well as his deeds, Armand (Bep) Guidolin gives a good indication of why he was hired recently as coach of the Boston Bruins.

In four games since he replaced Tom Johnson, Guidolin has guided the defending Stanley Cup champions to four wins. The latest was a 7-3 workout over the Vancouver Canucks Tuesday night.

"We got four quick goals in the first period, but then we relaxed," Guidolin said, perhaps with the intent of keeping his players from getting too self content. "The guys are trying to get too cute, they're too busy setting up a play when they should be shooting. You can't do that. There are clubs that can hurt you. They're not going anywhere but they can hurt somebody."

Nevertheless, the victory enabled third-place Boston to close within six points of the second-place New York Rangers, who were idle, in the National Hockey League's East Division.

In the only other two games Tuesday night, the Philadelphia Flyers overcame a two-goal deficit to club the New York Islanders, 8-2, and the St. Louis Blues beat the los Angeles Kings, 4-2.

Rookie Ross Brooks was in the Boston net, and he is now unbeaten in all eight of his starts with five victories and three ties.

Rick MacLeish scored four goals for Philadelphia, including three within a span of 6:55 during the second period to set a club record for the fastest hat trick.

St. Vincent Falls To Point Arena In 4th Quarter

St. Vincent High School of Petaluma fell apart in the fourth quarter last night to lose to host Point Arena 57-49 in a battle for first place in the North Central League II basketball standings.

The loss dropped the Mustangs' league record to 5-1, one game behind the Pirates, but the two teams will meet later this month in Petaluma.

The Mustangs had a one-point third quarter lead, but were outscored in the fourth period, 20-11. Chris Dawson led the St. Vincent effort with 20 points, while the winners were paced by Steve Binker's 18 points.

In another NCL II game last night, Tomales fell to 2-5 in the league with a 69-65 loss to host Calistoga.

Gymnastics Meet Set For Drake

Some 200 high school girls from Marin will compete in the Marin County Athletic League Optional Gymnastics Championships Saturday at Drake High School in San Anselmo, beginning at 9 a.m.

The field will be substantially the same one which vied in the MCAL compulsory meet Jan. 6, according to optional meet director Anne Scott of Drake. A compulsory meet involves doing specified exercises, while the more difficult optional meet permits gymnasts to create their own routines.

The combined scores of the top three finishers in each class will count toward the determination of the MCAL pennant-winner.

As in the compulsory meet, there will be entrants in the novice, beginner, intermediate school and intermediate open classes, but not in the advanced. Events will include balance beam, floor exercise, uneven parallel bars and vaulting.

Top performances in the optional meet are likely to be turned in by Lucia Tuffanelli of Redwood High in the intermediate school all-around, and Redwood in the team standings, the compulsory winners.

The meet is open to the public, with an admission charge of 50 cents per adult and 25 cents per child.

Thumbless Gloves For Tonight's Bout

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — European heavyweight champion Joe Bugner of England, who meets former world champ Muhammad Ali in a 12-round elimination bout here Wednesday night, won a preliminary skirmish Tuesday.

The Nevada Athletic Commission ruled Tuesday that 8-ounce gloves with encased thumbs will be used for the fight instead of gloves with a moveable thumb as originally stipulated.

Bugner and his manager, Andy Smith, had protested the use of gloves with a moveable thumb. When the Ali camp offered no serious objection to the "one-piece" glove, Nevada officials sustained the British group's protest.

"It won't make no difference," said the heavily-favored Ali. "Joe is still gonna be in heaven by seven."

The glove to be used in the fight makes it virtually impossible for a fighter to suffer an injured eye by being "thumbed."

Both Ali and Bugner were given perfect marks in final physical examinations Tuesday by Nevada Commission chief medical examiner Dr. Don Romeo. Romeo said Bugner seemed "a little jumpier" than Ali, but that his pulse and his blood pressure were "normal."

Ali's trainer, Angelo Dundee, an expert "cut-man," said the 31-year-old New Jersey fighter would be seconded by himself, Luis Sierria, Walter Youngblood and the "reinstated" Bundini Brown, with Dr. Ferdie Pacheco also in the corner.

Spring Opera's Visual Opener

By MARTIN FRICK

SAN FRANCISCO — The St. Matthew Passion by Johann Sebastian Bach, opened the San Francisco Spring Opera Theater at the Curran last night in a production which splendidly visualized the drama inherent in the beautiful, profound music.

The opening movement is for double chorus polyphonically inviting each other to share in the grief over the crucifixion of Christ. Beneath is a richly swaying orchestra, while above them all, a boys chorus sings the folk melody Martin Luther borrowed for a congregational alternative to the Agnus Dei in the German Mass. Marred only by the bleating tone of the electronic organ which doubled the cantus firmus sung by the San Francisco Boys Chorus, the movement set the tone for what was to happen musically and visually for the next three hours.

Gerald Freedman has staged the Passion with loving devotion to the famous Avignon Pieta painting to which he returns in tableau several times. But the staging is much more than a series of tableaus. There is constant movement and interplay between the chorus and all the characters from St. Matthew's account of the last days of Jesus. Yet the impelling beauty of the staging is that it never imposes upon the music or the sacredness with which some hold the story, Indeed, a more devotional spectacle you may never see.

Freedman is fortunate to have at his disposal singers who can act — and move. Twenty-four-year-old soprano Carmen Balthrop is a dancer as well as a singer, yet her movements, as those of the other three soloists who portray the priest and communicants from the Avignon painting, are always reverent and intense. And they sing their arias and recitatives as signs welling up from deep within souls whose dearest love has been snatched from them.

Bach is unique in his oratorios for making his airs duets between voice and obbligato instruments. The thumping bass in the alto's "Have mercy on me," the wailing oboes in her "Ah, Golgotha" which Carole Walters sang with intensity although with a too-heavy vibrato.

Tenor Bruce Yarnell, who sings tomorrow afternoon for a Marin Women's Club, sang warmly, if not always crisply, the beloved air "I would be with my Jesu watching."

Perhaps Bach's most exquisite air of this genre is the duet for soprano and flute "For love now is my Savior dying," and with it, Miss Balthrop and flutist Walter Subke brought the audience to a hushed immobility.

Baritone Douglas Lawrence was a mellow, yet masculine Jesus both in voice and appearance. The narrator, or Evangelist, was sung by Richard Shadley, high in a pulpit at stage right, with a full, clear tone perfectly in keeping with his appearance as a preacher out of the Lucas Cranach paintings of the Reformation.

The chorus, trained by Byron Dean Ryan, must switch back and forth from hysterical mob to faithful congregation, and this they did with great facility. Their brief phrases were always definite. The last chorale was sung with a most stirring pianissimo, the last chorus with an almost exuberant hope as they laid to rest their Friend.

Abraham Kaplan conducted with confidence throughout, although a few of the chorales were sung in tempi which momentarily questioned his involvement.

Ming Cho Lee's 20th-Century pipe sculpture provided a timeless canopy over his delicately lighted set that was best suited for the trial scenes. The gentle russet tones of the costumes blended in perfectly.

Other people and moments should be mentioned, such as Judas' hanging mime and the tender burial ballet, as well as Robert Shaw's excellent English translation of Picander's Pietistic libretto.

The Passion will be repeated Saturday and next Thursday in repertory with Bizet's "Carmen" to be followed by two comic operas.

'Charlie Brown' Play Announced

"You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown," a musical based on Charles Schulz's "Peanuts" cartoon characters, will be presented at Old Mill School in Mill Valley Feb. 22 and 23.

The play will star fourth and fifth graders in the title roles, inlcuding David Platt as Charlie Brown, and Capron as Snoopy, Jennifer Geerlings as Lucy; Scott Sommers as Linus, Lee Bardwell as Schroeder and Cathleen Bauer as Patty.

Stephen Riffkin, a music and drama teacher at Old Mill, will direct the production, to be staged at 7:30 o'clock both nights.

Fairfax Ignores Alarm On Future Town High-Risers

The Fairfax Town Council last night adopted a new zoning ordinance over the objections of one councilman who claimed the measure could permit high rise buildings in the town. (Another Fairfax Town Council story, page 1.)

Councilman Frank J. Egger claimed the new zoning regulations eliminate height limitations on buildings in residential areas by permitting exceptions to the regular 35-foot limit in granting use permits.

"I see a day when high rises will be presented to the town of Fairfax," Egger said.

The other councilmen did not share Egger's alarm. They expressed confidence that future council members would exercise discretion in setting height limits in use permits and noted that the ordinance does have sufficient controls on building heights.

Egger maintained that the ordinance was not consistent with the town's general plan and that its original intent was to meet state regulations requiring ordinances be consistent with general plans by July 1, 1973.

The Fairfax Town Council also:

ABAG — Named Councilman E. Ross Parkerson as its representative to the Association of Bay Area Governments, and Councilman Robert R. Souza as alternate.

SIGN — Ordered Town Atty. Wallace S. Myers to negotiate with attorneys representing First Federal Savings and Loan Association for removal of a projecting sign at the association's new Fairfax branch. Through an error of the design review board, the sign was permitted to be erected although it violates by two feet a town ordinance restricting projecting signs to 16 square feet.

CREEK — Heard a report by Parkerson recommending a creek control agency. He cited numerous abuses by citizens, including the building of bulkheads and dumping of wastes.

DRAINAGE — Offered town crews to help locate a private drain at Piper Court apartments and to recommend possible solutions to prevent future drainage problems. Apartment owners contend the grading of a fire road above their property caused silt to slide onto their property during heavy rains, and held the city accountable for repair of drainage culverts by the road. The property owners threatened litigation after the council denied any legal responsibility in the matter.

ENVIRONMENT — Directed the city administrator to screen consultants to compile an environmental impact report regarding construction of Canon Village and Tennis Club.

FLOOD — Introduced a proclamation that a local flood emergency exists in the town and approved an ordinance providing for an emergency organization. The actions were taken so that Fairfax residents who suffered damage due to recent storms will be eligible for federal and state disaster assistance.

INSURANCE — Held over action to apply for federal flood insurance until the next council meeting at 8 p.m. next Tuesday.

Ferrante And Teicher Know How To Please An Audience

By VERA M. OLMSTED

Duo-pianists Ferrante and Teicher breezed into the Marin Veterans Memorial Building last night, bringing listeners their own version of the Hollywood sound, with just the right touch of nostalgia.

There were people of all ages in the large audience, from young children to their grandparents, and this enthusiastic group was obviously familiar with the movie and Broadway hits which form the basis of Ferrante and Teicher's music. Murmurs of appreciation and bursts of applause greeted some of the favorites as soon as they launched into the first few bars.

The duo-piano team combines showmanship, a chatty manner (and a few lame jokes), and an easy way of weaving popular songs into a stylized and synchronized performance.

Ferrante and Teicher started out the first half of the program dressed in identical midnight blue tuxedos, with ruffled shirt cuffs peeking out of the sleeves. They controlled the mood partially by the use of changing lights and even a star-lit sky to give the effect of a Hollywood movie premiere.

Ferrante and Teicher's piano style puts the emphasis on the melody, with a solid, rather square harmonic accompaniment, ornamented with runs, arpeggios, glissandos and other virtuoso effects.

Fortunately they are accomplished pianists with nimble fingers. Their music is so well worked out that they hardly glance at each other while playing.

In an amusing sketch, they pretended to be one pianist looking at himself in a mirror, and they very cleverly arranged the music for "Tea for Two" to take advantage of the synchronized mirror image movements.

The two crowd favorites were Ferrante and Teicher's version of "Fiddler on the Roof," and George Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue." This last is a tricky work to play, and some of the passages were a little sloppy, but the syncopated rhythms and jazz chords, combined with the vivid lighting effects produced a real show stopper and was a welcome change after the relative sameness of the other pieces.

Ferrante and Teicher know how to entertain their particular audiences — they know what music will please them, and they know how to add a little humor to keep the concert moving. Last night's program was a satisfying excursion into the pop classic hits of past and present.

Driver Says Innocent To Charge

A Tamalpais Valley man, once convicted of making obscene movies, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a drunken driving charge stemming from a celebration of the reversal of his movie conviction.

A pretrial conference for 42-year-old Lloyd K. Downton was set for March 7.

Downton served more than 10 months in prison on charges of conspiracy and aiding and abetting an act of oral copulation before learning Jan. 30 that the District Court of Appeal had reversed his conviction.

Date should be Jan. 29.

Early the next day, the California Highway Patrol stopped him at the Alexander Avenue exit from Highway 101 in Sausalito because his car was weaving. He was arrested after failing a roadside sobriety test, according to the patrol.

More Research Spending Seen

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — Spending in the United States on research and development this year will hit $30.1 billion,. an increase of about 7.5 per cent over last year, according to Battelle Research Laboratories.

The annual Battelle report said the federal government would spend almost $16.3 billion; industry about $12.2 billion; colleges and universities about $14 billion and other institutions $442 million.

The report said industry is the "fastest growing source" of support for research and development.

BOATING

By STAN DAVIES

Boat Trailers Can Cause Accidents

Most talk about boating safety concerns the boat when it's in its natural element — afloat on water. But it has become apparent after observing more and more boats speeding along the highways on trailers, that boating education must be extended to consider the problems of boating safety on land.

There's no question that a trailer boat spends the greater part of its life on land, and due to the vulnerability of its trailer, is under greater hazards than when it's on the water.

The two safety weak spots I find in trailer boating are the trailer wheels and the tie downs. Wheel trouble is usually traced to under-inflation of the trailer tires. Many drivers are still only vaguely aware that trailer tires must be inflated to much greater pressures than car tires. For instance a 570/500 by 8 six-ply trailer tire — a very common size — must be inflated to 75 pounds pressure.

Under-inflated tires run hot. The heat is transmitted to the wheel hub, which melts the lubricant, and pretty soon the bearings are running dry. Then it is a toss up which goes first, the overheated tires or the bearings.

Other weak spots are the tie-downs. Always stop after you have driven a trailer boat a few miles and check to make sure it is held down securely.

Naturally it's very important to have a trailer that fits your boat properly. If you trailer a sailboat it's imperative to have a secure mast chock or similar device for holding the mast while under way on the road.

Imagine the chaos that would ensue if a 20-foot mast broke loose while you were travelling along a freeway at 60 miles per hour.

There are many hazards in trailering and we probably get asked more quesstions on these problems than on any other single boating topic:

Q. I know a trailer must have safety chains beside the main hitch. How strong must the chains be?

A. It's set out in some state highway traffic laws in specific terms, but generally it's worded that the safety chains must be strong enough so that the trailer will be held if the primary connection is broken. They have to be quite strong.

Q. My boat trailer rig sways badly at certain speeds. How can I stop this?

A. Swaying usually indicates that the trailer is tail-heavy. Try this — adjust the load so that one tenth of the entire trailer load, or a minimum of 50 pounds, is resting on the hitch. I use a bathroom scale to test it.

Q. Obviously trailer wheels turn much faster than the wheels on a car. But how much?

A. Take for an example a car with 850 by 14 tires towing a boat trailer with 570 by 8 tires (both common sizes). While the car's wheels make 100 revolutions, the trailer's wheels do 187, nearly twice as fast. No wonder they tend to heat up.

Q. Why are trailer wheels so small?

A. They were first designed this way so that the boat could overhang the wheels, yet still keep it low enough for easy launching.

Q. Water and dirt get into the bearings of my trailer wheels. How can they be made water tight?

A. Most modern trailer hubs are water tight until they are run into cold water while hot after a long highway trip. The hot air inside contracts and sucks in dirt and water. One answer is to cool them off before launching. Splash water over them.

Q. Can I trailer a Lightning class sailboat behind one of the new tiny U.S. compact cars?

A. Yes. The British, more familiar with small cars than we are, have a formula for figuring trailer weight: the total of all car, trailer, and all loads — should not exceed twice the weight of the empty car. For instance, if your compact weighs 1,700 pounds empty, and three passengers and baggage weigh 600 pounds (total is 2,300 pounds) it means the trailer with its load can weigh up to 1,100 pounds. The Lightning weight 700 pounds and the trailer about 400. You can just make it.

placed Harris at free safety, "and I was put in at strong safety," Jackson pointed out.

The Marinite responded by blanketing tight ends and stopping running plays. With his 4.2 timing in the 40-yard dash, Jackson had ideal speed for his position. In fact, his speed enabled the Patriots to use him at linebacker and cornerback on special defensive alignments. As a cornerback, he surrendered touchdown passes to Richard Caster of the New York Jets and Marlin Briscoe of the Miami Dolphins. Jackson didn't feel badly about either catch because "Caster caught the pass from Joe Namath, and he's about the best there is."

As for Briscoe, Jackson contended that the former Denver Bronco quarterback who was converted to a wide receiver, "would beat out Howard Twilley for a starting job if he ever got the chance. Miami has a winning combination with Howard in there, so why break it up. But if Twilley ever was injured, he would lose his job to Briscoe."

After discussing the merits of stand out receivers like Briscoe, Jackson analyzed the Patriots' 1973 prospects. "I feel we have the personnel to build a winning team around. Jim Plunkett is a fine quarterback. We need a better pass rush from our defensive line and some offensive line help, but he talent is there. We'll just have to play together more to bring it out."

While the Patriots attempt to bolster their weak areas, they are apparently satisfied with the improved play of Jackson who was voted the game ball by teammates after New England defeated New Orleans, 17-10, on Dec. 10.

Jackson will be going to training camp in July as the first-string strong safety, and he hopes to be a part of the future Patriots' team which plays in a Super Bowl.

Satellite Tourney Enters Final Round

HEMET, Calif. (UPI) — Gary McCord of Riverside, Calif., and Dick McLean of Carmel, Calif., take a slim one-stroke lead into today's final round of th3 $25,000 Western Tournament Golf Association satellite tournament.

McCord and McLean shot four-under-par 68s at Quail Lake Country Club Tuesday to share a one-stroke lead over Jim Anderson of Lakewood, Calif.

Terra Linda Cager Still Top Scorer

Mark Lowey of Terra Linda High School lost three points to challenger Hoza Wright, but remains 12 points ahead of the San Marin High star in the Marin County Athletic League basketball scoring race.

Lowey scored 18 points in his team's loss to San Rafael Friday and has 191 for the first 10 games of the league season, according to statistics compiled by the Independent-Journal.

Wright, who scored 21 as his Mustangs lost to Novato, has tallied 179 this year for a 17.9 average.

Two individuals moved up one place each in the standings — Byron Stewart of San Rafael from sixth to fifth and Mike Dinehart of Tamalpais from ninth to eighth.

League-leading Drake High (8-2) retained its scoring lead with a 68.1 average and a bulge of almost nine points over Redwood. The Pirates strengthened their hand as the No. 2 defensive team by holding Marin Catholic to 45 points, and their 54.8 average ranks behind only the Wildcats' 44.5.

Seals Host Atlantans

OAKLAND (UPI) — The California Golden Seals have a little something extra going for them tonight when they host Atlanta in the opener of a six-game home stand.

It will be the first time since Jan. 12 that their injury-riddled line of Joey Johnston, Walt McKechnie and Craig Patrick has been reunited.

That trio accounted for 43 goals and 55 assists in 41 starts and the Seals' home ice record was 6-10-9 when that line was operative. Since the team's season mark is 9-36-12, it's obvious the Seals need this line functioning together.

The Seals have had only one victory in their last 17 games, but hope to start to turn it around against the Flames.

Atlanta Tuesday traded away ex-Seal Ernie Hicke to the New York Islanders. They thus cut down their offense since Hickey had 14 goals and 23 assists and had contributed one game-tieing goal and two winners.

Athletic Participation High

By LEW CODDINGTON

Drake High School athletic director Carl (Red) Brown has shed light on a sometimes shadowy topic by assembling some figures on how many Marin high school students participate in athletics.

Brown polled the athletic directors at the nine Marin County Athletic League schools (including San Domenico School for Girls in Sleepy Hollow), and produced five pages of tables breaking down student participation by season, sport, team and sex.

The study concludes that almost a quarter of Marin's students, some 22.6 per cent, participated in athletics or related activities in the fall of 1972, and that 9.6 per cent participated in the winter of 1972-73.

Arguments about whether athletic programs, and their funding, should be increased or decreased often reach a dead end when opponents say, "Yeah, well, participation is small," and advocates claim, "Participation is huge," and neither side can cite data to back up its claim. Brown has done a service by providing information in this murky area.

Brown's tables show there are 12,724 students enrolled at the nine schools. Of this number, 2,272 were members of one of the eight boys teams or four girls teams in the fall. In addition, 600 were cheerleaders, mascots, trainers, managers, statisticians, majorettes, or band members. The total involvement is 2,872, or 22.6 per cent.

Involvement drops off in the winter because the number of sports does. There are only four boys sports and one girls sport in the winter.

Of the 2,272 fall athletes, there are rougly twice as many boys (1,561) as girls (711).

Students who participate in fall sports and later in winter sports are counted once in each season. Of the 9.6 per cent in winter sports, the majority probably participated in the fall as well.

Spring sports are not included. The spring percentage probably would be about as high as the fall percentage because the number of sports increases.

San Rafael High has the largest male participation in fall sports, 282, even though it does not have the largest enrollment. It has 2,009 students, third behind Redwood (2,500) and Terra Linda (2,126). Those schools have 254 and 228, respectively.

Tamalpais, with a student body of 1,814, leads in female participation with 130. Drake has 116 and Redwood 102.

Redwood has a total of 356 male and female students involved in fall sports, with San Rafael second at 353.

Much of the participation, of course, occurs below the varsity level. Of the 793 football players in the county, 527 play junior varsity or freshman ball. Of the 469 male basketball players, 359 play Class B, Class C, freshman or junior varsity.

At Marin Catholic High, almost one student in every three is an athlete. Of the 752 enrolled, some 222, or 30 per cent, were on teams and another 21 were involved in related activities.

OVERFLOW — A number of people were unable to get into the Marin Catholic-Drake basketball game Friday night at Marin Catholic — including the commissioner of the MCAL!

George Corson reports that he drove up about half an hour before game time, contemplated the milling hundreds, and decided not to try.

WEATHER REPORT — MCAL baseball, like its major league counterpart, has problems, they are diffcrent ones. Steady rains in Marin have made quagmire of practice and playing fields.

"I can't remember when the ground was so saturated," said Al Endriss, head coach of defending champion Redwood.

Wall, Harms Lead King Realty Cagers

The San Rafael Saints ran into a Wall last night, and considerable Harm was done, as Gary Wall scored 24 points and Fred Harms 17 to lead King Realty to a 66-54 victory in the San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department adult basketball league.

In other games, Glenn Glynn dropped in 18 to lead McKee's over the Over The Hill Gang, 55-41; and Jim Tucker scored 17 and Tim Stone and Dennis Staub 12 each as Suburban Auto whipped Mike's Bar and Grill, 70-37.

USPS Planning New Mail Slow-Up

The United States Postal Service is at it again.

The USPS's latest proposal is to have all Marin mail sent to Rincon Annex in San Francisco for sorting and dispatch. This will mean at least one day delay in delivery of mail which originates in Marin and goes to Marin addresses — even if the addressee is only a block down the street. It also will result in delays of outgoing mail, for the Rincon Annex Post Office is notorious for its slow-ups.

USPS wants to do this to provide work for a couple of mail sorting machines it has purchased with the money it should be saving by real economies.

The machines were supposed to be in operation in December. They're not in operation yet.

The same kind of delay probably will occur when they start handling the mail.

There is no sense in having a letter mailed in Marin thrown into a bag and hauled to San Francisco to await its turn at the sorting machines — or to be thrown out by the machines because they cannot "read" its handwritten address, and then be sorted by hand by a San Francisco mail clerk. There is less sense when the lette is addressed to someone here in Marin and could reach the addressee in less time than it takes it to be sorted in San Francisco.

San Rafael Postmaster Hugh Cassidy doesn't think much of the idea. He doesn't say much about it, because he has to be careful lest the U.S. Postal Service replace him as postmaster. But he doesn't like it.

Cassidy, you see, doesn't have a congressman's protection any more. When he was named postmaster, it was by congressional appointment. But creation of the U.S. Postal Service did away with that. Now postmasters are hired by the hired brass that runs the U.S. Postal Service — not one of whom is answerable to the voters.

When USPS was being promoted in Congress, the big argument for it was that it would do away with political appointments. There was too much politics in the post office, claimed proponents of change.

Maybe there was, but it didn't apply to Cassidy. He had worked his way up through the civil service ranks as a career postal employee and was assistant postmaster in San Rafael under Postmaster Warren Williams before getting the appointment on Williams's retirement.

He knows the business. He also knows that mail service is of vital concern to the public.

The people who run the U.S. Postal Service don't seem to know that. They treat mail like it was sacks of coal being shipped during the summer for eventual sale to customers in the fall.

The postmasters in Marin can't do anything about the proposed change on March 12. Only the people can do anything about it — by demanding that our senators and congressmen put a stop to this nonsense of having the mail service controlled by appointees who are answerable to no one.

Reagan Ready To Take Tax Program To People

By RUS WALTON

Governor Reagan is now starting to unfold some of the details of his long range tax reduction and spending control proposal. It is designed to retard the growth and cost of government over the next 15 years and to put a lid on the state's tax take.

Basically, the theory is to use the state's expanding economy and rising total personal income (about 8 per cent a year) to finance tax reductions while providing retarded but sufficient growth money for state government.

IN A NUTSHELL, these are the main points of the Reagan plan:

(The proposed 1973-74 budget of $9.2 billion will take about 8.75 per cent of the anticipated $110 billion in total personal incomes. Reagan's plan would reduce that percentage by .1 of one per cent a year over a period of years until a limit of 7.15 per cent was reached. The tax take would be frozen at 7.15 per cent by constitutional amendment.)

A long-term rollback of state spending geared to a retarded annual increase in state revenues.

(The Reagan administration estimates that if state spending continued at its present rate of growth, by 1989 the annual state budget would be $47 billion. Under Reagan's proposal, the budget could not be more than $27 billion in 1989-90.)

Commitment of any surplus revenues to reduced state taxes or tax rates.

(The legislature would be empowered to determine the state's tax "mix" — what portion of the total take would come from sales, income and other taxes.)

A two-thirds vote requirement in the legislature to increase any tax rates;

A continuing ceiling on local property taxes (as enacted in SB 90), and

The formation of an economics estimate commission to project the levels of maximum state spending each year.

(That commission would comprise the state controller, the legislative analyst and the finance director. Each October the commission would estimate the state's total personal income figure for the next year. The governor would be required to keep his proposed budget total under the mandated percentage of that estimate.

(Each April the commission would update its estimates of total personal incomes and the legislature would be required to keep its revised budget total under the percentage limit.)

THE PLAN ALSO provides for emergencies. A fund equal to .2 of one per cent of total personal incomes would be established. That money could be used to provide state assistance in time of disaster.

Also, the legislature, by a two-thirds vote, could raise a specific tax to meet an emergency (such as increasing the gasoline tax to replace roads destroyed by a flood). That increase could remain in effect only until the next election. If still more emergency funds were needed, a proposed extension of the tax hike would be submitted to the voters.

The unique long-range tax reduction and limitation plan is the work of a special task force headed by Lewis K. Uhler and Charles Hobbs, governor's assistants.

Some of the nation's top economists served as advisers to the task force: Milton Friedman, University of Chicago; Peter Drucker and Craig Stubblebine, Claremont College; Mike Martin, CSU-Hayward; Dan Orr, UC San Diego, and 14 others.

Amendments to the state constitution will be required to put the plan into operation.

Governor Reagan is submitting the proposal to the legislature knowing that Assemblyman Bob Moretti and State Sen. George Moscone and others will try to make it a political football.

But, there is another way to get the tax reduction proposal to a vote of the people: the initiative proposition.

The governor is ready to do just that — probably on a special ballot in November, 1973.

Devaluing Dollar Furthers Inflation

People who think the devaluation of the dollar has no effect on our internal economy neglect the fact that it causes the price of foreign made goods to go up and it allows foreign nations to bid up the price of American made goods with their supplies of unwanted devalued dollars. The effects of this letter are demonstrated by what the Russian wheat deal has done to American bread prices and what sales of lumber to the Japanese has done to our lumber costs.

A currency is devalued when it is debased by inflation. Inflation is not caused by rapacious unions or by greedy business men, but by government deficit spending for they then print more money to make up the difference increasing the supply of money relative to goods, that is, prices go up.

Few question Mr. Nixon's efforts to slow federal spending but his ordering of priorities is surely questionable. It is utter madness to divert or halt money aimed at solving festering social problems while doing little or nothing to reduce money which feeds an already overgrown and bloated military establishment. Mr. Nixon seems to be unaware that his actions abet the efforts of those who will gain by renewed social upset and turmoil.

Preliminary Lessons From Vietnam War

Contrary to Roscoe Drummond's exhortation ("What Are Vietnam's Lessons? It's Time to Start Finding Out"), it is probably too soon to draw any conclusions on the Vietnam War. Still, certain preliminary ones may not be inappropriate.

1. It is extremely difficult to arouse enthusiasm over fighting a war — even a just one — to preserve the status quo. Lincoln, until he issued the Emancipation Proclamation, found this out in 1861-62.

2. It is extremely difficult to impress people with the necessity of fighting a brush-fire war in order to prevent a larger war. They respond more enthusiastically to an attack or to an obvious threat after it is too late. The western allies found this out in World War II.

3. In situations affecting vital interests, a future administration may have to decide whether it is willing to fight an undeclared war and put up with the seditious conduct that characterized the actions of opponents of this one or to declare war in circumstances when such a declaration might set off a conflagration.

4. There exists in this country a significant liberal minority which refuses to believe that "Communist totalitarianism represents the greatest existing threat to freedom and justice in the world" (quote by national secretary, Social Democrats, USA). This minority resembles its opposite ideological counterpart in Western Europe in the '30s that refused to recognize the threat of Nazi and Fascist aggression.

5. There exists in this country a smaller but still important minority that is convinced that love of peace will guarantee it. (cf. British and French pacifists of the '30s).

6. If the Communist powers resume their former policies of aggressive expansion, further confrontations between this or future administrations and these minorities will be inevitable.

Give Some Thought To The Newspaperboy

It has often been mentioned that a seasoned, self-made man started out early in his career as a boy, delivering newspapers. Possibly the qualities that made the man were built up from that source. Among such steadfast remarkable men came Senator Percy from Illinois, even now considered presidential timber.

Every phase of the newspaper business has its pangs of discouragement, yet few come to the attention of the subscribers, least of all the buffs and indignities showered on the newsboys by some well-meaning but thoughtless customers. In spite of all this I have never heard a newsboy utter a complaint.

I suppose most of us just take it for granted that our paper will always be there on time — not taking into consideration that some dog could have gotten to it first — or that in the case of the terrible drenching rains recently, in spite of the precaution to protect it with a waterproof wrapper we might still find a damp newspaper occasionally.

In defense of these hard-working youngsters, especially in these wet, rainy days, with their water-soaked clothes, dodging traffic along the highway, often delivering on foot when their bicycle is out of commission, please believe that he takes his service to you seriously, and when you are snugly seated in your favorite chair in a nice warm living room, enjoying your local newspaper, do give some thought to that very young business man out there on the street who made this convenience possible.

THE NEEDLE

By HAROLD COFFIN

The valentine you forgot to send your wife today is known as an installment-plan valentine. You'll pay for it the rest of your life.

ROSCOE DRUMMOND

Nixon Vs. Congress Showdown Really Over Taxpayers' Dollars

WASHINGTON — The earnest, honest, heated confrontation between Congress and the President is a healthy thing.

It will show Congress what it will have to do for itself to regain its eroded powers. It will show Mr. Nixon that there is a point, which he will have to respect, where the authority of the presidency ends and that of Congress begins.

The heart of the confrontation is not executive privilege nor failure of a President to consult with Congress nor "presidential dictatorship." It is money. Congress wants to spend more and the President wants to spend less. Congress is determined to have the President spend everything it appropriates. Mr. Nixon is determined to impound appropriations he deems wasteful and inflationary — as Presidents have done for a long time.

CONGRESSIONAL OPPONENTS — mostly Democrats but some Republicans — of the President's actions depict Richard Nixon as a miserly Scrooge intent upon grinding down the poor and heedless of social needs. They call him "ruthless." They say he is "fiendishly appealing to the worst instincts of the American people."

But how can a $268.7 billion Nixon budget — which is itself a 7.5 per cent increase over this year — be a Scrooge-minded budget designed to suffocate social welfare: It isn't.

It is all to the good that President Nixon has chosen this moment to force Congress to do something which comes exceedingly hard: to re-examine programs to see whether the need for them continues, whether they are working, whether they ought not to be brought to a timely end.

ALL THE TEMPTATIONS which pressure Congress to spend, spend, spend make it lose control of its appropriating and budget-making process. It starts programs without knowing what they will cost or how they will mount. Its appropriating arm doesn't speak to its revenue arm. It never sets a spending ceiling on itself and is now horrified that the President is setting a ceiling without asking Congress where he should cut.

Obviously, impoundment can reach a point where it is an abuse of an historic practice. Democratic members of Congress may feel that Mr. Nixon has been using it pretty high-handedly, but it is not being used in a vacuum for the fun of it.

It is being used because Congress with higher spending would fuel inflation without higher taxes.

SOME CONGRESSIONAL leaders talk about increasing revenue through plugging tax loopholes which were put there by Congress in the first place. But no revenue to be raised through tax reform would come near to what Congress would like to spend.

It is well that this confrontation between Congress and the President comes at a time when the economy is strong, when employment is rising and inflation is declining. It comes at a time when less federal spending is fiscally prudent.

Perhaps more important, it comes at a time when the unpopularity of increased taxes is at least equal to — if not greater than — the popularity of increased spending.

This is an argument the President uses to defend his $268.7 billion budget, which he doesn't dare allow to go any higher. The issue: If Congress is going to spend and spend and spend, it will have to tax and tax and tax.

This argument will increasingly weigh against the big spenders. In the end Congress will impose upon itself what it doesn't want the President to impose upon it — budgetary responsibility.

The 'Canny Consumer' Won't Stave Off That Energy Crisis

WASHINGTON — After a series of fake snow warnings and frost-free tennis-playing midwinter weekends, this part of the country has settled in for at least a few days of cold weather, and with it returns the subject of the great energy crisis.

Not that it had gone away, not on the balmiest afternoon, for the good reason that the oil and gas and utility companies have a vast vested interest in keeping it excited to maximum urgency. Advertising lavishly on one hand to encourage more users of their brand of energy, they are lobbying and advertising lavishly on the other to convince the government and the users that there is a terrible shortage — and therefore prices must go up and up.

BARRY COMMONER, the St. Louis biologist who foresaw all this years ago, told a senate committee that the United States is following a "blind, planless energy program that is an open invitation to disaster." He was both right and wrong: As far as the government and the general public are concerned, it is blind and planless, all right. But on the part of the suppliers, it is as coolly calculated as any public relations campaign in history.

If the companies get away with it, if their alarms are accepted as free of excess profit motive and their price increases go through without effective challenge, then an old truism about the American public can be laid to rest forever.

In fact, it was never particularly true to start with. It is the one about the canny American consumer making his way through the free competitive marketplace, keeping prices and product quality in line with buying resistance here, adaptation of lifestyle there. The real truth is that that consumer has been jumping through the manufacturers' hoop for years, demanding this and that next product as if his life depended on it — when the month before he did not know it even existed.

In the energy situation, there is an opportunity for the consumer to thumb his nose at his longtime manipulators, despite their multi-million-dollar propaganda effort. I do not predict we will do it, but the chance is at hand. At least it would be a gesture.

COMMONER SUMMED it up by saying we should wear sweaters indoors and start riding more trains. Turning the thermostat down, he said, would "help end our enslavement to the oil companies" and enable us to "look them in the eye and talk back to them." The unfortunately timed Penn Central strike may have embarrassed him a bit on his train-riding suggestion, but it should not have.

No less than 25 per cent of all the energy used in the country goes into transportation. The most wasteful form of transportation (measured in gallons per hundred passenger miles) is the airplane; next most is the automobile or truck. For intracity travel, the car is most wasteful, with the bus using less than half as much fuel to move the same passenger load. Between cities, the car uses less than half the airplane, but both bus and train use less than half the car. And it is hardly necessary to point out where walking and bicycling fit into the equation, as to expense, energy consumption and pollution.

Nearly a fifth of all energy used in this country goes to space heating of buildings. That is where turning the thermostat down about five degrees comes in, and with it adequate home insulation, which can cut the average domestic heating bill by 40 per cent each winter. Turn those suggestions around in the summer, when overuse of inefficient air conditioning has become habitual.

Air conditioners and other electric appliances in homes largely account for more than doubling total electricity consumption between 1960 and 1970, a period when each individual home used 84 per cent more electricity. Chalk that up to electric carving knives, toothbrushes, three TV sets, clothes dryers and frostless refrigerators (which use half again as much as the old style). The opportunities are rife for restraint at home.

YET WHEN IT COMES down to it, the oil, gas and utilities people know damn well they will prevail if effective resistance depends on the American consumer's curbing his self-indulgence.

That is why the only rescue is for the federal government to impose a rational energy policy in which the consumer takes precedence over the industries. And that, in turn, is why you might as well figure on shelling out a bigger share of what you have left after taxes to save the poor, starving oil, gas and utilities companies.

MUSIC REVIEW

Spring Opera's Visual Opener

By MARTIN FRICK

SAN FRANCISCO — The St. Matthew Passion by Johann Sebastian Bach, opened the San Francisco Spring Opera Theater at the Curran last night in a production which splendidly visualized the drama inherent in the beautiful, profound music.

The opening movement is for double chorus polyphonically inviting each other to share in the grief over the crucifixion of Christ. Beneath is a richly swaying orchestra, while above them all, a boys chorus sings the folk melody Martin Luther borrowed for a congregational alternative to the Agnus Dei in the German Mass. Marred only by the bleating tone of the electronic organ which doubled the cantus firmus sung by the San Francisco Boys Chorus, the movement set the tone for what was to happen musically and visually for the next three hours.

Gerald Freedman has staged the Passion with loving devotion to the famous Avignon Pieta painting to which he returns in tableau several times. But the staging is much more than a series of tableaus. There is constant movement and interplay between the chorus and all the characters from St. Matthew's account of the last days of Jesus. Yet the impelling beauty of the staging is that it never imposes upon the music or the sacredness with which some hold the story, Indeed, a more devotional spectacle you may never see.

Freedman is fortunate to have at his disposal singers who can act — and move. Twenty-four-year-old soprano Carmen Balthrop is a dancer as well as a singer, yet her movements, as those of the other three soloists who portray the priest and communicants from the Avignon painting, are always reverent and intense. And they sing their arias and recitatives as signs welling up from deep within souls whose dearest love has been snatched from them.

Bach is unique in his oratorios for making his airs duets between voice and obbligato instruments. The thumping bass in the alto's "Have mercy on me," the wailing oboes in her "Ah, Golgotha" which Carole Walters sang with intensity although with a too-heavy vibrato.

Tenor Bruce Yarnell, who sings tomorrow afternoon for a Marin Women's Club, sang warmly, if not always crisply, the beloved air "I would be with my Jesu watching."

Perhaps Bach's most exquisite air of this genre is the duet for soprano and flute "For love now is my Savior dying," and with it, Miss Balthrop and flutist Walter Subke brought the audience to a hushed immobility.

Baritone Douglas Lawrence was a mellow, yet masculine Jesus both in voice and appearance. The narrator, or Evangelist, was sung by Richard Shadley, high in a pulpit at stage right, with a full, clear tone perfectly in keeping with his appearance as a preacher out of the Lucas Cranach paintings of the Reformation.

The chorus, trained by Byron Dean Ryan, must switch back and forth from hysterical mob to faithful congregation, and this they did with great facility. Their brief phrases were always definite. The last chorale was sung with a most stirring pianissimo, the last chorus with an almost exuberant hope as they laid to rest their Friend.

Abraham Kaplan conducted with confidence throughout, although a few of the chorales were sung in tempi which momentarily questioned his involvement.

Ming Cho Lee's 20th-Century pipe sculpture provided a timeless canopy over his delicately lighted set that was best suited for the trial scenes. The gentle russet tones of the costumes blended in perfectly.

Other people and moments should be mentioned, such as Judas' hanging mime and the tender burial ballet, as well as Robert Shaw's excellent English translation of Picander's Pietistic libretto.

The Passion will be repeated Saturday and next Thursday in repertory with Bizet's "Carmen" to be followed by two comic operas.

'Charlie Brown' Play Announced

"You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown," a musical based on Charies Schulz's "Peanuts" cartoon characters, will be presented at Old Mill School in Mill Valley Feb. 22 and 23.

The play will star fourth and fifth graders in the title roles, inlcuding David Platt as Charlie Brown, and Capron as Snoopy, Jennifer Geerlings as Lucy; Scott Sommers as Linus, Lee Bardwell as Schroeder and Cathleen Bauer as Patty.

Stephen Riffkin, a music and drama teacher at Old Mill, will direct the production, to be staged at 7:30 o'clock both nights.

Fairfax Ignores Alarm On Future Town High-Risers

The Fairfax Town Council last night adopted a new zoning ordinance over the objections of one councilman who claimed the measure could permit high rise buildings in the town. (Another Fairfax Town Council story, page 1.)

Councilman Frank J. Egger claimed the new zoning regulations eliminate height limitations on buildings in residential areas by permitting exceptions to the regular 35-foot limit in granting use permits.

"I see a day when high rises will be presented to the town of Fairfax," Egger said.

The other councilmen did not share Egger's alarm. They expressed confidence that future council members would exercise discretion in setting height limits in use permits and noted that the ordinance does have sufficient controls on building heights.

Egger maintained that the ordinance was not consistent with the town's general plan and that its original intent was to meet state regulations requiring ordinances be consistent with general plans by July 1, 1973.

The Fairfax Town Council also:

ABAG — Named Councilman E. Ross Parkerson as its representative to the Association of Bay Area Governments, and Councilman Robert R. Souza as alternate.

SIGN — Ordered Town Atty. Wallace S. Myers to negotiate with attorneys representing First Federal Savings and Loan Association for removal of a projecting sign at the association's new Fairfax branch. Through an error of the design review board, the sign was permitted to be erected although it violates by two feet a town ordinance restricting projecting signs to 16 square feet.

CREEK — Heard a report by Parkerson recommending a creek control agency. He cited numerous abuses by citizens, including the building of bulkheads and dumping of wastes.

DRAINAGE — Offered town crews to help locate a private drain at Piper Court apartments and to recommend possible solutions to prevent future drainage problems. Apartment owners contend the grading of a fire road above their property caused silt to slide onto their property during heavy rains, and held the city accountable for repair of drainage culverts by the road. The property owners threatened litigation after the council denied any legal responsibility in the matter.

ENVIRONMENT — Directed the city administrator to screen consultants to compile an environmental impact report regarding construction of Canon Village and Tennis Club.

FLOOD — Introduced a proclamation that a local flood emergency exists in the town and approved an ordinance providing for an emergency organization. The actions were taken so that Fairfax residents who suffered damage due to recent storms will be eligible for federal and state disaster assistance.

INSURANCE — Held over action to apply for federal flood insurance until the next council meeting at 8 p.m. next Tuesday.

Ferrante And Teicher Know How To Please An Audience

By VERA M. OLMSTED

Duo-pianists Ferrante and Teicher breezed into the Marin Veterans Memorial Building last night, bringing listeners their own version of the Hollywood sound, with just the right touch of nostalgia.

There were people of all ages in the large audience, from young children to their grandparents, and this enthusiastic group was obviously familiar with the movie and Broadway hits which form the basis of Ferrante and Teicher's music. Murmurs of appreciation and bursts of applause greeted some of the favorites as soon as they launched into the first few bars.

The duo-piano team combines showmanship, a chatty manner (and a few lame jokes), and an easy way of weaving popular songs into a stylized and synchronized performance.

Ferrante and Teicher started out the first half of the program dressed in identical midnight blue tuxedos, with ruffled shirt cuffs peeking out of the sleeves. They controlled the mood partially by the use of changing lights and even a star-lit sky to give the effect of a Hollywood movie premiere.

Ferrante and Teicher's piano style puts the emphasis on the melody, with a solid, rather square harmonic accompaniment, ornamented with runs, arpeggios, glissandos and other virtuoso effects.

Fortunately they are accomplished pianists with nimble fingers. Their music is so well worked out that they hardly glance at each other while playing.

In an amusing sketch, they pretended to be one pianist looking at himself in a mirror, and they very cleverly arranged the music for "Tea for Two" to take advantage of the synchronized mirror image movements.

The two crowd favorites were Ferrante and Teicher's version of "Fiddler on the Roof," and George Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue." This last is a tricky work to play, and some of the passages were a little sloppy, but the syncopated rhythms and jazz chords, combined with the vivid lighting effects produced a real show stopper and was a welcome change after the relative sameness of the other pieces.

Ferrante and Teicher know how to entertain their particular audiences — they know what music will please them, and they know how to add a little humor to keep the concert moving. Last night's program was a satisfying excursion into the pop classic hits of past and present.

Driver Says Innocent To Charge

A Tamalpais Valley man, once convicted of making obscene movies, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a drunken driving charge stemming from a celebration of the reversal of his movie conviction.

A pretrial conference for 42-year-old Lloyd K. Downton was set for March 7.

Downton served more than 10 months in prison on charges of conspiracy and aiding and abetting an act of oral copulation before learning Jan. 30 that the District Court of Appeal had reversed his conviction.

Date should be Jan. 29.

Early the next day, the California Highway Patrol stopped him at the Alexander Avenue exit from Highway 101 in Sausalito because his car was weaving. He was arrested after failing a roadside sobriety test, according to the patrol.

More Research Spending Seen

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — Spending in the United States on research and development this year will hit $30.1 billion, an increase of about 7.5 per cent over last year, according to Battelle Research Laboratories.

The annual Battelle report said the federal government would spend almost $16.3 billion; industry about $12.2 billion; colleges and universities about $14 billion and other institutions $442 million.

The report said industry is the "fastest growing source" of support for research and development.

THE PEOPLE'S SCHOOLS

Which Children Denied An Equal Education?

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

Is "equal educational opportunity" dependent on equal spending for schools, as contended in the famous Serrano case?

Among the myriad figures in the State Department of Education's 590-page report on the California state testing program for 1970-71, released last week, are some which cast considerable doubt on that premise.

When Office of Economic Opportunity lawyers filed suit against the state in behalf of Joseph Serrano and others late in 1968, they claimed the plaintiffs' children were denied equal educational opportunity because the amounts spent per pupil in their school districts — despite high tax rates — were far below the amounts spent in some other districts.

As examples, they cited Baldwin Park and Beverly Hills Unified School Districts, both in Los Angeles County.

BEVERLY HILLS is one of the highest spending districts in California. Baldwin Park is among the lowest spending unified districts (those which include both elementary and high schools). Yet the school tax rate in Baldwin Park is considerably higher than in Beverly Hills, because of much lower assessed valuation per pupil.

This means, contended the OEO lawyers, that children in Baldwin Park and other districts with low assessed valuation are denied an equal education. Six justices of the California Supreme Court agreed with their contention.

Tables in the statewide testing report show that Beverly Hills spent $1,157 per pupil on costs of instruction (not the total cost) in the 1970-71 school year. Baldwin Park spent $525.

BEVERLY HILLS, however, was not the highest spending district in the state. More per pupil was spent by three other unified school districts and eight elementary school districts.

Baldwin Park was not the lowest. Dozens of elementary school districts spent less per pupil, as did 18 other unified districts — two of them right in Los Angeles County.

Although comparison of the education that school districts provide is difficult, a pretty reliable index — since reading is essential to all other studies — is provided by reading test scores. Whether a district is doing a good job may be gauged by comparing the rank of its readers in first grade with that in 12th grade.

IN THE 1970-71 state reading tests, Baldwin Park pupils ranked 52 (just above the state median of 50) in the first grade, but fell to 10 in 12th grade. Beverly Hills pupils started out at 86 in first grade and ranked 97 in 12th grade, an 11-point gain.

Borrego Springs district in San Diego County was one of the three unified districts that outspent Beverly Hills. Its first graders ranked 13, but its 12th graders ranked 60, a 47-point rise.

The story was different, however, in the other two unified districts that outspent Beverly Hills: Berkeley and Emery, both in Alameda County. Berkeley ($1,168 per pupil cost of instruction) ranked 88 in first grade reading but only 31 in 12th grade. Emery ($1,684 per pupil) ranked 88 also in first grade but only 1 — the lowest possible — in 12th.

AMONG UNIFIED districts spending less per pupil than Baldwin Park, six slid downward between first and 12th grades — though none so far as did Baldwin Park itself.

However, nine others held about even, with less than 10 points difference in their rankings in first and 12th grade reading. These included Linden district in San Joaquin County, which spent the least per pupil on instruction of any unified district at $468, or $57 less than Baldwin Park.

And three unified districts spending less per pupil than Baldwin Park showed exceptional reading improvement from first to 12th grade. Fairfield-Suisun in Solano County ranked 49 in first grade and 90 in 12th. Vacaville, also in Solano, ranked 55 in first and 79 in 12th. But the most dramatic record was that of Templeton district in San Luis Obispo County, whose pupils ranked 5 in first grade and 96 (just one point below Beverly Hills) in 12th.

ARE THE CHILDREN in Templeton denied equal education?

Or is equal education being denied those in the Emery district, which outspent Beverly Hills by $527 per pupil — an amount, incidentally, $16 more than the total per pupil spent on instruction in Templeton?

Land Use Is Now Top Ecological Concern

By ROBERT CAHN

The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

Land use and energy have become the overriding concerns of American environmentalists.

A Christian Science Monitor survey of environmental leaders across the U.S. shows that what worries them most today is no longer air and water pollution — the chief problem cited in a similar poll three years ago.

Asked to list in order the five major environmental issues now facing the nation, 71 per cent of those polled selected land use among them. Forty-six per cent gave land use first or second priority out of the five.

Energy consumption policy was listed in the first five by 57 per cent of the experts. It was given first or second priority by 36 per cent of the environmental leaders.

Other issues chosen among the five leading problems are water pollution (43 per cent); air pollution (39 per cent); population control and management (29 per cent); transportation (25 per cent); solid-waste disposal (14 per cent); and national forest management and timber-cutting policy (14 per cent).

"The nation's first objective should be an unbiased assessment of national energy requirements and how essential needs can be met with the least environmental impact and with the least reduction in the quality of living," said Dr. Lois Sharpe of the League of Women Voters of the U.S.

William E. Towell of the American Forestry Association said he still felt air and water pollution was the top issue "because we have not yet cleaned up a single river or city."

Asked to list environmental legislation that should receive priority in the new Congress, a majority of those polled felt that the emphasis should be placed on passing the environmental legislation Congress has had before it the past two years rather than starting bills in new areas. The one bill most often mentioned was the proposed national land-use policy act.

Congress now has opened hearings at which federal leaders are testifying to the urgency of that legislation.

In answer to a question concerning compliance with the environmental-impact statement procedure of the National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA), almost all of those replying to the questionnaires said federal agencies were not adequately following the act.

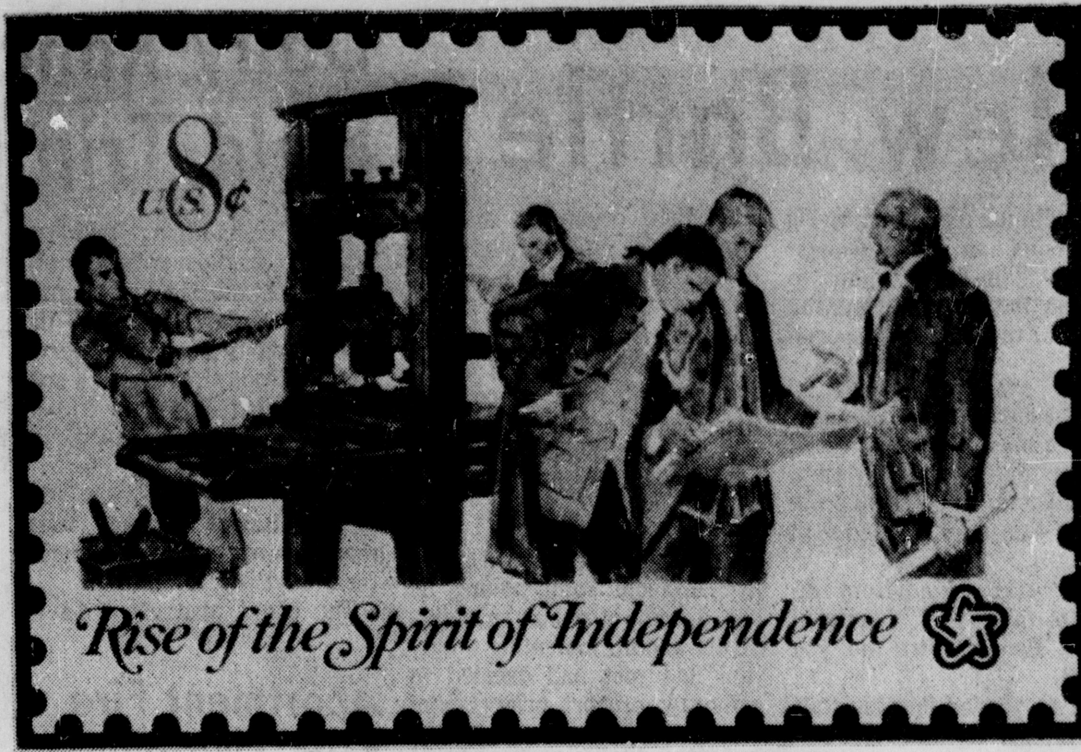
Several citizen leaders stressed dissatisfaction with the sincerity of the agencies and charged they were not actually using the act as a tool for bringing environmental planning into decision-making. Others said members of Congress should be urged not to weaken the NEPA with amendments.

Section 102 of the act requires federal agencies to analyze the short-term and long-term impacts of "major" actions they are considering which "significantly" affect the quality of the human environment. They must consider economic and social impacts. And they must consider possible alternatives to the proposed action, even the alternative of no action at all.

In effect, the law requires federal agencies to add the environmental criterion to all the others they have traditionally used to test their proposed actions before making final decisions.

"In many instances too little attention is given to potential alternatives and the essentiality of the proposed project is too frequently taken for granted," said Raymond C. Hubley Jr., executive director of the Izaak Walton League of America. "Fuzzy projects should be rejected to demonstrate the NEPA is for keeps."

Most agencies lack the ecological expertise to do an adequate job, commented Dr. Frank W. Blair, president of the American Institute of Biological Sciences. "Predictive modeling such as is emerging from the international biosphere program would provide the best impact statement," says Dr. Blair.



NEW POSTAGE STAMP

Communications in colonial times is the theme of a new stamp which goes on sale Friday at Portland, Ore., in conjunction with the International Postage Stamp Exhibition. Design of the stamp continues postal recognition of the bicentennial of the American Revolution. It points to the role of the printer and pamphleteer in uniting the patriots. Background of the stamp is gray, with the words "Rise of the Spirit of Independence" in red at the bottom and U.S. 8c in blue at top left.

Revolutionaries In Ireland Split

By PETER C. STUART

The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

DUBLIN, Ireland — The coffee-colored door at 2A Lower Kavin Street, worn pale by the hands of countless republican revolutionaries, opens no more.

The explanation is thumbtacked to the door — a government order entitled "Offenses against the state act, 1939."

Headlines at a newsstand a few doors away, meanwhile, suggest the start of a similar crackdown against extremists on the other side in Northern Ireland — British lockup for the first time of militant Protestant loyalists.

These twin initiatives, south and north of the border, raise the question: just how strong today are the loyalist and republican private armies?

It's a question increasingly relevant as the warfare in Ulster's streets has suddenly worsened.

That locked door in Lower Kevin Street may tellingly symbolize the present plight of the republican group with the longest and bloodiest involvement in the three-year struggle: the Provisional IRA.

Sean O'Bradaigh, Sinn Fein publicity director and younger brother of its jailed president, Ruairi O'Bradaigh, insists in an interview here that organizational health is "the best in years and years."

But evidence from Ulster — the front line, so to speak — strongly suggests otherwise:

The "Provos" have mutely conceded their inability to defend their Andersonstown stronghold in Belfast from roving gunmen by letting the community leaders plead for British army roadblocks, then offering not to attack the soldiers.

A minority vigilante group, the Catholic Ex-Servicemen's Association, is shopping for weapons in the Irish Republic rather than continuing to rely on armed protection from the Provisionals.

The army and police report some recent arms discoveries to be more permanently stashed "further down the well," as one official puts it — as if the Provos were resigned to lying low for a spell. (The smaller "official" wing of the IRA has observed a cease-fire since May.)

The apparent ills of the Provisionals cannot be diagnosed with the glib observation that increasing numbers of them now lie in jail or cemeteries.

For the Provos survived — even flourished — in 1971 and 1972 when scores were herded into Ulster internment camps without benefit of trial.

In the South the Provo command has been arrested or driven underground by the suddenly intolerant Irish Republic.

But most important — perhaps out of resentment over last year's indiscriminate campaign, or simply war weariness — these new challenges are failing to rally the Provisionals' old grass-roots sources of replenishment.

The troubles of the Protestant loyalist private army — the Ulster Defense Association (UDA) and the smaller, more tightly organized companion corps, the Ulster Volunteer Force (UVF) — seem trivial by comparison.

The UDA lacks money and equipment rather than manpower.

The real professionals linked with the UDA's reputed 80,000-man "army" are the 500 or fewer joint members of the Ulster Volunteer Force — the oldest (60 years) and most undercover loyalist paramilitary group. Like the IRA it is illegal in Northern Ireland.

But resurgence of the hard-line militarists such as the UVF, in the judgment of seasoned observers, may be shoving the UDA toward an open split with its politically minded elements, of whom the exiled Fogel is but one.

The Ulster struggle abounds in such splits — the most conspicuous being the 1969 division of the IRA into ideological "Officials" and brute force "Provisionals."

Action for '76

With the nation's 200th birthday just 3 years away, the Department of Interior has decided to expand and redesign its environmental action campaign. Heading the program is "Johnny Horizon '76." Johnny's motto is "Let's Clean Up America For Our 200th Birthday." Johnny Horizon encourages cleaning up our environment by individual action and community projects. Johnny Horizon '76 environmental kits have been sent to many schools. To promote recycling of paper products, one large Western grocery chain distributed a million paper bags with a Johnny Horizon '76 action message on them.

DO YOU KNOW — Who is the Secretary of Interior?

Oil Shortage May Result In Canadian Export Curb

By BRUCE HUTCHISON
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

Because of an oil shortage at home, Canada may have to restrict the export of Canadian oil to the United States.

Energy Minister Donald Macdonald told Parliament there would be plenty of oil to fill Canadian requirements in February, but he could not yet foresee the situation in March.

The government, he said, had asked private oil companies to prevent any shortage in Canada. If they could not reach satisfactory agreement among themselves to protect Canadian consumers, export controls would be imposed.

Until recent years the United States kept a tight ceiling on Canadian oil imports. Now the former quotas have been relaxed to the point where the international pipelines are operating at full capacity.

The Canadian government expects that the remaining American restrictions will soon be removed altogether. But already they are almost irrelevant to Canada's many-sided energy problem.

Beginning to study it in depth, a parliamentary committee was disturbed by the National Energy Board's report that in the late 1970's Canada might not be able to meet its own projected needs and continue oil exports at their current volume.

This forecast is based on the nation's known reserves of about eight billion barrels. It does not include possible discoveries in the Arctic and on the Atlantic coastal shelf nor the huge but costly potential of the northern Athabasca tar sands.

Viewing the long-term prospects, the New Democratic party in Parliament suggested the construction of a pipeline from the western oil fields to serve eastern Canada. At present only the area west of Montreal is supplied by Canadian oil, the remainder by foreign imports.

The government has rejected a trans-Canada pipeline because it would raise the price of oil in the east and become obsolete if an offshore field were found on the Atlantic Coast, now under intensive exploration.

While pondering all those internal problems, Canada has been discussing with the United States the risk of a joint oil shortage during some future emergency.

Ottawa refuses to consider the American government's plan for a pooling of continental energy resources, but Washington fears that eastern Canada might need scarce American oil if overseas supplies were cut off.

These talks have reached a stalemate for the time being, Macdonald says. They will soon be continued, however, with Canada seeking an agreement by which both nations would promise their "best efforts" to guarantee mutually adequate supplies in any crisis such as a war.

USPS Planning New Mail Slow-Up

The United States Postal Service is at it again.

The USPS's latest proposal is to have all Marin mail sent to Rincon Annex in San Francisco for sorting and dispatch. This will mean at least one day delay in delivery of mail which originates in Marin and goes to Marin addresses — even if the addressee is only a block down the street. It also will result in delays of outgoing mail, for the Rincon Annex Post Office is notorious for its slow-ups.

USPS wants to do this to provide work for a couple of mail sorting machines it has purchased with the money it should be saving by real economies.

The machines were supposed to be in operation in December. They're not in operation yet.

The same kind of delay probably will occur when they start handling the mail.

There is no sense in having a letter mailed in Marin thrown into a bag and hauled to San Francisco to await its turn at the sorting machines — or to be thrown out by the machines because they cannot "read" its handwritten address, and then be sorted by hand by a San Francisco mail clerk. There is less sense when the lette is addressed to someone here in Marin and could reach the addressee in less time than it takes it to be sorted in San Francisco.

San Rafael Postmaster Hugh Cassidy doesn't think much of the idea. He doesn't say much about it, because he has to be careful lest the U.S. Postal Service replace him as postmaster. But he doesn't like it.

Cassidy, you see, doesn't have a congressman's protection any more. When he was named postmaster, it was by congressional appointment. But creation of the U.S. Postal Service did away with that. Now postmasters are hired by the hired brass that runs the U.S. Postal Service — not one of whom is answerable to the voters.

When USPS was being promoted in Congress, the big argument for it was that it would do away with political appointments. There was too much politics in the post office, claimed proponents of change.

Maybe there was, but it didn't apply to Cassidy. He had worked his way up through the civil service ranks as a career postal employee and was assistant postmaster in San Rafael under Postmaster Warren Williams before getting the appointment on Williams's retirement.

He knows the business. He also knows that mail service is of vital concern to the public.

The people who run the U.S. Postal Service don't seem to know that. They treat mail like it was sacks of coal being shipped during the summer for eventual sale to customers in the fall.

The postmasters in Marin can't do anything about the proposed change on March 12. Only the people can do anything about it — by demanding that our senators and congressmen put a stop to this nonsense of having the mail service controlled by appointees who are answerable to no one.

Reagan Ready To Take Tax Program To People

By RUS WALTON

Governor Reagan is now starting to unfold some of the details of his long range tax reduction and spending control proposal. It is designed to retard the growth and cost of government over the next 15 years and to put a lid on the state's tax take.

Basically, the theory is to use the state's expanding economy and rising total personal income (about 8 per cent a year) to finance tax reductions while providing retarded but sufficient growth money for state government.

IN A NUTSHELL, these are the main points of the Reagan plan:

(The proposed 1973-74 budget of $9.2 billion will take about 8.75 per cent of the anticipated $110 billion in total personal incomes. Reagan's plan would reduce that percentage by .1 of one per cent a year over a period of years until a limit of 7.15 per cent was reached. The tax take would be frozen at 7.15 per cent by constitutional amendment.)

A long-term rollback of state spending geared to a retarded annual increase in state revenues.

(The Reagan administration estimates that if state spending continued at its present rate of growth, by 1989 the annual state budget would be $47 billion. Under Reagan's proposal, the budget could not be more than $27 billion in 1989-90.)

Commitment of any surplus revenues to reduced state taxes or tax rates.

(The legislature would be empowered to determine the state's tax "mix" — what portion of the total take would come from sales, income and other taxes.)

A two-thirds vote requirement in the legislature to increase any tax rates;

A continuing ceiling on local property taxes (as enacted in SB 90), and

The formation of an economics estimate commission to project the levels of maximum state spending each year.

(That commission would comprise the state controller, the legislative analyst and the finance director. Each October the commission would estimate the state's total personal income figure for the next year. The governor would be required to keep his proposed budget total under the mandated percentage of that estimate.

(Each April the commission would update its estimates of total personal incomes and the legislature would be required to keep its revised budget total under the percentage limit.)

THE PLAN ALSO provides for emergencies. A fund equal to .2 of one per cent of total personal incomes would be established. That money could be used to provide state assistance in time of disaster.

Also, the legislature, by a two-thirds vote, could raise a specific tax to meet an emergency (such as increasing the gasoline tax to replace roads destroyed by a flood). That increase could remain in effect only until the next election. If still more emergency funds were needed, a proposed extension of the tax hike would be submitted to the voters.

The unique long-range tax reduction and limitation plan is the work of a special task force headed by Lewis K. Uhler and Charles Hobbs, governor's assistants.

Some of the nation's top economists served as advisers to the task force: Milton Friedman, University of Chicago; Peter Drucker and Craig Stubblebine, Claremont College; Mike Martin, CSU-Hayward; Dan Orr, UC San Diego, and 14 others.

Amendments to the state constitution will be required to put the plan into operation.

Governor Reagan is submitting the proposal to the legislature knowing that Assemblyman Bob Moretti and State Sen. George Moscone and others will try to make it a political football.

But, there is another way to get the tax reduction proposal to a vote of the people: the initiative proposition.

The governor is ready to do just that — probably on a special ballot in November, 1973.

Devaluing Dollar Furthers Inflation

People who think the devaluation of the dollar has no effect on our internal economy neglect the fact that it causes the price of foreign made goods to go up and it allows foreign nations to bid up the price of American made goods with their supplies of unwanted devalued dollars. The effects of this letter are demonstrated by what the Russian wheat deal has done to American bread prices and what sales of lumber to the Japanese has done to our lumber costs.

A currency is devalued when it is debased by inflation. Inflation is not caused by rapacious unions or by greedy business men, but by government deficit spending for they then print more money to make up the difference increasing the supply of money relative to goods, that is, prices go up.

Few question Mr. Nixon's efforts to slow federal spending but his ordering of priorities is surely questionable. It is utter madness to divert or halt money aimed at solving festering social problems while doing little or nothing to reduce money which feeds an already overgrown and bloated military establishment. Mr. Nixon seems to be unaware that his actions abet the efforts of those who will gain by renewed social upset and turmoil.

Preliminary Lessons From Vietnam War

Contrary to Roscoe Drummond's exhortation ("What Are Vietnam's Lessons? It's Time to Start Finding Out"), it is probably too soon to draw any conclusions on the Vietnam War. Still, certain preliminary ones may not be inappropriate.

1. It is extremely difficult to arouse enthusiasm over fighting a war — even a just one — to preserve the status quo. Lincoln, until he issued the Emancipation Proclamation, found this out in 1861-62.

2. It is extremely difficult to impress people with the necessity of fighting a brush-fire war in order to prevent a larger war. They respond more enthusiastically to an attack or to an obvious threat after it is too late. The western allies found this out in World War II.

3. In situations affecting vital interests, a future administration may have to decide whether it is willing to fight an undeclared war and put up with the seditious conduct that characterized the actions of opponents of this one or to declare war in circumstances when such a declaration might set off a conflagration.

4. There exists in this country a significant liberal minority which refuses to believe that "Communist totalitarianism represents the greatest existing threat to freedom and justice in the world" (quote by national secretary, Social Democrats, USA). This minority resembles its opposite ideological counterpart in Western Europe in the '30s that refused to recognize the threat of Nazi and Fascist aggression.

5. There exists in this country a smaller but still important minority that is convinced that love of peace will guarantee it. (cf. British and French pacifists of the '30s).

6. If the Communist powers resume their former policies of aggressive expansion, further confrontations between this or future administrations and these minorities will be inevitable.

Give Some Thought To The Newspaperboy

It has often been mentioned that a seasoned, self-made man started out early in his career as a boy, delivering newspapers. Possibly the qualities that made the man were built up from that source. Among such steadfast remarkable men came Senator Percy from Illinois, even now considered presidential timber.

Every phase of the newspaper business has its pangs of discouragement, yet few come to the attention of the subscribers, least of all the buffs and indignities showered on the newsboys by some well-meaning but thoughtless customers. In spite of all this I have never heard a newsboy utter a complaint.

I suppose most of us just take it for granted that our paper will always be there on time — not taking into consideration that some dog could have gotten to it first — or that in the case of the terrible drenching rains recently, in spite of the precaution to protect it with a waterproof wrapper we might still find a damp newspaper occasionally.

In defense of these hard-working youngsters, especially in these wet, rainy days, with their water-soaked clothes, dodging traffic along the highway, often delivering on foot when their bicycle is out of commission, please believe that he takes his service to you seriously, and when you are snugly seated in your favorite chair in a nice warm living room, enjoying your local newspaper, do give some thought to that very young business man out there on the street who made this convenience possible.

Nixon Vs. Congress Showdown Really Over Taxpayers' Dollars

WASHINGTON — The earnest, honest, heated confrontation between Congress and the President is a healthy thing.

It will show Congress what it will have to do for itself to regain its eroded powers. It will show Mr. Nixon that there is a point, which he will have to respect, where the authority of the presidency ends and that of Congress begins.

The heart of the confrontation is not executive privilege nor failure of a President to consult with Congress nor "presidential dictatorship." It is money. Congress wants to spend more and the President wants to spend less. Congress is determined to have the President spend everything it appropriates. Mr. Nixon is determined to impound appropriations he deems wasteful and inflationary — as Presidents have done for a long time.

CONGRESSIONAL OPPONENTS — mostly Democrats but some Republicans — of the President's actions depict Richard Nixon as a miserly Scrooge intent upon grinding down the poor and heedless of social needs. They call him "ruthless." They say he is "fiendishly appealing to the worst instincts of the American people."

But how can a $268.7 billion Nixon budget — which is itself a 7.5 per cent increase over this year — be a Scrooge-minded budget designed to suffocate social welfare: It isn't.

It is all to the good that President Nixon has chosen this moment to force Congress to do something which comes exceedingly hard: to re-examine programs to see whether the need for them continues, whether they are working, whether they ought not to be brought to a timely end.

ALL THE TEMPTATIONS which pressure Congress to spend, spend, spend make it lose control of its appropriating and budget-making process. It starts programs without knowing what they will cost or how they will mount. Its appropriating arm doesn't speak to its revenue arm. It never sets a spending ceiling on itself and is now horrified that the President is setting a ceiling without asking Congress where he should cut.

Obviously, impoundment can reach a point where it is an abuse of an historic practice. Democratic members of Congress may feel that Mr. Nixon has been using it pretty high-handedly, but it is not being used in a vacuum for the fun of it.

It is being used because Congress with higher spending would fuel inflation without higher taxes.

SOME CONGRESSIONAL leaders talk about increasing revenue through plugging tax loopholes which were put there by Congress in the first place. But no revenue to be raised through tax reform would come near to what Congress would like to spend.

It is well that this confrontation between Congress and the President comes at a time when the economy is strong, when employment is rising and inflation is declining. It comes at a time when less federal spending is fiscally prudent.

Perhaps more important, it comes at a time when the unpopularity of increased taxes is at least equal to — if not greater than — the popularity of increased spending.

This is an argument the President uses to defend his $268.7 billion budget, which he doesn't dare allow to go any higher. The issue: If Congress is going to spend and spend and spend, it will have to tax and tax and tax.

This argument will increasingly weigh against the big spenders. In the end Congress will impose upon itself what it doesn't want the President to impose upon it — budgetary responsibility.

The 'Canny Consumer' Won't Stave Off That Energy Crisis

WASHINGTON — After a series of fake snow warnings and frost-free tennis-playing midwinter weekends, this part of the country has settled in for at least a few days of cold weather, and with it returns the subject of the great energy crisis.

Not that it had gone away, not on the balmiest afternoon, for the good reason that the oil and gas and utility companies have a vast vested interest in keeping it excited to maximum urgency. Advertising lavishly on one hand to encourage more users of their brand of energy, they are lobbying and advertising lavishly on the other to convince the government and the users that there is a terrible shortage — and therefore prices must go up and up.

BARRY COMMONER, the St. Louis biologist who foresaw all this years ago, told a senate committee that the United States is following a "blind, planless energy program that is an open invitation to disaster." He was both right and wrong: As far as the government and the general public are concerned, it is blind and planless, all right. But on the part of the suppliers, it is as coolly calculated as any public relations campaign in history.

If the companies get away with it, if their alarms are accepted as free of excess profit motive and their price increases go through without effective challenge, then an old truism about the American public can be laid to rest forever.

In fact, it was never particularly true to start with. It is the one about the canny American consumer making his way through the free competitive marketplace, keeping prices and product quality in line with buying resistance here, adaptation of lifestyle there. The real truth is that that consumer has been jumping through the manufacturers' hoop for years, demanding this and that next product as if his life depended on it — when the month before he did not know it even existed.

In the energy situation, there is an opportunity for the consumer to thumb his nose at his longtime manipulators, despite their multi-million-dollar propaganda effort. I do not predict we will do it, but the chance is at hand. At least it would be a gesture.

COMMONER SUMMED it up by saying we should wear sweaters indoors and start riding more trains. Turning the thermostat down, he said, would "help end our enslavement to the oil companies" and enable us to "look them in the eye and talk back to them." The unfortunately timed Penn Central strike may have embarrassed him a bit on his train-riding suggestion, but it should not have.

No less than 25 per cent of all the energy used in the country goes into transportation. The most wasteful form of transportation (measured in gallons per hundred passenger miles) is the airplane; next most is the automobile or truck. For intracity travel, the car is most wasteful, with the bus using less than half as much fuel to move the same passenger load. Between cities, the car uses less than half the airplane, but both bus and train use less than half the car. And it is hardly necessary to point out where walking and bicycling fit into the equation, as to expense, energy consumption and pollution.

Nearly a fifth of all energy used in this country goes to space heating of buildings. That is where turning the thermostat down about five degrees comes in, and with it adequate home insulation, which can cut the average domestic heating bill by 40 per cent each winter. Turn those suggestions around in the summer, when overuse of inefficient air conditioning has become habitual.

Air conditioners and other electric appliances in homes largely account for more than doubling total electricity consumption between 1960 and 1970, a period when each individual home used 84 per cent more electricity. Chalk that up to electric carving knives, toothbrushes, three TV sets, clothes dryers and frostless refrigerators (which use half again as much as the old style). The opportunities are rife for restraint at home.

YET WHEN IT COMES down to it, the oil, gas and utilities people know damn well they will prevail if effective resistance depends on the American consumer's curbing his self-indulgence.

That is why the only rescue is for the federal government to impose a rational energy policy in which the consumer takes precedence over the industries. And that, in turn, is why you might as well figure on shelling out a bigger share of what you have left after taxes to save the poor, starving oil, gas and utilities companies.

Consumer Plan Stirs New Battle

By ERIK M. INGRAM

The issue of creating a county consumer protection agency continued to provoke controversy yesterday as supervisors in sharply worded exchanges discussed the legality of a meeting at which the Marin County Human Rights Commission withdrew its sponsorship of such an agency.

With Supervisors Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. calling the commission's abandonment politically motivated, and Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste accusing him of making a mountain out of a molehill, further debate on the whole matter was set for March 13. At that time an ad hoc committee of consumer advocates is to present another consumer protection proposal.

The supervisors' exchange followed weeks of debate on the proposed consumer protection agency, to which several chambers of commerce voiced strong opposition.

As reported two weeks ago, a quorum of the human rights commission met secretly under the guise of a committee and decided to withdraw support from a pilot program, four months in the making by the human rights department.

Commission Chairman Ernest J. Gray — a Baptiste appointee — later said he considered the meeting proper under the Ralph M. Brown Act, the state's anti-secret meeting law which prohibits quorum meetings without proper public notice. No notice had been given.

Arrigoni told fellow supervisors yesterday he was convinced the commission had met illegally and questioned why it would withdraw support after it had originally given support.

"This has become a political football and I intend to get to the root of it," he said.

His comments came as Gerald J. Hood, executive director of the human rights department, outlined a decision by his commission at a subsequent meeting again directing him to withdraw the proposal from the agenda of the board of supervisors . . ."

Hood added that the commission reasoned that his office was not staffed to take on a pilot program to determine the need for consumer protection in Marin.

"Your staff is advisory directly to this board," Arrigoni said to Hood. "What do you think?"

Hood responded that his staff already receives many consumer complaints and could handle the pilot program on a temporary basis. "But the commission feels this is something we shouldn't get involved in," he said.

Supervisor Gary T. Giacomini, who agreed with Arrigoni on the need for such a program, said he was "disturbed the commission supported this to begin with . . . and after four months of staff time (developing the program), now it's no damn good."

He added he couldn't support the commission "attempting to weigh the political climate . . . and then chickening out."

Baptiste countered that the staff could have brought the proposal to the board anyway "if they thought it was so important." Baptiste, who said he disagreed with creating a consumer protection office with investigative powers, added that the controversial meeting of the rights commission wasn't illegal.

"Yes it was and I can prove it," Arrigoni said, adding he had a copy of a human rights memorandum indicating a quorum had met and decided to withdraw support prior to the commission's regular meeting last Thursday.

At that point Supervisor Michael Wornum moved the matter be tabled to the March 13 eeting when the ad hoc committee is expected to appeal.

"You want to make a mountain out of a molehill," Baptiste snapped at Arrigoni, who said he would bring in the documents indicating commission Chairman Gray and others had met illegally.

After Arrigoni had left the room, Baptiste moved rapidly to have a vote taken on Wornum's motion to table and the motion passed 4-0.

Dairy Ranchers Win Field Trip Promise

After complaining that the state Water Resources Control board may kill Marin's $12 million-a-year dairy industry, the Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday scheduled a special meeting and field trip to see the problem first-hand.

The supervisors will meet at noon on March 3, to tour West Marin Dairy ranches with members of the county agricultural advisory committee.

The board also voted 4-1 to send the state a letter arguing that Marin ranchers needed more time to meet strict new standards proposed to prevent waterways pollution. The board also declared farmers must have state or federal financial help — or go out of business.

Robert Parks, Tomales sheep rancher and chairman of the agricultural committee, asked the supervisors to make the Saturday tour. He complained that the agricultural industry lacked assurance of federal grants such as cities and sanitary districts receive to prevent pollution.

Supervisors Gary T. Giacomini and Robert A. Roumiguiere charged that the water panel "could care less if they put the Marin Dairy farmer out of business . . . they say there's 'plenty of other milk available'."

Parks said the strict new rules being prepared by the state agency don't consider Marin's special climate and terrain problems.

Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. agreed with sending a letter urging special consideration due to Marin's relatively high rainfall and hilly land, but voted "no" on the motion to include the financial plea.

Arrigoni argued that the water quality watchdogs had no allocation powers. He called for the county to ask its legislators for bills to provide funds.

"If the guidelines stand dairying is a dead duck in Marin. No one has shown they're necessary in Marin, Roumiguiere charged.

The state board proposed to force ranchers to build ponds capable of holding all the surface runoff from a "10-year, 24-hour" rainstorm to collect any livestock waste flowing out of pens and feedlot areas. Runoff from manure storage areas, and water used for washing barns and equipment also must be stored to prevent stream pollution, under the proposed rules.

The agency also would ban use of more than the necessary minimum of salt in the animals' feed.

Apartment Fire Kills Two Boys

BERKELEY (UPI) — An apartment house fire early today took the lives of two small boys and seriously injured another.

Firemen said they had not yet determined the cause but that the damage was not great.

Those who lost their lives were Mark A. Jones, 7, and his brother, Charles W. Jones, 5, whose parents were not home at the time of the blaze, firemen said.

Eddy J. McMullen, 3, was taken to Children's Hospital in Oakland.

Crime Rate Drops In San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The number of major crimes in San Francisco decreased 5 per cent last month but there were more armed robberies and rapes.

Police Chief Donald M. Scott's report on Tuesday showed there were 73 more armed robberies and 24 more rapes than in the same month a year ago.

Supervisors Select Four Likely Open Space Areas

Marin County supervisors yesterday designated four areas for possible acquisition as open space this year and indicated other areas may be added later.

Sites selected for further study are the Northridge area of Larkspur, Corte Madera and Mill Valley; Big Rock Ridge in Lucas Valley; Cascade Canyon in Fairfax and the ridge dividing San Rafael and Sleepy Hollow.

Selection of the four areas came as supervisors, acting as directors of the new regional park district, reviewed a "shopping list" of six proposed sites recommended by Pierre W. Joske, general manager of the district, and a committee of the parks and recreation commission.

Two other sites recommended in the "shopping list" and placed on the back burner for the time being, are Ring Mountain on the Tiburon Peninsula and Wolfback Ridge overlooking Sausalito. The assessor's market value of the six sites is about $3.5 million.

The county currently has about $700,000 budgeted for open space. The park district plans to use the money for down payments on various parcels, with the remainder to be paid over the years by using a portion of the district's special tax rate.

In a related action yesterday, supervisors said they plan to levy the maximum tax rate of 10 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

Yesterday's discussion of the "shopping list" was highlighted by a complaint from Chairman Arnold M. Baptiste that no sites within his Fifth District were proposed for acquisition this year.

"It appears all priorities are in one half of the county," he said, adding he would like to see some "moved north."

Baptiste said he doesn't consider Ring Mountain near Tiburon any more important than Novato's Mount Burdell, which was not included in Joske's "shopping list."

Joske responded that Ring Mountain is under greater development pressure and therefore is a part of the list.

Baptiste differed with Joske but was cut off at one point by Supervisor Robert A. Roumiguiere who urged that an area of the San Pedro Ridge overlooking Santa Venetia be included.

Roumiguiere, who in December proposed 400 acres of the ridge be acquired by local residents, argued that the county should contribute, since the Civic Center is part of the Santa Venetia area.

On Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni's suggestion, the board directed Joske "to concentrate" his studies on the four areas agreed to by all but left the door open for other areas to be proposed later this year.

Supervisors Approve A Bigger Role For Planning Commission

In a move to streamline board meetings, Marin County supervisors proposed yesterday that the county planning commission be given final say over certain planning matters.

The board's proposal, referred to the commission for comment, would end the appeal procedure at the planning commission level for appeals on building variances, design review, sign review, lot splits and tidal waterway encroachments.

Currently, anyone may appeal decisions of the planning commission to the board of supervisors.

Under the proposal, a 120-day test period would be imposed to determine if the idea is workable. Appeal of planning matters such as rezonings and master plans still would be heard by the board.

Supervisor Robert A. Roumiguiere cast the lone vote against the proposal saying he felt everyone had a right to a final decision from elected supervisors and not simply appointed commissioners. "I'm opposed to telling citizens we don't have time to hear them. . . That's our job," he said.

Chairman Arnold M. Baptiste, who proposed streamlining the board's meetings, said the public would be better served by expediting board meetings.

On Supervisor Michael Wornum's motion, the matter was referred to the planning commission for comment. The board will consider the matter again next month.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors Also:

VETERINARIANS — Agreed to allow Marin County Veterinary Medical Association spokesmen time next Tuesday, to present a series of proposals touching on improved animal control, care of ailing strays, waste disposal and other problems.

APPOINTMENTS — Named Lee Richardson of Inverness to a vacancy on the Marin County Aviation Commission; reappointed Bolinas Fire Chief Jose Silva to the county disaster council, and appointed Hadden W. Roth of Woodacre, Councilman Joan Sestak of Larkspur and William Straus of Marshall as successors to Supervisor Gary T. Giacomini in case of emergency or disaster. The three were named as required under the county disaster plan.

PURCHASING — Debated a Marin County Grand Jury interim report with Alexander Thomas, special assistant to the jury's County Offices Committee, and with Michael Mitchell, county auditor-controller. The jury recommended changes in the purchasing agent's record-keeping. The board voted 4-0 to take no action until budget time, with Supervisor Robert A. Roumiguiere abstaining.

LIBRARY — "Accepted" but took no action on another grand jury report proposing changes in the county library system, including possible relocation of the main library to a Northgate site.

EEL RIVER — Voted unanimously for Supervisor Gary T. Giacomini's motion that Marin County drop out of the Eel River Association and decline membership in the North Coast Resources Council that was created following passage of the Wild Rivers Bill authored by State Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael. Giacomini predicted "a $50,000 tab" if Marin should join.

MINIFILM — After nearly an hour's debate, refused to reactivate the X-ray minifilm program that expired yesterday. Giacomini presented arguments that teachers and foster home parents were required to have tuberculosis clearances on a regular basis and would face much higher expense if the program died. It was dropped last month in a reorganization of county health services.

BALLET — Approved the Marin Civic Ballet Association request for a $3,500 subsidy toward the $25,600 association budget for the Pacific Regional Ballet Festival to be held for the first time in Marin in May.

MARIN CITY — Committed the county to up to $8,800 advances for engineering needed to form a special assessment district to build a second access road into Marin City. Should the district be created to handle the estimated $400,000 project, the county would be repaid.

STRAWBERRY — Refused to act on a citizens' petition that the board break a three-months deadlock on a vacant seat in the Strawberry Recreation District board by appointing Fred Holmes. Acting on advice from Assist. County Counsel Richard V. Godino, the supervisors told petitioner Dorothy H. Groman of Strawberry that she would have to sue to force the district board to act.

DENTAL PLAN — Authorized, effective April 1, a contract with California Dental Service to provide dental insurance to county employees. New York Life, the present carrier, was dropped because of increased rates.

TREATMENT — Authorized, through June 30, a $23,800 contract with Buckelew Farms in Kentfield for residential treatment of six to eight mentally disturbed patients.

CHILD ABUSE — Recognized, as an official county committee, the child abuse committee made up of officials from the county counsel's office, department of public social services, probation department, health services department and Marin County Pediatrics Society. The committee is developing a system for detecting and caring for abused children.

STUDY — Authorized a $10,800 contract with Environmental Science Associates of Burlingame for an environmental impact study of the proposed Lucas Valley Road realignment between Mount McKinley Road and Big Rock.

PUBLIC RELATIONS — Approved a $2,500 contract with publicist Jules Becker of Ross for publicity of the Marin County Fair.

ORDINANCE — Authorized a 120-day extension on the Bolinas-Stinson Beach interim ordinance which limits development pending new master plan studies.

AIR CONDITIONING — Authorized $1,500 for improvement of the air conditioning system at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building to reduce noise and increase air circulation in the movable seat area.

COMMISSION — Reversed an earlier decision and agreed unanimously to leave the parks and recreation commission at seven members. Last month the commission voted to increase the commission's size to nine members but later decided that would be too bulky.

REMODEL — Authorized an additional $600 to the $1,200 contract with architect Harold Wagstaff for revision of preliminary plans for the remodeling of the Grand Avenue Health Clinic in San Rafael.

Boas Steps Down As Supervisor In San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Roger Boas unexpectedly announced his resignation as a supervisor Tuesday, making it almost certain San Francisco for the first time will have a Chinese on the board.

Mayor Joseph L. Alioto, who named a replacement until Boas' term ends in December, declared: "I've said many times that I'll appoint a Chinese supervisor at the first opportunity."

"There's no better time to affirm that promise than now, during the Chinese new year's celebration."

Boas, an automobile dealer who has been on the board 11 years, indicated he might run for Congress, saying he would "like to run in 1974...and Congress is very high on my list of probabilities and possibilities."

He is former state Democratic Party chairman.

His successor may be George Chinn, now president of the Board of Education.

Charge Dismissal Ruling Is Studied

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A Superior Court judge says he will rule Feb. 21 on a motion to dismiss manslaughter charges against a police sergeant in the shooting death of a high school football star.

Sacramento County Judge Robert K. Puglia set the date Tuesday after listening to arguments by attorneys for officer Samuel Somers, who was indicted after the Dec. 3 shooting of Raymond Brewer, 15.

THE PEOPLE'S SCHOOLS

Which Children Denied An Equal Education?

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

Is "equal educational opportunity" dependent on equal spending for schools, as contended in the famous Serrano case?

Among the myriad figures in the State Department of Education's 590-page report on the California state testing program for 1970-71, released last week, are some which cast considerable doubt on that premise.

When Office of Economic Opportunity lawyers filed suit against the state in behalf of Joseph Serrano and others late in 1968, they claimed the plaintiffs' children were denied equal educational opportunity because the amounts spent per pupil in their school districts — despite high tax rates — were far below the amounts spent in some other districts.

As examples, they cited Baldwin Park and Beverly Hills Unified School Districts, both in Los Angeles County.

BEVERLY HILLS is one of the highest spending districts in California. Baldwin Park is among the lowest spending unified districts (those which include both elementary and high schools). Yet the school tax rate in Baldwin Park is considerably higher than in Beverly Hills, because of much lower assessed valuation per pupil.

This means, contended the OEO lawyers, that children in Baldwin Park and other districts with low assessed valuation are denied an equal education. Six justices of the California Supreme Court agreed with their contention.

Tables in the statewide testing report show that Beverly Hills spent $1,157 per pupil on costs of instruction (not the total cost) in the 1970-71 school year. Baldwin Park spent $525.

BEVERLY HILLS, however, was not the highest spending district in the state. More per pupil was spent by three other unified school districts and eight elementary school districts.

Baldwin Park was not the lowest. Dozens of elementary school districts spent less per pupil, as did 18 other unified districts — two of them right in Los Angeles County.

Although comparison of the education that school districts provide is difficult, a pretty reliable index — since reading is essential to all other studies — is provided by reading test scores. Whether a district is doing a good job may be gauged by comparing the rank of its readers in first grade with that in 12th grade.

IN THE 1970-71 state reading tests, Baldwin Park pupils ranked 52 (just above the state median of 50) in the first grade, but fell to 10 in 12th grade. Beverly Hills pupils started out at 86 in first grade and ranked 97 in 12th grade, an 11-point gain.

Borrego Springs district in San Diego County was one of the three unified districts that outspent Beverly Hills. Its first graders ranked 13, but its 12th graders ranked 60, a 47-point rise.

The story was different, however, in the other two unified districts that outspent Beverly Hills: Berkeley and Emery, both in Alameda County. Berkeley ($1,168 per pupil cost of instruction) ranked 88 in first grade reading but only 31 in 12th grade. Emery ($1,684 per pupil) ranked 88 also in first grade but only 1 — the lowest possible — in 12th.

AMONG UNIFIED districts spending less per pupil than Baldwin Park, six slid downward between first and 12th grades — though none so far as did Baldwin Park itself.

However, nine others held about even, with less than 10 points difference in their rankings in first and 12th grade reading. These included Linden district in San Joaquin County, which spent the least per pupil on instruction of any unified district at $468, or $57 less than Baldwin Park.

And three unified districts spending less per pupil than Baldwin Park showed exceptional reading improvement from first to 12th grade. Fairfield-Suisun in Solano County ranked 49 in first grade and 90 in 12th. Vacaville, also in Solano, ranked 55 in first and 79 in 12th. But the most dramatic record was that of Templeton district in San Luis Obispo County, whose pupils ranked 5 in first grade and 96 (just one point below Beverly Hills) in 12th.

ARE THE CHILDREN in Templeton denied equal education?

Or is equal education being denied those in the Emery district, which outspent Beverly Hills by $527 per pupil — an amount, incidentally, $16 more than the total per pupil spent on instruction in Templeton?

Land Use Is Now Top Ecological Concern

By ROBERT CAHN

The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

Land use and energy have become the overriding concerns of American environmentalists.

A Christian Science Monitor survey of environmental leaders across the U.S. shows that what worries them most today is no longer air and water pollution — the chief problem cited in a similar poll three years ago.

Asked to list in order the five major environmental issues now facing the nation, 71 per cent of those polled selected land use among them. Forty-six per cent gave land use first or second priority out of the five.

Energy consumption policy was listed in the first five by 57 per cent of the experts. It was given first or second priority by 36 per cent of the environmental leaders.

Other issues chosen among the five leading problems are water pollution (43 per cent); air pollution (39 per cent); population control and management (29 per cent); transportation (25 per cent); solid-waste disposal (14 per cent); and national forest management and timber-cutting policy (14 per cent).

"The nation's first objective should be an unbiased assessment of national energy requirements and how essential needs can be met with the least environmental impact and with the least reduction in the quality of living," said Dr. Lois Sharpe of the League of Women Voters of the U.S.

William E. Towell of the American Forestry Association said he still felt air and water pollution was the top issue "because we have not yet cleaned up a single river or city."

Asked to list environmental legislation that should receive priority in the new Congress, a majority of those polled felt that the emphasis should be placed on passing the environmental legislation Congress has had before it the past two years rather than starting bills in new areas. The one bill most often mentioned was the proposed national land-use policy act.

Congress now has opened hearings at which federal leaders are testifying to the urgency of that legislation.

In answer to a question concerning compliance with the environmental-impact statement procedure of the National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA), almost all of those replying to the questionnaires said federal agencies were not adequately following the act.

Several citizen leaders stressed dissatisfaction with the sincerity of the agencies and charged they were not actually using the act as a tool for bringing environmental planning into decision-making. Others said members of Congress should be urged not to weaken the NEPA with amendments.

Section 102 of the act requires federal agencies to analyze the short-term and long-term impacts of "major" actions they are considering which "significantly" affect the quality of the human environment. They must consider economic and social impacts. And they must consider possible alternatives to the proposed action, even the alternative of no action at all.

In effect, the law requires federal agencies to add the environmental criterion to all the others they have traditionally used to test their proposed actions before making final decisions.

"In many instances too little attention is given to potential alternatives and the essentiality of the proposed project is too frequently taken for granted," said Raymond C. Hubley Jr., executive director of the Izaak Walton League of America. "Fuzzy projects should be rejected to demonstrate the NEPA is for keeps."

Most agencies lack the ecological expertise to do an adequate job, commented Dr. Frank W. Blair, president of the American Institute of Biological Sciences. "Predictive modeling such as is emerging from the international biosphere program would provide the best impact statement," says Dr. Blair.

Revolutionaries In Ireland Split

By PETER C. STUART

The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

DUBLIN, Ireland — The coffee-colored door at 2A Lower Kavin Street, worn pale by the hands of countless republican revolutionaries, opens no more.

The explanation is thumbtacked to the door — a government order entitled "Offenses against the state act, 1939."

Headlines at a newsstand a few doors away, meanwhile, suggest the start of a similar crackdown against extremists on the other side in Northern Ireland — British lockup for the first time of militant Protestant loyalists.

These twin initiatives, south and north of the border, raise the question: just how strong today are the loyalist and republican private armies?

It's a question increasingly relevant as the warfare in Ulster's streets has suddenly worsened.

That locked door in Lower Kevin Street may tellingly symbolize the present plight of the republican group with the longest and bloodiest involvement in the three-year struggle: the Provisional IRA.

Sean O'Bradaigh, Sinn Fein publicity director and younger brother of its jailed president, Ruairi O'Bradaigh, insists in an interview here that organizational health is "the best in years and years."

But evidence from Ulster — the front line, so to speak — strongly suggests otherwise:

The "Provos" have mutely conceded their inability to defend their Andersonstown stronghold in Belfast from roving gunmen by letting the community leaders plead for British army roadblocks, then offering not to attack the soldiers.

A minority vigilante group, the Catholic Ex-Servicemen's Association, is shopping for weapons in the Irish Republic rather than continuing to rely on armed protection from the Provisionals.

The army and police report some recent arms discoveries to be more permanently stashed "further down the well," as one official puts it — as if the Provos were resigned to lying low for a spell. (The smaller "official" wing of the IRA has observed a cease-fire since May.)

The apparent ills of the Provisionals cannot be diagnosed with the glib observation that increasing numbers of them now lie in jail or cemeteries.

For the Provos survived — even flourished — in 1971 and 1972 when scores were herded into Ulster internment camps without benefit of trial.

In the South the Provo command has been arrested or driven underground by the suddenly intolerant Irish Republic.

But most important — perhaps out of resentment over last year's indiscriminate campaign, or simply war weariness — these new challenges are failing to rally the Provisionals' old grass-roots sources of replenishment.

The troubles of the Protestant loyalist private army — the Ulster Defense Association (UDA) and the smaller, more tightly organized companion corps, the Ulster Volunteer Force (UVF) — seem trivial by comparison.

The UDA lacks money and equipment rather than manpower.

The real professionals linked with the UDA's reputed 80,000-man "army" are the 500 or fewer joint members of the Ulster Volunteer Force — the oldest (60 years) and most undercover loyalist paramilitary group. Like the IRA it is illegal in Northern Ireland.

But resurgence of the hard-line militarists such as the UVF, in the judgment of seasoned observers, may be shoving the UDA toward an open split with its politically minded elements, of whom the exiled Fogel is but one.

The Ulster struggle abounds in such splits — the most conspicuous being the 1969 division of the IRA into ideological "Officials" and brute force "Provisionals."

Action for '76

With the nation's 200th birthday just 3 years away, the Department of Interior has decided to expand and redesign its environmental action campaign. Heading the program is "Johnny Horizon '76." Johnny's motto is "Let's Clean Up America For Our 200th Birthday." Johnny Horizon encourages cleaning up our environment by individual action and community projects. Johnny Horizon '76 environmental kits have been sent to many schools. To promote recycling of paper products, one large Western grocery chain distributed a million paper bags with a Johnny Horizon '76 action message on them.

Oil Shortage May Result In Canadian Export Curb

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

Because of an oil shortage at home, Canada may have to restrict the export of Canadian oil to the United States.

Energy Minister Donald Macdonald told Parliament there would be plenty of oil to fill Canadian requirements in February, but he could not yet foresee the situation in March.

The government, he said, had asked private oil companies to prevent any shortage in Canada. If they could not reach satisfactory agreement among themselves to protect Canadian consumers, export controls would be imposed.

Until recent years the United States kept a tight ceiling on Canadian oil imports. Now the former quotas have been relaxed to the point where the international pipelines are operating at full capacity.

The Canadian government expects that the remaining American restrictions will soon be removed altogether. But already they are almost irrelevant to Canada's many-sided energy problem.

Beginning to study it in depth, a parliamentary committee was disturbed by the National Energy Board's report that in the late 1970's Canada might not be able to meet its own projected needs and continue oil exports at their current volume.

This forecast is based on the nation's known reserves of about eight billion barrels. It does not include possible discoveries in the Arctic and on the Atlantic coastal shelf nor the huge but costly potential of the northern Athabasca tar sands.

Viewing the long-term prospects, the New Democratic party in Parliament suggested the construction of a pipeline from the western oil fields to serve eastern Canada. At present only the area west of Montreal is supplied by Canadian oil, the remainder by foreign imports.

The government has rejected a trans-Canada pipeline because it would raise the price of oil in the east and become obsolete if an offshore field were found on the Atlantic Coast, now under intensive exploration.

While pondering all those internal problems, Canada has been discussing with the United States the risk of a joint oil shortage during some future emergency.

Ottawa refuses to consider the American government's plan for a pooling of continental energy resources, but Washington fears that eastern Canada might need scarce American oil if overseas supplies were cut off.

These talks have reached a stalemate for the time being, Macdonald says. They will soon be continued, however, with Canada seeking an agreement by which both nations would promise their "best efforts" to guarantee mutually adequate supplies in any crisis such as a war.

Consumer Plan Stirs New Battle

By ERIK M. INGRAM

The issue of creating a county consumer protection agency continued to provoke controversy yesterday as supervisors in sharply worded exchanges discussed the legality of a meeting at which the Marin County Human Rights Commission withdrew its sponsorship of such an agency.

With Supervisors Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. calling the commission's abandonment politically motivated, and Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste accusing him of making a mountain out of a molehill, further debate on the whole matter was set for March 13. At that time an ad hoc committee of consumer advocates is to present another consumer protection proposal.

The supervisors' exchange followed weeks of debate on the proposed consumer protection agency, to which several chambers of commerce voiced strong opposition.

As reported two weeks ago, a quorum of the human rights commission met secretly under the guise of a committee and decided to withdraw support from a pilot program, four months in the making by the human rights department.

Commission Chairman Ernest J. Gray — a Baptiste appointee — later said he considered the meeting proper under the Ralph M. Brown Act, the state's anti-secret meeting law which prohibits quorum meetings without proper public notice. No notice had been given.

Arrigoni told fellow supervisors yesterday he was convinced the commission had met illegally and questioned why it would withdraw support after it had originally given support.

"This has become a political football and I intend to get to the root of it," he said.

His comments came as Gerald J. Hood, executive director of the human rights department, outlined a decision by his commission at a subsequent meeting again directing him to withdraw the proposal from the agenda of the board of supervisors . . ."

Hood added that the commission reasoned that his office was not staffed to take on a pilot program to determine the need for consumer protection in Marin.

"Your staff is advisory directly to this board," Arrigoni said to Hood. "What do you think?"

Hood responded that his staff already receives many consumer complaints and could handle the pilot program on a temporary basis. "But the commission feels this is something we shouldn't get involved in," he said.

Supervisor Gary T. Giacomini, who agreed with Arrigoni on the need for such a program, said he was "disturbed the commission supported this to begin with . . . and after four months of staff time (developing the program), now it's no damn good."

He added he couldn't support the commission "attempting to weigh the political climate . . . and then chickening out."

Baptiste countered that the staff could have brought the proposal to the board anyway "if they thought it was so important." Baptiste, who said he disagreed with creating a consumer protection office with investigative powers, added that the controversial meeting of the rights commission wasn't illegal.

"Yes it was and I can prove it," Arrigoni said, adding he had a copy of a human rights memorandum indicating a quorum had met and decided to withdraw support prior to the commission's regular meeting last Thursday.

At that point Supervisor Michael Wornum moved the matter be tabled to the March 13 eeting when the ad hoc committee is expected to appeal.

"You want to make a mountain out of a molehill," Baptiste snapped at Arrigoni, who said he would bring in the documents indicating commission Chairman Gray and others had met illegally.

After Arrigoni had left the room, Baptiste moved rapidly to have a vote taken on Wornum's motion to table and the motion passed 4-0.

Supervisors Select Four Likely Open Space Areas

Marin County supervisors yesterday designated four areas for possible acquisition as open space this year and indicated other areas may be added later.

Sites selected for further study are the Northridge area of Larkspur, Corte Madera and Mill Valley; Big Rock Ridge in Lucas Valley; Cascade Canyon in Fairfax and the ridge dividing San Rafael and Sleepy Hollow.

Selection of the four areas came as supervisors, acting as directors of the new regional park district, reviewed a "shopping list" of six proposed sites recommended by Pierre W. Joske, general manager of the district, and a committee of the parks and recreation commission.

Two other sites recommended in the "shopping list" and placed on the back burner for the time being, are Ring Mountain on the Tiburon Peninsula and Wolfback Ridge overlooking Sausalito. The assessor's market value of the six sites is about $3.5 million.

The county currently has about $700,000 budgeted for open space. The park district plans to use the money for down payments on various parcels, with the remainder to be paid over the years by using a portion of the district's special tax rate.

In a related action yesterday, supervisors said they plan to levy the maximum tax rate of 10 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

Yesterday's discussion of the "shopping list" was highlighted by a complaint from Chairman Arnold M. Baptiste that no sites within his Fifth District were proposed for acquisition this year.

"It appears all priorities are in one half of the county," he said, adding he would like to see some "moved north."

Baptiste said he doesn't consider Ring Mountain near Tiburon any more important than Novato's Mount Burdell, which was not included in Joske's "shopping list."

Joske responded that Ring Mountain is under greater development pressure and therefore is a part of the list.

Baptiste differed with Joske but was cut off at one point by Supervisor Robert A. Roumiguiere who urged that an area of the San Pedro Ridge overlooking Santa Venetia be included.

Roumiguiere, who in December proposed 400 acres of the ridge be acquired by local residents, argued that the county should contribute, since the Civic Center is part of the Santa Venetia area.

On Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni's suggestion, the board directed Joske "to concentrate" his studies on the four areas agreed to by all but left the door open for other areas to be proposed later this year.

Supervisors Approve A Bigger Role For Planning Commission

In a move to streamline board meetings, Marin County supervisors proposed yesterday that the county planning commission be given final say over certain planning matters.

The board's proposal, referred to the commission for comment, would end the appeal procedure at the planning commission level for appeals on building variances, design review, sign review, lot splits and tidal waterway encroachments.

Currently, anyone may appeal decisions of the planning commission to the board of supervisors.

Under the proposal, a 120-day test period would be imposed to determine if the idea is workable. Appeal of planning matters such as rezonings and master plans still would be heard by the board.

Supervisor Robert A. Roumiguiere cast the lone vote against the proposal saying he felt everyone had a right to a final decision from elected supervisors and not simply appointed commissioners. "I'm opposed to telling citizens we don't have time to hear them. . . That's our job," he said.

Chairman Arnold M. Baptiste, who proposed streamlining the board's meetings, said the public would be better served by expediting board meetings.

On Supervisor Michael Wornum's motion, the matter was referred to the planning commission for comment. The board will consider the matter again next month.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors Also:

VETERINARIANS — Agreed to allow Marin County Veterinary Medical Association spokesmen time next Tuesday, to present a series of proposals touching on improved animal control, care of ailing strays, waste disposal and other problems.

APPOINTMENTS — Named Lee Richardson of Inverness to a vacancy on the Marin County Aviation Commission; reappointed Bolinas Fire Chief Jose Silva to the county disaster council, and appointed Hadden W. Roth of Woodacre, Councilman Joan Sestak of Larkspur and William Straus of Marshall as successors to Supervisor Gary T. Giacomini in case of emergency or disaster. The three were named as required under the county disaster plan.

PURCHASING — Debated a Marin County Grand Jury interim report with Alexander Thomas, special assistant to the jury's County Offices Committee, and with Michael Mitchell, county auditor-controller. The jury recommended changes in the purchasing agent's record-keeping. The board voted 4-0 to take no action until budget time, with Supervisor Robert A. Roumiguiere abstaining.

LIBRARY — "Accepted" but took no action on another grand jury report proposing changes in the county library system, including possible relocation of the main library to a Northgate site.

EEL RIVER — Voted unanimously for Supervisor Gary T. Giacomini's motion that Marin County drop out of the Eel River Association and decline membership in the North Coast Resources Council that was created following passage of the Wild Rivers Bill authored by State Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael. Giacomini predicted "a $50,000 tab" if Marin should join.

MINIFILM — After nearly an hour's debate, refused to reactivate the X-ray minifilm program that expired yesterday. Giacomini presented arguments that teachers and foster home parents were required to have tuberculosis clearances on a regular basis and would face much higher expense if the program died. It was dropped last month in a reorganization of county health services.

BALLET — Approved the Marin Civic Ballet Association request for a $3,500 subsidy toward the $25,600 association budget for the Pacific Regional Ballet Festival to be held for the first time in Marin in May.

MARIN CITY — Committed the county to up to $8,800 advances for engineering needed to form a special assessment district to build a second access road into Marin City. Should the district be created to handle the estimated $400,000 project, the county would be repaid.

STRAWBERRY — Refused to act on a citizens' petition that the board break a three-months deadlock on a vacant seat in the Strawberry Recreation District board by appointing Fred Holmes. Acting on advice from Assist. County Counsel Richard V. Godino, the supervisors told petitioner Dorothy H. Groman of Strawberry that she would have to sue to force the district board to act.

DENTAL PLAN — Authorized, effective April 1, a contract with California Dental Service to provide dental insurance to county employees. New York Life, the present carrier, was dropped because of increased rates.

TREATMENT — Authorized, through June 30, a $23,800 contract with Buckelew Farms in Kentfield for residential treatment of six to eight mentally disturbed patients.

CHILD ABUSE — Recognized, as an official county committee, the child abuse committee made up of officials from the county counsel's office, department of public social services, probation department, health services department and Marin County Pediatrics Society. The committee is developing a system for detecting and caring for abused children.

STUDY — Authorized a $10,800 contract with Environmental Science Associates of Burlingame for an environmental impact study of the proposed Lucas Valley Road realignment between Mount McKinley Road and Big Rock.

PUBLIC RELATIONS — Approved a $2,500 contract with publicist Jules Becker of Ross for publicity of the Marin County Fair.

ORDINANCE — Authorized a 120-day extension on the Bolinas-Stinson Beach interim ordinance which limits development pending new master plan studies.

AIR CONDITIONING — Authorized $1,500 for improvement of the air conditioning system at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building to reduce noise and increase air circulation in the movable seat area.

COMMISSION — Reversed an earlier decision and agreed unanimously to leave the parks and recreation commission at seven members. Last month the commission voted to increase the commission's size to nine members but later decided that would be too bulky.

REMODEL — Authorized an additional $600 to the $1,200 contract with architect Harold Wagstaff for revision of preliminary plans for the remodeling of the Grand Avenue Health Clinic in San Rafael.

Boas Steps Down As Supervisor In San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Roger Boas unexpectedly announced his resignation as a supervisor Tuesday, making it almost certain San Francisco for the first time will have a Chinese on the board.

Mayor Joseph L. Alioto, who named a replacement until Boas' term ends in December, declared: "I've said many times that I'll appoint a Chinese supervisor at the first opportunity."

"There's no better time to affirm that promise than now, during the Chinese new year's celebration."

Boas, an automobile dealer who has been on the board 11 years, indicated he might run for Congress, saying he would "like to run in 1974...and Congress is very high on my list of probabilities and possibilities."

He is former state Democratic Party chairman.

His successor may be George Chinn, now president of the Board of Education.

Charge Dismissal Ruling Is Studied

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A Superior Court judge says he will rule Feb. 21 on a motion to dismiss manslaughter charges against a police sergeant in the shooting death of a high school football star.

Sacramento County Judge Robert K. Puglia set the date Tuesday after listening to arguments by attorneys for officer Samuel Somers, who was indicted after the Dec. 3 shooting of Raymond Brewer, 15.

Dairy Ranchers Win Field Trip Promise

After complaining that the state Water Resources Control board may kill Marin's $12 million-a-year dairy industry, the Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday scheduled a special meeting and field trip to see the problem first-hand.

The supervisors will meet at noon on March 3, to tour West Marin Dairy ranches with members of the county agricultural advisory committee.

The board also voted 4-1 to send the state a letter arguing that Marin ranchers needed more time to meet strict new standards proposed to prevent waterways pollution. The board also declared farmers must have state or federal financial help — or go out of business.

Robert Parks, Tomales sheep rancher and chairman of the agricultural committee, asked the supervisors to make the Saturday tour. He complained that the agricultural industry lacked assurance of federal grants such as cities and sanitary districts receive to prevent pollution.

Supervisors Gary T. Giacomini and Robert A. Roumiguiere charged that the water panel "could care less if they put the Marin Dairy farmer out of business . . . they say there's 'plenty of other milk available'."

Parks said the strict new rules being prepared by the state agency don't consider Marin's special climate and terrain problems.

Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. agreed with sending a letter urging special consideration due to Marin's relatively high rainfall and hilly land, but voted "no" on the motion to include the financial plea.

Arrigoni argued that the water quality watchdogs had no allocation powers. He called for the county to ask its legislators for bills to provide funds.

"If the guidelines stand dairying is a dead duck in Marin. No one has shown they're necessary in Marin, Roumiguiere charged.

The state board proposed to force ranchers to build ponds capable of holding all the surface runoff from a "10-year, 24-hour" rainstorm to collect any livestock waste flowing out of pens and feedlot areas. Runoff from manure storage areas, and water used for washing barns and equipment also must be stored to prevent stream pollution, under the proposed rules.

The agency also would ban use of more than the necessary minimum of salt in the animals' feed.

Apartment Fire Kills Two Boys

BERKELEY (UPI) — An apartment house fire early today took the lives of two small boys and seriously injured another.

Firemen said they had not yet determined the cause but that the damage was not great.

Those who lost their lives were Mark A. Jones, 7, and his brother, Charles W. Jones, 5, whose parents were not home at the time of the blaze, firemen said.

Eddy J. McMullen, 3, was taken to Children's Hospital in Oakland.

Crime Rate Drops In San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The number of major crimes in San Francisco decreased 5 per cent last month but there were more armed robberies and rapes.

Police Chief Donald M. Scott's report on Tuesday showed there were 73 more armed robberies and 24 more rapes than in the same month a year ago.

Take Poor Alfred's Advice In Selecting The Correct Finesse

SPADE TO DUMMY

South won the first trick and led a spade to dummy. Then he returned a heart and wondered' what to play.

After much frowning and chin-stroking, South finessed with the jacks of hearts. West knew what was going on, so he won with the ace of hearts to lead South astray.

Declarer won the diamond continuation and led another spade to dummy. He was sure East had the queen of hearts, and he wanted to finesse through it.

Unfortunately, East had no more hearts. West was sure to get his second trump trick, and South was obliged to lead clubs from his own hand. Down one.

PROBABILITY

South had an even chance of finding the queen of hearts in the East hand. He had a slight extra chance, since if he lost the first trump to the queen he would still be able to reduce the club loss if East had both the king and queen.

This was not as good as playing for the clubs. In three-quarters of the cases East will have one or both of the missing club honors. South should therefore begin with a finesse in clubs rather than in trumps.

THROUGH EAST

South should enter dummy with a spade and return the jack of clubs through East. If East covers, South can win and get back to dummy to lead a trump.

If East plays a low club, South is willing to lose the finesse and try another club finesse later. Declarer can lead trumps out of his own hand, if need be.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one heart, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠- Q 10 9 6
♥- A Q 8
♦- J 10 9
♣- Q 6 2.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one spade.

The hand is too strong for a raise to two hearts, but not strong enough for a jump to three hearts or to two no-trump. Mark time with the spade response and show the heart support later.

Plea Made To Reduced Count

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Screenwriter Norman Wexler, who authored the 1970 movie "Joe," pleaded guilty Monday to a reduced charge of assaulting an airline stewardess and was placed on a year's probation.

U.S. District Judge Albert C. Wollenberg sentenced Wexler, 46, New York City, on the misdemeanor charge after the government dropped a felony complaint accusing him of interfering with an airline flight. He pleaded guilty to simple assault—the intentional bumping of an airline stewardess with his body.

Strawberry Panel Elects Officers

Stanlty J. Gallagher was elected vice president at Monday's meeting and four persons, Edward J. Sotelo, Michael S. Adams, Kate Supinski and Monique Israel, were named junior vice presidents.

Sandra Dorsaneo was elected secretary and Mrs. Israel and Marcel Ehrer were selected to serve as co-treasurers for the organization.

New Junior Boutique To Open Tomorrow At Northgate Mall

Papsie's, a junior boutique specializing in "fashions for the young and the young at heart," will open tomorrow at Northgate Mall near Sears new store.

The store will feature old Hollywood music via recordings and old Hollywood films as part of its opening ceremonies.

Papsie's, a division of the National Dollar Stores Ltd., has three other shops — on Mission Street in San Francisco, at Tanforan in San Bruno and in El Cerrito Plaza. "We want to put pretty things back on women's bodies," said Papsie Shoong of San Francisco, director of Papsie's.

Harris Ryan of Mill Valley is manager of Papsie's in Northgate.

ROBERT A. TOWLE of Mill Valley was appointed a principal in Wurster, Bernardi and Emmons Inc., San Francisco architect and planners.

Towle has been with the firm since 1961. He was project architect for such projects as the Golden Gateway redevelopment and Bank of America world headquarters in San Francisco.

Lewis

JERRY L. LEWIS of San Rafael was named top 1972 sales executive among Coldwell, Banker & Company's 1,100 real estate sales personnel. As an investment property specialist, he handled property transfers whose value amounted to $35 million.

Lewis is based at the company's San Francisco office. He was a sales manager for Xerox Corporation until he joined Coldwell, Banker & Co. in 1971.

FRENCH'S HITCHING POST, formerly at 1205 Third Street (near B Street) in San Rafael has re-opened in new and larger quarters at Second and D Streets, San Rafael.

The new site, formerly occupied by Mt. Tam Bedding and Furniture, gives French's Hitching Post double its former space and free customer parking in front.

The saddle and riding shop has expanded its stock and now carries square dancing outfits, as well as a complete line of Western and English riding gear and accessories for all ages.

Owners are William H. and Loreene (Renie) French, who started the San Rafael store more than five years ago. French provides instructions on the handling of horses, and Mrs. French presents fashion shows on riding gear.

"We outfit children as well as adults with everything from leather jackets and denims to boots and moccasins," said Mrs. French. The store plans a grand opening next month, with saddles and clothing to be given away as prizes.

FOOD SERVICE SALES Inc., headed by Wilbur R. Walter of Greenbrae, moved during the weekend from San Francisco to Northgate Industrial Park in San Rafael.

Consultants in wholesale food service distribution and seafood brokerage, the company had been at 44 Montgomery Street in San Francisco for the past two and one-half years. The new location is suite 243 in the La Plaza Building at 4340 Redwood Highway, San Rafael. The lease was arranged by William Hoey Company.

Walter said the company decided to move because of congestion in the city and difficulty of commuting. Associated with Walter in Food Services Sales are John Tidemann of Piedmont and James Sullivan of Glen Ellen.

THE COLLECTIVE antique shops at 316 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in San Anselmo, near Tamalpais Theater, is still looking for someone to operate a proposed lunch room in the rear of the shop.

Alfred and Jo Hanna Willman of San Anselmo, who had hoped to open a European-type restaurant there, are unable to do so because they are too busy with their antique business, according to Anthony Barbera Sr., owner-manager of The Collective.

"We are building a permanent redwood beam roof in the back with hanging plants," said Barbera. "The place is for lease for a luncheon-type restaurant. We will also get a beer and wine license."

REDWOOD CHAPEL Funeral Home, which has been operated by Charles R. Johnson of Novato for 20 years, now has a second partner. Joining Johnson as co-owner is Thomas A. Meisner, who graduated in 1959 from the San Francisco College of Mortuary Science and has been in the mortuary business in Marin for the past 13 years. Meisner lives with his wife and their son in Santa Venetia.

Johnson formed a new corporation called Johnson-Meisner Inc. last month to bring Meisner into the business. Redwood Chapel Funeral Home at 7078 Redwood Highway in Novato will continue unchanged, with the same name and services.

JAMES J. WEISS, an agent for Western Life Insurance Co. in San Rafael, has qualified for that company's Four Star Club Award.

Weiss was one of only nine in the entire company of some 1,500 agents to earn this award. He qualified for four of the five major Western Life production clubs, which cover all phases of life underwriting proficiency.

PETER J. GERBER of Larkspur has joined the equity formation division at Grubb & Ellis Co., Oakland.

Gerber has a master of business administration degree from Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration. He served with Xerox Corporation and Boeing Company before joining Grubb & Ellis.

DONALD A. SMITH of Novato was promoted to group sales consultant in Massachusetts Mutal Life Insurance Company's San Francisco group office.

Smith joined Massachusetts Mutual last year after nine years in group sales and management with another life insurance firm.

Longs Drug Stores Reports Earnings

WALNUT CREEK (UPI) — Longs Drug Stores, Inc., has reported sales of $228.7 million for its fiscal year ended Jan. 31.

This was a 15 ½ per cent increase from sales of $198 million the previous year.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER J. WIKEL, C.P.A.

Auto Expenses Are Deductible; Here Are Some Rules To Follow

Automobile expenses are deductible. Here are the rules:

Your expenses in commuting are not deductible.

If you haul tools, etc., and you cannot store the tools at the place you work, or if you work at different locations every day, and you would not have used your car but for the necessity of hauling tools, etc., which are too bulky or heavy to be carried otherwise, the expense may be partly deductible.

If you are in business and your auto is used exclusively for business purposes, the cost of its operation is deductible on Schedule C, Form 1040.

If you are an employee and use your car exclusively in your work, you can deduct the total cost of its operation, such as gasoline, oil, repairs, garage rent, insurance, depreciation, interest, taxes, licenses, etc.

If you use your car for both personal and business travel, you must divide your expenses.

You can just keep a record of the business use of your car. You can deduct 12 cents per mile for the first 15,000 miles and nine cents per mile for miles over 15,000 in each year.

The miles must be for business use and you must have a record of them.

If your employer reimbursed you less than 12 cents a mile, and you'd do better with 12 cents and 9 cents per mile, you can deduct the difference by including the reimbursement in income and deducting the mileage allowance as above. The mileage allowance is not available if you took the extra first-year depreciation allowance on your car, or you took depreciation on one of the accelerated methods.

The mileage allowance is instead of auto expenses, depreciation, insurance, etc. You dan't take both. But you can take parking fees and bridge and road tolls attributable to business travel and interest costs of buying the car.

Also, you can deduct six cents per mile for the use of your car to secure medical care, or for charitable contributions, where automobile expense qualifies as deductible as a medical expense or as a charitable contribution.

Some auto expenses are deductible is you itemize on Schedule A even though your automobile is entirely used for personal purposes.

These expenses include: Gasoline taxes — California seven cents per gallon; state and local sales taxes; interest on auto loans; casualty and theft losses over $100; and California license fees in excess of $11 ($12 if a station wagon).

Caution. If you have used your car for business and personal travel, and if you itemize your deductions, be sure that you list on Schedule A of your return only the interest, taxes, etc., which were not claimed as traveling or transportation expense anywhere else on your return. An expense can be deducted only once.

Car Pools. Expenses of an automobile used in a car pool to and from work is a personal expense and not deductible. Amounts received from passengers are not included in income unless they exceed the expenses.

Fines for violation of traffic or other laws and regulations are not deductible.

Eureka Federal Has Good Year

I-J Special Report

The past year has been one of unprecedented growth and progress for the Eureka Federal Savings and Loan Association of San Francisco with very substantial gains in both the savings and loan portfolios, according to Kenneth L. Kidwell, president.

At the close of the final quarter of 1972, total loans were in excess of $291 million as compared to over $240 million a year ago. This $50 million increase represents a 16 per cent gain.

Included in the $291 million were the assets of a new department — mobile home and home improvement loans. Inaugurated in April, they represented a total of over $4 million by the end of 1972.

Max Factor To Merge With Simon

LOS ANGELES (BW) — The merger of Norton Simon Inc. (NSI), one of the nation's leading consumer products marketers, and Max Factor & Co., a major cosmetics manufacturer with worldwide operations, has been approved by shareholders of both companies, David J. Mahoney, chairman of the board and president of NSI, announced yesterday.

Shareholders of both companies met simulaneously at special meetings in New York City and Los Angeles to vote on the merger. Under the terms of the agreement, Max Factor & Co. shareholders receive 1.115 shares of NSI common stock for each share of Max Factor capital stock.

NSI's chief executive officer cited Max Factor's excellent record in new product development as one of the major reasons for their merger. "Seven of its top 15 brands have been introduced in the past three years, and products introduced since 1971 account for 20 per cent of its current sales.

Mahoney pointed out that expansion overseas has been a major NSI corporate objective, and that Max Factor represents precisely the kind of acquisition NSI has been seeking to tap new consumer markets abroad.

Social Security Plan Explained

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. What does the newest Social Security plan mean to the average American? — O.O.

A. First, the worker pays 5.85 per cent on wages up to $10,800 per year. The maximum Social Security tax in 1973 is $631.80. Thus a $10,000-a-year worker will contribute $585 and his employer will pay a like amount. If you are self-employed, you are taxed at an 8 per cent rate for a maximum annual tax of $864. Both the taxable wage ceiling and the rate increase in 1974. Thereafter the rate will be increased, reaching 6.25 per cent by 1981.

At present, 28 million individuals are receiving monthly benefits from the plan. This year, alone, another 1.4 million Americans are expected to begin receiving retirement allowances. The top pension for a 65-year-old 1973 retiree is $276.40 per month for a female and $266.10 for a man. This disparity will be eliminated after 1977. A husband and his dependent wife would collect a maximum of $399.20 if both are 65 and retire in 1973.

In addition to the retirement program, Social Security provides monthly benefits for the widow and children of a deceased worker regardless of his age at death. If you are sufficiently disabled so as to prevent your working you are eligible for benefits in the sixth month of disability. Your wife and children also receive allowances. This year Medicare will be extended to cover incapacitated workers.

The hospital and medical care insurance benefits to senior citizens is a major segment of Social Security. At age 65 hospital coverage is automatic and free. Medical care insurance is a voluntary plan costing $6.30 monthly after July 1.

For the young man starting work this year, who pays the maximum tax for his 44-year working career, he would contribute $37,745 under the existing rising payment schedule. Retirement benefits excluding cost of living increases for this man and his wife could conceivably exceed $125,000 if he lives to 85.

Monetary Uncertainty Triggers A Stock Slide

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market moved broadly and steeply lower today as profit taking and second thoughts about the effectiveness of the dollar devaluation set in. Trading on the New York Stock Exchange was fairly active.

Wall Street observers noted a sell-off made its appearance around midsession Tuesday following an initial burst of buying on the dollar devaluation news. Analysts said investor second thoughts about the continued problems of the monetary situation added impetus to the sell-off.

Pan American Airlines was the most active issue, up ¼ at 9 ¾ on 102,600 shares.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange were lower in moderate trading. Rapid American Corp. warrants were the most active issue, off ⅛ at 6 ½ on turnover of 26,200.

On the Big Board, gold mining issues ran against the declining market. The price of gold in London reached record levels. Such issues always have risen on any monetary uncertainty. American South African and Campbell Red Lake mines gained 1 ⅞ each.

Computer and electronics issues were losers. Texas Instruments skidded 2 ⅜, IBM 2 and Control Data 1 ½.

Glamor issues headed lower. Ara Services, Avon Products, Corning Glass and Xerox lost 2 or more each.

Oils slumped. California Standard and Superior Oil lost 2 or more each.

Chemicals were lower with Dow off 2 ⅛ and Eastman Kodak and Dupont down 1 ¼ each.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Take Poor Alfred's Advice In Selecting The Correct Finesse

According to Poor Alfred's Almanac, three-quarters of a loaf is better than half. Use this little nugget of wisdom in choosing the right finesse.

SPADE TO DUMMY

South won the first trick and led a spade to dummy. Then he returned a heart and wondered what to play.

After much frowning and chin-stroking, South finessed with the jacks of hearts. West knew what was going on, so he won with the ace of hearts to lead South astray.

Declarer won the diamond continuation and led another spade to dummy. He was sure East had the queen of hearts, and he wanted to finesse through it.

Unfortunately, East had no more hearts. West was sure to get his second trump trick, and South was obliged to lead clubs from his own hand. Down one.

PROBABILITY

South had an even chance of finding the queen of hearts in the East hand. He had a slight extra chance, since if he lost the first trump to the queen he would still be able to reduce the club loss if East had both the king and queen.

This was not as good as playing for the clubs. In three-quarters of the cases East will have one or both of the missing club honors. South should therefore begin with a finesse in clubs rather than in trumps.

THROUGH EAST

South should enter dummy with a spade and return the jack of clubs through East. If East covers, South can win and get back to dummy to lead a trump.

If East plays a low club, South is willing to lose the finesse and try another club finesse later. Declarer can lead trumps out of his own hand, if need be.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one heart, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠- Q 10 9 6
♥- A Q 8
♦- J 10 9
♣- Q 6 2.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one spade.

The hand is too strong for a raise to two hearts, but not strong enough for a jump to three hearts or to two no-trump. Mark time with the spade response and show the heart support later.

Plea Made To Reduced Count

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Screenwriter Norman Wexler, who authored the 1970 movie "Joe," pleaded guilty Monday to a reduced charge of assaulting an airline stewardess and was placed on a year's probation.

U.S. District Judge Albert C. Wollenberg sentenced Wexler, 46, New York City, on the misdemeanor charge after the government dropped a felony complaint accusing him of interfering with an airline flight. He pleaded guilty to simple assault—the intentional bumping of an airline stewardess with his body.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

New Junior Boutique To Open Tomorrow At Northgate Mall

Papsie's, a junior boutique specializing in "fashions for the young and the young at heart," will open tomorrow at Northgate Mall near Sears new store.

The store will feature old Hollywood music via recordings and old Hollywood films as part of its opening ceremonies.

Papsie's, a division of the National Dollar Stores Ltd., has three other shops — on Mission Street in San Francisco, at Tanforan in San Bruno and in El Cerrito Plaza. "We want to put pretty things back on women's bodies," said Papsie Shoong of San Francisco, director of Papsie's.

Harris Ryan of Mill Valley is manager of Papsie's in Northgate.

ROBERT A. TOWLE of Mill Valley was appointed a principal in Wurster, Bernardi and Emmens Inc., San Francisco architect and planners.

Towle has been with the firm since 1961. He was project architect for such projects as the Golden Gateway redevelopment and Bank of America world headquarters in San Francisco.

Lewis

JERRY L. LEWIS of San Rafael was named top 1972 sales executive among Coldwell, Banker & Company's 1,100 real estate sales personnel. As an investment property specialist, he handled property transfers whose value amounted to $35 million.

Lewis is based at the company's San Francisco office. He was a sales manager for Xerox Corporation until he joined Coldwell, Banker & Co. in 1971.

FRENCH'S HITCHING POST, formerly at 1205 Third Street (near B Street) in San Rafael has re-opened in new and larger quarters at Second and D Streets, San Rafael.

The new site, formerly occupied by Mt. Tam Bedding and Furniture, gives French's Hitching Post double its former space and free customer parking in front.

The saddle and riding shop has expanded its stock and now carries square dancing outfits, as well as a complete line of Western and English riding gear and accessories for all ages.

Owners are William H. and Loreene (Renie) French, who started the San Rafael store more than five years ago. French provides instructions on the handling of horses, and Mrs. French presents fashion shows on riding gear.

"We outfit children as well as adults with everything from leather jackets and denims to boots and moccasins," said Mrs. French. The store plans a grand opening next month, with saddles and clothing to be given away as prizes.

FOOD SERVICE SALES Inc., headed by Wilbur R. Walter of Greenbrae, moved during the weekend from San Francisco to Northgate Industrial Park in San Rafael.

Consultants in wholesale food service distribution and seafood brokerage, the company had been at 44 Montgomery Street in San Francisco for the past two and one-half years. The new location is suite 243 in the La Plaza Building at 4340 Redwood Highway, San Rafael. The lease was arranged by William Hoey Company.

Walter said the company decided to move because of congestion in the city and difficulty of commuting. Associated with Walter in Food Services Sales are John Tidemann of Piedmont and James Sullivan of Glen Ellen.

THE COLLECTIVE antique shops at 316 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in San Anselmo, near Tamalpais Theater, is still looking for someone to operate a proposed lunch room in the rear of the shop.

Alfred and Jo Hanna Willman of San Anselmo, who had hoped to open a European-type restaurant there, are unable to do so because they are too busy with their antique business, according to Anthony Barbera Sr., owner-manager of The Collective.

"We are building a permanent redwood beam roof in the back with hanging plants," said Barbera. "The place is for lease for a luncheon-type restaurant. We will also get a beer and wine license."

REDWOOD CHAPEL Funeral Home, which has been operated by Charles R. Johnson of Novato for 20 years, now has a second partner. Joining Johnson as co-owner is Thomas A. Meisner, who graduated in 1959 from the San Francisco College of Mortuary Science and has been in the mortuary business in Marin for the past 13 years. Meisner lives with his wife and their son in Santa Venetia.

Johnson formed a new corporation called Johnson-Meisner Inc. last month to bring Meisner into the business. Redwood Chapel Funeral Home at 7078 Redwood Highway in Novato will continue unchanged, with the same name and services.

JAMES J. WEISS, an agent for Western Life Insurance Co. in San Rafael, has qualified for that company's Four Star Club Award.

Weiss was one of only nine in the entire company of some 1,500 agents to earn this award. He qualified for four of the five major Western Life production clubs, which cover all phases of life underwriting proficiency.

PETER J. GERBER of Larkspur has joined the equity formation division at Grubb & Ellis Co., Oakland.

Gerber has a master of business administration degree from Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration. He served with Xerox Corporation and Boeing Company before joining Grubb & Ellis.

DONALD A. SMITH of Novato was promoted to group sales consultant in Massachusetts Mutal Life Insurance Company's San Francisco group office.

Longs Drug Stores Reports Earnings

WALNUT CREEK (UPI) — Longs Drug Stores, Inc., has reported sales of $228.7 million for its fiscal year ended Jan. 31.

This was a 15 ½ per cent increase from sales of $198 million the previous year.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER J. WIKEL, C.P.A.

Auto Expenses Are Deductible; Here Are Some Rules To Follow

Automobile expenses are deductible. Here are the rules:

Your expenses in commuting are not deductible.

If you haul tools, etc., and you cannot store the tools at the place you work, or if you work at different locations every day, and you would not have used your car but for the necessity of hauling tools, etc., which are too bulky or heavy to be carried otherwise, the expense may be partly deductible.

If you are in business and your auto is used exclusively for business purposes, the cost of its operation is deductible on Schedule C, Form 1040.

If you are an employee and use your car exclusively in your work, you can deduct the total cost of its operation, such as gasoline, oil, repairs, garage rent, insurance, depreciation, interest, taxes, licenses, etc.

If you use your car for both personal and business travel, you must divide your expenses.

You can just keep a record of the business use of your car. You can deduct 12 cents per mile for the first 15,000 miles and nine cents per mile for miles over 15,000 in each year.

The miles must be for business use and you must have a record of them.

If your employer reimbursed you less than 12 cents a mile, and you'd do better with 12 cents and 9 cents per mile, you can deduct the difference by including the reimbursement in income and deducting the mileage allowance as above. The mileage allowance is not available if you took the extra first-year depreciation allowance on your car, or you took depreciation on one of the accelerated methods.

The mileage allowance is instead of auto expenses, depreciation, insurance, etc. You dan't take both. But you can take parking fees and bridge and road tolls attributable to business travel and interest costs of buying the car.

Also, you can deduct six cents per mile for the use of your car to secure medical care, or for charitable contributions, where automobile expense qualifies as deductible as a medical expense or as a charitable contribution.

Some auto expenses are deductible is you itemize on Schedule A even though your automobile is entirely used for personal purposes.

These expenses include: Gasoline taxes — California seven cents per gallon; state and local sales taxes; interest on auto loans; casualty and theft losses over $100; and California license fees in excess of $11 ($12 if a station wagon).

Caution. If you have used your car for business and personal travel, and if you itemize your deductions, be sure that you list on Schedule A of your return only the interest, taxes, etc., which were not claimed as traveling or transportation expense anywhere else on your return. An expense can be deducted only once.

Car Pools. Expenses of an automobile used in a car pool to and from work is a personal expense and not deductible. Amounts received from passengers are not included in income unless they exceed the expenses.

Fines for violation of traffic or other laws and regulations are not deductible.

Eureka Federal Has Good Year

I-J Special Report

The past year has been one of unprecedented growth and progress for the Eureka Federal Savings and Loan Association of San Francisco with very substantial gains in both the savings and loan portfolios, according to Kenneth L. Kidwell, president.

At the close of the final quarter of 1972, total loans were in excess of $291 million as compared to over $240 million a year ago. This $50 million increase represents a 16 per cent gain.

Included in the $291 million were the assets of a new department — mobile home and home improvement loans. Inaugurated in April, they represented a total of over $4 million by the end of 1972.

Max Factor To Merge With Simon

LOS ANGELES (BW) — The merger of Norton Simon Inc. (NSI), one of the nation's leading consumer products marketers, and Max Factor & Co., a major cosmetics manufacturer with worldwide operations, has been approved by shareholders of both companies, David J. Mahoney, chairman of the board and president of NSI, announced yesterday.

Shareholders of both companies met simulaneously at special meetings in New York City and Los Angeles to vote on the merger. Under the terms of the agreement, Max Factor & Co. shareholders receive 1.115 shares of NSI common stock for each share of Max Factor capital stock.

NSI's chief executive officer cited Max Factor's excellent record in new product development as one of the major reasons for their merger. "Seven of its top 15 brands have been introduced in the past three years, and products introduced since 1971 account for 20 per cent of its current sales.

Mahoney pointed out that expansion overseas has been a major NSI corporate objective, and that Max Factor represents precisely the kind of acquisition NSI has been seeking to tap new consumer markets abroad.

Social Security Plan Explained

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. What does the newest Social Security plan mean to the average American? — O.O.

A. First, the worker pays 5.85 per cent on wages up to $10,800 per year. The maximum Social Security tax in 1973 is $631.80. Thus a $10,000-a-year worker will contribute $585 and his employer will pay a like amount. If you are self-employed, you are taxed at an 8 per cent rate for a maximum annual tax of $864. Both the taxable wage ceiling and the rate increase in 1974. Thereafter the rate will be increased, reaching 6.25 per cent by 1981.

At present, 28 million individuals are receiving monthly benefits from the plan. This year, alone, another 1.4 million Americans are expected to begin receiving retirement allowances. The top pension for a 65-year-old 1973 retiree is $276.40 per month for a female and $266.10 for a man. This disparity will be eliminated after 1977. A husband and his dependent wife would collect a maximum of $399.20 if both are 65 and retire in 1973.

In addition to the retirement program, Social Security provides monthly benefits for the widow and children of a deceased worker regardless of his age at death. If you are sufficiently disabled so as to prevent your working you are eligible for benefits in the sixth month of disability. Your wife and children also receive allowances. This year Medicare will be extended to cover incapacitated workers.

The hospital and medical care insurance benefits to senior citizens is a major segment of Social Security. At age 65 hospital coverage is automatic and free. Medical care insurance is a voluntary plan costing $6.30 monthly after July 1.

For the young man starting work this year, who pays the maximum tax for his 44-year working career, he would contribute $37,745 under the existing rising payment schedule. Retirement benefits excluding cost of living increases for this man and his wife could conceivably exceed $125,000 if he lives to 85.

Monetary Uncertainty Triggers A Stock Slide

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market moved broadly and steeply lower today as profit taking and second thoughts about the effectiveness of the dollar devaluation set in. Trading on the New York Stock Exchange was fairly active.

Wall Street observers noted a sell-off made its appearance around midsession Tuesday following an initial burst of buying on the dollar devaluation news. Analysts said investor second thoughts about the continued problems of the monetary situation added impetus to the sell-off.

Pan American Airlines was the most active issue, up ¼ at 9 ¾ on 102,600 shares.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange were lower in moderate trading. Rapid American Corp. warrants were the most active issue, off ⅛ at 6 ½ on turnover of 26,200.

On the Big Board, gold mining issues ran against the declining market. The price of gold in London reached record levels. Such issues always have risen on any monetary uncertainty. American South African and Campbell Red Lake mines gained 1 ⅞ each.

Computer and electronics issues were losers. Texas Instruments skidded 2 ⅜, IBM 2 and Control Data 1 ½.

Glamor issues headed lower. Ara Services, Avon Products, Corning Glass and Xerox lost 2 or more each.

Oils slumped. California Standard and Superior Oil lost 2 or more each.

Chemicals were lower with Dow off 2 ⅛ and Eastman Kodak and Dupont down 1 ¼ each.

Pontiac—3055

$495.

Here's the lowest-mileage little second car in Marin County. This all-white little Pontiac 2-dr. sport coupe has just over 39,000 miles and has been used by local lady strictly as a second car since new.

You can't believe the newness of the interior and the car runs like a jewel. Fully equipped including automatic, radio, heater, w/w tires, etc. This little coupe would make the perfect car for that student or wife looking for 20 miles per gallon of gas, yet a car that's in unusually good condition. ZHU 247.

SUMMONS #1
Case Number 64499

Superior Court of California, County of Marin, Hall of Justice, Civic Center, San Rafael, California

Plaintiff: SECURITY PACIFIC NATIONAL BANK, a national banking association,

Defendants: HANDCRAFT BAZAAR COMPANY, a California corporation, doing business as THE PORT; ROBERT A. McENROE, LOREN NOWELL, JOHN S. WICKETT, JOHN C. CAVE, and FIRST DOE through TENTH DOE

To the Defendants: A civil complaint has been filed by the plaintiff against you. If you wish to defend this lawsuit, you must file in this court a written pleading in response to the complaint (or a written or oral pleading, if a Justice Court) within 30 days after this summons is served on you. Otherwise, your default will be entered on application by the plaintiff and the court may enter a judgment against you for the money or other relief requested in the complaint.

If you wish to seek the advice of an attorney in this matter, you should do so promptly so that your pleading, if any, may be filed on time.

Drug Testing Lab Viewed As Both Boon, Boondoggle

By LARRY MOWELL

Boon. The three-month-old drug testing laboratory in the Marin Hall of Justice provides better, less costly service than the former system of private and public analyzing facilities.

Boondoggle. The new lab financed primarily by the state costs two or three times as much even though it has less qualified drug analysts.

The two arguments reflect the unreconciled stands of the newly in and the newly out. Those with no stake in who does the drug testing have adopted a wait-and-see attitude.

Chief advocate of the boondoggle theory is Dr. John H. Manwaring of San Rafael, a pathologist whose Marin Medical Laboratories did the analysis of blood samples before the new lab opened in November.

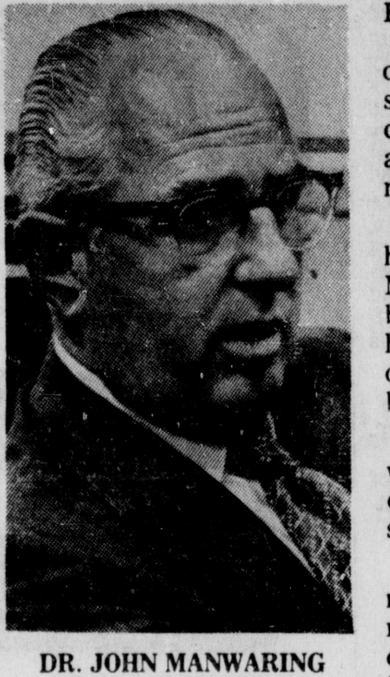
Manwaring, who said his lab was paid about $20,000 a year for analysis, claimed "I don't want to take it back. Life has been delightful getting rid of that chore."

Nevertheless, the doctor has kept busy writing opposition letters to the governor and applying pressure through the California Society of Pathologists. He conceded he probably would take his share of the business back if it were offered to him.

"The fact remains that the services are given at much greater cost and with less well qualified individuals in Marin County and in many other counties in California," Manwaring said in a recent letter to the governor.

Gov. Ronald Reagan wrote back Jan. 29: "The establishment of a satellite laboratory in San Rafael is part of a statewide plan to improve the quality and availability of scientific analysis of physical evidence to assist law enforcement agencies, prosecutors and the courts in meeting their obligation, and to provide improved services to the criminal justice system in California."

Manwaring told the Independent-Journal that his technicians were required to complete two years of training, but the state labs require only a chemistry degree and three weeks of training. "I resent being replaced by personnel who don't meet the qualifications that my people and I worked hard to get," he said.



DR. JOHN MANWARING
The boondoggle theory

Despite his resentment, the doctor said he is battling the new lab only as a worried taxpayer. He said his service, which did only blood sample analysis, cost about $20,000 a year.

The new lab has $231,000 in the budget for the next three years, but state officials and Bella H. Aaron, the police-community relations director who prides herself in attracting outside funding to Marin, claim the new lab will save money.

Mrs. Aaron said the new lab is expected to save $87,218 in its first year. She said that in 1971, the county spent $60,000 on expert witnesses, another $41,000 on blood and drug testing and lost $50,000 in time of deputy district attorneys and police officers because experts failed to show up and samples were not promptly tested.

Not only will the lab, located in the same building with the courts, eliminate the time wasted, but it will provide the witnesses and testing that were costing $100,000 a year, she said.

Fred H. Wynbrandt, who runs the labs throughout the state for the Department of Justice, promised the lab will be a "hell of a saving for the taxpayer."

He said Manwaring's cost estimate leaves out that the lab, staffed by three men, will test drugs and blood samples not only from Marin, but from four other counties and the office of the state Bureau of Narcotics Enforcement in San Francisco.

The lab, Wynbrandt said, is one of six satellite labs in the state. There are three more comprehensive regional labs and the main facility in Sacramento, he said.

Now doing mostly blood alcohol and narcotics analysis, the Marin lab eventually will branch out to bloodstains, ballistics, fabric identification and other evidence analysis, Wynbrandt said.

In addition to the cost, Manwaring has criticized "the decreased quality of some of the services."

Two of the analysts, Raymond David and William Corrazza, have almost no experience, he said, but are called on to compute blood alcohol levels and testify as experts in drunken driving cases on the effects of alcohol.

"The judges won't let them testify," Manwaring predicted. Marin Municipal Court judges have allowed their testimony, but Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales said he will continue to use Manwaring as an expert witness where the effect of alcohol is a crucial part of the case.

Bales acknowledged the two are "virtually inexperienced," but reserved judgment on the merits and debits of the lab.

Davis shrugged off Manwaring's charge of lack of expertise. "I don't need to be a doctor to do what I am doing here," he siad.

Several drunken driving cases were dismissed in municipal court because the two new analysts failed to keep complete records on Marin breath analysis machines in early December, but Manwaring's record is not unsullied either.

When his technicians maintained the machines, they failed to test them as required by law. Bales said that testing flaw also resulted in dismissal of cases.

Mrs. Aaron said the level of service will improve measurably. In the past, drug samples were mailed elsewhere for analysis and "the backlog became fantastic."

Tardy test results meant cases were delayed and police officers and courts were tied, up. Now the analysis is complete in two or three days and the expert witness is just upstairs and down the hall, she said.

$250,000 Is Sought In Beating

A Sleepy Hollow teen-ager yesterday filed a $250,000 damage suit in Marin Superior Court against the Marin County sheriff and two deputies, he claims beat him without reason last Halloween.

The suit, filed by San Francisco attorney Robert L. Moran on behalf of 19-year-old David McAusland Jr. of 2 Irving Drive, claims Deputy William Donovan and a second unidentified deputy beat him with a club last Oct. 31.

The deputies, according to the suit, went into the McAusland yard, "created a loud disturbance, and without provocation, wilfully and maliciously assaulted plaintiff and beat, wounded and ill-treated him by striking him about the head and body."

McAusland required treatment at a local hospital for facial injuries after the assault, which happeded while the deputies were chasing Halloween pranksters, according to Sheldon Ramsey, an associate of Moran.

The suit which asks $100,000 general and $150,000 exemplary and punitive damages, said Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos should have known his deputies "were of a brutal, savage and malicious nature."

Hospital Chief Had Dream Of Fatal Air Crash

ALAMEDA (UPI) — Alameda Hospital's staff was well prepared for the Navy jet crash that demolished an apartment house because its administrator had had a dream.

Harold Michals, the administrator, said Tuesday he had dreamed six months ago that a commercial jet had hit Alameda and that consequently he had prepared elaborate disaster drills.

By coincidence, he said at a hospital meeting reviewing the disaster, a drill had been scheduled for just last Wednesday—just shortly after the actual crash.

Names Of Prisoners On Way Home Given

CLARK AFB, Philippines (UPI) — The Air Force issued the following list of the 20 former American POWs now on their way home from Clark Air Force Base:

ALMANAC

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Today is Wednesday, Feb. 14, the 45th day of 1973 with 320 to follow. This is St Valentine's day.

The moon is approaching its full phase. The morning stars are Venus, Mars and Jupiter. The evening stars are Mercury and Saturn.

American suffrage leader Anna Howard Shaw was born Feb. 14, 1874.

On this day in history:

In 1886, the West Coast citrus industry was born as the first trainload of oranges left Los Angeles for eastern markets.

In 1903, President Theodore Roosevelt signed a law creating a Department of Commerce and Labor.

In 1933, Michigan Gov. W. A. Comstock ordered an eight-day bank holiday in a depression-era move to block a financial panic and $50 million was rushed to Detroit to bolster bank assets.

In 1971, six Arab states reached a five-year oil agreement with 23 Western petroleum companies.

A thought for the day: Irish poet James Stephens said, "Virtue is the performance of pleasant actions."

San Rafael air quality yesterday:

Oxidants, clean air.
Nitrogen dioxide, clean air.
Carbon monoxide, clean air.
Smoke particles, clean air.

Other areas:

San Francisco, clean air.
San Jose, light air pollution.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources, while the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

Guard Is Injured In Prison Attack

A San Quentin guard suffered minor injuries yesterday when jumped by at least three convicts in a scuffle in the north dining hall, a prison spokesman said.

It was the first serious attack on a correctional officer at San Quentin since August 1971 when convict George Jackson, two other inmates and three guards died in a bloody escape attempt.

Lee DeBord, prison information officer, said officer Lee R. Wacker, 24, was checking the area near a door of the north dining hall when he was hit on the head with a heavy metal pitcher.

He then was jumped by three or four inmates, who scuffled with the officer for several minutes before they released him and ran.

Wacker then went for help to the south dining hall, DeBord said. He was treated at the prison hospital and then checked at Marin General Hospital for abrasions and cuts.

Two prison-made weapons, a knife and a sharp rod, were found near where Wacker was attacked, DeBord said, but it was not known whether or not the weapons were used.

Four inmates were locked up today for questioning.

Wacker told other officers he thought the men who attacked him were "doing something they didn't want reported," according to DeBord.

College Teacher Fills Petaluma Board Slot

Wesley W. Ebert, chairman of the Sonoma State College biology department, was appointed to the Petaluma Board of Education last night.

The board named Ebert to replace William Morrissey, who resigned last week. His term will expire in June.

Ebert, who teaches biology as well as heading the department at the college, has bachelor's and master's degrees in agronomy and a doctorate in genetics. He had previously served on a school board and planning commission in Minnesota.

Ebert has been active in boy scouts and has served as chairman of the Miwok District for two years. He lives at 2189 Curtis Drive, Penngrove, with his wife and five children.

He was nominated for the position by the Northern Area Advisory Committee to the board.

Members of the American Federation of Teachers asked the board to consider opinions from teachers before deciding to switch ninth grade classes from junior to senior high schools.

Schools Supt. Lely H. Meyer said school principals have been asked to gather teacher opinions as part of a report to be done on March 1. He said the plan may reduce crowding in junior high schools if students are switched to less crowded high schools. He said Rohnert Park Junior High might have to go on double sessions in the fall if the school enrollment isn't reduced to seventh and eighth grades.

Meyer said problems of curriculum and staffing must be answered before a recommendation can be made on the plan.

The board accepted the resignation of H. Vic Parker, who is leaving teaching, and hired Edgar Yilek for the remainder of the year at a salary of $4,191.

Campaign Is Opened To Get Library Funds

The Petaluma Library board launched a letter writing campaign last night to urge the city council to use federal revenue sharing funds for a new library.

Board chairman Kenneth M. Wightman said the board believes the $264,000 the city will receive annually through 1977-78 should be used to replace the current library on Fourth Street, built in 1904 and long considered cramped.

He said brochures urging letter writing will be distributed with each book at the library.

"Since this is an election year, we hope an outpouring of public opinion will help our cause," Wightman said. "People have always been hesitant to approve a new library because it means higher taxes, but now they can be big spenders for eight cents."

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Most Common Heart Ailment Is Narrowed Coronary Artery

The most common type of heart disease stems from narrowing or blockage of the coronary artery due to arteriosclerosis. Angina pectoris, which is described as a squeezing sensation or feeling of tightness or pressure under the breastbone, is the earliest indication of this disease. It follows exertion or excitement and is relieved by rest and relaxation.

This is nature's warning that the cornary arteries are beginning to "rust." Heed the warning, but don't go into a tailspin by concluding that this is the beginning of the end. A person with angina pectoris can live for decades, even though a segment of the artery is pugged.

NITROGLYCERIN TABLETS relieve tightness and tend to lessen the heart's need for nourishment. But the hardening process also is a prerequisite to a heart attack. This must be taken into consideration, especially when the individual begins to develop fresh or worsening attacks of chest pain (unstable angina).

Distress may last longer and become recurrent and progressive. The discomfort is not necessarily related to exertion but may occur also at rest. Other symptoms include burning in the chest, upper abdominal distress, shortness of breath, dizziness, weakness, and fatigue.

At least 65 per cent of those with angina who experience these changes in the nature of the distress are in the process of developing a coronary artery occlusion. The percentage is high enough to be on the alert and not take a chance. Call the physician immediately when these kinds of changes occur.

CARDIAC SURGERY now is being advocated in many institutions for those with impending coronaries (unstable angina). Special X-ray studies are conducted to determine the status of the vessels. And if there is a 50 per cent or greater narrowing, surgery is advised. There is a definite risk to this procedure, and some heart specialists believe that most persons with unstable angina treated without the operation have a better chance of survival. On the other hand, the risk of surgery may be worthwhile if the angina is severe, disabiling, and bound to end in a heart attack with a questionable outcome.

COUGH HANGS ON

Mrs. B. writes: When my husband catches cold, the cough hangs on for months. Do you think his lungs are diseased?

REPLY

Possibly. A chest X-ray will answer the question in a few minutes. Colds that hang on usually are caused by (1) a chronic lung disorder; (2) irritation such as from smoking or air pollution; (3) persistent infection in the sinuses or tonsils; and (4) allergy. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on cough.

SORE CORNERS

C. E. writes: For two years I've been doctoring for sores at the corners of my mouth, but can't get them to heal. Can the cause be found and removed?

REPLY

Yes, provided the cracks represent a vitamin B dificiency or an extension of infection from the mouth. Ointments containing an antibiotic are helpful in the latter. Keep the corners dry, especially if there is a tendency to drool.

Post Says Computer Operation Is Failure

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislative Analyst A. Alan Post has declared the Reagan administration's attempts over the last six years to effectively consolidate the state's multimillion dollar computer operations have failed.

Post also urged the Legislature to review "state policies relative to the confidentiality of data and the rights of individuals to privacy" before the plan combining the computer operations becomes fully operational May 1.

The plan calls for five consolidated electronic data processing (EDP) centers which administration officials estimate would save the state $150 million over a five-year period.

Post issued a detailed 70-page review Tuesday of the administration's efforts to coordinate, control and use data processing since 1966.

"In our judgment," Post said, "such a review is required because many of the activities in these years met with failure."

Brown Sees Possibility Of Only Small Surplus

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The chairman of the Assembly Ways and Means Committee said today cutbacks in federal programs could cost the state $635 million during the next fiscal year, possibly eating up much of the state's $852 million surplus.

Assemblyman Willie L. Brown Jr., D-San Francisco, said because of the recently announced federal cutbacks, Gov. Ronald Reagan's proposed $9.26 billion budget and plans for returning the surplus to the people now have no "relationship to reality."

Brown's comments echoed those of his powerful counterpart in the Senate, Finance Committee chairman Randolph Collier, who warned the Reagan administration to "go slow" with plans to return the surplus because of the federal cutbacks.

One administration spokesman has said a new federal welfare law, commonly called HR1, will cost California an extra $300 million.

Brown said President Nixon's new budget proposal also would slash federal funding for education, manpower and poverty programs in California by at least another $335 million.

"Do we increase the state's share of the funding, do we take over threatened programs?" Brown asked. "Or do we allow them to be reduced or eliminated, thus striking a blow at the most vulnerable —the children, the elderly, the sick and unemployed?"

Brown's remarks were prepared for the opening session of his committee on the effects of HR1 and other planned federal cutbacks. The state budget and any plan to return the surplus must be approved by Brown's committee.

The new welfare law provides for changes in the social security program and creates a new program of "supplementary security" income for aged, blind and disabled welfare recipients. It also alters some Medi-Cal provisions.

However, the exact cost of the bill to California will not be known until implementing regulations are adopted.

Computer Plays A Crazy Game

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — a county computer "went crazy" and erroneously mailed delinquency notices to 3,000 fathers who had already made their monthly child support payments.

District Attorney John M. Price urged all fathers receiving the notices, which warn of legal action within five days, to ignore them.

"The computer went crazy and sent those notices to people who've already paid," said the Sacramento County official.

Computer experts haven't figured out yet what set the machine on its notice-sending binge.

Berkeley Recall Petition Is Filed

BERKELEY (AP) — Saying he has obstructed council meetings and vilified other black leaders, a petition has been filed to recall radical D'Army Bailey from the City Council.

"I think Bailey wants to acquire a tremendous amount of personal power," Vice Mayor Wilmont Sweeney, also black and one of the petition's backers, said after the petition was filed yesterday.

Here's the lowest-mileage little second car in Marin County. This all-white little Pontiac 2-dr. sport coupe has just over 39,000 miles and has been used by local lady strictly as a second car since new.

You can't believe the newness of the interior and the car runs like a jewel. Fully equipped including automatic, radio, heater, w/w tires, etc. This little coupe would make the perfect car for that student or wife looking for 20 miles per gallon of gas, yet a car that's in unusually good condition. Land Swap Announced

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A land exchange involving more than 17,000 acres of timber rich land in Placer and Nevada counties was announced yesterday by Pacific Gas And Electric Co.

Nolan H. Daines, manager of PG&E's land department, said 17,052 acres of land surplus to the company's operations would be exchanged over the next three years with the Yuba River Lumber Co. of Grass Valley for lands to be designated by PG&E.

The exchange value was not announced.

Under the agreement, PG&E will transfer title to 59 parcels of land in the American-Rubicon River region in the vicinity of Loon Lake and Hell Hole Reservoir to the lumber company. PG&E will retain water and mineral rights, Daines said.

Reagan Says 'Scores' Back Bench Nominee

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan said today that "scores and scores" of distinguished attorneys have endorsed the nomination of his former top assistant William P. Clark Jr. to the state Supreme Court.

He declined, however, to publicly identify any who have contacted him personally expressing their support for his nomination of Clark, who currently is an appellate court justice in Los Angeles.

In response to news conference questions, Reagan said he had "always been a little hesitant about my repeating what someone else has said to me without going to them and saying, 'Do you mind if I made public the fact that you have said this to me?'"

Specifically, Reagan defended Clark against a charge by the California Trial Lawyers Association that the nomination is "indefensible." The organization demanded that Reagan withdraw it.

Asked whether he has suspicions that Chief Justice Donald Wright opposes Clark, Reagan replied, "No, no I haven't at all."

Controversy over Clark's nomination has focused on the fact that the 41-year-old former executive assistant to Reagan did not graduate from college with a law degree. He took the State Bar test, and passed it on the second try and became an attorney.

Wright called on the state Bar to investigate Clark's qualifications and report its findings at a public hearing March 2 of the state Commission on Judicial Appointments headed by the chief justice.

Reagan insisted Clark's nomination was "totally defensible" and that a "great many distinguished lawyers in California" support him.

Asked to name one, Reagan replied, "Oh for Heavens sake, scores and scores."

He declined to identify any who had communicated with him but said they would be readily apparent at the March 2 hearing. Edwin Meese, the governor's executive secretary, offered to provide a list of additional supporters to supplement those who testify at the hearing.

A $6,000 Ceremony For Weinberger

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Instead of waiting until he got back to Washington, President Nixon swore in Caspar W. Weinberger as secretary of Health, Education and Welfare at the western White House in San Clemente.

That, White House Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler said Tuesday, cost taxpayers at least $6,000—$600 per hour for the Air Force jet which ferried Weinberger.

Wallace Hospital Stay Indefinite

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — Doctors said Tuesday that Gov. George C. Wallace would remain hospitalized indefinitely as a result of post-surgical bleeding. But they indicated the condition was not serious.

Wallace underwent surgery on his prostate gland Jan. 26.

A Romance Grows Out Of Kidnaping

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (UPI) — Three months ago, while police were chasing Ronald Eugene Terry, 34, he commandeered a passing car, pulled a gun on the driver, Beverly A. Sanders, 33, and took her hostage.

Police caught Terry after a wild chase back and forth across the Missouri-Kansas border. The hostage was not hurt.

Tuesday, Terry and the woman he took hostage applied for a marriage license. Police said Mrs. Sanders, who has applied for a divorce from her present husband, became a regular visitor to the Wyandotte County jail after Terry was arrested last November.

However, Terry has been sentenced to one to five years in prison for burglary and still faces trial on charges of forgery, theft, and kidnaping.

Drug Testing Lab Viewed As Both Boon, Boondoggle

By LARRY MOWELL

Boon. The three-month-old drug testing laboratory in the Marin Hall of Justice provides better, less costly service than the former system of private and public analyzing facilities.

Boondoggle. The new lab financed primarily by the state costs two or three times as much even though it has less qualified drug analysts.

The two arguments reflect the unreconciled stands of the newly in and the newly out. Those with no stake in who does the drug testing have adopted a wait-and-see attitude.

Chief advocate of the boondoggle theory is Dr. John H. Manwaring of San Rafael, a pathologist whose Marin Medical Laboratories did the analysis of blood samples before the new lab opened in November.

Manwaring, who said his lab was paid about $20,000 a year for analysis, claimed "I don't want to take it back. Life has been delightful getting rid of that chore."

Nevertheless, the doctor has kept busy writing opposition letters to the governor and applying pressure through the California Society of Pathologists. He conceded he probably would take his share of the business back if it were offered to him.

"The fact remains that the services are given at much greater cost and with less well qualified individuals in Marin County and in many other counties in California," Manwaring said in a recent letter to the governor.

Gov. Ronald Reagan wrote back Jan. 29: "The establishment of a satellite laboratory in San Rafael is part of a statewide plan to improve the quality and availability of scientific analysis of physical evidence to assist law enforcement agencies, prosecutors and the courts in meeting their obligation, and to provide improved services to the criminal justice system in California."

Manwaring told the Independent-Journal that his technicians were required to complete two years of training, but the state labs require only a chemistry degree and three weeks of training. "I resent being replaced by personnel who don't meet the qualifications that my people and I worked hard to get," he said.

DR. JOHN MANWARING
The boondoggle theory

Despite his resentment, the doctor said he is battling the new lab only as a worried taxpayer. He said his service, which did only blood sample analysis, cost about $20,000 a year.

The new lab has $231,000 in the budget for the next three years, but state officials and Bella H. Aaron, the police-community relations director who prides herself in attracting outside funding to Marin, claim the new lab will save money.

Mrs. Aaron said the new lab is expected to save $87,218 in its first year. She said that in 1971, the county spent $60,000 on expert witnesses, another $41,000 on blood and drug testing and lost $50,000 in time of deputy district attorneys and police officers because experts failed to show up and samples were not promptly tested.

Not only will the lab, located in the same building with the courts, eliminate the time wasted, but it will provide the witnesses and testing that were costing $100,000 a year, she said.

Fred H. Wynbrandt, who runs the labs throughout the state for the Department of Justice, promised the lab will be a "hell of a saving for the taxpayer."

He said Manwaring's cost estimate leaves out that the lab, staffed by three men, will test drugs and blood samples not only from Marin, but from four other counties and the office of the state Bureau of Narcotics Enforcement in San Francisco.

The lab, Wynbrandt said, is one of six satellite labs in the state. There are three more comprehensive regional labs and the main facility in Sacramento, he said.

Now doing mostly blood alcohol and narcotics analysis, the Marin lab eventually will branch out to bloodstains, ballistics, fabric identification and other evidence analysis, Wynbrandt said.

In addition to the cost, Manwaring has criticized "the decreased quality of some of the services."

Two of the analysts, Raymond David and William Corrazza, have almost no experience, he said, but are called on to compute blood alcohol levels and testify as experts in drunken driving cases on the effects of alcohol.

"The judges won't let them testify," Manwaring predicted. Marin Municipal Court judges have allowed their testimony, but Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales said he will continue to use Manwaring as an expert witness where the effect of alcohol is a crucial part of the case.

Bales acknowledged the two are "virtually inexperienced," but reserved judgment on the merits and debits of the lab.

Davis shrugged off Manwaring's charge of lack of expertise. "I don't need to be a doctor to do what I am doing here," he siad.

Several drunken driving cases were dismissed in municipal court because the two new analysts failed to keep complete records on Marin breath analysis machines in early December, but Manwaring's record is not unsullied either.

When his technicians maintained the machines, they failed to test them as required by law. Bales said that testing flaw also resulted in dismissal of cases.

Mrs. Aaron said the level of service will improve measurably. In the past, drug samples were mailed elsewhere for analysis and "the backlog became fantastic."

Tardy test results meant cases were delayed and police officers and courts were tied, up. Now the analysis is complete in two or three days and the expert witness is just upstairs and down the hall, she said.

$250,000 Is Sought In Beating

A Sleepy Hollow teen-ager yesterday filed a $250,000 damage suit in Marin Superior Court against the Marin County sheriff and two deputies, he claims beat him without reason last Halloween.

The suit, filed by San Francisco attorney Robert L. Moran on behalf of 19-year-old David McAusland Jr. of 2 Irving Drive, claims Deputy William Donovan and a second unidentified deputy beat him with a club last Oct. 31.

The deputies, according to the suit, went into the McAusland yard, "created a loud disturbance, and without provocation, wilfully and maliciously assaulted plaintiff and beat, wounded and ill-treated him by striking him about the head and body."

McAusland required treatment at a local hospital for facial injuries after the assault, which happeded while the deputies were chasing Halloween pranksters, according to Sheldon Ramsey, an associate of Moran.

The suit which asks $100,000 general and $150,000 exemplary and punitive damages, said Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos should have known his deputies "were of a brutal, savage and malicious nature."

Hospital Chief Had Dream Of Fatal Air Crash

ALAMEDA (UPI) — Alameda Hospital's staff was well prepared for the Navy jet crash that demolished an apartment house because its administrator had had a dream.

Harold Michals, the administrator, said Tuesday he had dreamed six months ago that a commercial jet had hit Alameda and that consequently he had prepared elaborate disaster drills.

By coincidence, he said at a hospital meeting reviewing the disaster, a drill had been scheduled for just last Wednesday—just shortly after the actual crash.

Names Of Prisoners On Way Home Given

CLARK AFB, Philippines (UPI) — The Air Force issued the following list of the 20 former American POWs now on their way home from Clark Air Force Base:

ALMANAC

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Today is Wednesday, Feb. 14, the 45th day of 1973 with 320 to follow. This is St. Valentine's day.

The moon is approaching its full phase. The morning stars are Venus, Mars and Jupiter. The evening stars are Mercury and Saturn.

American suffrage leader Anna Howard Shaw was born Feb. 14, 1874.

On this day in history:

In 1886, the West Coast citrus industry was born as the first trainload of oranges left Los Angeles for eastern markets.

In 1903, President Theodore Roosevelt signed a law creating a Department of Commerce and Labor.

In 1933, Michigan Gov. W. A. Comstock ordered an eight-day bank holiday in a depression-era move to block a financial panic and $50 million was rushed to Detroit to bolster bank assets.

In 1971, six Arab states reached a five-year oil agreement with 23 Western petroleum companies.

A thought for the day: Irish poet James Stephens said, "Virtue is the performance of pleasant actions."

San Rafael air quality yesterday:

Oxidants, clean air.
Nitrogen dioxide, clean air.
Carbon monoxide, clean air.
Smoke particles, clean air.
Other areas:
San Francisco, clean air.
San Jose, light air pollution.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources, while the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

Guard Is Injured In Prison Attack

A San Quentin guard suffered minor injuries yesterday when jumped by at least three convicts in a scuffle in the north dining hall, a prison spokesman said.

It was the first serious attack on a correctional officer at San Quentin since August 1971 when convict George Jackson, two other inmates and three guards died in a bloody escape attempt.

Lee DeBord, prison information officer, said officer Lee R. Wacker, 24, was checking the area near a door of the north dining hall when he was hit on the head with a heavy metal pitcher.

He then was jumped by three or four inmates, who scuffled with the officer for several minutes before they released him and ran.

Wacker then went for help to the south dining hall, DeBord said. He was treated at the prison hospital and then checked at Marin General Hospital for abrasions and cuts.

Two prison-made weapons, a knife and a sharp rod, were found near where Wacker was attacked, DeBord said, but it was not known whether or not the weapons were used.

Four inmates were locked up today for questioning.

Wacker told other officers he thought the men who attacked him were "doing something they didn't want reported," according to DeBord.

College Teacher Fills Petaluma Board Slot

Wesley W. Ebert, chairman of the Sonoma State College biology department, was appointed to the Petaluma Board of Education last night.

The board named Ebert to replace William Morrissey, who resigned last week. His term will expire in June.

Ebert, who teaches biology as well as heading the department at the college, has bachelor's and master's degrees in agronomy and a doctorate in genetics. He had previously served on a school board and planning commission in Minnesota.

Ebert has been active in boy scouts and has served as chairman of the Miwok District for two years. He lives at 2189 Curtis Drive, Penngrove, with his wife and five children.

He was nominated for the position by the Northern Area Advisory Committee to the board.

Members of the American Federation of Teachers asked the board to consider opinions from teachers before deciding to switch ninth grade classes from junior to senior high schools.

Schools Supt. Lely H. Meyer said school principals have been asked to gather teacher opinions as part of a report to be done on March 1. He said the plan may reduce crowding in junior high schools if students are switched to less crowded high schools. He said Rohnert Park Junior High might have to go on double sessions in the fall if the school enrollment isn't reduced to seventh and eighth grades.

Meyer said problems of curriculum and staffing must be answered before a recommendation can be made on the plan.

The board accepted the resignation of H. Vic Parker, who is leaving teaching, and hired Edgar Yilek for the remainder of the year at a salary of $4,191.

Campaign Is Opened To Get Library Funds

The Petaluma Library board launched a letter writing campaign last night to urge the city council to use federal revenue sharing funds for a new library.

Board chairman Kenneth M. Wightman said the board believes the $264,000 the city will receive annually through 1977-78 should be used to replace the current library on Fourth Street, built in 1904 and long considered cramped.

He said brochures urging letter writing will be distributed with each book at the library.

"Since this is an election year, we hope an outpouring of public opinion will help our cause," Wightman said. "People have always been hesitant to approve a new library because it means higher taxes, but now they can be big spenders for eight cents."

Other officers chosen for 1973 are Michael Collins, vice president; Reb Jones, secretary; Gloria Quinan, treasurer, and Beverly Ramblas, public relations. Mrs. Quinan and Mrs. Ramblas are also beginning their sixth terms in their posts.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Most Common Heart Ailment Is Narrowed Coronary Artery

The most common type of heart disease stems from narrowing or blockage of the coronary artery due to arteriosclerosis. Angina pectoris, which is described as a squeezing sensation or feeling of tightness or pressure under the breastbone, is the earliest indication of this disease. It follows exertion or excitement and is relieved by rest and relaxation.

This is nature's warning that the cornary arteries are beginning to "rust." Heed the warning, but don't go into a tailspin by concluding that this is the beginning of the end. A person with angina pectoris can live for decades, even though a segment of the artery is pugged.

NITROGLYCERIN TABLETS relieve tightness and tend to lessen the heart's need for nourishment. But the hardening process also is a prerequisite to a heart attack. This must be taken into consideration, especially when the individual begins to develop fresh or worsening attacks of chest pain (unstable angina).

Distress may last longer and become recurrent and progressive. The discomfort is not necessarily related to exertion but may occur also at rest. Other symptoms include burning in the chest, upper abdominal distress, shortness of breath, dizziness, weakness, and fatigue.

At least 65 per cent of those with angina who experience these changes in the nature of the distress are in the process of developing a coronary artery occlusion. The percentage is high enough to be on the alert and not take a chance. Call the physician immediately when these kinds of changes occur.

CARDIAC SURGERY now is being advocated in many institutions for those with impending coronaries (unstable angina). Special X-ray studies are conducted to determine the status of the vessels. And if there is a 50 per cent or greater narrowing, surgery is advised. There is a definite risk to this procedure, and some heart specialists believe that most persons with unstable angina treated without the operation have a better chance of survival. On the other hand, the risk of surgery may be worthwhile if the angina is severe, disabiling, and bound to end in a heart attack with a questionable outcome.

COUGH HANGS ON

Mrs. B. writes: When my husband catches cold, the cough hangs on for months. Do you think his lungs are diseased?

REPLY

Possibly. A chest X-ray will answer the question in a few minutes. Colds that hang on usually are caused by (1) a chronic lung disorder; (2) irritation such as from smoking or air pollution; (3) persistent infection in the sinuses or tonsils; and (4) allergy. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on cough.

SORE CORNERS

C. E. writes: For two years I've been doctoring for sores at the corners of my mouth, but can't get them to heal. Can the cause be found and removed?

REPLY

Yes, provided the cracks represent a vitamin B dificiency or an extension of infection from the mouth. Ointments containing an antibiotic are helpful in the latter. Keep the corners dry, especially if there is a tendency to drool.

Post Says Computer Operation Is Failure

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislative Analyst A. Alan Post has declared the Reagan administration's attempts over the last six years to effectively consolidate the state's multimillion dollar computer operations have failed.

Post also urged the Legislature to review "state policies relative to the confidentiality of data and the rights of individuals to privacy" before the plan combining the computer operations becomes fully operational May 1.

The plan calls for five consolidated electronic data processing (EDP) centers which administration officials estimate would save the state $150 million over a five-year period.

Post issued a detailed 70-page review Tuesday of the administration's efforts to coordinate, control and use data processing since 1966.

"In our judgment," Post said, "such a review is required because many of the activities in these years met with failure."

Brown Sees Possibility Of Only Small Surplus

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The chairman of the Assembly Ways and Means Committee said today cutbacks in federal programs could cost the state $635 million during the next fiscal year, possibly eating up much of the state's $852 million surplus.

Assemblyman Willie L. Brown Jr., D-San Francisco, said because of the recently announced federal cutbacks, Gov. Ronald Reagan's proposed $9.26 billion budget and plans for returning the surplus to the people now have no "relationship to reality."

Brown's comments echoed those of his powerful counterpart in the Senate, Finance Committee chairman Randolph Collier, who warned the Reagan administration to "go slow" with plans to return the surplus because of the federal cutbacks.

One administration spokesman has said a new federal welfare law, commonly called HR1, will cost California an extra $300 million.

Brown said President Nixon's new budget proposal also would slash federal funding for education, manpower and poverty programs in California by at least another $335 million.

"Do we increase the state's share of the funding, do we take over threatened programs?" Brown asked. "Or do we allow them to be reduced or eliminated, thus striking a blow at the most vulnerable —the children, the elderly, the sick and unemployed?"

Brown's remarks were prepared for the opening session of his committee on the effects of HR1 and other planned federal cutbacks. The state budget and any plan to return the surplus must be approved by Brown's committee.

The new welfare law provides for changes in the social security program and creates a new program of "supplementary security" income for aged, blind and disabled welfare recipients. It also alters some Medi-Cal provisions.

However, the exact cost of the bill to California will not be known until implementing regulations are adopted.

Computer Plays A Crazy Game

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — a county computer "went crazy" and erroneously mailed delinquency notices to 3,000 fathers who had already made their monthly child support payments.

District Attorney John M. Price urged all fathers receiving the notices, which warn of legal action within five days, to ignore them.

"The computer went crazy and sent those notices to people who've already paid," said the Sacramento County official.

Computer experts haven't figured out yet what set the machine on its notice-sending binge.

Berkeley Recall Petition Is Filed

BERKELEY (AP) — Saying he has obstructed council meetings and vilified other black leaders, a petition has been filed to recall radical D'Army Bailey from the City Council.

"I think Bailey wants to acquire a tremendous amount of personal power," Vice Mayor Wilmont Sweeney, also black and one of the petition's backers, said after the petition was filed yesterday.

A Romance Grows Out Of Kidnaping

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (UPI) — Three months ago, while police were chasing Ronald Eugene Terry, 34, he commandeered a passing car, pulled a gun on the driver, Beverly A. Sanders, 33, and took her hostage.

Police caught Terry after a wild chase back and forth across the Missouri-Kansas border: The hostage was not hurt.

Tuesday, Terry and the woman he took hostage applied for a marriage license. Police said Mrs. Sanders, who has applied for a divorce from her present husband, became a regular visitor to the Wyandotte County jail after Terry was arrested last November.

However, Terry has been sentenced to one to five years in prison for burglary and still faces trial on charges of forgery, theft, and kidnaping.

BEST SHOWS FOR TONIGHT

Unusual on television tonight:

KGO(7), 6:30 p.m. — The "Six Thirty Movie" presents Part II of "Birdman of Alcatraz," starring Burt Lancaster, Karl Malden, Thelma Ritter, Betty Field and Neville Brand.

KTVU (2), 8 p.m. — A look at Africa's arts, the Congo, natural resources, colonialism, apartheid and the South African controversial nation is offered in parts III and IV of the documentary, "Africa." Gregory Peck narrates.

KPIX (5), KXTV (10), 8 p.m. — Sonny and Cher welcome Joe Namath and the 12 Playmates of 1972 to their show.

KRON (4), KCRA (3), 8:30 p.m. — Sammy Davis Jr. and Jack Klugman star in "Poor Devil," on "Mystery Movie," Also starring in this special are British actor Christopher Lee, Gino Conforti, Adam West and Emily Yancy. The program was filmed on location in San Francisco.

Reagan Says 'Scores' Back Bench Nominee

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan said today that "scores and scores" of distinguished attorneys have endorsed the nomination of his former top assistant William P. Clark Jr. to the state Supreme Court.

He declined, however, to publicly identify any who have contacted him personally expressing their support for his nomination of Clark, who currently is an appellate court justice in Los Angeles.

In response to news conference questions, Reagan said he had "always been a little hesitant about my repeating what someone else has said to me without going to them and saying, 'Do you mind if I made public the fact that you have said this to me?'"

Specifically, Reagan defended Clark against a charge by the California Trial Lawyers Association that the nomination is "indefensible." The organization demanded that Reagan withdraw it.

Asked whether he has suspicions that Chief Justice Donald Wright opposes Clark, Reagan replied, "No, no I haven't at all."

Controversy over Clark's nomination has focused on the fact that the 41-year-old former executive assistant to Reagan did not graduate from college with a law degree. He took the State Bar test, and passed it on the second try and became an attorney.

Wright called on the state Bar to investigate Clark's qualifications and report its findings at a public hearing March 2 of the state Commission on Judicial Appointments headed by the chief justice.

Reagan insisted Clark's nomination was "totally defensible" and that a "great many distinguished lawyers in California" support him.

Asked to name one, Reagan replied, "Oh for Heavens sake, scores and scores."

He declined to identify any who had communicated with him but said they would be readily apparent at the March 2 hearing. Edwin Meese, the governor's executive secretary, offered to provide a list of additional supporters to supplement those who testify at the hearing.

Wallace Hospital Stay Indefinite

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — Doctors said Tuesday that Gov. George C. Wallace would remain hospitalized indefinitely as a result of post-surgical bleeding. But they indicated the condition was not serious.

Wallace underwent surgery on his prostate gland Jan. 26.

Land Swap Announced

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A land exchange involving more than 17,000 acres of timber rich land in Placer and Nevada counties was announced yesterday by Pacific Gas And Electric Co.

Nolan H. Daines, manager of PG&E's land department, said 17,052 acres of land surplus to the company's operations would be exchanged over the next three years with the Yuba River Lumber Co. of Grass Valley for lands to be designated by PG&E.

The exchange value was not announced.

Under the agreement, PG&E will transfer title to 59 parcels of land in the American-Rubicon River region in the vicinity of Loon Lake and Hell Hole Reservoir to the lumber company. PG&E will retain water and mineral rights, Daines said.

A $6,000 Ceremony For Weinberger

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Instead of waiting until he got back to Washington, President Nixon swore in Caspar W. Weinberger as secretary of Health, Education and Welfare at the western White House in San Clemente.

That, White House Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler said Tuesday, cost taxpayers at least $6,000—$600 per hour for the Air Force jet which ferried Weinberger.

SHOPPING CENTER CHEERED, JEERED

By PAT PERRY

More than 500 Corte Madera residents jammed last night's town planning commission's meeting to hear about the proposed Ernest W. Hahn Inc., regional shopping center, and indicated by an impromptu vote that the town is fairly evenly split on the whole idea.

After hours of emotion-packed public discussion on the multi-million dollar development proposed for 75 acres east of Highway 101, commission chairman David I. Freed asked for a show of hands.

Those "against the shopping center no matter what" looked like three-fifths of the standing-room-only audience, those in favor about two-fifths.

The planning commission adjourned the public hearing on the environmental impact report on the Corte Madera Redevelopment Project to its meeting tonight at 7:30 p.m. at the town hall, when a date for the continued hearing will be set.

With the largest audience ever to attend a planning commission meeting in Corte Madera alternately laughing and cheering and jeering, it soon became apparent that the redevelopment project has drawn battle lines between the conservationists and those who favor development with subsequent boosts to town finances.

More than 100 written questions were submitted to the commission by members of the audience, most frequently concerning elimination of wildlife habitat by the shopping center, increased traffic, air and water pollution and financial impact.

Loud cheers greeted Dr. Robert West of the Marin Audubon Society when he cast doubts on the feasibility of "relocating" marshland displaced by shops to other areas of the project.

"The choice is ours. What man has built with his hands he can build and rebuild ad infinitum. A marsh once destroyed cannot be restored," he concluded.

His opposition was echoed by Douglas Christensen of the Sierra Club, who said the whole redevelopment site needs attention, with the present artificial and illegal diking removed so the area "can function as part of the lungs of the bay." He also said, however, "We can't assume the right of adverse condemnation, these are private properties."

The vociferous opposition ap-

Prisoners Winging For Home

CLARK AIR BASE, Philippines (UPI) — Twenty happy and smiling American prisoners of war, carrying presents and a North Vietnamese puppy, flew to the United States today in the first mass homecoming of U.S. POWs.

The first two Americans to return landed in California Tuesday night. At least two more planeloads of 20 or more POWs were expected to head home Thursday and an Air Force spokesman at Clark Air Base in the Philippines said the majority of the POWs released earlier this week would be back in the states by the weekend.

In addition, North Vietnam announced Tuesday it would release another 20 Americans from Communist prison camps. (See list of names, page 46.) Diplomatic sources said the men would be freed in Hanoi Friday or Saturday. The announcement came shortly after presidential adviser Henry Kissinger left Hanoi at the conclusion of talks with North Vietnamese officials. That would bring to 163 the number of Americans freed and leave 431 still in captivity.

The group of 20 that headed home today was expected at Travis Air Force Base in California by 4:30 p.m. PST (7:30 p.m. EST). From there they were to be flown to military hospitals near their homes. (See list of names, page 46.)

The men waved to the teenagers and military personnel who gathered to see them off at Clark, the U.S. military base being used as a processing center for the POWs en route to freedom.

Lt. Cmdr. Edward A. Davis of Leola, Pa., carried a puppy named Ma-Co given him by a North Vietnamese guard when he left prison.

Officials had expected it to take three days to process the 142 POWs at Clark—one civilian prisoner released Monday decided to stay in Saigon, reportedly because of a girl friend. But the medical checks went faster than expected because of the men's general good health.

"The rapid pace established by the returnees themselves was made possible, in large measure, by their generally excellent physical condition and high state of morale," a Clark spokesman said.

Navy Cmdr. Brian D. Woods and Air Force Maj. Glendon Perkins landed at Miramar Naval Air Station in San Diego, Calif. Tuesday night. They were the first U.S. POWs to return to the United States and had been processed quickly at Clark so they could visit their critically ill mothers.

Most of the 20 returnees today boarded the C141 Starlifter flying ambulance at Clark wearing blue hospital bathrobes over their pajamas and carrying presents they bought at the base exchange Tuesday. Davis, a captive for 7 ½ years, held the tan, seven-pound puppy under his arm.

Davis said he would take the dog home to his wife Lois after he completes a period of hospitalization at Bethesda Naval Hospital near Washington.

U.S. officials said they would try to ease quarantine restrictions to allow man and dog to remain together.

Among the men were two senior Navy fliers, both of them family men from Virginia

Larkspur In Bidding For Huge Center

Plan Could Kill Similar Mall For Corte Madera

Plans for a huge regional shopping center in Larkspur, described by city officials as likely to kill a similar multimillion-dollar center planned in Corte Madera, were announced today.

The announcement launched a race to build first and reopened a two-city battle thought to have been won by Corte Madera for acquisition of a regional center south of San Rafael.

The Rouse Co. of Columbia, Md., and Connolly Development Inc. of Oakland said they will build a major center, including three department stores, on 65 acres between Highway 101 and the existing Bon Air Shopping Center.

The newcomer will be called the Larkspur-Greenbrae Mall.

The huge center with four department stores proposed by Ernest W. Hahn Inc. for Corte Madera is called the Marin Mall.

"It's a race between Larkspur and Corte Madera — it always has been," said Asst. City Mgr. Harlan Barry. "There are only so many major tenants and they obviously can't go into two centers."

Like its rival to the south, Larkspur intends to finance the project through the redevelopment process. In August last year the city council, sitting as the Larkspur Redevelopment Agency, committed itself to sell $8 million worth of bonds to finance improvements to an

Plan Formed To Rebuild N. Vietnam

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States and North Vietnam will create a joint economic commission to oversee rebuilding of the war-torn country with U.S. dollars, the two sides announced today.

A communique issued by the White House and Hanoi on four days of talks by President Nixon's envoy, Henry A. Kissinger, and North Vietnamese leaders in Hanoi listed no specific figures for U.S. post war aid.

The announcement said the two Indochina war enemies "agreed that they would continue to have periodic exchanges of views in order to ensure that the (cease-fire agreement) and its protocols are strictly and scrupulously implemented."

In a briefing for reporters, White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said a Laotian cease-fire is now expected "in a matter of a few days." Ziegler said Kissinger and Hanoi leaders extensively discussed the Laotian situation, which "the United States considers a matter of great urgency."

In the Washington-Hanoi communique, the two nations pledged to "strive for a new relationship based on respect for each other's independence and sovereignty, noninterference in each other's internal affairs, equality and mutual benefit."

"The two sides exchanged views on the manner in which the United States will contribute to healing the wounds of war and to post war economic reconstruction in North Viet-

Sun Peeks Down Following Rain

A downpour of rain that pelted Marin County before dawn gave way to honest-to-goodness sunshine by midmorning today.

Whether it was an end to a string that has run to eight soggy days in the past nine was problematical. Federal weather forecasters said there was a 40 per cent chance of rain tonight, probably giving way to showers tomorrow.

Temperatures will show little change although winds of 15 to 30 miles per hour are expected in the Bay Area.

The storm damage situation was relatively stable in slide areas in Mill Valley and West Marin, officials reported.

Mill Valley police reported no major movement in the slides threatening houses on Vista Linda Drive above the city golf course. California Highway Patrol Sgt. James Dukes said Shoreline Highway would remain closed between Muir Beach and Stinson Beach until repairs can be made to slipping pavement.

By 8 a.m. today, rainfall for the previous 24 hours totalled 1.12 inches in Bolinas, 1.05 inches in Woodacre, .83 of an inch in Novato, .79 of an inch in Tamalpais Valley, .77 of an inch in Mill Valley, .64 of an inch in Sausalito and .57 of an inch in Tiburon. San Rafael's rainfall for 24 hours ending at noon was .73 of an inch.

Public Safety Bonds Due For Fairfax Vote

The Fairfax Town Council last night voted 4 to 1 to put a $300,000 bond issue on the April 7 ballot for new fire and police facilities. (Another Fairfax Town Council story, page 31.)

Councilman E. Ross Parkerson cast the lone dissenting vote, maintaining that he has been against the ordinance from the outset and that he could not ask the people to vote for encroachment on the community creek and Peri Park.

The new facilities would be constructed on the site of the current police-fire headquarters at Bolinas Avenue and Park Road, although taking up considerably more land.

Councilman Frank J. Egger cast the swing vote on the ordinance, which required four votes for passage, saying that although he had objected to the plan in the past he would vote for it "in order to put the issue before the voters."

During discussion of the ordinance, a bitter exchange developed between Glenn Meagher, chairman of the Citizens' Committee for the Review of the Fairfax General Plan, and City Administrator Robert E. Crowe.

Meagher charged that Crowe usurped the authority of the committee when he failed to mail to members of the council a committee report recommending that the council vote against the bond election ordinance.

Crowe countered that Meagher did not get the report to his office until late the day before the meeting, thus allowing not enough time to make copies and get them in the mail.

At one point, Meagher angrily announced his resignation from the committee and stalked out of the meeting, only to return when persons in the audience urged him to reconsider.

Copies of the report were later obtained and passed out to councilmen.

The committee's principal objections to the proposal are that it represents an encroachment on the creek and park, endangers redwood trees and creates a "locking in" of a large area of land at the park.

Admitting that some citizens are upset over the location of the proposed facility, Mayor Albert E. Gately said the park land is the best site and predicted that voters would approve the bond issue this year. A similar bond election was defeated in 1968.

"It has been 10 years since the need has arisen for a new firehouse and police station," Gately said.

A Quiet Ferry Ride In Order

NEW YORK (UPI) — Starting today, a ride on the Staten Island Ferry could cost $50.05.

Charles Leedham, city Commissioner of Marine and Aviation, has announced that anyone riding the ferry who plays a noisy tape recorder, radio or phonograph will be hit with a $50 summons for creating a public nuisance.

Leedham said "Noise is unwanted sound and unwanted sound is unhealthful... Riders have a right to peace and quiet."

Tiburon Acting To Curb Housing

By BECKY LARSEN

No one could build even a single-family home in Tiburon anymore without getting city approval of his plans under strict new building review measures which passed first reading last night by the Tiburon City Council. (Another Tiburon City Council story, page 9.)

By a 4-1 vote in each case, the council approved three new design review ordinances on a preliminary basis. All come up for a second reading at the council's Feb. 26 meeting.

One ordinance requires the Tiburon Board of Design Review to examine site and architectural plans for every single-family home and duplex. The review will include such items as drainage, building height and design and preservation of trees on the site. The board can also explore landscaping, parking and fence plans, if it wishes.

Previously, as in most cities, such homes needed almost no review when built individually and not in subdivisions. For a while, Tiburon had been giving a cursory review to some of them under a now expired interim ordinance which required approval of residences more than 30 feet high.

A second ordinance takes away from the board of design review its power to approve major developments and gives that power to the Tiburon Planning Commission. Among projects affected would be single-family subdivisions and multiple-family developments and buildings in park, agricultural and planned residential zones. When these projects conflict with the city's general plan, the ordinance also requires the city council to review building plans.

A third ordinance would enlarge the boards of design review and adjustments (which handles use permits and variances) to five members each. A planning commissioner would serve as chairman on each board. The council would appoint citizens to fill the other vacancies.

Previously, the two boards had three members each, all planning commissioners.

Before passing the measure the council debated whether they should require such close review of single-family homes and whether they should take away power from the board of design review.

"Here we are in the process of setting up a stronger board of design review so they can relieve the planning commission," said Councilman Branwell D. Fanning. "Then we turn around and give the planning commission more work to do."

Richard G. Arjo, director of community development, assured the council that they would not overburden the planning commission. "All we're talking about giving them to review is the rest of Red Hill," he said.

He added that the board of design review already asks the planning commission's advice on cluster and planned developments.

M. Carlisle Becker, the only councilman to vote against the ordinances, said that the measure on review of single-family homes would "intrude into focussing on individual buildings in an unconstitutional way."

Mayor Albert H. Sennett contended that the measures had been written in response to much public pressure. "I had always thought that expensive homes would be tastefully built and landscaped," he said. "But we have many examples of unfortunate appearance here."

The ordinance calling for review of single-family homes also requires notifying nearby property owners of hearings on proposed buildings in their neighborhoods.

Nixon Sees A Growing Fuel Crisis

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon told the American people today they must recognize the "stark fact" the nation is using up more energy than it is producing.

In a radio address outlining his legislative program for the environment and related fields, Nixon said he would give Congress "a new and far more comprehensive energy message containing wide-ranging initiatives to insure necessary supplies of energy at acceptable economic and environmental costs."

He will submit his proposals to the House and Senate Thursday.

Nixon did not reveal in his speech any of the specifics of the energy program but he declared:.

"We must face up to a stark fact. We are now consuming more energy than we produce.

"Energy policy will continue to be matter of the highest priority, as shown by my budget proposal to increase funding for energy research and devel-

Ring Will Leave Tam High Board

Tamalpais High School District trustee David D. Ring resigned last night and announced he won't seek reelection to the dissension-torn board in the April 17 elections.

Ring's resignation — with the deadline for filing of candidates at 5 p.m. Friday — came as a complete surprise to other trustees in a letter read at the end of a routine board meeting. Ring was absent.

Referring to the 3-2 split on the board which forced last month's resignation of Supt. Wilber D. Hawkins, with himself and Frank L. Miller opposing, Ring said he saw little purpose in remaining as a minority member.

"The widening division between the minority and majority members appears to make constructive action by the board as a whole unlikely."

Predicting that the Tamalpais High School District "faces many problems in the future" Ring added that the "situation now prevailing in the district provides discouraging commentary on local government."

When Hawkins was ousted on Jan. 24 by trustees Robert W. Corlett, Bette Wallace and Jerrold M. Ladar, Ring said he hoped "able candidates" would come forward to run for three vacant seats in the April elections.

His term of office, and that of Corlett and Ladar both expire this year.

But to date only Corlett has filed for reelection, and Ladar was expected to file today. No other candidate has appeared.

In his resignation letter — read by acting Supt. Robert D. Torrey — Ring complained about lack of publicity about the issues surrounding Hawkins' resignation, but didn't specify the issues.

The resignation of the 48-

Supervisors Reject Shoreline Projects

The Marin County Board of Supervisors moved swiftly and unanimously yesterday to oppose plans by the state Division of Highways to improve portions of Shoreline Highway.

The board's decision came after about 10 minutes discussion and brought ringing applause from many in the near-capacity audience.

Not all those attending agreed with the supervisors' swift handling of the matter, however. As one Stinson Beach resident put it: "The decision must have been reached over lunch."

The state proposed three projects for the picturesque roadway late last year but stirred up a hornet's nest of opposition from conservationists and some West Marin residents.

The first project proposes straightening a series of switchbacks near Shoreline's intersection with Panoramic Highway and a sharp curve south of Stinson Beach near an old quarry. Total cost would be about $300,000, according to state officials.

The second project, estimated at $75,000, would widen the highway through the village of Stinson Beach, long a traffic bottleneck.

The third and most controversial project would widen and raise the highway along Bolinas Lagoon, causing some filling of the lagoon.

While state officials say the

Cong Freed At Quang Tri City

SAIGON (UPI) — The first 175 Communist prisoners to be released at Quang Tri City, some of them displaying freedom banners inscribed with their own blood, crossed the Thach Han River today aboard outboard motorboats flying South Vietnamese flags.

UPI Correspondent Donald A. Davis reported from the release site that the prisoners at first balked at crossing under the flag of Saigon, but after 20 minutes Communist officials on the other side sent an officer across the river to tell them to come ahead.

As soon as they got into the boats, Davis said, the prisoners —nearly all of them sick, lame or disabled—threw their maroon prison garb, their crutches, slings, shoes and bandages into the river.

As they approached the far side they unfurled hidden banners that said, "Independence, Freedom and Victory."

When the POWs reached the far side, Communist soldiers waded out into the water to help them hobble ashore.

Once on land, their names were checked off, they were issued cigarettes and new green Viet Cong uniforms without hats, belts or shoes, then marched singing and cheering toward a fleet of waiting trucks.

This brought to 910 the number of Communists released so far by the South Vietnamese.

Devaluation Legislation Is Expected

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress has no real choice but to go along with President Nixon and enact the bill which will formally devalue the dollar.

But it remains to be seen whether Congress will go along with him on trade legislation and give him what he seems to be seeking — broad, almost unlimited, power to raise and lower tariffs at his sole discretion.

Congress has become sensitive in recent weeks about abdicating its powers. The right to set trade policy is one of its traditional preserves.

A bill increasing the official price of gold and thus devaluating the dollar is sure to sail through because it will merely ratify what in fact occurred the instant devaluation intentions were announced late Monday night.

Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., the populist-style chairman of the House Banking Committee, promised speedy action when the House returns next week.

He said he first wanted to investigate the role of foreign branches of U.S. banks and corporations which "stashed away" $70 billion and engaged in speculation, "betting against their country and their country's currency."

The dollar crisis is almost certain to reawaken demands that the United States withdraw some of its 300,000 troops from Germany to save the billions spent for their support.

Nixon's Budget Cuts Criticized By Wirtz

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon's budget cutbacks of federal employment programs are "bad business, misguided government, misplaced human concern," according to the man who helped create most of them.

Former Labor Secretary Willard Wirtz told Congress' Joint Economic Committee today that it was wrong to reduce programs for the unemployed, the handicapped and teen-agers while at the same time increasing the military budget and failing to close tax loopholes.

Wirtz was labor secretary under Presidents John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson when many present manpower programs were begun. Nixon proposes to reduce or phase out most of these Democratic-era programs in favor of giving the states the money to handle employment problems through revenue sharing.

But Wirtz said that according to his arithmetic, proposed fiscal 1974 revenue sharing funds for manpower would fall about 15 per cent short of the funds originally proposed for the old manpower programs in fiscal 1973.

Wirtz said the time had come to expand and redirect these programs along the lines of "a new idealism," not to cut them back.

Wirtz suggested an expansion of the public employment program and an education program for unemployed and out-of-school teenagers.

Job losses because of automation could be offset, he said, by full-pay leaves of absence and retraining programs for "anybody about to be replaced by a robot."

He said that just as a property owner is entitled to compensation when a highway cuts through his land, "If change, which is in the public interest, requires taking a person's job, he or she is fully entitled to compensation for it."

Work sabbaticals, education for women whose children are grown and "refresher courses" to prepare the elderly for retirement also should be tried, he said.

Kissinger Rests

HONG KONG (UPI) — Presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger went for a boat ride in Hong Kong harbor today as part of a brief rest.

Bar Soundly Rejects No-Fault Insurance

CLEVELAND (UPI) — The American Bar Association (ABA), mindful that no-fault insurance could mean less income for some lawyers, Tuesday gave a resounding defeat to a sweeping no-fault automobile insurance plan.

The 318-member policy-making House of Delegates not only voted overwhelmingly against the plan but insisted on "greatly increased steps" to publicize an alternative approach adopted in 1972.

The delegates also supported efforts of Sen. Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., to postpone until the end of the current session of Congress new federal rules on the kind of evidence that can be admitted in both civil and criminal trials.

The rules have been criticized in some quarters on grounds they give an advantage to the Justice Department and take away privileges previously afforded defendants.

Defeat of the comprehensive auto insurance plan appeared to drive a wedge between the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws (NCCUSL), which proposed it, and the ABA leadership.

The conference is composed of practicing lawyers, professors and judges.

Under the auto insurance proposal, crash victims would be compensated for all medical expenses without limit as to time or amount, and up to $200 a week in lost earnings, plus reimbursement for services such as babysitting, lawn mowing or house cleaning, which the injured person is not able to perform.

Chicago attorney Albert E. Jenner moved ABA approval of the act, but only William B. Spann Jr. of Atlanta rose to praise it. Others, including representatives of the ABA's Insurance and General Practice Section, criticized it for eliminating entirely the element of fault, the traditional factor governing recovery — and a determination that generally requires the hiring of a lawyer.

Soldier Dies

BELFAST (UPI) — A British soldier shot in the back by a sniper died today in a Belfast hospital, the fifth soldier slain in as many weeks and the 43rd victim of Northern Ireland's religious and political strife this year.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Bombs Rejected

REYKJAVIK (UPI) — Geologists rejected today suggestions that U.S. warplanes bomb the volcano Helgafjell as a way of controlling the lava flows threatening more damage on the island of Heimaey.

Some experts suggested American bombers carry out strikes against the craters and slopes of Helgafjell to blast new paths for lava spilling down its sides to engulf much of the island located off the coast of Iceland and bury it under tons of ash and molten rock.

But geologists said the bombing would do no good because lava on the side of the volcano was too thick to blast away.

Prices Going Up

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department says 1973 supermarket prices will average 6 to 6.5 per cent above 1972 — the sharpest one-year increase in 22 years.

But it said most of this annual gain has already taken place, and it predicted consumers will find the pace of price hikes slowing as meat supplies rise.

In a "Food Situation Report," department economists said record-high beef and pork prices in the past few months account for much of the gain and have forced upward revision of earlier forecasts for 1973 food prices.

Talks In Laos

VIENTIANE (UPI) — Cabinet sources insisted today that a Laotian cease-fire could be worked out within the week, but diplomatic sources indicated peace talks were still mired in political haggling that made agreement as far away as ever.

Ranking government officials confirmed that cease-fire talks between Vientiane officials and the Communist Pathet Lao, which continued today, involved at least nine issues — some of them basic ones. They declined to indicate what progress had been made on any of them.

'Happy Ending'

MONTEVIDEO (UPI) — Military commanders said last night that President Juan Maria Bordaberry had accepted their demands, thus bringing to "a happy ending" the worst political crisis in Uruguay in 40 years.

A communique was issued 30 minutes after Bordaberry named two new cabinet ministers pledged to carry out the demands of the military on reducing unemployment, combatting corruption, carrying out political and land reforms and giving the military more say in running the country.

No Cuba Pact

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon has explained the pact the United States has made with Cuba to frustrate airline hijackers does not mean the United States is ready to normalize relations with the Communist nation.

The State Department announced yesterday that basic agreement on an antihijacking pact had been reached with Cuba. A spokesman said a few "procedural details" would be worked out "in the next few days" to conclude the agreement.

Nixon commented on the pact last night as he strolled back to the White House after having dinner at a nearby restaurant.

Moretti Raps Reagan, Nixon Housing Views

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Both the Nixon and Reagan administrations are undermining housing programs for the poor and elderly, Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti told the California Legislative Council for Older Americans Tuesday.

"The President is attempting to reverse the commitment of the past five administrations for every American to have a decent place to live," said Moretti, D-Van Nuys.

The 1974 gubernatorial hopeful declared that Gov. Ronald Reagan "has proposed a new budget scheme that will not allow the state to introduce new (housing) programs for the next 15 years."

Bill Asks Rules On Tax Advisers

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Assemblyman John T. Knox has proposed a bill requiring state regulation of professional preparers of tax returns.

The Richmond Democrat Sunday said his measure will require persons who receive a fee for preparing tax returns to register with the state Division of Consumer Services, sponsor of the bill. He said the division could revoke registration if the preparer violated standards of conduct specified by the bill.

Knox said the bill will help eliminate "fly-by-night" preparers who have prompted many complaints by citizens.

Pay Sought For Coast Advisers

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Legislation to pay all 84 members of the new state and regional coastal zone conservation commissions $50 a meeting has been introduced by Sen. Randolph Collier, D-Yreka.

Assuming the commissions will meet at least twice a month during their four-year life, the total tab would be over $400,000. With travel expenses on top of the pay, the total easily would consume 10 per cent of the commissions' $5 million budget.

Proposition 20, which created the commissions, said that "members shall serve without compensation," but would be reimbursed for expenses. The proposition, however, went on to add that "members who are not employees of other public agencies shall receive $50 for each full day of attending meetings of the commission or of any regional commission."

As it turned out, all of the commissioners including county supervisors, claim they are not "employees of other public agencies." Collier's bill, SB 175, would clarify the issue, making all 84 members eligible for the pay.

Its passage would require two-thirds approval by both houses.

Bill Seeks Hamilton Veto Power

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A bill that would give the City of Novato veto power over a future county takeover of Hamilton Air Force Base has been introduced in the Legislature.

The city long has contended it had such power, while the county claimed the city did not. The new bill, AB 288 by Assemblyman J. K. MacDonald, D-Ventura, would make clear the city's joint jurisdiction with the county.

The county has dropped consideration of joint use of the base, but the issue could be revived in the future, especially if the base were closed.

The bill declares that the state will not approve county operation of any airport unless both the board of supervisors "and the city council of any city in which the airport is located have both first approved such a plan for ownership or operation."

Four Are Owners Of Stolen Cars

ANNISTON, Ala. (UPI) — Police officials said Monday that four unidentified city policemen were "innocent purchasers" of stolen cars.

Public Safety Director Bill Jones said four of six stolen cars were found in the possession of the policemen.

He said there is no disciplinary action planned against the four since "there's nothing to indicate they are anything but innocent purchasers."

Jones said police had charged Johnny Ira Defries with six counts of buying, receiving or concealing stolen property in connection with the car thefts. Twelve more vehicles were being checked on suspicion they had been stolen.

26 Fires Blamed On Same Arsonist

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Police said Tuesday that a series of 26 fires set in and near San Francisco's Fillmore District since Jan. 2, appeared to be torched by the same arsonist.

Most of the fires were inside a 10-square block area and all but five were started between 10 p.m. and 2 a.m., said Lt. George Kelley of the fire department's arson squad.

Sentiment Divided On Shopping Center

peared to surprise Ernest Hahn himself, who had proudly shown slides of elegant shopping centers his company has constructed in Long Beach, Salt Lake City, San Diego and Sacramento.

Hahn said the Corte Madera project, to be called Marin Mall, is an airconditioned enclosed mall of a character and quality not found yet on the peninsula — strictly Marin type," he said.

Main stores would be Bullocks, Macy's, Penney's and Ward's, plus smaller shops, an entertainment center and a small community auditorium. The buildings would cover 525,000 square feet on a 3,000,000-square-foot site. There would be 12 acres of landscaping and greenbelt.

His architect, Charles Kanner, showed sketches of brick and wood structures, with wide interior "courts" before each department store.

Tom Cooke, the planning consultant who prepared the environmental impact report, agreed that the major issue of the whole redevelopment project was natural habitat.

One way to mitigate elimination of ponds and marshes would be to resite the shopping center by stretching half of it across the Northwestern Pacific Railroad right-of-way, he suggested.

However, Hahn indicated this alternative isn't acceptable, because the bay mud east of the railroad has different settlement qualities for filling and because it would need parking structures — something his company is opposed to.

The impact of Marin Mall on the existing Corte Madera Center was opposed by the center's present owners, Capital Planning Associates, although the manager of Crocker Bank in the center, said the former owner had favored the new regional center.

Hahn said it is "an economic fact of life" that Ward's and Penney's will not continue to operate in substandard small units; if they don't go across the freeway to Marin Mall they will move elsewhere. Space in the existing center could be cut up and subleased, said Hahn, because it now has a low depreciative value.

Hahn —who told the Independent-Journal his company has already spent $5 million on the proposed Marin Mall — was asked if he'd go ahead if Corte Madera dropped its redevelopment project.

He answered that it wouldn't be financially feasible, adding that in many other towns — like Santa Rosa, Pasadena and Hawthorne — the financial improvements gained by redevelopment always exceeded the town's investment.

Town Mgr. Ronald E. Bartels explained that development of the entire 446-acre redevelopment site would be financed through the sale of bonds by the Corte Madera Redevelopment Agency (actually the town council.)

In the five years it will take to redeem the bonds the increased tax revenues resulting from a higher assessed valuation created by redevelopment will be reserved for bond redemption. Local taxing agencies' revenues would be frozen at existing levels and it would not be until the bonds are paid off that they will benefit from redevelopment.

Cooke admitted that school districts would be hurt most by this process, since the plan proposed for "Area B" of the project — the Muzzi property next to the bay — includes apartments and condominiums that would put 516 new students in local schools by the late 1970's.

"There are no strong arguments for promoting extensive development in area B," said Cooke.

His sentiments were enlarged by Robert Dunn from the audience, who suggested that permitting the shopping center and prohibiting development on the Muzzi property presented "a one-time-only opportunity to the town to acquire a tremendous piece of real estate on the bay for open space.

"The net favorable economic implications of the shopping center are undeniable," said Dunn, "but the two can't be separated — if the center isn't approved we couldn't finance acquisition of the rest.

"This property isn't going to remain undeveloped forever. Much of it is mudflats, nothing good is ever going to come from that area."

Commissioner Freed announced that so many "good questions" had emerged that town staff would compile a questionnaire and get consultants to answer residents' questions in writing before the continued public hearing date, which will be announced tonight.

year-old attorney from the board plunges the April 17 election into confusion.

If no other candidates join Corlett and Ladar in running for office by Friday's filing deadline, there won't even be an election.

Assistant County Supt. of Schools Robert E. Spain said Corlett and Ladar would automatically be reelected, and the existing board would have power to appoint the fifth member before the April 17 election. The appointed person's term of office would be for the full four-year-term.

However, it is rumored that other candidates do intend to file for the Tam board by the 5 p.m. deadline Friday.

Ring, of 1860 Mountain View Drive, Tiburon, was appointed to the board in 1968, and ran for a four-year-term in April 1969. He is in private practice in San Francisco.

HIGHWAY

last project is years away, protesters maintain it is all part of an overall plan for piecemeal improvement of the road.

During the board's first discussion of the state plans last December, highway officials assured the board the projects are needed to correct safety and flood hazards.

Protesters countered, however, that the projects are part of a larger state plan for piecemeal improvement of the entire highway.

Chairman Arnold M. Baptiste began yesterday's discussion by urging a board policy opposed to any road improvement until after a recreational travel study is made by the federal government.

With that, Supervisor Gary T. Giacomini moved to oppose the three projects as proposed because of cost, environmental damage, the lack of a travel study and Proposition 20 — the coastline preservation measure approved by voters in November.

A second part of this motion suggested the division of highway explore alternate solutions to improving road safety with local residents, who have suggested better signing and more guardrails among other things.

Supervisor Michael Wornum, who said in December he didn't object to the state's plans to improve the switchbacks, seconded Giacomini's motion yesterday.

His change of heart, he explained, was because "the curve they've chosen is no worse than the next 500" down the highway.

opment even in a tight budget year."

Discussing environmental problems in general, Nixon said "day by day our air is getting cleaner. In virtually every one of our major cities, the levels of air pollution are declining."

He also said water pollution problems are being solved and he defended his decision not to spend $6 billion in congressionally-approved funds to build sewage treatment plants to help clean up the nation's waters.

"We are now buying new facilities nearly as fast as the construction industry can build them," Nixon said. "Spending still more money would not buy us more pollution control facilities, but only more expensive ones."

Nixon also noted that 19 natural resource and environmental bills he submitted to the last Congress were not enacted. He said the programs were urgently needed, and he would resubmit them to the new Congress.

On pollution, he said the cost of controlling it should be paid for by the people who do the polluting and not by the general taxpayer.

"Now is the time to stop the sanctimonious hand-wringing and roll up our sleeves and get on with the job," Nixon said. "Now is the time to reject the doomsday mentality which says we are destined to pollute ourselves out of existence."

"The President has decided to give radio speeches on subjects contained in the State of the Union as part of efforts to report to the American people," Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler explained.

POWS

Beach, Va.

They were Capt. Jeremiah A. Denton Jr., 48, and Capt. James A. Mulligan Jr., 46, who has seven sons.

Denton, the first man off the first plane Monday when it arrived from Hanoi and who tearfully said "God bless America," continued his role as spokesman for the POWs.

"You people here at Clark have shown us representing the rest of America that your feeling is as deep as ours and that's the highest compliment I can pay the wonderful welcome we received here," he said.

The places of the first POWs to return to the United States will be filled by 20 more prisoners who are to be released by the North Vietnamese by Thursday, according to a Hanoi announcement Tuesday. They will bring to 163 the number of POWs released this week and leaving 431 prisoners still in captivity.

Prisoner releases are timed to coincide with the withdrawal of American troops from South Vietnam under terms of the Paris peace agreement. All prisoners are to be released by March 27.

The first prisoners to reach the United States landed at Miramar Naval Air Station, Calif., near San Diego, late Tuesday night. The drama of their arrival was heightened by mechanical trouble on their C141 Starlifter plane from the Philippines, which circled the field for 55 minutes with troublesome landing flaps. The plane landed without incident, however.

Navy Cmdr. Brian D. Woods was first off the plane at San Diego, followed by Air Force Maj. Glendon Perkins. Both men were flown to the United States to be at the bedsides of their critically ill mothers.

Woods spotted his petite, redhaired wife and blew her a kiss before walking to a microphone. She was wearing a white orchid given her by President and Mrs. Nixon.

Smiling broadly, he said: "I am greatly honored that circumstances were such that I was the first of the POWs to return. We are proud to be Americans and we are proud to have served our country. As you can imagine, we are greatly overwhelmed at our homecoming."

Perkins said: "I am happy to be home and I want to thank everybody for all the effort and assistance they gave to us."

Then Woods walked over to his wife and embraced her for a full minute. They wound up clutching each other happily in a full kiss. Woods' three children—Kathleen, 9, Christopher, 8, and Michael, 7 — stood to one side and smiled at their father.

nam," the communique said.

"They agreed to establish a DRVN-U.S. Joint Economic Commission. This commission, which will be composed of an equal number of representatives from each side, will be charged with developing the economic relations between the Democratic Republic of Vietnam and the United States."

While no specifics were contained in the communique, prior to the cease-fire agreement, President Nixon had spoken of a $7.5 billion reconstruction program for Vietnam with $2.5 billion targeted for the North.

Kissinger said following the cease-fire agreement however that the aid provisions were subject to negotiations and that there was no reason to focus on the $7.5 billion figure.

Without providing any details, the communique said Kissinger and the North Vietnamese reviewed implementation of the Jan. 27 Vietnam cease-fire agreement and "discussed various imperative measures which should be taken to improve and expedite" it. There was no explanation of those measures.

Ziegler told reporters that the two sides agreed to set up a system to help locate American troops still listed as missing in action in Indochina, designated "points of entry for military replacement supplies," and considered steps to reduce breaches of the cease-fire.

Mill Valley Home Not Evacuated

The Independent-Journal erred in its Jan. 13 report of damage caused by the previous day's storm, saying the family of Dr. J. J. Greenbaum was forced to evacuate the home at 9 Hollyhock Court in Mill Valley.

Mrs. Greenbaum informed the I-J yesterday that at no time had the family been forced to flee, that, in fact, the whole family was confined to the home by flu.

The Work Of Burglars Is Watched

Unaware that four employees working on the second floor of Pacific Gas and Electric Co. building were watching, according to police, an 18-year-old man and a 16-year-old youth stole an eight-track stereo from a car on the upper deck of the San Rafael city parking lot at Third Street and Lootens Place yesterday.

The 18 year old, Donald Jeffery Seader of 101 Nova Albion Way, San Rafael, was released on $1,500 bail after booking at Marin County jail on suspicion of burglary. He was scheduled to appear Friday in Municipal court.

His companion was booked on suspicion of burglary at Juvenile Hall. The youth's name was withheld on a standing order of Superior Court Judge Joseph G. Wilson.

According to police, the PG&E employees watched the two inspect cars in the lot at 2:15 p.m. The men then broke the left wing window of a car belonging to Jody Linda Bushton of 527 Stone Drive, Novato, and took the stereo, police said.

Police, who were telephoned, arrived and confiscated the stereo.

area including the Bon Air site, the San Quentin peninsula and downtown Larkspur.

And tonight at 8 o'clock at the Larkspur City Hall, councilmen as the redevelopment agency, will hear plans for the Larkspur-Greenbrae Mall. (Last night, the Corte Madera Planning Commission heard the environmental impact report on the proposed Hahn Marin Mall.)

The Greenbrae site is owned by Neil Schultz Sr., who developed much of Greenbrae. It stretches behind Lyons Restaurant from 101 to the Bon Air Center, fronted by Sir Francis Drake Boulevard.

The two companies said they will own and manage the center, which will be built as an enclosed mall. They didn't disclose who the major tenants will be.

The developers have nationwide experience. Rouse owns 22 regional shopping malls in nine states and Canada. It is also a mortgage banking firm. Rouse is developing the new city of Columbia, Md., between Washington D.C., and Baltimore, in a joint venture with Connecticut General Life Insurance Co.

Connolly Development Inc., headed by former Forty-Niner Ted Connolly, has developed smaller, miniregional centers in Northern California and Nevada.

Ted Connolly will attend tonight's redevelopment meeting to elaborate on plans for the center.

Wounded Man Holds Assailant

Krieger, 45, hung on to the holdup man until police arrived a few minutes later.

"The man was exceptional," police said.

Robert Lawrence, 45, New York, was charged with attempted murder and robbery.

OBITUARIES

Faye Tulley, 65, Dies On Board Cruise Vessel

Memorial service for Faye French Tulley of Ross, active in Marin music circles, will be at 1:30 p.m., Friday at the First Presbyterian Church in San Anselmo.

She died Sunday apparently of a heart attack, while on board a cruise ship off the Island of Granada in the Caribbean. She was 65.

She was born in Oklahoma City, where she sang in the church choir at the age of five. Her family moved to Sacramento. She graduated from the University of the Pacific, majoring in music. After moving to Marin County in 1936, she directed the choir of the Chinese Presbyterian Church of San Francisco.

She directed the choir of the First Presbyterian Church of San Anselmo for many years and also sang with the choir of the San Francisco Theological Seminary.

She was a past president of the Marin Symphony Guild, a member of the Symphony Auxiliary of Marin, Mu Phi, honorary music sorority and Delta Gamma Sorority.

The family home is at 77 Wellington Avenue.

She is survived by her husband, J. Benton Tulley, senior partner in a San Francisco law firm of Erskine, Tulley, Boyd and Gantner; a son, Paul C. Tulley of Naksup, British Columbia; a daughter, Mary Ann Ashley of Vineberg, Sonoma County; a brother, Charles C. French of El Toro, Orange County, and four grandchildren.

Inurnment will be private.

Memorial contributions to a favorite charity or the San Francisco Theological Seminary, would be preferred by the family.

CHARLES HERGOTT

Funeral for Charles Hergott, 70, retired merchant marine, will be held at 10 a.m. tomorrow at Parent Funeral Chapel, Petaluma.

Hergott died Thursday at a San Francisco hospital after a short illness. He had worked as a merchant marine for many years and maintained a home at 31 Park Avenue, Petaluma.

Hergott was a native of San Francisco and had also worked as a poultry inspector for a short time.

Burial will be at Holy Cross Cemetery, Colma.

JEANNE KOKJER

Jeanne L. Kokjer, 57, died in a local hospital yesterday, a few hours after being admitted with third degree burns over 50 per cent of her body, suffered in a fire in her San Rafael home.

Mrs. Kokjer, who had been living with a friend at 238 Coleman Drive for about a year, was found in a flaming chair by the friend at about 1:45 a.m.

She had broken her pelvis two months ago and had difficulty getting around, the friend said.

Mrs. Kokjer was born in Willows, Colusa County, but had lived in Marin 55 years.

She had lived in San Rafael many years and then in Mill Valley for about a year before returning to San Rafael.

She is survived by a daughter, Carol Kristine Kokjer of Oakland; a son, J. Scott Kokjer of Greenbrae, and a brother, William A. Sparrow of Novato.

Funeral will be at 10 a.m. tomorrow at the Harry M. Williams Mortuary in San Rafael. private inurnment will follow.

OSIE COX

Osie Cox, 84-year-old former San Anselmo resident, died yesterday in a convalescent hospital in Paradise, Butte County, after a long illness.

Mrs. Cox was born in Iowa but came to Chico with her family when she was 6 years old. She attended schools there and was a graduate of Chico Normal School, the forerunner of Chico State College.

She taught school in Kern County for a short time after graduation and then moved to the Bay Area, where she lived many years. She resided in San Anselmo for about 20 years. She moved to Paradise in 1972.

An avid antique collector, Mrs. Cox was a past president of the Golden Gate Collectors Club of San Francisco.

When she lived in San Anselmo, she was a member of the First Presbyterian Church.

Her husband, John H. Cox, died in 1948.

She is survived by a sister, Mrs. Chloe Jones of Paradise.

Funeral will be at 2 p.m. Friday in the Hall-Van Hook Funeral Chapel in Chico. Burial will be in the Chico Cemetery.

Comment Sought On Park Plans

The Rohnert Park Recreation and Parks Commission last night decided to take plans for a park in the holiday park area to the neighborhood for comments.

Commission secretary Sandra Nelson said the commission tentatively scheduled the special meeting for March 12.

She said comment will also be sought on a proposed bicycle path plan as well as recreation programs. A time and place for the meeting will be set later.

The commission also approved plans by Young America Homes Inc. for a tot lot in the Colegio Vista subdivision. Plans include play equipment and benches.

No Champagne At Boys Club

The Novato Boys Club won't be serving champagne and hors d'oeuvres at their office, 872 Sweetser Avenue.

A dopped line in Monday's Independent-Journal made it appear that they would.

The office will have tickets for a benefit art show at the John Novak mansion, 50 Rica Vista, March 4 from 1 to 5 p.m.

The hors d'oeuvres will be served by members of the Boys Club Auxiliary at the mansion.

Larkspur Chamber Picks Jury Names

The Larkspur Chamber of Commerce yesterday appointed Maggi Walker, Oakley Dexter and Gilbert Debuic to a committee to select two Larkspur nominees for the 1973-1974 Grand Jury.

President Sue Schaefer said the chamber heard a lecture on the Marin Countywide Plan by Sol Silver, county chief of advance planning, and questioned him on ways low income housing could be provided in Marin with current high land costs.

GI In Vietnam Dies Of Overdose

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Defense Department has reported the death of another American serviceman in Vietnam—an enlisted man who took an overdose of heroin.

Pentagon spokesmen said Tuesday that Pfc. Frank W. Paulos, son of Mrs. Dorothy T. Paulos, Mattitick, N.Y., was found unconscious in his barracks Feb. 10 and was pronounced dead of a heroin overdose when he was taken to a clinic.

Plan To Close Pacheco School Battered By Storm Of Protest

Pacheco School parents sounded a symphony of protest last night ranging from harsh charges to quiet pleas to save the life of their neighborhood school.

The verbal fury was unleashed upon the Novato Unified School District board, which is considering closing the school because of declining enrollment.

From the opening minute, when students displayed signs saying "Don't Take Us Away," "Save Our School," and "Don't Lock Us Out," the three-and-one-half-hour hearing was punctuated with emotion.

Near the close,. Principal Alfred Rivasplata commented "I started at Pacheco 18 years ago and I hate to think I'm going to close it."

About 125 persons attended and 25 to 30 spoke out in protest, several charging discrimination against military families.

(Pacheco School at 720 Ignacio Boulevard, constructedabout 20 years ago as the first large school in the former San Jose School District, serves mainly military families living in Raphael Village.)

David Traber, president of the Pacheco Parent-Teacher Association, said: "Pacheco has been dealt with as a second-class school and we have been dealt with as second-class parents."

Board President Ronald D. Schenck said it was untrue that the board had a "different approach toward service people."

Residents charged that some parents in the well-to-do Domingo Canyon area don't want their children to go to Pacheco School because it serves military families.

Domingo Canyon pupils within walking distance of Pacheco School have been assigned to Loma Verde School, residents said.

As proposed, Pacheco pupils would be transferred to Lynwood School and Loma Verde School and to Hamilton and Meadow Park schools at Hamilton Air Force Base.

Traber said busing some Pacheco School pupils to the air base would make them "even more segregated from the community."

One resident suggested the board sound out the schools who would be receiving the Pacheco pupils before making a decision and a teacher reported that the faculty at Loma Verde School opposed closing Pacheco School.

The residents suggested that rather than close the school, the board reset attendance boundaries, increasing enrollment at Pacheco.

Supt. James G. Bunker reported that enrollment at Pacheco School, which serves kindergarten through sixth grade, has dropped from 529 in 1968-69 to 362 this school year and is expected to continue dropping.

Enrollment throughout the area serving Hamilton Air Force Base and Loma Verde School has dropped 493 pupils in the past four years, he said.

Novato planning commissioner Leroy Syrop challenged the district's anticipation of an enrollment drop in the Hamilton Air Force Base-Loma Verde area. He said planning reports indicate that projects in the planning process, expected to be completed in the next several years, would generate 128 to 319 pupils in the area.

Schenck said if the enrollment projections are wrong the district could reopen Pacheco School.

If the school is closed, it could serve as a temporary home for Indian Valley Colleges or adult classes, Bunker said.

Schenck said the board will vote next Tuesday or March 6 on whether to close the school.

Trustee William G. Schneeflock, who was ill, was absent.

Rental Of School Offices Opposed

The steering committee of the Novato Citizens Task Force for Education has opposed renting offices for the Novato Unified School District administration, the district board was advised last night.

The matter will be before a general membership meeting of the task force at 9:30 a.m. tomorrow at All Saints Lutheran Church.

District trustees are considering moving administration offices from the Marion School site to rented offices at the San Marin Professional Building.

In turn, North Marin High School, a continuation school now in leased quarters, would be moved into the permanent administration building at the Marin School site.

Task force members Susan Carr and Lois Winterhalder said that in view of the effort to pass Senate Bill 90 to solve some financial problems and improve education, "it appears the board's perspective is a little out of place. The first thing the board is considering doing with the money is renting a plush office for administration."

Said their notification last night: "When there are children in this district who have severe problems in the basic skills, when class sizes are expanded beyond the capacity of any one teacher to effectively impart a satisfactory level of skills, when curriculum materials and textbooks are in short supply, when teachers have had no salary increases to compensate for inflation, when custodial personnel are operating on a skeleton basis and some schools are downright filthy, then we believe your priorities definitely need reordering.

"We reject any contention that the actions contemplated by the board regarding the acquisition of plant and equipment can be justified."

Trustees voted last week 3-2 to rent the space, with trustees Elisabeth Mertel and Jan Murray dissenting, but the resolution failed because four aye votes were needed.

The board is expected to have the rental proposal on the agenda again at its next meeting at 8 p.m. Tuesday at Novato High School lecture hall.

Beer At Age 19

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — The Oklahoma House Judiciary Committee passed a bill lowering the beer-buying age to 19 Tuesday despite claims the move would expose young people to topless and bottomless bars.

Veteran Hub Officer Elevated To Captain

Police Lt. G. Albert Howenstein, 34, a 13-year veteran of the force, last night was promoted to captain by the San Anselmo City Council.

We will fill the spot created by the retirement of Capt. Ches ter Orr, at a salary of $1,309 per month. He was one of two qualifying candidates for the post as a result of written and oral examinations, according to Albert C. Kaeppel, city administrator.

Howenstein, long-time juvenile officer in San Anselmo is president of the 177-member Northern California Juvenile Officers Association.

A year ago, he was one of two top contenders to become the first chief of the new Tiburon police force, but the post went to Novato Police Lt. Maurice D. Lafferty.

After promoting Howenstein, the council instructed Kaeppel to send a letter of appreciation to the retiring Orr.

The San Anselmo City Council also:

ELECTION — Unanimously approved a required election statement and arguments in favor of the $500,000 open space bond issue that will be on San Anselmo voters' ballots in the April 17 election.

EMERGENCY — Proclaimed existence of a local emergency in San Anselmo, to enable the city to qualify for federal and state aid to repair damage from the mid-January storms.

SPRING CLEAN-UP — Approved plans by the San Anselmo Lions Club to organize the city's spring clean-up, May 5 and 6, with the cooperation of area Boy Scouts and Survival, Inc. The city has budgeted $1,300 for debris box rentals for the weekend.

AUSTERITY — Unanimously adopted a resolution protesting that federal budget cutbacks of poverty war, housing and other programs "excessively burdened" all cities, and asking continued funding for the programs.

TANKS — Transferred $1,500 from reserves to repair or replace the corporation yard gasoline storage tanks, into which water has leaked during recent storms.

APPEAL — Approved completely new plans for a home proposed by landowner Kurt Kissman, at 234 Oak Springs Drive, and granted a use permit as is required during the city building moratorium. Councilmen Martin G. Blinder and Lewis W. Stewart opposed, on grounds the area should be preserved for open space. Kissman's earlier plans became snarled in disputes between neighbors, the council, planning commission and design review board, over ridgeline visibility and variances on setback.

ACCESS — Approved 4-1, Lewis J. Terr's application to use the city-owned Magnolia Avenue parking lot for access to parking spaces on his own small commercial building lot at 21 Tamalpais Avenue. Councilman Kenneth L. Anderson objected the parcel was too small, even though it provided the required eight off-street parking spaces, and was in a commercial zone.

Tennis Court Project At Red Hill School Backed

The two bodies instructed their attorneys to draft final wording of the contract that will allow city residents and students to share the courts.

The council told city staff to arrange necessary soil tests and other preliminaries before a contractor is hired for the construction, expected to cost between $16,000 and $17,600. The city and the district will share the cost equally and also will divide any future repair bills equally. School trustees had objected to an earlier proposal that the district pay all the repair bills, as well as provide the land for the courts.

Should the partnership "not work out," the city and the district will agree on a cash settlement, or submit the issue to arbitration, both groups agreed.

"Here we sit, piddlin' and arguing over a mere $8,000 — while the federal government and the state are putting local government right down the drain!" he exclaimed. The audience that packed the council chamber applauded.

School trustees voted 3-2 to commit funds for the preliminaries, with trustees Eugene E. Jacks and Franklin C. Latcham objecting that the school district meeting agenda didn't properly provide notice for action at last night's meeting.

The school board will review and vote on the final contract at its Feb. 22 meeting; the council is expected to vote at its meeting Feb. 27. The two panels agreed that they hoped to have the courts ready for use by June.

The councilmen and trustees also formed a committee of two representatives of each body to work on possible use of Isabel Cook School as a city police and fire station and perhaps a city hall. Councilman Martin G. Blinder and City Engineer Charles R. Leitzell will meet with Jacks and Supt. Frank R. Elliott at an unspecified date, before the two panels set a workshop session on the proposal.

Mayor Warren R. Perry and Anderson pointed out that "we've only been discussing the idea since 1960." Board chairman Mary Helen Olive said the district enrollment is dropping "quite dramatically," and the Cook school might be better suited for noneducational uses due to its noisy, congested location on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard.

Cease-Fire Bloody Time For S. Viets

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Pentagon records show the two weeks since the cease-fire have been even bloodier for the South Vietnamese army than most weeks when the war was officially on.

Saigon officials announced Tuesday that 1,008 South Vietnamese soldiers had died since the cease-fire went into effect Jan. 28.

Ill-Fated Pilot Had Death Calls

LEMOORE NAVAL AIR STATION (UPI) — A Navy officer testified yesterday that the pilot of a Navy jet which smashed into an Alameda apartment house last Thursday received an anonymous call in late December and was told "you will be killed."

Cmdr. Mason Gilfrey, commanding officer of Attack Squadron 195, told a board of inquiry that Lt. Robert L. Ward, 28, pilot of the ill-fated A7 Corsair II, received several "nuisance" calls at his Lemoore home during the fall months.

Gilfrey said neither Ward nor his wife seemed affected by the phone calls and a tracer was put on his phone.

"There was no way anyone could have known when he was flying or could have been able to get near the plane," Gilfrey said.

The commander indicated the phone calls had not affected Ward's flying capabilities.

A total of 16 persons testified during the morning portion of the Lemoore inquiry including maintenance men and other pilots.

It was revealed that the plane had flown three previous flights on the day of the crash.

Lt. (j.g.) Richard Lear, who had flown the third flight, said he experienced no difficulty with the 10-ton fighter bomber.

There was extensive testimony on the amount of liquid oxygen on the plane. It was determined the craft had enough oxygen for four hours flying when Ward took off from Lemoore for a "round robin" to Sacramento and back.

He had been in the air for 45 minutes when the plane crashed into the apartment house killing 10 persons.

The inquiry was recessed during the afternoon while board members attended a memorial service for Ward.

Cmdr. William Collins, information officer for the board, said the inquiry would return to Alameda Wednesday and probably would be completed in "a day or two."

He said the findings would be forwarded to the judge advocate general's office.

Stennis Improving

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., who was shot in a Washington street holdup Jan. 30, "continues to make progress," his office has reported.

Robinson's Estate At $2 Million

The actor's will, dated Feb. 15, 1972, was admitted to probate in Superior Court. Robinson died Jan. 26 at the age of 79.

The document directed that Robinson's art collection, which includes works by Renoir, Picasso, Monet and Degas, be sold. The will recommended that a public auction be held at the Sotheby Galleries in London.

Trusts were established for his widow, Jane, his son, Edward Jr., and his granddaughter, Francesca. Robinson specified, however, that his son was to receive money from the trust "so long as he conducts himself in a manner which my trustees believe to be reasonable." Edward has been arrested several times on suspicion of drunken driving.

Other beneficiaries of the trust were City College of New York, Actors Fund of America, Motion Picture Relief Fund, American Academy of Dramatic Arts, Jewish Community Foundation, and the legal defense fund of the NAACP.

Fred Waring Set At Veterans Building

"Year 56," a musical trip through 56 years of musical history with Fred Waring, will be performed at 8 p.m. March 16 at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building in San Rafael.

More than 80 per cent of Waring's band, the Pennsylvanians, is made up of new members, hand-picked musicians and singers whom he has had to teach five generations of music.

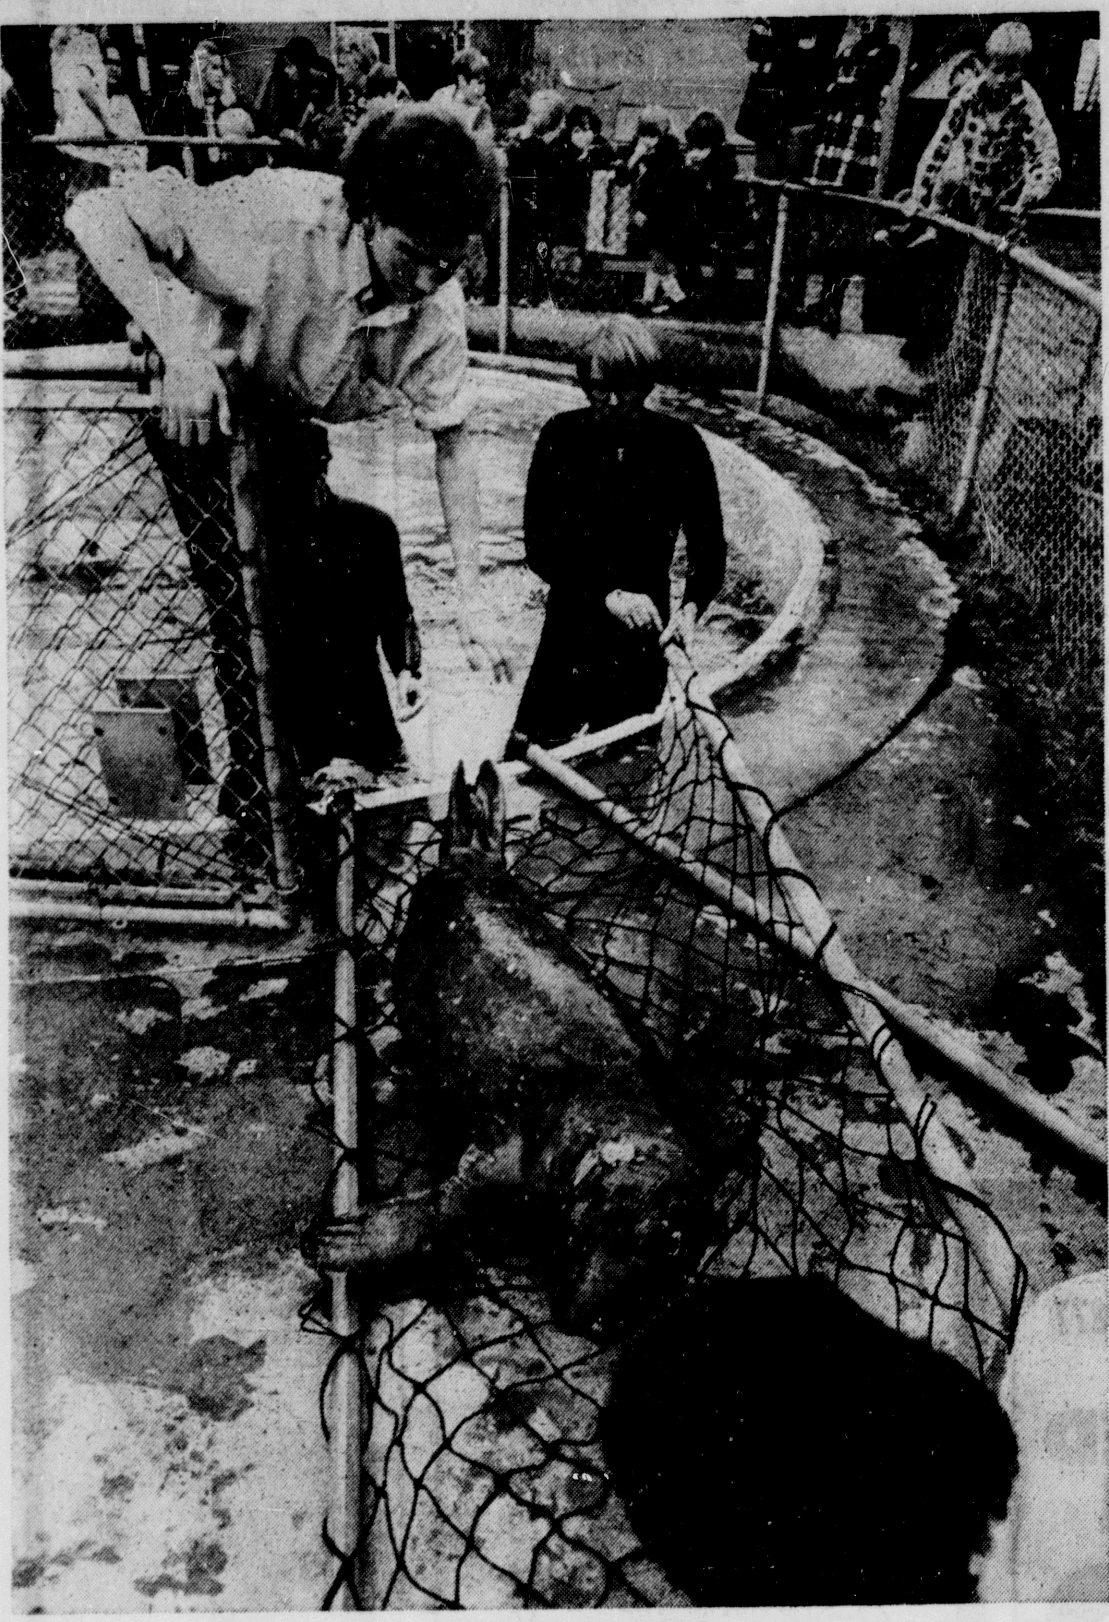
SAN RAFAEL



APRES SWIM

Reform Group Urges Elected Grand Jury

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — California's grand juries should be elected as are school board trustees rather than appointed by judges, a Bay Area reform group urged yesterday.

The new Bay Area Grand Jury Reform Committee includes former Marin County jury members Gerald A. Hawes and Rick Beban, and attorney Salle S. Soladay. The group also has former grand jurors from other counties.

Hawes, who resigned from the grand jury in October 1971 in protest over what he called the "rubber stamp" murder indictment of six San Quentin inmates, charged yesterday that most grand jury investigative reports are "whitewashes."

Beban pointed out that San Francisco's sheriff Richard Hongisto also had proposed elective grand juries.

Elections, perhaps based on supervisorial districts, would offer more women, minority group members and working persons a chance to serve on the panels, the reform group said.

Hawes said the group recognized that immediate jury reform was unlikely. He cited the repeated defeats and vetos of bills submitted by Assemblyman Edwin L. Z'berg, D-Sacramento, which would provide only for creation of dual grand juries, one to indict and another to investigate local government.

Hawes said grand juries should be "ombudsmen of the community" but have failed in that role.

He argued that there would be no more politics in electing jurors than now exists in the appointment by judges of persons "who are already in the power structure or friends of the power structure."

Two File Papers For Water Board

L. Martin Griffin, physician and conservationist who lives in Kent Woodlands, and Ross S. Shade of Mill Valley, a certified public accountant, yesterday filed nomination papers for the Marin Municipal Water District board.

Both want the seat formerly held by Eugene Miller, who resigned. The vacancy will be filled in the April 17 election.

Dr. Griffin recently completed work on a master's degree in public health and environmental science at the University of California at Berkeley.

"I will use my public health background to encourage reclamation of waste water now as both a major source of future water supply and the best way to end the massive pollution of San Francisco Bay," he said.

He believes there should be more coordination between the water district and city and county planning agencies with regard to population rowth and protection of marshes, flood plains and watersheds.

Dr. Griffin, cofounder of the Ross Valley Clinic, is now an associate member of the clinic. He has served as chief of medicine at both Ross and Marin general hospitals.

He is past president of the Marin Audubon Society and a cofounder of the Audubon Canyon Ranch.

Dr. Griffin lives with his wife Mary, a physician with the Marin County Health Department, at 313 Goodhill Road. They have four grown daughters.

Shade said he believes there will be restrictions on future growth in Marin County but believes these restrictions should originate with planning departments, not the water district.

He also predicted that voters would refuse to pass bond issues necessary to provide adequate water for large population growth in the county.

"I do not believe that long-range plans should be based on recycled sewage water, which apparently figures in present plans of the Marin Municipal Water District and is advocated by some conservation groups," he added.

Shade earned bachelor's and master's degrees at the University of California at Berkeley and a law degree from the University of San Francisco.

He is a member of the Sierra Club, the Commonwealth Club and SPUR.

He lives with his wife, Mary, and two daughters at 219 Oakdale Avenue.

Herman C. Zwart and Jerome C. Hauke, both of Mill Valley, have also announced their candidacy for the seat but have not filed necessary papers yet.

Former Officer Is Cleared In Shooting Death

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A Superior Court jury, after three hours deliberation, cleared a onetime San Francisco policeman of civil liability Tuesday in the fatal shooting of a black trucker.

Michael O'Brien, who is now a life insurance salesman, previously had been acquitted by another jury of a manslaughter charge in the death of George Baskett.

The civil suit for $750,000 had been brought by Baskett's widow and six children.

O'Brien testified that Baskett hit him with a 24-inch stick during a dispute that was triggered by a minor traffic accident involving an automobile and a motorboat the policeman was trying to get into a garage near the Hall of Justice.

He said the gun discharged accidentally.

Angel Member Faces Marin Beating Trial

A Hell's Angel acquitted of a murder charge in Alameda Superior Court in December must now stand trial in Marin Superior Court on a charge of severely beating two women in Novato in 1970.

Judge David Menary Jr. yesterday set the assault trial of 33-year-old Donald Duane (Whitey) Smith of Oakland for the week of April 16.

Smith is charged with beating the women during what witnesses said was retribution for an unpaid narcotics debt.

Witnesses at a preliminary hearing said one woman was beaten with brass knuckles, kicked repeatedly and threatened with a knife, then both were told they would be killed with an overdose of heroin and dumped in the Santa Curz mountains.

One of the victims, Shirley Jean Fabian, 27, and a male companion were found dead in a San Rafael motel of an overdose of heroin last April when Mrs. Fabian was in Marin to testify against Smith. Police have called the deaths murder, but no charge has been filed.

Smith, Hell's Angeles leader Ralph (Sonny) Barger, and two other members of the motorcycle gang were acquitted of murdering a Texas narcotics dealer found May 21 in the bathtub of a flaming Oakland home.

In the Marin case, Charlisse Joy Brant, 22, of Oakland was also charged with the assaults, but the case was dismissed against her Oct. 24 because she was in state prison on other charges.

Informal Dress Being Studied

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — A proposal that would allow members of the Texas House of Representatives to wear turtle neck sweaters and sports shirts without ties instead of coats and ties in the statehouse was sent to a subcommittee for further study Monday.

"Members should be given a chance to join the mod generation," said Rep. W. C. Sherman, D-Fort Worth, who sponsored the bill along with Rep. R. C. Nichols, D-Houston.

"It's pretty uncomfortable for an old country boy like me used to welding in a plant to wear a coat and tie up here," said Nichols.

Tiburon Takes Steps To Halt More Subdivisions

The Tiburon City Council unanimously adopted a resolution last night asking the county not to approve any more subdivisions on the city doorsteps until Tiburon and the county agree on a land use policy for these unincorporated areas. (Another Tiburon City Council story, page 1.)

Mayor Albert H. Sennett said he had introduced the measure after writing many letters to Supervisor Michael Wornum and county planners "expressing concern about county laxity and asking that we come to a common agreement on this type of development."

But minutes later, the council only squeaked by with a 3-2 vote on a second resolution "deploring and opposing" proposed massive developments in the Ring Mountain area just outside Tiburon.

The resolution, proposed by a citizens group calling itself Friends of Ring Mountain, asked the county to buy parts of the area as open space. It said that the county might take legal action to protect public access to the land which had been gained through extensive public use. It also recommended that the county issue no development permits in the area until the countywide plan is approved.

Councilman Allan N. Littman, a dissenter, said that property owners on Ring Mountain should have had a chance to comment on the resolution. "We shouldn't act without at least hearing the views of the fellow who owns the land," he said. "Even if he's dead wrong."

The county should be the one to hold the public hearings and get the property owner's point of view, responded Councilman Branwell D. Fanning.

Councilman M. Carlisle Becker said he was opposing the resolution because it was poorly worded.

The Tiburon City Council also:

SIGNS — Amended its sign ordinances to allow signs for second floor as well as first floor businesses and to limit each property to one free standing sign. The vote was 3-1 on first reading of the ordinance with Councilman Branwell D. Fanning dissenting.

TAXIS — Continued until a special meeting tonight an urgency ordinance setting standards for taxi service in the city.

REZONING — Unanimously approved at first reading the rezoning from a single-family zone to a single-family cluster zone 19 acres at 4531 Paradise Drive. Action was requested by David C. and Barbara E. Mathew.

PARK — Received a report from the parks and recreation commission on the progress on a proposed Richardson Bay Park. The council was told that Sasaki-Walker Associates will now go ahead with the second phase in planning for the park. A second public hearing on the project will be held in April.

SPECIAL MEETING — Adjourned until a hearing at 7:30 p.m. tonight at city hall when they will consider whether construction revisions for the Hilarita development are consistent with precise plans already approved by the city.

The planning commission has already ruled that the revisions in the proposed moderate income housing complex are acceptable.

Bound Over In Forgery Check Case

A 24-year-old Concord man was bound over yesterday to Marin Superior Court on a felony charge of passing a forged check on the account of a minister.

Ordered to appear Feb. 21 by Municipal Court Judge Peter Allen Smith was Walter Sydney Boatwright.

The check for $550 was cashed last Aug. 14 at the main San Rafael branch of the Bank of America, but was not reported missing until two days later by its owner, former San Quentin chaplain Carlton A. Eshelman.

The check was taken from his car in Fairfax, according to police. Boatwright was identified by a teller from a photograph.

Wife Tells Why She Got Divorce

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — The wife of an Air Force captain released by North Vietnam divorced her husband last year when he was a prisoner because the "neat and docile" life she once lived had become politically and religiously active, she said Tuesday.

"I knew I couldn't go back," said Mrs. Mary Kramer, former wife of Air Force pilot Galand Kramer, who was shot down in January, 1967. The formerly quiet housewife now works for Rep. James Jones, D-Okla., and said she was also involved in school and church activities. The couple has two children, Todd, 9, and Cynthia, 8.

"We've grown apart," she said. "I felt it would be difficult for us to get together."

Kramer arrived in the Philippines with the first load of POWs Monday. He was photographed carrying a "God Bless America and Nixon" sign as he stepped off the plane.

Call Spanned 'The Time Gap'

WEST MONROE, La. (UPI) — Lt. Col. Bruce Seeber of the Air Force was shot down over North Vietnam more than seven years ago. His wife Jane got a telephone call from him Monday from Clark Air Force Base in the Philippines.

"That one phone call seemed to erase those seven years," she said Tuesday. "It spanned the time gap.

"I'm looking forward to our being a real family again," she said. "I'm not looking to special things, but to the ordinary, everyday family things that we enjoyed so much seven and a half years ago.

"That's what I have so much wanted," she said. "It's just cooking a meal, taking a drive Sunday afternoons, playing a game of Monopoly."

Leary Will Face Escape Charge

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Calif. (UPI) — Timothy Leary, apostle of LSD, was ordered Tuesday to stand trial March 13 on charges of escaping 29 months ago from a prison work camp where he was serving a marijuana possession sentence.

In contrast to his outspoken courtroom behavior in his younger days, Leary, 51, listened politely as a superior court judge denied a series of motions by Leary's lawyer.

Bagley's Solution To Span Approach Funds

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — The state should lend itself $7 million so it can begin work immediately to widen the dangerous San Francisco approach to the Golden Gate Bridge, Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, proposed yesterday.

The California Highway Commission claims it cannot start the project until 1977 because it has only half its $14 million cost, Bagley noted. The solution would be to lend the commission $7 million from the state's $850 million surplus, he proposed.

The commission would repay the state's general fund in 1977, with interest, the assemblyman said.

Widening of the approach, which has been the scene of repeated fatal accidents, long has been stalled by the state in its battle to force more freeways through San Francisco. Other bills have been introduced in the new legislative session to order the project built next fiscal year, but they provide no funds to do so.

Bagley noted that a similar loan financed construction of the second Waldo Tunnel 20 years ago. That loan, however, had to be repaid by the bridge district. Bagley stressed the bridge district needed its funds for transit now, and could not also help pay for widening the approach.

Bagley yesterday launched negotiations with the Reagan administration to get its agreement to the loan. The assemblyman is the administration's prime fiscal spokesman in the Legislature.

The loan will take legislation, but Bagley said he first wanted "to get everyone together on it."

Full Value Claims Are Being Pushed

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Legislation to require insurance companies to pay claims for full appraised value has been introduced by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael.

Insurance companies commonly refuse to pay full value based on appraisals obtained by customers, but nevertheless charge premiums based on the appraisals. The customer thus can end up without full coverage and without any return of the premiums which allegedly bought full coverage, Bagley said.

The bill, AB 342, would require insurance companies to pay loss and damage claims on the basis of the appraisals they use as a basis for premiums. The bill, however, would allow insurance companies to use "a different method in the computation of loss" if the policy and application for a policy "set forth, in type of a prominent size and color, the actual method of such loss computation."

Turkey, Cornbread Dressing Ordered

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI) — Glenda Jones of Baton Rouge said her husband, Air Force Maj. Neal Jones, used part of his telephone time from Clark Air Force Base in the Philippines to order some food.

"Tell mother the first thing I want is a big turkey and cornbread dressing," she quoted him as saying. "He said he was in good physical condition, that he didn't see any problems."

Fiancee At GI's Bedside

CHICAGO (UPI) — Last month, Army Sgt. Tim Parks, 20, won a fight against international red tape and got his Korean fiancee to his bedside in time for his cancer operation. Doctors at the Geat Lakes Naval Training Center hospital removed cancerous lymph glands.

Now, Parks said Tuesday, "All the tests showed that the malignancy has been removed but we'll have to wait and see. The type of cancer I have could recur, say, in five or 10 years." He plans to marry Chong Kil Soon April 6.

A COVER — Newspapers are used for many things — reading, lining garbage cans, wrapping fish and if it's bad weather, a protective covering. Patricia Eklund of Minneapolis found such a use for it yesterday as snow paid a visit to the area again yesterday.

Inmate Leaves Security Ranch

A San Quentin inmate, serving a term for assault, walked away last night from the minimum security ranch dormitory at the prison, a spokesman said.

Still missing today was Philip Kirk, 28, of Fall River Mills, Shasta County.

Lee DeBord, prison information officer, said Kirk was present at the 8 p.m. head count but was gone at 9 p.m.

He was described as a Caucasian, five feet five inches tall, 140 pounds with brown hair and blue eyes. He has a muscular build and is a boxer, DeBord said. He was believed to be wearing prison garb, jeans and a denim shirt.

Kirk, who was sent to prison in 1968, paroled in 1971 and returned last November as a parole violator, was serving a six-months-to-life term.

Behr Aims Guns At Medi-Cal Providers

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Legislation aimed at recapturing fraudulent and erroneous Medi-Cal payments was to be introduced today by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael.

The measure would empower the state Department of Health Care Services to slap judgment liens against corporations and individuals involved in disputed Medi-Cal payments.

According to the department, which operates the six-year-old Medi-Cal program, $35 million is owed the state by providers of health care because of fraudulent or erroneous payments. Of this total, $11.8 million was paid hospitals and nursing homes which probably have escaped prosecution by going out of business, according to department figures.

The annual state loss in the future will be about $4.3 million just from hospitals and nursing homes, the department estimated. It had no figure on the loss from some 2,000 cases of fraud a year, but said these involved frauds ranging from $5,000 up to $1 million.

The bill, certain to arouse a storm of protest from the medical profession, would allow liens to be filed with county recorders to prevent sale of hospitals or nursing homes, or medical practices, without notice to prospective buyers that the title was clouded.

This would prevent persons with disputed Medi-Cal payments from "skipping town," a spokesman for the senator said.

The bill was asked by the department. Its only recourse under present law is through the courts, which takes so long that defendants have vanished after selling their businesses.

The liens would be against all property owned in the county by anyone involved in such prosecutions by the state.

Plans For Preservation Of Dollar Estate Eyed

Directors of Marin Heritage last night reviewed first steps of a feasibility study of preservation and use of the Dollar Estate on Mission Avenue in San Rafael, and issued a call for commitments from organizations that would like to make use of some of the estate's facilities.

Such organizations may call Mr. or Mrs. Frederick Dekker of 12 Center Street, San Rafael.

Steps to be taken in the feasibility study were outlined by Charles H. Page of Page and Wheeler, San Francisco urban planning firm, at the meeting at the Dekker home. Page and Wheeler is making the study jointly with Kaiser and Marston Associates, economic consultants, under a $2,000 contract, half to be paid by Marin Heritage and half by the City of San Rafael.

Marin Heritage plans a major fund-raising event March 10 at 8 p.m. consisting of an auction of antiques, plants, paintings, etc. at the home of Herminia Kleiber Richards, 201 Locust Avenue, San Rafael. Mrs. Scot MacInnis of Mill Valley, who is in charge of the auction, said donations for it are being sought.

Contract Awarded For Restrooms

The Sausalito School District board last night awarded a contract to construct two restrooms at Bayside School to Joseph E. Redmond, San Rafael contractor.

Redmond's low bid — one of six received by the district — was $13,198.

Returning POW 'Sounds Real Good'

ALEXANDRIA, La. (UPI) — Terry Curtis of Alexandria, La., got a phone call Tuesday from her husband, Air Force Lt. Col. Thomas J. Curtis, who had been a prisoner of war.

"He asked how the family is doing, and we told him we were just anxious to get him home," she said. "He sounds real good."

Reagan Hits Critics Of Tax Proposal

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Accusing his Democratic critics of "pure demagoguery," Gov. Ronald Reagan predicted yesterday his new state tax rationing plan can spread across the continent and lead to a needed lid on federal spending.

"Something different must be done if we're going to preserve this economic system and allow people to provide for their own livelihoods," he said.

Reagan devoted practically all his weekly news conference to the first-in-the-nation tax control plan he proposed last week. Basically, it would limit total state taxes to a percentage of personal income. The percentage would decrease from 8.75 to 7.15 during the next 15 years, resulting in an overall tax cut of 20 per cent, he said.

The Republican governor is asking the Legislature to place the measure on the ballot so it can be approved as a state constitutional amendment by the voters. If the Legislature does not act, Reagan has said he will sponsor his own signature drive to qualify the measure on the ballot.

"That smacks of the same kind of demagoguery that has led to the economic mythology so prevalent today," said Reagan, referring to Democratic alternatives that would close big business "loopholes."

"It's pure demagoguery that it is economic nonsense and there is no other way to portray it."

Reagan, who has left the door open for a possible 1976 presidential bid, was asked whether he thought the tax ceiling plan could work at the federal level:

"Yes, I do," he said.

"Perhaps the duty of the states is to innovate, to try reforms and changes, and then the federal government would see whether they work. And California is particularly fitted to do this. We're a microcosim. We're literally a nation in ourselves."

Reagan said if California tried his plan for "a few years" and was forced to cancel it because it did not work, there would be "no great chaos" on the national level. "But if it does work," he added, "the federal government could take a look at it and say, 'why can't it be a solution to the problem here.'"

Reagan told newsmen he will delay his signature collecting drive "as long as it looks like the Legislature is honestly dealing with this problem and trying to make a decision on it. If on the other hand, they start loving it to death" then he will start the initiative process, aimed toward a special fall election.

Under Reagan's plan, the voters would have to approve any subsequent increase in the total tax ceiling.

"We are not omnipotent. We don't have a market on brains. And I don't think we were sent up here to rule the people's lives," the governor said.

Reagan noted that under the proposal the state budget still would increase by three times in 15 years. If he had emphasized that in his original announcement, the fiscal conservative told newsmen, "you would have gone screaming out of here saying, 'see how extravant Old Scrooge has suddenly become."

Indirectly related to the tax rationing plan is a separate proposal to return a $852 million revenue surplus to Californians through a 20 per cent one-time income tax cut and a seven month delay in a scheduled June 1 sales tax increase.

Body Identified As College Coed

SANTA CRUZ (UPI) — A body found in a remote area near Bonny Doon was identified yesterday as that of a Cabrillo College coed missing since last October.

Dental charts were used to make the identification of the remains of Mary Guilfoyle, 24, who was last seen when she left the campus to go to Santa Cruz Oct. 24. She never arrived at her appointment here.

The cause of death was not determined.

Six More Enter School Elections

With the filing deadline only two days away, six more candidates emerged yesterday and today in the 22 school board elections that will be held in Marin April 17.

Two of the new hopefuls, O'Brien Young and Peter B. Weston, filed candidacy papers in the Bolinas-Stinson School District. Others filing papers were Edward A. Tibbetts, for a Marin County Board of Education seat; Thomas Spencer, for the Mill Valley School District board, and Allan J. Kirchem, in the Lagunitas School District.

Today, attorney Jerrold M. Ladar returned papers to seek reelection to his seat on the Tamalpais High School District board.

Deadline for filings is 5 p.m. Friday.

The candidacies of Mrs. Young and Weston swelled the Bolinas-Stinson field to six hopefuls for four seats.

Mrs. Young, a 35-year-old graduate of Radcliffe College, told the Independent-Journal today she seeks a board seat because of a belief that the district's one school should take added steps to stimulate children who are not self-motivated.

Mrs. Young, mother of two Bolinas School children, lives at 275 Dogwood Road, Bolinas. Her husband, Landon, is director of the Community Music Center in San Francisco.

Like Mrs. Young, Weston, a 42-year-old electrician, and former teacher, is making his first try at public office. Calling for "new directions" in the district, Weston expressed an awareness of the "kinds of special education people in the community would like to see in the schools."

Weston, also with two children in Bolinas School, has lived in the Bolinas-Stinson Beach area for nearly five years.

Tibbetts, the first official candidate to seek the Area 3 seat on the Marin County Board of Education, is a 29-year-old civil engineer, serving as district engineer in the Las Gallinas Valley Sanitary District.

The Area 3 seat now is held by Patrick W. Pollock, who can't run because of redistricting.

Tibbetts, father of three boys, lives at 1020E Los Gamos Road, San Rafael. He has been a Marin resident nearly four years.

Spencer, joining two other candidates for three Mill Valley seats, is an associate professor of child psychology at California State University, San Francisco, as well as a director of the university's child study center.

The 35-year-old candidate lives with his wife and two daughters at 429 Live Oak Drive, Tamalpais Valley. He has lived in the Mill Valley district for five years.

Spencer said he believes the school board must "assure that all points of view are heard and given equal consideration in a diverse community such as Mill Valley. It is imperative to prove to the overburdened taxpayers that the board is obtaining the best education value from the funds available," he said.

The candidate said "too much importance has been placed on methods and techniques of teaching rather than on ability, skill and enthusiasm of the teacher."

In the Lagunitas district, candidate Kirchem was identified by the county elections office as a civil engineer residing at 36 Madrone Avenue, Woodacre.

No other biographical information or reasons for his election bid was available today.

Ladar, a Mill Valley resident, was elected to the board in 1970.

The 39-year-old Ladar, who obtained his law degree from Boalt Hall in San Francisco, formerly served for two years as chief of the criminal division in the U.S. Attorney's Office in San Francisco. He now is in private practice in that city.

Meantime, a candidate who filed yesterday in the Kentfield School District told the Independent-Journal he is concerned over the effect of the state's new tax shift-school finance legislation on district schools.

Attorney Neil M. Park, who could not be reached in time for yesterday's I-J, said he seeks one of three open Kentfield seats to try to help solve the money dilemma arising from S.B. 90.

Park, 30, an attorney with the San Francisco firm of Park, Swaner and Leslie, has two children in district schools.

He has been a Marinite for nine years and a Kentfield resident for four.

It's Park's first try for public office.

Devalued Dollar Creating Chaos On World Markets

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

World money markets reopened today and early prices indicated dealers did not know quite what to make of the new, devalued dollar. The dollar was strong in Belgium and Frankfurt, weak in London and Amsterdam and at an all time low in Tokyo.

In London the price of gold jumped $1.20 an ounce to an all time high of $70.10 on the bullion market and market sources said it was selling for as high as $72 an ounce in unofficial trades. The previous record was $69.50 set only a week ago.

Greece formally announced a 10 per cent devaluation of the drachma but in Spain many tourists continued to receive pre-devaluation prices for their dollars. Brazil reported an upward revaluation of 3 per cent of the cruzeiro —the first time in this century itihas been marked upward in relation to the dollar.

In Tokyo the price of the dollar fell to a record low when the markets reopened today and the state bank bought 150 million unwanted dollars to keep its price from falling below 271.10 yen.

The dollar opened well above its new parity in Belgium. In London and the Netherlands, it sagged slightly from the prices —official and unofficial — posted Tuesday.

Swiss banks today devalued the dollar by up to 14 per cent instead of the official 10 per cent while waiting for the Federal Bank and government to fix the new dollar-Swiss franc parity. By the end of trading today banks were giving only 3.35 to 3.36 francs for one dollar compared to the former official rate of 3.84 francs to the dollar.

In Italy, the government let the lira float away from its previous parity and it quickly rose against the dollar, but dipped as compared to stronger European currencies.

The Hong Kong dollar today was revalued upward nearly 10 per cent in relation to the U.S. dollar.

Finance ministers of the nine Common Market nations called a meeting later today to study the new situation. High on the agenda were the Italian float, which threatened the Market's economic unity, and the dollar devaluation, which will force recalculation of Europe's complex farm support prices.

Candidate Disqualified —Residency

An 18-year-old candidate for election to the San Rafael Board of Education was disqualified today because he fails to meet a three-year residency requirement under the city charter, a requirement held unconstitutional by Marin Superior Court.

Jeff D. Yarbrough III, a senior at San Rafael High School, is not eligible under the charter to run for the board because he has only lived in the city for two years, according to City Clerk Marion A. Grady.

The city clerk, noting that the residency requirement has been held unconstitutional in Marin Superior Court, said young Yarbrough will have to petition the court to get his name on the April 17 ballot.

A proposal to amend the city charter's three-year residency requirement to a one-year requirement only will appear on the April 17 ballot, she added.

Yarbrough was unavailable today for comment.

The disqualification leaves seven candidates in the race for two board seats: incumbent Paul K. McMullen, Lewis S. Pollock, Marie J. Sessi, Joan Lisetor, Suzanne L. Beittel, Gale B. Fisher and Clarence W. Koop.

Another candidate, William J. Campagna, was disqualified from the race last week because his petitions of candidacy lacked proper signatures.

Canyon Road Sewer Line Due Study

The Novato Sanitary District staff is going to study the feasibility of providing a sewer line in the Canyon Road area to serve about 15 homes, according to Dist. Mgr. Charles A. Joseph.

Directors authorized the study Monday night after Richard A. Knight of 10 Laurie Drive reported about 60 per cent of property owners in the area, now on septic tanks, are interested in sewer service. Joseph estimated about 1,000 feet of line would be needed.

Directors also gave initial approval to annexation of 10 acres on the west side of Eucalyptus Avenue, south of Center Road, and five acres on the south side of Vineyard Road west of Wild Horse Valley Drive.

A VALENTINE HUG

Kay Perkins threw herself into the arms of her husband, Maj. Glendon Perkins, in the rear seat of a Maxwell Air Force Base Command car after his return to Montgomery, Ala., last night after seven years as a prisoner of war in Vietnam. Major Perkins was one of two prisoners rushed home because of critical illness in the family.

Support To Bike Path Across Bay

The Mill Valley Planning Commission recommended last night that the city participate in construction of a bicycle and pedestrian path and bridge across Richardson Bay.

Planning Secretary Carol Defenderfer said the path would begin at the end of Sycamore Avenue and run to Shelter Bay Avenue in the Enchanted Knolls area across the bay. (The Enchanted Knolls Homeowners Association has been lobbying for the bridge-path for more than a year.)

Cost of the pathway is undetermined. It would be shared by the county, which would pay for constructing the bridge, and the city, which would foot the bill for paving, she said.

In other business, the commission agreed to recommend that the council accept an offer from an anonymous donor to give the city 1.23 acres of land south of Blithedale Park. The property, located on Elaine Avenue, would probably be used for a park.

Docks on the Ohio River at Louisville, Ky., handle 1,000 to 1,500 tons of steel daily.

Clark Rumored As Attorney For Magee

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Rommel Bondoc, court-appointed co-counsel for convict Ruchell Magee, yesterday withdrew from the case and it was rumored that former Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark will replace him.

Bondoc made no immediate statement on reasons for his withdrawal, but court observers said there appeared to be a rift between him and Magee's other attorney, Robert D. Carrow of Novato.

Carrow reportedly has told Judge Morton Colvin of San Francisco Superior Court that he plans to bring Clark into the case.

Magee, charged with fatally shooting Judge Harold J. Haley during the Marin Civic Center shoot-out in August 1971, has been on trial more than four weeks in a heavily guarded courtroom.

Yesterday San Quentin Correctional Officer Theodore Zink testified that shortly after the shooting Magee told him, "If I was running that kidnap there would be a lot of dead pigs."

He said Magee made the statement three days after the escape attempt while he was hooked to a lung suction machine in the prison hospital.

Magee was shot through the chest during the shoot-out in the Civic Center parking lot. A hostage juror in the escape van and prosecutor Gary W. Thomas were also wounded and two convicts and their accomplice died.

Mount Burdell Walk Planned

A newly formed weekday walking group in Novato will hike on Mount Burdell, starting at 9:30 a.m. tomorrow, weather permitting, according to Kay Spitler, one of the group which has invited other residents to join.

The walk will start from the end of San Andreas Drive, opposite the San Marin Club, with an early group to return at 1 p.m. and a later group at 2:45 p.m., Mrs. Spitler said. If the walk is rained out, it will be held Feb. 22 at the same time and place.

Additional information can be obtained from Mrs. Spitler of 3 Syosset Lane or Ann Brown of 490 Estado Way.

Wallet Theft Denied By Man

A preliminary hearing was scheduled for Feb. 23.

Lane is said to have grabbed a wallet from a woman in the United Market at 515 Third Street, San Rafael. Police said he tried to flee, but was trapped in his car by store employees.

The wallet was found in the glove compartment of his car, officers said.

Mail Security Plan Considered

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Officials of the state Franchise Tax Board are considering setting up a security program to inspect mail that might contain explosives.

Martin Huff, executive officer of the board, was reluctant to discuss the matter Tuesday but said, "we're contemplating doing it (starting a new mail security program.) We're a little concerned."

About 1,000 board employes will process an estimated 8 million state income tax forms in Sacramento through April 16.

Stinson To Proceed On Waste Plan

Directors of the Stinson Beach County Water District have decided to proceed with an $850,000 waste disposal system in the Stinson Ranch area, although the district is not certain state and federal funds will be available for the proposed system during the current fiscal year.

On Saturday, the board chose the Stinson Ranch project over another being considered — the Webb Creek system — and agreed to pay approximately $5,000 for a soils feasibility study for the area where the planned treatment plant would be located.

The chosen project would feature a secondary treatment facility in a gulch behind the Alder Grove about two miles north of Stinson Beach and would sewer only the calles and patios areas and the downtown business and residential sections of the community.

Disposal would be through spray irrigation of hillsides around the plant in summer and a percolation gallery in winter.

The district board has been informed that the state Water Quality Control Board has decided other disposal projects have higher priorities in the race for federal and state funds, according to director John L. Jones.

Jones said this means that no funds are available for a Stinson project during 1972-73, unless another high priority project fails to qualify for the money and grants because it is unable to meet its schedule.

He went on to say the district plans to "get ready to go" anyway, in the hope it can obtain funds earmarked for some other project. If this is not possible, he said the district may have to wait for money until the beginning of the 1973-74 fiscal year.

To Install Friday

The Marin Chapter 102 Royal Arch Masons will install new officers at 8 p.m. Friday at the Masonic Building in San Rafael. A headline on the story which appeared in yesterday's Independent-Journal said the installation would be Saturday.

Alto-Edna Maguire Principal To Retire

The Mill Valley School District board last night accepted the resignation of Dominic Bobbio, principal of Alto-Edna Maguire School, who plans to retire at the end of this school year.

Bobbio, 60, came to the district as a teacher in 1956 and was named principal of Edna Maguire in 1960. In 1968, he was selected principal of Alto School (the name was changed to Alto-Edna Maguire School when it moved to the Maguire site this year).

Before going into education, Bobbio was a professional pianist and had his own band at one time.

His retirement will begin June 30, according to Patsy White, district secretary.

The Mill Valley School District Board Also:

BUSING — Agreed to continue busing about 60 Old Mill kindergarten students to the Alto-Edna Maguire School to alleviate overcrowding at Old Mill. The busing will continue through next year while the district staff studies such possibilities as some kind of merger with the Sausalito School District and a year-round school program.

RESIGNATION — Accepted the resignation of speech therapist Patricia Odden.

EMPLOYMENT — Hired Carol Place as a temporary second grade teacher at Homestead School at $11,373 a year and Linda Reck as a half-time vocal music teacher at a salary of $5,899.

MOVE — Learned that the district office plans to move from its present location, at 26 Miller Avenue, to the Old Alto School, 70 Lomita Drive, by Feb. 22. The move will consolidate administrative offices with the district's maintenance and transportation operation and instructional materials center.

BUS — Voted to purchase a 79-passenger bus from the Gillig Co. whose low bid was $32,200.

MEETING — Agreed to meet at 8 p.m. Tuesday in Middle School to form a citizens screening committee to participate in selection of a new superintendent.

Cannibal Chief's Bride Ordered Out Of Country

JAKARTA (UPI) — Mrs. Wynn Sargent, an American anthropologist whose marriage to a West Irianese tribal chieftain stirred worldwide interest and controversy, today was ordered to leave Indonesia by Saturday.

An immigration office spokesman said authorities decided not to extend Mrs. Sargent's visa "for technical reasons only."

He said the reason for not extending her visa was that she had conducted research on Indonesian territory without a license from the government's Institute of Sciences.

"We had a friendly talk with her to clear up things," he said.

Ross Psychiatric Center On Panel

Three members of the Ross Psychiatric Center staff will discuss the function of the center and answer listener questions during KTIM radio's "Marin Sounding Board" to be aired at 9 a.m. Thursday.

Panelists with program moderator Kitty Oppenheimer will include Dr. Thomas E. McCormick, clinical director; Ruth Langstroth, clinical social worker, and Dr. Robert E. Cameron, psychiatrist.

The center is sponsored by the Marin Mental Health Foundation. The program will be taped and repeated at 10:05 a.m. Sunday.

4 Vehicles Taken In San Rafael

Four vehicles were reported stolen the past two days in San Rafael.

A taxi, belonging to San Rafael Taxi Co. of 20 Bellam Boulevard, was taken from the parking lot of Kentucky Fried Chicken at 555 Second Street, San Rafael at 9:20 p.m. yesterday. The driver, Daniel Sullivan McDermott, according to police, said that he was inside the food establishment only two or three minutes when the cab was taken.

A 1939 Harley Davidson motorcycle, license 984513 was taken between 1:30 and 4:30 a.m. today from his unlocked garage at 28 Bryn Mawr Drive, San Rafael, Joseph Henry Barni reported.

His 1961 Ford, license DOV 995, was taken between 7 a.m. Saturday and 3 p.m. yesterday from the street in front of 930 830 Tamalpais Avenue, San Rafael, Michael Moore Shields of 705 Fourth Street, San Rafael, told police.

A 1959 Volkswagon, license DNL 731, was taken between 8 p.m. Monday and 10 a.m. yesterday from the driveway of 141 Mountain View Avenue, San Rafael, Raymond Albert Papsys of 101 Woodland Road, Fairfax, reported to San Rafael police.

1,000 Players Expected For Marin Bridge Tourney

More than 1,000 duplicate bridge players, ranging from novices to national experts, will converge on San Rafael March 2 through 4 for the annual Marin County Sectional Bridge Tournament, sponsored by the Marin chapter of the American Contract Bridge League.

"The public is invited to play or to observe," said Edsel Yarling of San Rafael, chairman of the tournament. "You need not be a member of the American Contract Bridge League to participate. We encourage the casual bridge player to join in. One half hour before each game, free instructions will be given on the mechanics of duplicate play."

The three-day tournament will be held in the Veterans Memorial Buidling at the Marin County Civic Center.

Fred G. Dupuis of Belvedere, president of the bridge league's Marin chapter, announced the following schedule of games:

March 2 at 1:30 p.m. — Men's and women's pairs championships; 8 p.m., mixed pairs championship and junior pairs.

March 3, 1:30 p.m. — Open pairs championships (qualifying) and junior pairs; 8 p.m., open pairs championship (finals and consolation) and junior pairs.

March 4 — Swiss teams championships two sessions (at 12:30 p.m. and 6:30 p.m.)

Side games will be available during each session of the tournament for those who do not want to play in the championship or junior (novice) events.

Repeat Performance Of "Charlie Brown"

The Sonoma State College Children's Workshop will present a repeat performance of "You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown" at 2 p.m. Sunday in Ives Hall.

The repeat was scheduled after all performances last week were sold out. Tickets may be reserved by calling the Office of Instructional Services and Continuing Education.

Policy 'War Clauses' Hit

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI) — State Insurance Commissioner Paul B. Altermatt says life insurance policies bearing so-called "war clauses" will no longer be tolerated by the Connecticut Insurance Department.

"War clauses" attached to insurance policies make it possible for insurance firms to pay no money or reduced benefits to survivors of a policyholder who died while serving the country in time of war.

Some policies cancel the benefits regardless of the cause or place of death, others result in forfeited payments if the death results from military action in a war zone.

Rules Group Accepts Ghost Vote Proposal

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Assembly Rules Committee Tuesday accepted a compromise proposal to curtail the long-accepted practice of "ghost voting."

Spurred by Assemblyman Raymond T. Seeley, R-Blythe, the powerful panel agreed to implement a new voting system which would restrict the practice of assemblymen voting for absent members by pressing their electronic switches.

Seeley told the committee that "ghost voting" had been "badly abused" in the past with some bills clearing the Assembly with 41 or more votes officially when actually there were only 30 members present.

"I think you're mistaken," retorted Assemblyman John Burton, chairman of the committee. But the San Francisco Democrat said he agreed the new voting rules would reduce the possibility of abuse.

The new policy, which soon will be adopted by the full Assembly with blessings from Speaker Bob Moretti, will require lawmakers to be within the confines of the Assembly chamber unless he or she obtains a special pass.

When the pass is issued, the sergeant at arms will lock the member's electronic voting switch so it cannot be pressed while the assemblyman is absent from the floor. The lawmaker can unlock his own switch when he returns.

Assemblymen will still be able to cast "ghost votes" for their colleagues, but the colleague must be within the chambers at the time.

The new voting policy would not affect the Senate where a voice-vote system is used.

The compromise policy was proposed by Assemblyman Ray Johnson, R-Chico, a member of the Rules Committee. Seeley originally had wanted the policy to require assemblymen to be on the floor when their voting switch was turned on.

The compromise would allow assemblymen to go anywhere in the chamber with a pass. The chamber includes the floor, a coffee shop, a hearing room, telephone booths and toilets. It also includes Moretti's office.

Seeley said the policy would not only reduce "ghost voting" but also "promote better attendance on the floor."

For years, assemblymen had voted for their absent seatmates or friends by pressing their electronic switches. A lawmaker would tell his friends how he wanted to be recorded on a bill and then leave the chamber to attend a Senate committee.

But the practice was abused sometimes when an assemblyman would press the switch without specific instructions.

On the final day of the 1972 session, the practice led to the casting of a vote for a dead man. Assemblyman Frank Belotti, R-Eureka, had died the day before but someone pressed his switch anyway.

Flags Will Be Raised To Greet Returning POWs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — American flags were ordered raised to full staff today to honor returning U.S. prisoners of war.

President Nixon issued the order in a proclamation Tuesday, taking the step after holding a telephone conversation with Lady Bird Johnson, the widow of the late President Lyndon B. Johnson, who died in Texas Jan. 22.

Nixon reported on his conversation with Mrs. Johnson in a statement issued by the White House.

"Mrs. Johnson and I agreed that for the American flag to be flying high for the prisoners' return to American soil would be the finest possible tribute both to her husband's memory and to the heroism of the prisoners and their families—as well as to the missing men, the men who gave their lives and all who helped to win peace with honor in Vietnam," the statement said.

DEPUTY CHECKS HOT CAR

Deputy Sheriff Robert Richmond inspects charred remains of a 1966 Dodge Charger set afire yesterday just below the abandoned Nike missile site above Black Canyon. The car was traced to Francisco Dodge in San Rafael. The auto dealership said the car was stolen from their used car lot at 1075 Francisco Boulevard Monday night.

Board Of Education Will Delay Teacher Reductions

The San Rafael Board of Education last night postponed ordering a reduction in teaching staff amid pleas by teachers to delay a decision on the matter.

Teachers urged the board to find new ways of absorbing excess staff members, according to Supt. John F. Plank. The layoffs, necessary because of sagging enrollment, will be reviewed at 7:30 p.m. Feb. 27, he said.

Proposals offered by teachers for absorbing excess staff 'include splitting assignments between two teachers, assigning teachers to other posts and early retirement for veteran teachers, he said.

Plank said staff reductions are likely in the elementary school district because this year's enrollment of 4,300 pupils is expected to drop by about 200 next year. He added that normal attrition has not provided proportionate reduction in teaching staff.

The San Rafael Board of Education also:

PRINCIPALS — Announced the following principal assignments in the elementary district for 1973-74: Harry Holland, Bahia Vista; Hoyt Howlett, Coleman; Virgil Birdsall, Davidson; Lawrence McArdell, Gallinas-Hartzell; Robert McCurdy, Glenwood; Patricia Sweeny, MacPhail; Martin Parlan, Laurel Dell, intermediate and primary; Han Tharp, San Pedro; Herbert Witt, Santa Venetia; Anne Philbert, Short, and Larry Geiger, Sun Valley-West End. There will be no change in the administrations of the high schools, Plank said.

ADMINISTRATION — Announced the following administrative assigments for 1973-74: Donald Leisey, director of administrative services; Anne Philbert, director of educational services; Lee Heise, director of special programs; Jerald Gill, coordinator of personnel and community services, and Wayne Boone, coordinator of vocational programs. Boone, formerly assistant superintendent, was reassigned due to a reduction in force, Plank said.

NEW VOTER — Heard Peter Meyer, county elections officer, report on the "New Voter Project," a program of civic awareness for students.

SCHOOL CALENDAR — Adopted a school calendar for next year which sets the first day of school as Sept. 11, and the last day of school as June 14.

SANTA BARBARA — Reviewed the Santa Barbara County Superior Court decision which requires separate governing boards for that city's elementary and high school districts, an action which might affect the San Rafael school system pending a state Supreme Court decision.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to 7:30 p.m. Feb. 27.

Auto Dealer Relocation Is Refused

The San Rafael Planning Commission last night unanimously rejected a request by a Francisco Boulevard automobile dealer to relocate his business on Los Gamos Road off Highway 101 and adjacent to lands owned by Firemen's Fund Insurance Co.

De Long Chevrolet, Inc., now located at 550 Francisco Boulevard, must move since the site is now being acquired by the state for widening of Highway 101. According to Charles J. Linthicum, senior planner, Commissioner Joseph J. Garbarino called the proposal "totally out of place," and was backed by colleagues in finding the matter might conflict with the city's new general plan.

Terra Lindans, who last night warned that approval of the relocation might set the stage for commercialization of the area, applauded the commission's action, he added.

Planning Commission Chairman Thomas R. O'Toole was absent due to illness, Linthicum said.

Library Plans

The San Rafael Library Board will meet Friday at 7:45 p.m. in the children's room of the city library to continue discussions of library expansion plans with architect James Andrew Ring III. The meeting will replace the regular monthly meeting scheduled for next Monday night, said Bryce W. Anderson, board chairman.

Impact Reports Of Contested Developments Given Approval

The San Rafael Planning Commission last night approved environmental impact reports for two controversial developments proposed near the Marin County Civic Center.

The commission approved a report for development of a graded hillside north of the Civic Center as proposed by contractor Arthur R. Nicolaisen, who plans construction of a six-story office building, restaurant and service station and car wash on the 15 acre site.

Also approved was a report for a 292-unit apartment and townhouse development off San Pablo Road on a 54-acre site off in view of the Civic Center.

The commission approved both environmental impact reports on 5-1 votes, with Albert J. Boro opposed, according to Charles J. Linthicum, senior planner.

Both projects will now be reconsidered by the city council, which had referred them to the commission for environmental review. Commissioners last night said the developments may be considered by the council in about four weeks, with review by the Las Gallinas Valley Sanitary District board in the interim, Linthicum said.

Linthicum said the report on the apartment complex, called Foothills Oaks, found the project "wouldn't have much adverse impact" on the environment. The report expressed concern that runoff from the project might muddy the Civic Center lagoon, however, and recommends a monitoring system be set up, he said.

The report on the Nicolaisen project, which compares the current proposal with an earlier plan to develop the hillside with a motel and office complex, found that both plans would have an adverse impact on the environment, Linthicum said. The contractor received approval to proceed with his first plan in 1970, but scrapped the proposal in the face of competition from nearby Holiday Inn.

The report found his earlier project might blend better with the environment, but that both would create traffic congestion at the Terra Linda interchange, he said. The commission, noting the state plans to improve the interchange, approved the report after declaring that the car wash should recycle water, he said.

Terra Lindans, who have long fought plans by Nicolaisen to develop the hillside, last night opposed the project because of appearance and traffic congestion, he said.

Both impact reports were prepared by city consultants.

The San Rafael Planning Commission also:

YACHT CLUB — Approved a proposal by the Marin Yacht Club for parking and one tennis court within six feet of a property line on San Pedro Road, and within five feet of Summit Avenue.

USE PERMITS — Approved use permits for duplex use of lots at 260 C Street; multiple residential use of 123 Union Street; multiple residential use of 513 and 517 B Street and two-lot subdivisions requested by Joseph Lais and Richard Lockman on two parcels on Lockwood Drive. Also approved were permits for a three-lot subdivision and a public utility station on the Jacoby Street extension; a residential and office facility for a night watchman at 51 Harbor Street; a vehicle storage lot at 653 DuBois Street and a temporary office trailer at 99 Montecillo Road.

RUBBISH — Approved extension for 10 years of a rubbish disposal operation at 1515 Francisco Boulevard.

LINCOLN AVENUE — Approved design review of a five-unit addition to a duplex at 1430 Lincoln Avenue.

MARIN STREET — Approved design review of an 11 unit apartment building at 107 Marin Street as requested by James Flanagan and Bruce MacPhail.

CORTE MESA — Approved design review of a 28-unit townhouse development at 3-109 Corte Mesa, off Glen Park Avenue at Myrtle Avenue.

Smothers Brothers, CBS Still Feuding

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Smothers Brothers and CBS are still fighting over the comedy team's humor, which the network found objectionable.

A pretrial hearing was held Tuesday in a $10 million suit brought by the brothers, Tommy and Dick, against the network, charging breach of contract for cancelling their show in 1969. Lawyers for the network argued that the brothers had violated the contract by failing to provide programs that met with the network's "program practices and standards."

Pet Rabbits Are Killed By Ocelot

An ocelot, loose from its keeper, killed two pet rabbits in a Santa Venetia yard Sunday night.

A search for the exotic animal's owner has been unsuccessful, and the rabbits' owner is prepared to shoot if the ocelot returns.

The ocelot — a wildcat native to Texas and South America — first appeared in the garage of the Everett L. Bigbee home at 805 Hacienda Way on Sunday morning.

Mrs. Bigbee said she spotted the large yellow and black cat up in the rafters, and chased it out.

"But later that evening it came back, tore the sides from the rabbit hutches by the side of the house and killed my son's rabbits," said Mrs. Bigbee.

The two pets, Belgian rabbits called Spots and Buttons, had been 6-year-old Michael Bigbee's pets since last Easter.

Mrs. Bigbee and neighbors heard the noise of the attack and rushed to the pens.

"A neighbor tried to beat off the ocelot with a club, but it ran under our boat, and by the time police (Marin sheriff's deputies) arrived it had escaped," said Mrs. Bigbee.

Attempts by deputies and the Bigbees to locate anyone who has missed the ocelot has been unsuccessful, and Mrs. Bigbee said she has been advised she can shoot it if it returns — and she intends to.

Al Giddings, Marin County game warden, said the animal is undoubtedly a pet that has strayed, since it is not native to Northern California.

Giddings advised anyone who spots the animal not to approach it but to notify the Marin County Humane Society.

Ocelots are medium-sized wildcats, with a tawny yellow coat, striped and dotted with black, with distinctive round black ears.

Robbery Case Bound Over To Superior Court

Rudolph Anthony Fourshey, 29, of Marin City was bound over yesterday to Marin Superior Court to appear Feb. 21 on a felony charge of robbing a hitchhiker in Larkspur Jan. 14.

He was arrested Feb. 1 by Larkspur police in connection with the robbery of 19-year-old Robert Gorman. Gorman told police two men robbed him with a gun and a knife, then forced him to strip before leaving him in Mill Valley.

Fourshey was first picked up by sheriff's deputies on unpaid traffic warrants, then identified by authorities as a man sought in the robbery case.

The case of codefendant Stanley Herbert Mitchell, 21, of Petaluma is already in Superiour Court awaiting trial.

Colin To Head Bicentennial Panel Chairman

Kenneth J. Colin, former Petaluma vice mayor, has been named chairman of the Petaluma Bicentennial Committee.

Mayor Helen Putnam said he and a steering committee to be named later will work on plans for Petaluma to mark the 200th anniversary of the United States.

Mrs. Putnam, who is chairman of the mayors' advisory committee to the California Bicentennial Commission, said it is hoped that at least one project by the committee will be permanent in nature.

Session Postponed

The regular meeting of the Nicasio School Board of Trustees, scheduled for 7 p.m. tomorrow, has been postponed because the board secretary, Beverly Alberigi cannot be there. The meeting will be held at 7 p.m. next Wednesday at the school, she said.

HERE'S A COUNTRY French chicken stew to serve to the family or when friends come over.

COUNTRY FRENCH DISH

A Tasty Entree For Company

Fortunately in California we have fresh, quality chicken all year round. And here's a spicy idea from them for any occasion.

COUNTRY FRENCH CHICKEN STEW

1 frying chicken (about three pounds), cut into serving pieces
Salt and freshly ground black pepper
Flour
3 tablespoons butter
3 thin slices lean bacon, cut up
1 large onion, chopped
6 ounces fresh mushrooms, thinly sliced
4 or 6 peeled small new potatoes, or 2 medium potatoes, cut up
1 cup brandy
1 cup water
2 by 1 inch piece of lemon peel (yellow part only)
1 bay leaf
½ teaspoon crumbled dried thyme
1 large clove garlic, minced or mashed

Wipe chicken dry, season with salt and pepper, and dust lightly with flour. In a large frying pan over medium heat, saute chicken in butter until golden on both sides. Remove from pan. Add bacon, and saute until golden. Add onions and mushrooms, and saute until limp.

Return chicken to the pan along with the potatoes, brandy, water, lemon peel, bay leaf, thyme, and garlic. Cover and simmer for one hour, or until the chicken and potatoes are tender. Correct seasoning with salt and pepper. Serve with juices spooned over. Sprinkle lightly with parsley. Makes four servings.

Take Gamble Out Of Cheese Buying

On the West Coast, natural cheese gets a great amount of attention from the simplest to the most elegant methods of cookery. Whether you purchase the natural cheese for snacking or cooking, be sure that the cheese has been carefully selected and cured, cut and packaged to give you consistent quality in texture and characteristic flavor.

Monterey Jack, which was named for Monterey County, is one of the most versatile of the natural cheeses in the line and is suited to universal tastes. This mild, smooth, semisoft open textured cheese can stand alone or be served as a topper to the most spectacular cheeseburger ever.

Cheeses of distinction and character are rapidly moving into the lead in popularity within culinary circles, with American adaptations of European specialties often exceeding their foreign counterparts in both flavor and quality.

Mozzarella, or pizza cheese from Italy, is used largely in recipes which require baking or heating.

Muenster is one of the best melting cheeses around and boasts a strong, pungent flavor, nearly limburger-like in flavor and aroma. Originating in Muenster, Germany, the American adaptation has been modified through the years to become a mild flavored cheese to meet our taste preferences.

Brick is an American development with a taste close to that of Muenster. Originally it was made in a size very similar to the size and shape of bricks, with bricks used almost exclusively for weighting presses during its production. An excellent use for this natural cheese is an "anytime" fondue served with bread cubes.

Caraway, a spicy cheese with caraway seeds is a native Scandinavian cheese which makes an attractive addition to party trays or open-face Danish smorrebrod sandwiches and is flavorsome in combination with your favorite fruit and wine.

Chef's Idea On Serving Filet Of Sole

Marin chef Raymond Bar has passed along his recipe for Filet of Sole Bretonne for I-J food page readers. He also was guest on the "Kitchen Time in Marin," show hosted by Diane MacMillan and discussed the recipe there this morning.

FILET OF SOLE BRETONNE

2½ to 3 pounds fish filets
4 ounces fresh shrimp (¼ lb.)
4 ounces fresh sliced mushrooms
milk
flour
oil and butter
2 tablespoons lemon juice

Soak fish filets in milk, drain, dust with flour. Preheat skillet. Add a thin layer of vegetable oil. Saute filets until just golden brown on each side, turning only once. Add a few tablespoons of butter. Allow the butter to turn a light nut brown, but do not allow to burn. Immediately, transfer filets to a warm platter.

Toss in the mushrooms and saute quickly, then the shrimp. This step is last minute and must be done rapidly so that the butter will not burn. Blend in the lemon juice, stir and pour over the warm fish filets. Serve at once. Garnish with lemon wedges. Serves six.

To Check Grease

If you have a ventilating hood over your kitchen range, turn on the fan in it before you begin cooking. This helps keep grease-laden moisture from sticking to the walls and ceiling, says the American Gas Assn.

When Baked

Soft cookies are done when delicately browned and when the imprint of a finger is slightly visible when you touch the cookie centers.

Oatmeal Gives This Gingerbread Specialty Tasty Nutty Flavor

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press

A New Yorker who comes from Yorkshire, England, still remembers the gingerbread she was brought up on. She says it is called Parkin and is a rough country dish, served to youngsters with milk to drink and to grownups with mugs of tea or coffee. She adds that in her day "it was always enjoyed in the kitchen and was never served to the gentry!"

Our curiosity aroused, we dipped into Audrey Allen Gorton's cookbook, "In Defense of British Cooking," published by The Stephen Greene Press, and here is what Mrs. Gorton has to say about this cake:

"Parkin is a north country gingerbread and is assocated particulary with Yorkshire fare. It is also found in Lancashire and Cheshire and may be bought in almost every bakery there. The oatmeal used gives it a nutty flavor and it is very good with cheese. It keeps for a long time when stored in a tightly covered biscuit tin."

PARKIN

1 cup unsifted flour
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon salt
½ cup sugar
1 tablespoon ground ginger
4 cups quick-cooking oats, uncooked
½ cup butter or margarine, melted
1 cup light molasses
2 eggs
1 cup milk
Confectioners' sugar, if desired

Into a large mixing bowl turn the flour, baking soda, salt, sugar, ginger; stir together thoroughly. Stir in oats.

Add melted butter, molasses, eggs and milk; stir until well blended.

Turn into a greased rectangular baking pan (13 by 9 by 2 inches); spread evenly.

Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until top is firm to the touch and sides have separated from edge of pan — 40 to 45 minutes.

Place pan on wire rack and cool. Cut into forty-eight 2 by 1 inch bars. With a small spatula, remove from pan. If used, sprinkle lightly with the confectioners' sugar.

Makes 48 bars.

Now Is The Time For Serving A Cherry Pie

There is that about February that calls for special days to brighten bleak late winter. Fortunately, we have three days that are cause for celebration.

At least they call for a special dessert to mark the occasion. Right at the top of the list for Washington's Birthday is the Cherry pie.

CHERRY PIE

Pastry for 2-crust pie
3 tablespoons corn starch
⅔ cup sugar
½ teaspoon salt
1 can juice, drained from canned cherries
2 tablespoons margarine
1 teaspoon lemon juice
¼ teaspoon red food coloring
2 (1-pound) cans red pitted sour cherries, water packed

Mix together corn starch, sugar, salt and cherry juice in a saucepan. Place over medium heat and cook, stirring constantly, until mixture comes to a boil and boils one minute. Remove from heat. Stir in margarine, lemon juice, food coloring and cherries. Pour into pastry lined nine-inch pie pan. Cover with top crust. Seal and flute edges. Prick top crust and decorate with pastry as desired. Bake in a 425 degree oven 35 to 40 minutes or until crust is golden brown.

A New Idea For Chicken

TANGY STUFFED CHICKEN BREASTS
(4 servings)

4 chicken breasts, boned, seasoned with salt and pepper
1 cup stuffing mix
¼ teaspoon thyme
1 teaspoon fresh grated tangerine peel
2 tangerines, peeled, seeded, cut into bite-size pieces
2 tablespoons finely chopped green onion
2 tablespoons slivered almonds
2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine
1 cup fresh squeezed tangerine juice

Wash chicken breasts. Pat dry. With skin side down, flatten and season with salt and pepper. Mix together stuffing mix, thyme, tangerine peel, tangerine pieces, green onion, almonds, butter and three tablespoons tangerine juice. Pile one-fourth of stuffing mixture on each chicken breast. Fold edges over and secure with wooden picks or poultry pins. Place, skin side up, in a shallow baking pan. Pour remaining tangerine juice over chicken. Cover and bake at 375°F. for 30 minutes. Remove cover and bake an additional 30 to 40 minutes, basting two or three times with juice. Remove chicken to serving platter. Pour pan drippings into saucepan and boil for five minutes until slightly thickened and reduced to about one-fourth cup.

Try Fondue For Winter Evening

A weekend vacation at a winter resort is lots of fun -- until you have to satisfy all those cold-weather appetites with a stick-to-the-ribs meal. One way is to pack the ingredients for curry fondue.

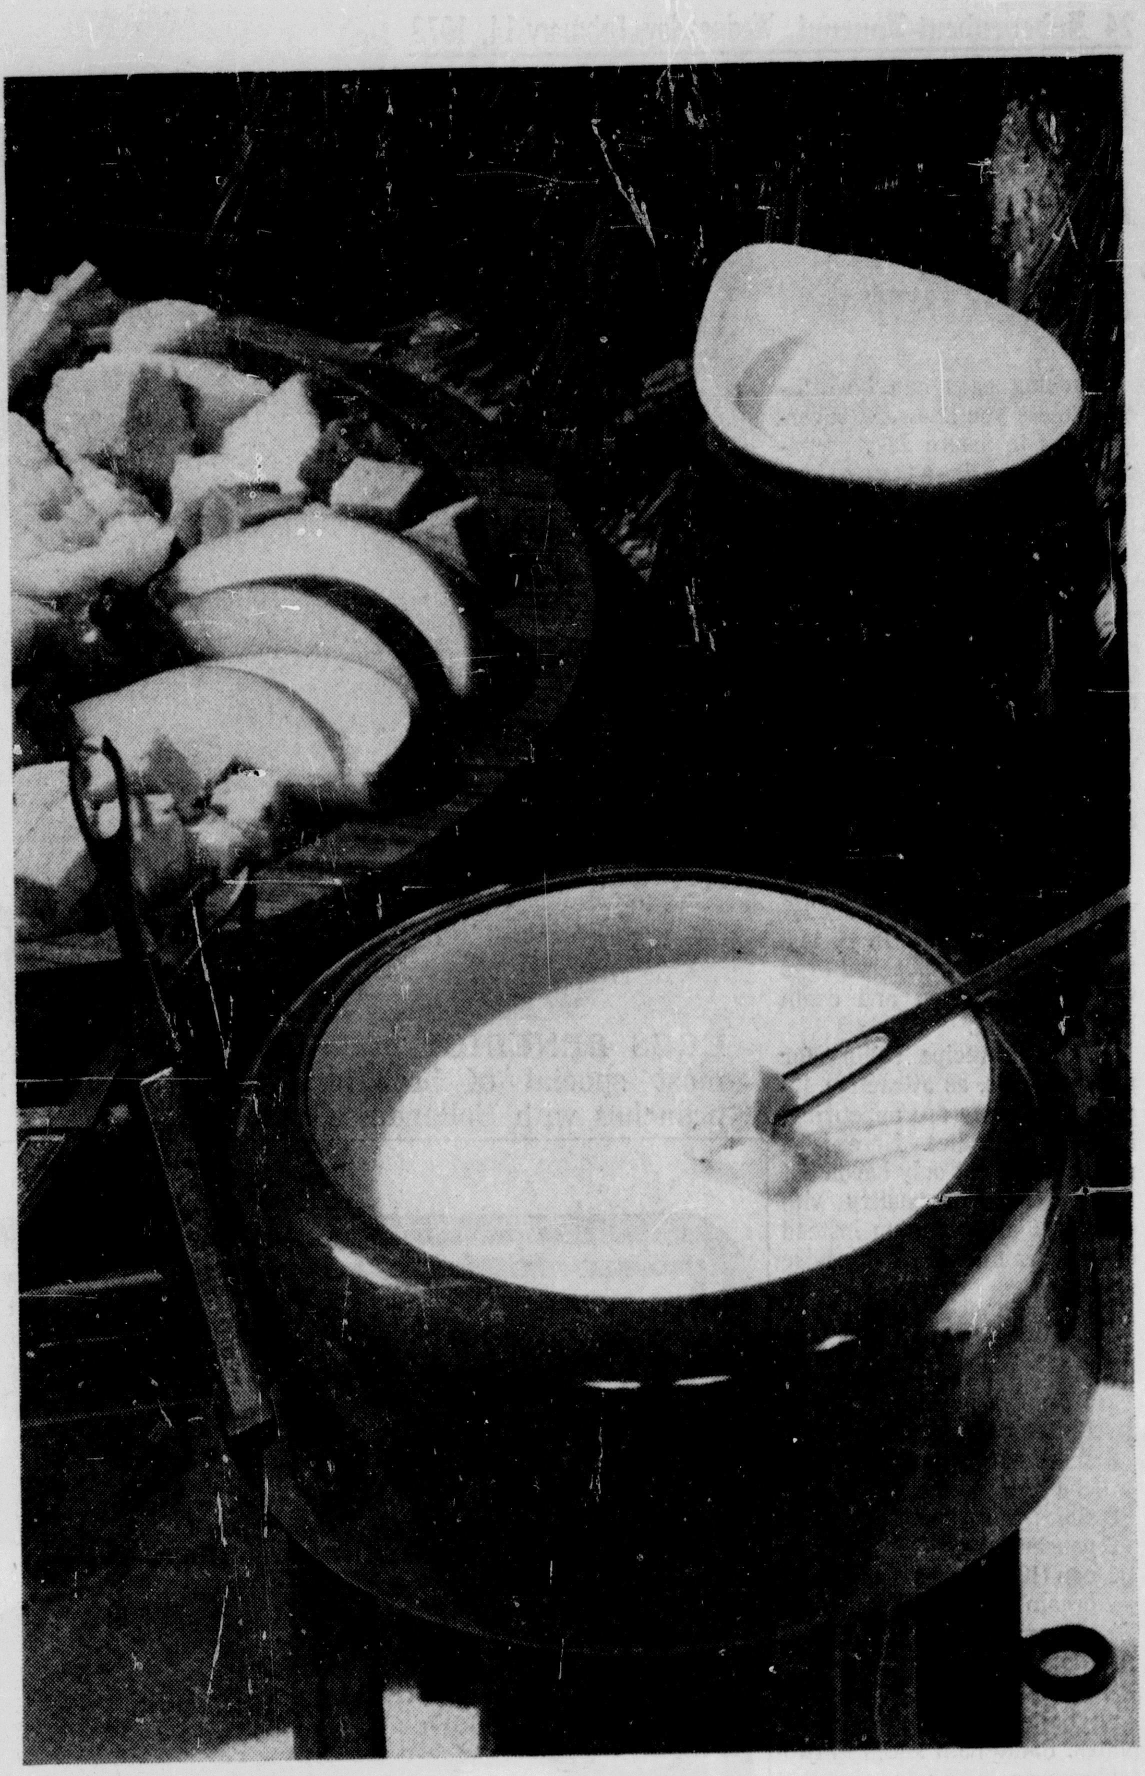
Convenient condensed cream of chicken soup right from the can is combined with nutritious Swiss cheese and zesty dairy sour cream for a smooth, creamy hot dip. Curry powder, garlic and ginger are added to season and spice this nourishing fondue into a tastebud tantalizer.

Invite family and friends to "dip in" to the bubbling pot with chunks of ham or chicken, whole shrimp, cubes of French or rye bread, celery or carrot sticks, cherry tomatoes, apple slices or pear cubes. For the go-along beverage, serve the adults a dry white wine and hot apple cider to the youngsters.

CURRY FONDUE

1 can (10½ oz.) condensed cream of chicken soup.
2 - 3 teaspoons curry powder
¼ teaspoon ginger
1 small clove garlic, crushed
3 cups (12 oz.) shredded Swiss cheese
1 tablespoon all-purpose flour
¾ cup dairy sour cream

In 1½-quart saucepan heat together soup, curry powder, ginger and garlic. Toss together cheese and flour. Over low heat add cheese to soup and stir until cheese is melted. Stir in sour cream. Transfer to fondue pot. Serve with a selection of the following: celery sticks, carrot sticks, cherry tomatoes, apple slices; cubes of pear, ham or chicken; chunks of French or rye bread, or whole shrimp. Makes three cups.



FOR THE WINTER evening serve a curry fondue and satisfy the hearty appetites.

Use Bacon For Eggs Benedict

Poaching eggs can be difficult unless you know the several tricks to insure easy preparation and attractive appearance. Here are a few tips that can help.

The problem is how to keep whites and yolks together. One way to do this is to fill a shallow pan with enough water to cover the eggs and add half teaspoon each of salt and vinegar to the water and bring water to boiling point. Break each egg into a saucer and slip into the water. Then lower heat and simmer gently.

The egg will poach to firm white with soft yolk in about 2½ to 3 minutes; to hard in 4½ to 5 minutes. Remove poached eggs with slotted spoon and drain before serving.

A classic recipe calling for poached eggs, as attractive appearing as they are appetizing, is Eggs Benedict. Here is a recipe using not only bacon but leftover ham or poultry with cream of chicken soup instead of the traditional Hollandaise sauce.

EGGS AND BACON BENEDICT

4 English muffins, split
Butter or margarine
8 slices leftover smoked ham, chicken or turkey
8 slices crisp bacon
8 poached eggs
1 can (10¾ ounces) condensed cream of chicken soup
⅓ cup mayonnaise
1 tablespoon lemon juice

Toast muffins and spread with butter. Place on serving plates. Saute ham slices in two tablespoons butter in a skillet until hot. Place ham and bacon on muffins. Top with a hot poached egg. In a saucepan, combine soup, mayonnaise and lemon juice and heat until bubbly. Spoon sauce over poached egg. Garnish with parsley and cherry tomatoes. Makes eight servings.

EGGS BENEDICT makes the most special of breakfasts or brunches with Hollandaise sauce or, as here, cream of chicken soup for a less rich dish.

New Twist To Chowder

Steamy clam chowder served on a cold, grey weekend can change one's expectations from dreary to sunny. This recipe calls for a change in the potato form. A cooked potato submerged in the delicate seasoned clam liquor is unexpected and so is the invigoration.

CREAMY CLAM CHOWDER

4 small potatoes peeled
¼ wedge of onion
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup milk
¼ cup thinly sliced celery
1 8 oz. can chopped clams
½ cup half and half
Paprika

Cook potatoes and onion in one cup of boiling water, covered (about 20 minutes). Blend butter, flour and salt together over low heat. Gradually add hot water from potatoes, milk, celery, and clam juice. Blend thoroughly.

When the liquid is to the boiling point, add clams and half and half. Let it heat through but don't boil. Adjust seasoning. Put a hot potato in each soup bowl and add three-fourths cup of chowder in each bowl. Dash with paprika. Makes four servings.

Serve with hot French Rolls or cornbread and a tossed green salad.

Practice Proves Winner For Those Special Dinners

Here's a tip for surviving the current dinner-party season and establishing your reputation as one of the top hostesses on the circuit.

Home economists at U.S. Stamping Co. in Moundsville, W.Va., suggest selecting two or three unusual recipes and practicing on the family before serving dinner guests.

The practice makes perfect, and also gives the cook the opportunity to stock up on all the necessary ingredients, spices and cookware and serving pieces that may be needed.

One dish that's guaranteed to dazzle guests is Paella Catalan.

PAELLA CATALAN

½ cup olive oil
4 pieces chicken
1 clove garlic, crushed
1 onion, peeled and crushed
¼ cooked ham, cut in thin strips
1 cup long grain rice
12 large uncooked shrimp
½ pound whitefish (cod or swordfish) cut into large cubes
2 canned pimientos (one 4 oz. jar) drained and chopped
12 large mussels
1 cup green peas cooked, or one small package frozen peas
⅛ teaspoon saffron (soaked in 3 tablespoons hot water for ½ hour)
2½ cups of stock or water
Salt and pepper

Heat oil in a paella pan and fry chicken over moderate heat until brown on all sides. Remove chicken, add garlic and onion; fry onion until transparent. Add ham and rice, cook and stir until rice is golden. Remove from heat. Peel and devein shrimp.

Gather shrimp, fish, pimiento and mussels so they are ready to use. Scrub mussels under running water. Arrange all these ingredients on the rice. Add chicken and peas. Push mussels deep into the rice. Lay shrimp on top.

Add saffron and liquid to stock, or water, and pour ingredients into paella pan. Season to taste, bring to rapid boil and boil for three minutes. Turn heat down and simmer uncovered, until all ingredients are cooked and liquid is absorbed (about 20 minutes). Serves four.

This recipe is best prepared and served in a specially made Paella pan, available at hardware and department stores.

Idaho-Oregon Area Big Onion Producers

The Idaho-Oregon area produces about 20 per cent of all onions available in the United States from September through March.

About 90 per cent of the onions, or 360 million pounds, are sweet Spanish varieties.

Among them are many that have a diameter of more than five inches.

A BUSY MARIN GROUP

Health Collective Will Launch Telephone Service

By BARBARA HOSMER

The Marin Women's Health Collective, organized a year ago by a small group of Marin women, plans to initiate its telephone information service next week.

The collective is set up to educate women about the nature and costs of health services available to them, both in Marin and other parts of the Bay Area; to help women learn about their own physical processes so that they can become more intelligent medical and health care consumers, and to change attitudes toward health care for women among professionals where needed.

The collective began by last year surveying Marin County obstetrics and gynecology specialists and physicians in general practice to determine costs and services each offered regarding female medical procedures. It has followed up to obtain further information and plans to continue collecting and updating health and medical information for its files.

The telephone information system will be operated through the Marin Women's Switchboard.

THE HEALTH Collective also will present educational programs for women through films and discussions, with a series tentatively scheduled in San Rafael for May to assist women in evaluating medical care they receive and in asking questions about their care from health professionals.

It has a consumer orientation and plans to open dialogue with various Marin physicians about female patient care.

Originally, the founders were largely members of the Marin Chapter, National Organization for Women concerned with its task force on reproduction and its control, but they set up the Health Collective separately so that other women could join the collective. Currently the collective is made up of about 50 per cent NOW members and is expanding its action program to others in the community.

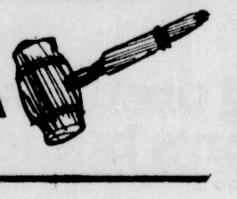
The collective also plans to collect on a continuing basis women's evaluations of their experiences with varying phases of health care in Marin on a confidential basis.

THE COLLECTIVE meets each second Thursday of the month in members' homes and has held one benefit by sponsoring a conversation evening with Gloria Steinem following the latter's College of Marin appearance last month. It is planning more benefit functions and also a film and discussion series for women about such subjects as self-help clinics, abortion, natural childbirth, breast and pelvic examinations and sexuality as a part of its program to educate women about their bodies.

On May 18 the Health Collective will co-sponsor with the College of Marin a showing of the Kate Millett film, "Three Lives," and the KQED short made in Marin of Miss Steinem's appearance. Proceeds will go to the Women's Health Collective.

The Marin Women's Health Collective, 14 Claus Circle, Fairfax, may be reached through the Women's Switchboard on weekdays, beginning Monday.

ON THE AGENDA



Champagne Reception To Honor Colonel Garrison At Hamilton

A champagne reception to honor Col. and Mrs. Vermont Garrison will be held from 7 to 8 p.m. Saturday at the Officers Club at Hamilton Air Force Base.

The reception will precede the annual Officers Wives Club spring formal, also at the Officers Club. Theme of the formal, a dinner dance, is Chinese New Year. Chairman is Mrs. Jack Cremin, and Mmes. Philip Nelson and Scott Murray are decorations chairmen. Reservations chairmen are Mmes. Carl Bibb and Albert Mullen.

SOCIAL-LITES SINGLES Club of Sonoma and Marin Counties is having a St. Valentine's dance Saturday at 9 p.m. at the Santa Rosa Hotel in Santa Rosa.

SAN RAFAEL Circle 137, United Ancient Order of Druids, will honor grand archdruidess Cora Martinelli and grand and past grand officers tomorrow night at 8:15 at Carpenters Hall in San Rafael.

ST. ANSELM'S Institute 98, Young Ladies Institute, is having a dinner dance Saturday at the Elks Club in San Rafael. Cocktails will be served at 6:30 p.m., dinner at 7:30 p.m. and dancing will begin at 9 p.m.

Chairmen are Mmes. Ralph Herold and Bernard De Bisschop.

MEMBERS OF the San Rafael Toastmistress Club 1321 are engaged in a speak off contest to select a representative to the Toastmistress council meeting on March 17.

The representative will be chosen at the Feb. 21 meeting in the Community Room of the Bank of Marin in San Rafael. Esther Dearth is speech contest chairman.

TAMALPAIS ASSEMBLY 191, Order of Rainbow for Girls, is sponsoring a fashion show and luncheon Saturday at noon at the Masonic Temple in Larkspur.

Ross Valley Shop in Larkspur will supply the fashions. Tickets will be available at the door.

ST. CECILIA'S Women's Club of Lagunitas is having a theater party Saturday in the Barn at the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross, when the Ross Valley Players will present "How the Other Half Loves."

Hors d'oeuvres will be served prior to the curtain at 8 p.m.

Proceeds will benefit St. Cecilia's parish in Lagunitas.

TAMALPAIS CENTER Woman's Club will honor new members at a luncheon Friday at 12:30 p.m. at the clubhouse in Kentfield.

Chairmen are Mmes. Ivan Van Winkle, Joseph Florke, Jeanne Madsen, Frank Bauman and Lois Annette.

LOCAL WOMEN planning to attend the Legal Secretaries, Inc. board of governors meeting Friday through Sunday in Monterey are Virginia Follis of Petaluma, Edna Slavich of San Rafael and Constance Mauk of Corte Madera.

SWEETY PIE Day, a combined celebration of George Washington's birthday and Valentine's Day, will be Monday at the Sunny Hills Bargain Box in San Rafael.

All items in the thrift shop will be reduced, and a cherry pie will be given away every 15 minutes.

MEMBERS OF the San Rafael Junior Women's Club will visit the Big R Respite Home in Novato Tuesday.

Mrs. Joyce Purcell of Marin Aid to Retarded Children invited the women in appreciation for the work and aid they have given the home, according to Mrs. Herbert Basuino of Corte Madera, press chairman for the club.

ALPHA DELTA Pi Sorority Alumnae is having a luncheon Tuesday at 11 a.m. at the home of Mrs. G. G. Gamlen in San Rafael.

MRS. JOHN Starkweather of San Rafael will discuss birds native to the Audubon Canyon Ranch at the Newcomers Club of Central Marin luncheon Tuesday at 11:30 a.m. at Peacock Gap Country Club.

Mrs. Starkweather will show slides of the blue heron nesting habits.

The Ins, Outs For Fashion Accessories

Ins and outs of fashion accessories were defined by Women's Wear Daily.

Simple beads and pearls are in; masses of chains and charms are out. The clutch bag is in; bulky shoulder bags are out. Big clip-on earrings are in; earrings for pierced ears are out. One or two rings are in; rings worn on every finger are out.

Narrow belts with simple buckles are in; wide belts with low slung jeans are out. Clusters of plastic and wood bangle bracelets are in, and clusters of rhinestones are out. Ivory beads and bracelets are in; tortoise jewelry is out.

Full Slip Back For Day Wear

Lingerie trends show a return of the full slip for daytime wear, and the return of cotton blends and tricot for sleepwear, according to Women's Wear Daily.

In loungewear, caftans remain popular. Robes wrapped with a soft belt are in again, and robe and gown sets are featured for travel.

The soft, medium control bra, with stitched or seamless cups, fiberfill and underwired support is making a comeback.

A Summer Wedding Is Being Planned By Pair

June Elizabeth Howard of Ventura and Frank John Guidice Jr. are planning a July 7 wedding.

The future bride is the daughter of Mrs. Sandy Biggie of Ventura and the sister of Julie Ann and Leah Carol Howard. June was graduated from Ventura High School and is employed by Longs Drugs in Northgate. Mrs. Mildred Spharler is her grandmother.

Frank is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Guidice of San Rafael and the brother of Sal, Paul and Rina Ann Guidice. Mr. and Mrs. Salvatore Intagliata and Mrs. Serafina Guidice are his grandparents. He was graduated from Redwood High School and is employed by BART Trucking Co. in San Francisco.

Behavior Therapy Workshops Slated

Script theory analysis workshops for women will be given Feb. 23 at 7:30 p.m. and Feb. 24 at 9:30 a.m. in the choir room of the Church of Our Saviour in Mill Valley.

Workshops are based on Dr. Eric Berne's behavior therapy. Director is Victoria B. Harding, and Mrs. Alice Meyer is reservations chairman.

Marin Women

The Edward Keppels Living In Arkansas

Mr. and Mrs. Edward E. Keppel (Lois Diane Short) are living in Fayetteville, Ark., following their marriage Feb. 3 at Marin Lutheran Church in Corte Madera.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dean F. Short of Corte Madera, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Erven Keppel of Rohnert Park.

Maid of honor was Donna Grewe of Ignacio and bridesmaids were the bride's sister, Anita Short of Corte Madera; the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Michael Wlodarczyk and Mrs. Michael Dunham of Stockton.

Jim DeJoria of Windsor was best man, and guests were ushered to their seats by Ron Peetz of San Francisco, Dean Short of San Rafael and Michael Wlodarczyk.

Lois is a graduate of Redwood High School and California Lutheran College. She is also the sister of Mrs. Gary Schulte of Fridley, Minn., and Dean S. Short of Taunton, Mass., is her grandfather.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Rohnert Park High School and Santa Rosa Junior College. He is in the Army. Mr. and Mrs. Albert G. Starz of Lake City, Minn., are his grandparents.

Blass Forecasts "Status Dressing"

"We are in a reactionary period, and it is reflected in the clothes we wear," designer Bill Blass told Women's Wear Daily.

"The men's wear industry is 30 years behind the times. It doesn't allow for changes in taste and is geared to a pre-World War II society."

Mary Pat Kinsey Will Wed

Mr. and Mrs. Eric C. Kinsey Jr. are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Mary Pat Kinsey of Novato, to Roy E. Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Grover Wilson of San Rafael.

Mary is the sister of Anne Kinsey and the granddaughter of Eric C. Kinsey of Ross. She was graduated from Marin Catholic High School and Dominican College. She is presently working toward an elementary teaching credential.

The future bridegroom was graduated from Terra Linda High School and attended Heald Engineering College. He is employed as an engineer at the Marin Municipal Water District in Corte Madera.

The couple plans to be married on June 2.

Cornhusker's Reunion Slated

University of Nebraska alumni's annual reunion and charter day banquet will be held Monday at the Blue Dolphin Restaurant in San Leandro.

Chancellor James H. Zumberge and alumni executive vice president Jack Miller will attend, and highlights of the Orange Bowl game will be shown.

Reservations chairman is Don Morrison, 24 Pomona Street in Crockett.

Jill W. Vernon Betrothal Told

Mr. and Mrs. Willard Elliott Vernon of San Rafael announce the engagement of their daughter Jill Ward Vernon of San Jose to Dennis Kemp Prober, also of San Jose.

Holly Ward Vernon is the future bride's sister. She is the granddaughter of Mrs. Andrew E. Ward of San Rafael and Mrs. Bruce Vernon of San Marino. Jill was graduated from San Rafael High School and received the B.S. degree and teacher's credential from the University of California at Davis. She is a member of Prytanean and is employed by the San Jose Unified School District as a media library resource teacher.

JILL W. VERNON
July date set

Dennis is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Prober of Uplands and is the brother of Alan Prober of Azusa, Paul Prober of Santa Barbara and Gary Prober of Santa Maria. He is a graduate of Azusa High School and has a BS degree from California State Polytechnic College and an MS degree from Oregon State University. He is employed by Neil A. Maclean Co., Inc., in Milpitas as a quality control and production coordinator. The future bridegroom is a member of Beta Beta Beta, Gamma Sigma Delta and Alpha Zeta honorary societies.

The couple plans to be married July 7 in San Rafael.

Dan Granucci Will Wed Sherry Haas

Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Haas of Rohnert Park are announcing the engagement of their daughter Sherry to Dan Granucci, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tino Granucci Jr. of Novato.

Sherry is the sister of Bob and Ron Haas and Mrs. Curtiss D. Lewis of Rohnert Park. She is the grand-daughter of Mrs. Anne Haas of North Hollywood. She was graduated from Rancho Cotate High School and is employed at Storer Cable TV in Rohnert Park.

Dan is the brother of Mrs. Ray Hill III of Petaluma and Mrs. Barry Beringer of Corte Madera. He is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Tino Granucci of San Francisco and Jack Mello of Mill Valley. The future bridegroom was graduated from Novato High School and attended College of Marin. He is employed at Volonte Motors in South San Francisco.

SHERRY HAAS
September wedding

The couple plans a September wedding.

Nancy Jeanne Fairchild To Wed Norman Collins

Dr. and Mrs. Roy W. Fairchild of San Anselmo are announcing the engagement of their daughter Nancy Jeanne to Norman B. Collins of Glendale.

Nancy is the sister of Jan and Christie Fairchild. She is a graduate of Sir Francis Drake High School and College of Marin and attends California State Univeristy, San Jose.

Norman's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Collins of Glendale. He was graduated from Herbert Hoover High School in Glendale and also attends CSU, San Jose.

An April 14 wedding at the First Presbyterian Church in San Anselmo is planned by the couple.

Programs That Always Depict Shoplifters As Women Rapped

DEAR HELEN:

I'm much in favor of the current local commercials that warn against shoplifting, but why is it that on radio and television, the shoplifter is always female? My dad says this is because she almost always is, but I disagree. Boys and men go into stores too —and come out secretly loaded.

Maybe a few public service ad people will read this and tell their writers about discrimination. — LET'S PLAY FAIR

DEAR LET'S:

What do you bet they've already been told — and the change will come sooner than you think? If women can spot discrimination in first-grade readers (fathers and boys, brave strong leaders; mothers and girls, helpless followers), they'll surely demand equal time to name men shoplifters. Let m know if I'm right. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Ifeel like my husband and I are headed for divorce. He treats me very bad. He pulls off my wig when we have a fight. He won't let me go into the bathroom alone when we're arguing, just blocks my way so we'll keep on fighting.

He doesn't like my family, and my mother says marriage is ruining my health. He's very jealous, too. He doesn't want me to get a job, and he won't let me go to Mexico for a vacation (alone). On his days off I get very bored with him, as he's very passive except when mad. So-o-o?

I have a couple of careers I'd like to know more about: nude photography modeling, and massaging. I know a girl who makes good money at both and she says it doesn't take much training or effort, and I wouldn't have any trouble breaking into the field. Is she right? — ABOUT TO LEAVE HIM

DEAR ATLH:

I suspect the trouble would come after you break into the field. A nude modeling-plus-massage job that "doesn't take much training" might require considerable later "effort," not the least of which is staying out of jail!

Maybe your husband has a right to be jealous. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I'm surprised at the findings of the teen hot line manager who said his anonymous telephone service gets more distraught calls during a new moon.

I work in an expensive department store and our usual customers are pleasant, but they are strange sometimes — when the moon is full!

This is when we get people returning two-year-old coats "only worn a bit," or maternity dresses, after the baby has arrived.

Saturday nights when the moon is full are the worst. During the last full moon weekend, an entire family of six, from Grandma on down, spent two hours in my department scrounging through the coats, tossing them on the floor, etc. Finally the mother complained that our selection was lousy (we have 2,000 coats!) and she was very disappointed in the store.

Come to think of it, I didn't consider suicide but contemplated murder as I spent the next 45 minutes picking up after them. — SALESCLERK

DEAR HELEN:

My husband (now ex) told me it was all my fault that our love life was so poor. Like a fool, I believed him, took all the blame and began to think I was hopeless. After the divorce, I met his former wife, now happily married, and we became friends. It finally came out that she too lost her self-confidence because of this man's constant criticisms. (Neither of us had been very experienced.)

Only when she was married again and to a real man, did she realize she wasn't the one with the problem. This is to let other "blamed wives" know that sometimes they're called frigid because their husbands won't admit —or don't understand — their own shortcomings. — NO LONGER AFRAID

This column is dedicated to family living so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. She will also welcome your own amusing experiences. Write to Helen Bottel care of the Independent-Journal.

Water Polo Fans Can See The Best

If you're a water polo fan, you'll get a chance to see the best competition available when the Soviet Union's Olympic gold medal-winning team is in the Bay Area this weekend for a series of three games.

On Thursday, 3:30 p.m., the Russians will oppose the San Jose State College team second-place winner in the National Collegiate Athletic Association championships last year, at De Anza College in Cupertino.

Then on Friday, the Soviets will oppose the U.S. National team, 4 p.m., at Diablo Valley College in Pleasant Hill, followed by a rematch of those two teams Saturday, 1:30 p.m., at De Anza College.

Chuck Metz, who coaches water polo and swimming at Terra Linda High School, says about one-half of the U.S. National team competed in the Olympics at Munich. Chuck has more than a passing interest in water polo, since he's a member of the Pacific Association AAU water polo committee. He's hoping Marinites will head for the Peninsula to see the games. Tariff will be $2 for students and $3 for adults.

Dave Beronio, Vallejo Times-Herald sports editor who covered the Munich Olympics, wrote the other day: "We watched the Russians (in water polo) at Munich and came away impressed with their size. Every member of the team looked big enough to play pro football. They practiced firing shots at their goalie from 10 meters out, twice the distance practiced by U.S. water poloists."

It should be quite a water poloing time, rain and all.

SAN FRANCISCO 49ER superstar wide receiver Gene Washington will be at Good Vi's men's clothing store, 3200 Northgate Mall in Terra Linda, Saturday from noon to 2 p.m. He'll be there to sign autographs and talk to the kids — even the middle-aged ones — during that two-hour stint. And judging by the mod attire I've seen Gene wear, I know he'll feel comfortable in a clothing store.

IF THERE IS such a thing as spring training this baseball season, KTIM has plans for a Monday through Friday report. from Arizona training camps of the Giants and A's. Allan B. Murray, president of the Giants Boosters of Northern California, will be telephoning in reports from Phoenix about his Giants, and will be sneaking around the A's headquarters gathering information to relay back to Marin. The 5 p.m. reports, starting Feb. 26, will include interviews with Marin people and Giants and A's ball players, says station manager Bob Dinsmore.

MILT SCHWARTZ, the furniture tycoon, and Bill Nave Jr., the bowling man, were each trying to become the young Old Man of the Sea last week when they flew to Baja California for a fishing trip in pursuit of marlin and sailfish. They came back to Marin with beautiful tans, but no fish. You can't count those sharks and pelicans which went after their baits. "It was really something getting those pelicans off the hooks," laughed Schwartz.

$2 Million Hockey Sale Is Reported

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — The Milwaukee Sentinel reported Tuesday night a group of Milwaukeeans had purchased the Ottawa Nationals of the World Hockey Association for $2 million.

The newspaper quoted a spokesman for the purchasing group as saying, "The financing has been completed by local banking sources—the bank has made its commitment."

However, a WHA official in Minneapolis said he had spoken earlier in the day to Doug Michel, one of the team's co-owners and that Michel told him that the Nationals were not conducting negotiations to relocate the team.

"Michel said they would have an announcement in Ottawa on the status of the team prior to their next home game (Feb. 20)."

The spokesman for the purchasing group, apparently headed by realtor Marv Fishman who was instrumental in bringing the National Basketball Association Milwaukee Bucks franchise here, said the deal has been kept quiet because the group "did not want to blow the deal."

The spokesman told the newspaper the transfer and sale of the franchise "will not be announced until the end of the Nationals' current season."

On Monday it was reported the Milwaukee group was negotiating the purchase of the franchise for $1.5 million with a Monday midnight deadline for closing the deal. When the deadline passed it appeared the deal had fallen through.

It was widely known the Nationals were for sale. The club was averaging only about 2,000 in attendance this season, its first in the WHA.

Nixon Sends Frisch 'Get Well' Wishes

WILMINGTON, Del. (UPI) — Baseball Hall of Famer Frankie Frisch, in critical condition with injuries suffered in a Feb. 8 automobile accident, received "get well" wishes today from President Nixon.

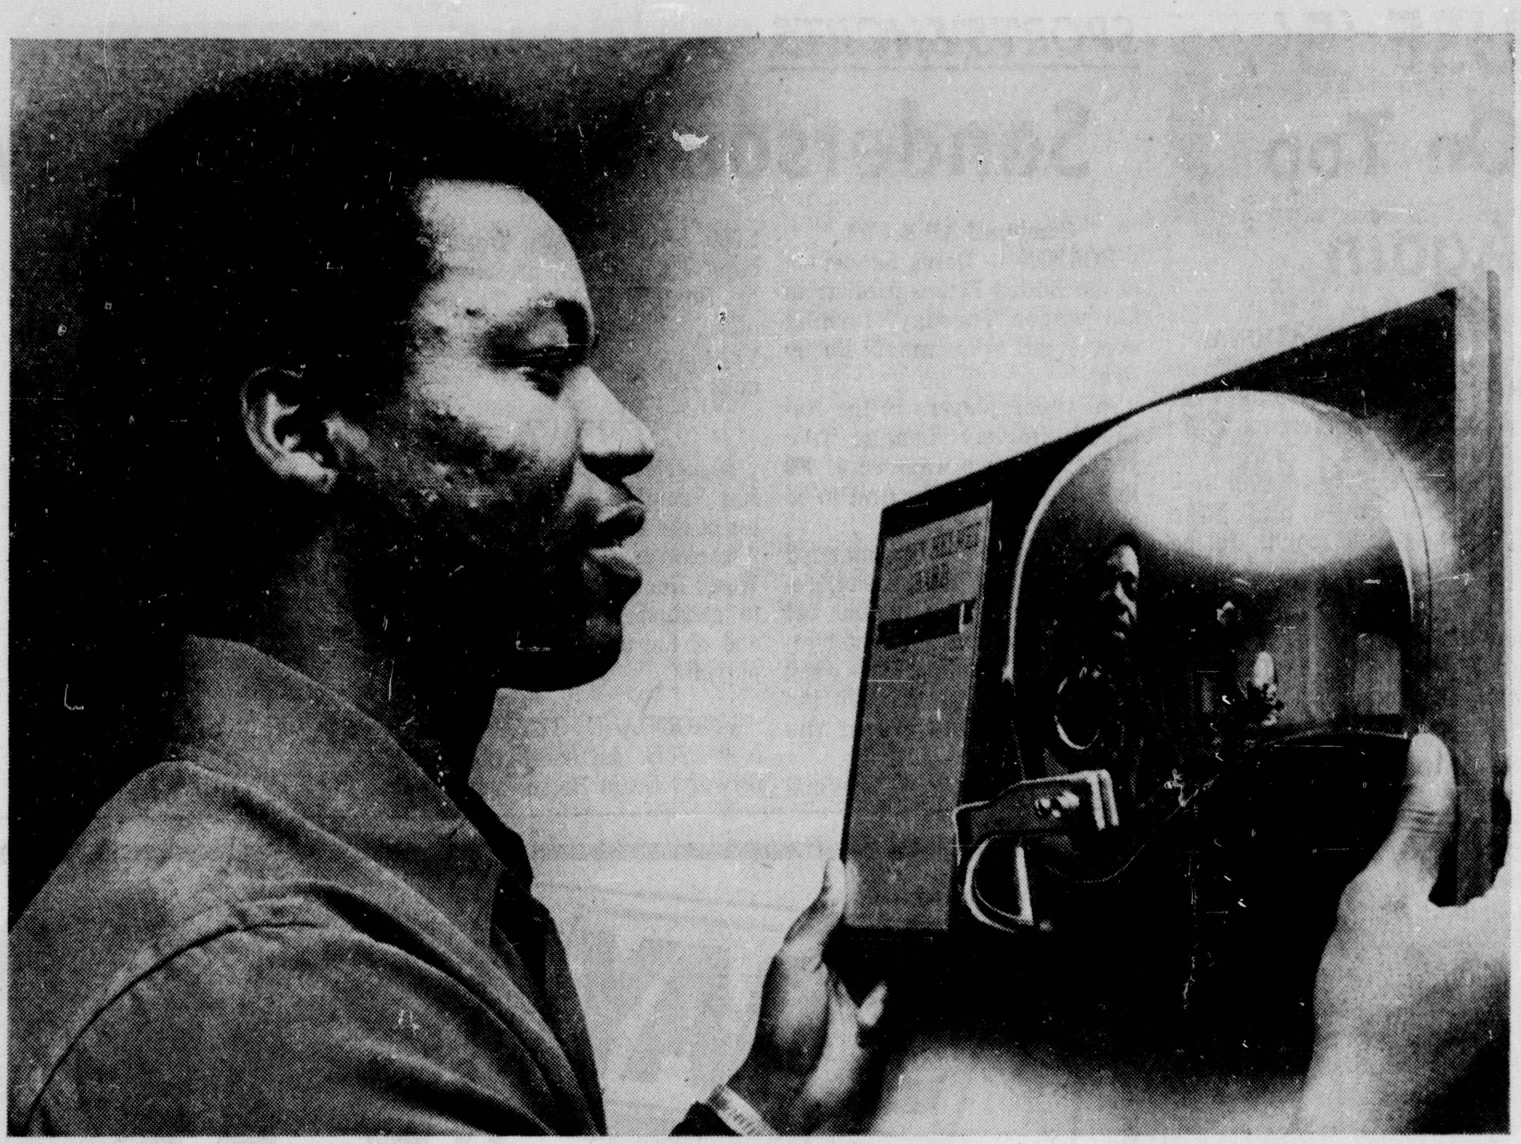
The 74-year-old Frisch is in the intensive care unit of the Wilmington Medical Center, where he is being treated for back and head injuries.

"I was sorry to hear of your injury," President Nixon wired. "It must be extremely uncomfortable for you. I am among your many friends hoping for your recovery and trust that you will be on your feet soon."

Frisch, player-manager of the 1934 "Gashouse Gang" St. Louis Cardinals, was supposed to undergo several tests Tuesday, but his weakened condition forced doctors to postpone them until he regains some of his strength.

Marin Academy Wins

Marin Academy of San Rafael concluded its first wrestling season with a 3-5 record by defeating Mt. Tamalpais School of Ross yesterday, 45-3, in a dual meet. "I'm pretty happy," said Marin Academy coach Corby Smith. "We were just starting the program off, and usually you lose them all, or close to it."



AN HONOR FOR HONOR — Former Tamalpais High and College of Marin star Honor Jackson, now a safety for the New England Patriots, is shown with a plaque awarded him last season by the New England area sports writers. He is now living in San Rafael.

SEEKING OFF-SEASON JOB

A Good Year For Jackson

By RON LENT

Honor W. Jackson Jr. has reached a critical point in his life.

The 24-year-old College of Marin product made a major transition in pro football in 1972 — from pass receiver to defensive back — but now he has one more to make.

After completing his first full season in the National Football League with New England as a strong safety, the 6-foot-2, 195-pound Jackson returned to Marin County to pursue a second career.

Speaking in the living room of his San Rafael apartment at 320 Channing Way, Jackson said: "I want to work in this area as a counselor to minorities. I came back here because this is my home . . . this is where my friends are. I have had the training and now I want to use it."

The Patriots' front office said it could arrange a counseling job with the Boy's Club in Boston, "but I didn't want it there; I wanted to come back to California."

Upon his return, the soft-spoken athlete discovered that he was virtually forgotten. "Nobody knew I was back." Undaunted, he began job-hunting but has nothing definite lined up yet. Nonetheless, the University of Pacific graduate is determined to obtain a position where he can utilize the knowledge gained from his Black Studies major and Sociology minor at UOP. Additionally, Jackson did community relations work in Stockton in 1971.

A Tamalpais High School graduate, Jackson is facing one more obstacle in his path toward a sociology career. "I've found that the jobs working with kids generally open up in the summer when school is out. In July, I'm in camp with the Patriots."

Regardless of his success in gaining a spot in counseling, Jackson is apparently secure in his role with New England. However, his pro football status was not always this solid.

Jackson reported to the Dallas Cowboys in 1971 as a ninth round draft choice. Jackson attempted to crack the talented, veteran-laden Dallas pass catching corps. "Coach (Tom) Landry told me I had the talent to make it, but I was a rookie and he wanted to go with the veterans."

So Jackson was traded on Aug. 1 with running back Duane Thomas and guard Halvor Hagen to New England for running back Carl Garrett and a 1972 draft choice, but Thomas walked out of the Patriots camp, and the deal was nullified.

John Mazur, then the Patriots coach, asked Jackson if he wanted to stay with the Patriots or return to the Cowboys. "I wasn't going to play in Dallas, so I told him I wanted to play here."

However, Jackson began the season on the taxi squad. He said he wanted to play but wasn't going to get that chance. "I had a talk with Upton Bell (Patriots' general manager at that time) and he told me to work on my concentration, because I had all the physical skills to be a defensive back.

"Up until then, I guess I was going around in a fog. I figured I would make it because I was a good athlete. But football is more than that. It is a job; you have to work at it, study films, and look for ways to improve."

Jackson apparently learned his lesson for he was selected as the Patriots' Most Improved Player in 1972. He intercepted four passes, recovered a fumble and did not allow a touchdown when playing strong safety.

He started the year as a reserve cornerback but was pressed into service when starting free safety Rickie Harris, Jackson's road roommate, was injured. Clarance Scott re-

Unanimous Victory For Lara

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Rogelio Lara of Mexico scored a unanimous 10-round decision over Yoshio Kajimoto of Japan Tuesday night in the feature bout of a card fought for relief of the Nicaraguan earthquake victims.

Lara, 117, was floored in the fifth round by Kajimoto, 117 ¾, but used a superior left hand to pile up the points and win the unanimous nod. Lara is rated fifth on the WBC list of bantamweight contenders and ninth on the WBA list.

The gross gate of $16,136 was contributed by 2,820 fans.

In two other 10-rounders, flyweight contender Famosito Gomez, 115 ¾, outpointed Hiro Hamada, 114 ½, Japan on a unanimous decision and Alberto Reyes, 129, took the decision over El Costenito Rodriguez, 18, of Mexicali.

Gomez tired in the later rounds, but his early lead stood up.

Reyes, the state featherweight champ, broke a two-bout losing streak by winning handily with superior infighting.

Bryant 'Pupil' Becomes Coach At Vanderbilt

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Georgia Tech offensive coordinator Steve Sloan, who learned his football from Paul "Bear" Bryant of Alabama was named today to lead Vanderbilt's football program out of the doldrums.

Sloan, at 28, thus becomes one of the youngest major college coaches and supplants Tennessee's 31-year-old Bill Battle as the youngest mentor in the Southeastern Conference.

The announcement was made by Athletic Director Clay Stapleton who only last week was hired to administer the entire Vanderbilt athletic program.

Sloan replaces Bill Pace who compiled a six-year mark as head coach of 22-38-3.

USE OF EPHEDRINE BACKED BY DOCTORS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The American Academy of Allergy unanimously approved a resolution Tuesday that athletes suffering from asthma should be allowed to take ephedrine treatments without disqualification.

The resolution approved by 2,000 physicians who specialize in allergies said ephedrine does not improve the athlete's endurance, but only permits an asthmatic athlete to compete on a fair and equal basis with non-asthmatics.

At the Olympics in Munich, Rick DeMont, 16, of Terra Linda, was stripped of his gold medal for winning the 400-meter freestyle swim when a post-race analysis showed that he had taken ephedrine before the race.

DeMont, who is asthmatic and had been taking the drug for years, was also barred from other competition for the U.S. swimming team.

Record, Fight Mark Rancho Cage Victory

By PAUL DWORIN

Marshall Brant scored 33 points to break the school record and lead Rancho Cotate High School to a melee-shortened 77-66 Sonoma County League basketball victory over Sonoma High before 1,000 roaring fans in Rohnert Park last night.

With six seconds left, Brant was driving toward the basket when he was hit in the stomach by Sonoma's Bill Cooper. Brant reacted by swinging at Cooper and spectators from both stands spilled onto the floor for a fight. When the fans and players were finally cleared, the referees called the game.

"I went up for the jump shot and he came in and hit me in the stomach," said Brant after the game.

The victory, which avenged an early-season 66-55 loss to the Dragons, improved the Cougars' record to 4-5 in SCL play. It also eliminated Sonoma from the league race.

The Cougars, who played perhaps their finest game of the year, led from the outset and built their lead up to 19 points with two minutes to play in the first half.

The final margin of victory did not really reflect Rancho Cotate's complete dominance, as Sonoma never got closer than nine points behind after the first few minutes of play.

"It was a helluva game," Cougar coach Mike Francis commented, though visibly upset by the fight a few moments earlier. "When we run like that, we do well. I enjoyed watching the game."

Brant, who was 13 for 17 from the floor, broke the previous school record of 32 points set by Steve Wlodarczyk last year. "It means something," he said about the record, "but not a heckuva lot. I couldn't do it by myself. The team kept on feeding it to me."

Sonoma	10	19	20	17	— 66
Rancho Cotate	19	25	15	18	— 77

Sonoma — O'Rear 8-2-18, McNeilly 2-1-5, Cooper 1-0-2 1-0-2, Christophel 0-4-4, Geddes 1-9-11, Woods 2-0-4, Russell 3-0-6, Ellis 7-2-16. Totals: 24-18-66.

Barry Comes Through

CLEVELAND (UPI) — The Golden State Warriors needed a big game from Rick Barry, and they got it.

The Warriors were leading the Cavaliers 33-29 at Cleveland Tuesday night when Barry bombed in four straight shots. Coach Al Attles pulled his blond star out of action to give him a rest and Cleveland promptly closed in to within four points again.

Attles put Barry back in again and he ignited the drive that opened up the game again and led the Warriors to a 103-90 win over the Cavs.

Barry hit 16 of 29 from the field and wound up with 36 points. Jeff Mullins added 21 and Nate Thurmond did his thing by grabbing 19 rebounds.

Cleveland coach Bill Fitch, who threw a chair in a fit of temper Sunday night, was fined $1,000 by NBA Commissioner Walter Kennedy Tuesday and was more or less a model of decorum through the contest.

The Warriors, who have won four of their last five, now return home and will learn quickly if their recent improvement is genuine. They'll host Baltimore Thursday night and the Bullets are currently one of the NBA's hottest

Colts Name New Coach

BALTIMORE (UPI) — General Manager Joe Thomas today named Miami Dolphins' offensive coach Howard Schnellenberger as the Baltimore Colts' sixth head coach in two decades.

Joe Thomas, the wheelingdealing general manager of the Colts who has been trading away players in wholesale lots, named Schnellenberger to succeed John Sandusky.

This is the third coaching change for the Colts in less than a year. Don McCafferty, now head coach of the Detroit Lions, started the 1972 National Football League season as Baltimore mentor and was succeeded by Sandusky before the campaign ended.

"I decided I wanted Howard right after I got rid of the other coaches, but I had to wait until the Super Bowl was over, Thomas said. "If you want a good man, you have to wait for him."

Schnellenberger said the things he and Don Shula did in the last three years at Miami "will have a great deal to do with what I accomplish with the Colts, but the team will not look like Miami, it will look like the new Baltimore Colts."

Schnellenberger said he would immediately begin a search for a team of assistant coaches, saying he would talk to applicants from both the pro and college ranks. Specifics of his "long term contract" were not disclosed. The new coach said Shula "was just elated" when the Miami coach learned of his former assistant's promotion.

Two other Miami coaches considered for the Colts job said earlier this week they were eliminated from Thomas' list.

Bill Arnsparger, Dolphins' defensive coordinator and defensive line coach under Don Shula at Baltimore, said he will remain in Miami.

"I'm out of the picture," said Monte Clark, Miami's offensive line coach, who said he talked with Thomas over the weekend.

Schnellenberger, 38, has the background Thomas has been seeking.

He gave up a chance to play with the Redskins in 1956 and went with the Hamilton Tiger Cats in the Canadian League.

In 1959, he headed for the college coaching ranks at alma mater Kentucky under Shula.

In 1961, Schnellenberger joined Bear Bryant at Alabama, and was offensive coach of the 1964 and 1965 national champions.

The next season, Schnellenberger began pro coaching as an assistant at Los Angeles under George Allen, and then rejoined Shula at Miami in 1970.

He's been with winners all the way and that's what Thomas wants.

Baseball Clinic Set In Novato

Three professional baseball players, including two former Novato High School stars, will help the Novato Parks and Recreation Department conduct a one-day baseball clinic for boys and girls aged 9-12 on Sunday, March 4, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at Marion School, 1705 Marion Avenue.

On hand will be John Dolinsek of the Houston Astros' chain and Tom Corder of the Los Angeles Dodgers' chain, both Novato High graduates, and Rolf Dick a player-caoch from the Minnesota Twins' chain.

The clinic will include instruction in batting, fielding, strategy and how to play each position, and will conclude with an intrasquad game. Registration can be made prior to the clinic at the Parks and Recreation Department office, Sherman and DeLong Avenues, or at the clinic from 9:30-10 a.m. on March 4. Fee is $3.

Baseball Shouting Is Louder

NEW YORK (UPI) — The shouting gets louder; the parties get farther apart; the fans get more fed up, and baseball's black eye gets more pronounced as each day passes.

Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn became the latest figure to plunge into a public shouting match between baseball's warring parties Tuesday when he denounced Marvin Miller, Executive Director of the Players Association for a "deliberate effort to create confusion over the status of the current negotiations."

Kuhn, responding to Miller's charges on Monday that the owners have threatened an illegal lockout of sping training, said that "no decision has been made by the clubs as to whether or not spring training should be opened March 1."

Last week, American League President Joe Cronin and National League President Chub Feeney ordered a shutdown of all spring training facilities until March 1, the official start of baseball's "preseason." Should that date pass and the deadlock still not be resolved, Miller claims the owners will be guilty of a "lockout" under the Taft-Hartley Law.

"Both the players and the clubs have from time to time had to ask for recesses while they sought to adjust their positions," Kuhn said in soft-pedding any likelihood of a shutdown of spring training after the March 1 date.

Hendrick Signs A's Contract

OAKLAND (UPI) — The signing of outfielder George Hendrick gives the Oakland Athletics 17 players under contract for 1973.

That leaves 19 more to go before everybody has checked in for the season.

Hendrick hit .273 at Iowa and .182 in 58 games for the A's last season, but on May 28 and 29, Hendrick hit game-winning homers.

The 195-pound Los Angeles native is considered a prime candidate for a starting outfield job this season.

Celts' Defense Beats Chicago

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The name "Boston Celtics" is, to most National Basketball Association fans, synonymous with defense and fastbreak. Last night's victory over the Chicago Bulls is a good example why.

Led by the run and gun offense of John Havlicek, who rolled up 31 points, and the rugged play of center Dave Cowens, who added 25 points, the Celts downed the Bulls 105-101 in Chicago.

But the most significant aspect of the game was the defensive job Boston's Paul Silas did on Chicago's All-Star forward Bob Love. Love came into the game riding the crest of the hottest scoring spree in the league.

In his last three outings, Love has scored 49 against Milwaukee, 49 against Kansas City - Omaha and 44 against Cleveland. That's 142 points in three games. For some people that's a whole season.

But last night's story was different and Love was reduced to mere mortal dimensions by Silas and Cowens and Boston's stiff, give-no-easy-shot defense. Love's scoring line read six field goals, two of three from the foul line and just 14 points.

And that, more than Havlicek or Cowen's scoring or the fact that they each dropped two free throws in the final 58 seconds to break a tie, is why Chicago lost.

Jo Jo White contributed 18 points to the Celtics' cause, while Silas chipped in with 15. Jerry Sloan paced Chicago with 20 points and Chet Walker and Norm Van Lier each had 19.

The victory increased Boston's Atlantic Division lead over the idle New York Knicks to 1 ½ games and kept the Celtics on top in the league percentage race with 46 wins and 12 losses.

In other NBA action Tuesday night, Milwaukee beat Detroit 110-96, Golden State downed Cleveland 103-90, Los Angeles edged Seattle 101-98, Kansas City-Omaha walloped Houston 132-118 and Portland bombed Buffalo 120-100.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and Bob Dandridge each scored 28 points to lead the Bucks over the Pistons and help Milwaukee take advantage of Chicago's loss to move six games out in the Midwest Division race.

Nate Archibald showed once again why he is a leading candidate for Most Valuable Player honors as he contributed a whopping 49-point effort to lead the Kings over the Rockets. The Kings frittered away most of a 20-point lead before reeling off 10 straight points late in the fourth quarter to secure the victory.

USF '5' On Top Again

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The University of San Francisco moved back atop the West Coast Athletic Conference Tuesday night with a 93-72 win over St. Mary's that saw Kevin Restani, Phil Smith and Mike Quick toss in 22 points apiece for the Dons.

That left the Dons at 8-1 while Santa Clara, second at 71, can knot things up again Thursday with a win against Seattle.

Meanwhile, latest Pacific Eight scoring figures showed a shuffle in the top point-makers, especially since Doug Little of Oregon was held to just two points by California's John Coughran last Saturday in a fine defensive display.

The new leader is Mike Dolven of Washington State, with a 19.9 point per game average through the first half of the campaign. Louie Nelson of Washington is second at 18.6 followed by Ray Price of Washington (18.4), Clint Chapman of USC (18.0), Ron Lee of Oregon (17.7), Bill Walton of UCLA (17.0) and Little at 16.7.

Larry Farmer of UCLA is hitting .594 from the floor while big Neal Jurgenson of Oregon State is .944 from the free throw line.

In other coast basketball contests Tuesday, two small school powerhouses collided and UC Riverside, now 18-3, downed UC Irvine 69-54. The losers are 15-11 for the campaign.

Salvino Leads Money Winners

AKRON, Ohio (UPI) — Carmen Salvino of Chicago has taken the lead in the Professional Bowlers Association money-winning standings.

Salvino won $10,000 in last weekend's Lincoln-Mercury Open in New Orleans to boost his earnings after six tournaments to $21,225.

Previous leader Barry Asher of Costa Mesa, Calif., won only $325 in the New Orleans tourney and slipped to second place with $19,861. Don Johnson of Akron is third with $14,928.

The PBA tour stop this weekend is the $60,000 Fair Lanes Open in Baltimore.

Sanderson Pays Off His Wager

Combined AP & UPI

BOSTON — Derek Sanderson of the Boston Bruins paid off an old wager Tuesday, turning over $1,000 to teammate Bobby Orr.

As young players in the National Hockey League five years ago, each wagered $1,000 that he would be the first to be married.

Orr, engaged to be married at the end of the season, reminded Sanderson of the bet when the flamboyant center rejoined the Bruins last week after a brief tour with the Philadelphia Blazers of the World Hockey Association.

Sanderson had 990 $1 bills and 1,000 pennies drawn from the bank. He made the presentation at Boston Garden Tuesday night, where the Bruins played Vancouver, beating the Canucks 7-3.

Second-Half Barrage Wrecks Petaluma '5'

SANTA ROSA — Petaluma High School fell victim to a 52-point second half barrage by Montgomery High last night to lose a 77-39 North Bay League basketball game.

The defeat dropped the Trojans into last place in the NBL with a 2-9 mark, eight games behind front-running Vallejo. Montgomery kept its slim title hopes alive with the victory to post a 7-4 record.

The Trojans were behind by just seven at halftime, 25-18, but early in the third quarter Montgomery started to fast break and ran away with the game. "We just couldn't contain their break," commented Petaluma coach Mark Reischling after the game.

Petaluma, which shot only 30 per cent from the floor for the game, had trouble penetrating the Viking zone in the second half. The Trojans also had a little trouble at the free-throw line, missing seven straight one-on-one situations.

The Vikings, who shot a blistering 60 per cent in the second half and 50 per cent for the game, was led by Tom Buzzard with 19 points. Dan Aldridge led Petaluma with nine points.

NHL ROUNDUP

Bruins Win 4th Straight Under New Head Coach

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

With his words, as well as his deeds, Armand (Bep) Guidolin gives a good indication of why he was hired recently as coach of the Boston Bruins.

In four games since he replaced Tom Johnson, Guidolin has guided the defending Stanley Cup champions to four wins. The latest was a 7-3 workout over the Vancouver Canucks Tuesday night.

"We got four quick goals in the first period, but then we relaxed," Guidolin said, perhaps with the intent of keeping his players from getting too self content. "The guys are trying to get too cute, they're too busy setting up a play when they should be shooting. You can't do that. There are clubs that can hurt you. They're not going anywhere but they can hurt somebody."

Nevertheless, the victory enabled third-place Boston to close within six points of the second-place New York Rangers, who were idle, in the National Hockey League's East Division.

In the only other two games Tuesday night, the Philadelphia Flyers overcame a two-goal deficit to club the New York Islanders, 8-2, and the St. Louis Blues beat the los Angeles Kings, 4-2.

Rookie Ross Brooks was in the Boston net, and he is now unbeaten in all eight of his starts with five victories and three ties.

Rick MacLeish scored four goals for Philadelphia, including three within a span of 6:55 during the second period to set a club record for the fastest hat trick.

St. Vincent Falls To Point Arena In 4th Quarter

St. Vincent High School of Petaluma fell apart in the fourth quarter last night to lose to host Point Arena 57-49 in a battle for first place in the North Central League II basketball standings.

The loss dropped the Mustangs' league record to 5-1, one game behind the Pirates, but the two teams will meet later this month in Petaluma.

The Mustangs had a one-point third quarter lead, but were outscored in the fourth period, 20-11. Chris Dawson led the St. Vincent effort with 20 points, while the winners were paced by Steve Binker's 18 points.

In another NCL II game last night, Tomales fell to 2-5 in the league with a 69-65 loss to host Calistoga.

Gymnastics Meet Set For Drake

Some 200 high school girls from Marin will compete in the Marin County Athletic League Optional Gymnastics Championships Saturday at Drake High School in San Anselmo, beginning at 9 a.m.

The field will be substantially the same one which vied in the MCAL compulsory meet Jan. 6, according to optional meet director Anne Scott of Drake. A compulsory meet involves doing specified exercises, while the more difficult optional meet permits gymnasts to create their own routines.

The combined scores of the top three finishers in each class will count toward the determination of the MCAL pennant-winner.

As in the compulsory meet, there will be entrants in the novice, beginner, intermediate school and intermediate open classes, but not in the advanced. Events will include balance beam, floor exercise, uneven parallel bars and vaulting.

Top performances in the optional meet are likely to be turned in by Lucia Tuffanelli of Redwood High in the intermediate school all-around, and Redwood in the team standings, the compulsory winners.

The meet is open to the public, with an admission charge of 50 cents per adult and 25 cents per child.

Thumbless Gloves For Tonight's Bout

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — European heavyweight champion Joe Bugner of England, who meets former world champ Muhammad Ali in a 12-round elimination bout here Wednesday night, won a preliminary skirmish Tuesday.

The Nevada Athletic Commission ruled Tuesday that 8-ounce gloves with encased thumbs will be used for the fight instead of gloves with a moveable thumb as originally stipulated.

Bugner and his manager, Andy Smith, had protested the use of gloves with a moveable thumb. When the Ali camp offered no serious objection to the "one-piece" glove, Nevada officials sustained the British group's protest.

"It won't make no difference," said the heavily-favored Ali. "Joe is still gonna be in heaven by seven."

The glove to be used in the fight makes it virtually impossible for a fighter to suffer an injured eye by being "thumbed."

Both Ali and Bugner were given perfect marks in final physical examinations Tuesday by Nevada Commission chief medical examiner Dr. Don Romeo. Romeo said Bugner seemed "a little jumpier" than Ali, but that his pulse and his blood pressure were "normal."

Following the examinations, Ali worked out lightly but the 22-year-old Bugner confined his final pre-fight exercises to a "long walk."

Ali's trainer, Angelo Dundee, an expert "cut-man," said the 31-year-old New Jersey fighter would be seconded by himself, Luis Sierria, Walter Youngblood and the "reinstated" Bundini Brown, with Dr. Ferdie Pacheco also in the corner.

Bugner's fight aides will include Andy Smith, "cut-man" Danny Holland, and Bill Bugner. the fighter's brother.

BOATING

By STAN DAVIES

Boat Trailers Can Cause Accidents

Most talk about boating safety concerns the boat when it's in its natural element — afloat on water. But it has become apparent after observing more and more boats speeding along the highways on trailers, that boating education must be extended to consider the problems of boating safety on land.

There's no question that a trailer boat spends the greater part of its life on land, and due to the vulnerability of its trailer, is under greater hazards than when it's on the water.

The two safety weak spots I find in trailer boating are the trailer wheels and the tie downs. Wheel trouble is usually traced to under-inflation of the trailer tires. Many drivers are still only vaguely aware that trailer tires must be inflated to much greater pressures than car tires. For instance a 570/500 by 8 six-ply trailer tire — a very common size — must be inflated to 75 pounds pressure.

Under-inflated tires run hot. The heat is transmitted to the wheel hub, which melts the lubricant, and pretty soon the bearings are running dry. Then it is a toss up which goes first, the overheated tires or the bearings.

Other weak spots are the tie-downs. Always stop after you have driven a trailer boat a few miles and check to make sure it is held down securely.

Naturally it's very important to have a trailer that fits your boat properly. If you trailer a sailboat it's imperative to have a secure mast chock or similar device for holding the mast while under way on the road.

Imagine the chaos that would ensue if a 20-foot mast broke loose while you were travelling along a freeway at 60 miles per hour.

There are many hazards in trailering and we probably get asked more quesstions on these problems than on any other single boating topic:

Q. I know a trailer must have safety chains beside the main hitch. How strong must the chains be?

A. It's set out in some state highway traffic laws in specific terms, but generally it's worded that the safety chains must be strong enough so that the trailer will be held if the primary connection is broken. They have to be quite strong.

Q. My boat trailer rig sways badly at certain speeds. How can I stop this?

A. Swaying usually indicates that the trailer is tail-heavy. Try this — adjust the load so that one tenth of the entire trailer load, or a minimum of 50 pounds, is resting on the hitch. I use a bathroom scale to test it.

Q. Obviously trailer wheels turn much faster than the wheels on a car. But how much?

A. Take for an example a car with 850 by 14 tires towing a boat trailer with 570 by 8 tires (both common sizes). While the car's wheels make 100 revolutions, the trailer's wheels do 187, nearly twice as fast. No wonder they tend to heat up.

Q. Why are trailer wheels so small?

A. They were first designed this way so that the boat could overhang the wheels, yet still keep it low enough for easy launching.

Q. Water and dirt get into the bearings of my trailer wheels. How can they be made water tight?

A. Most modern trailer hubs are water tight until they are run into cold water while hot after a long highway trip. The hot air inside contracts and sucks in dirt and water. One answer is to cool them off before launching. Splash water over them.

Q. Can I trailer a Lightning class sailboat behind one of the new tiny U.S. compact cars?

A. Yes. The British, more familiar with small cars than we are, have a formula for figuring trailer weight: the total of all car, trailer, and all loads — should not exceed twice the weight of the empty car. For instance, if your compact weighs 1,700 pounds empty, and three passengers and baggage weigh 600 pounds (total is 2,300 pounds) it means the trailer with its load can weigh up to 1,100 pounds. The Lightning weight 700 pounds and the trailer about 400. You can just make it.

placed Harris at free safety, "and I was put in at strong safety," Jackson pointed out.

The Marinite responded by blanketing tight ends and stopping running plays. With his 4.2 timing in the 40-yard dash, Jackson had ideal speed for his position. In fact, his speed enabled the Patriots to use him at linebacker and cornerback on special defensive alignments. As a cornerback, he surrendered touchdown passes to Richard Caster of the New York Jets and Marlin Briscoe of the Miami Dolphins. Jackson didn't feel badly about either catch because "Caster caught the pass from Joe Namath, and he's about the best there is."

As for Briscoe, Jackson contended that the former Denver Bronco quarterback who was converted to a wide receiver, "would beat out Howard Twilley for a starting job if he ever got the chance. Miami has a winning combination with Howard in there, so why break it up. But if Twilley ever was injured, he would lose his job to Briscoe."

After discussing the merits of stand out receivers like Briscoe, Jackson analyzed the Patriots' 1973 prospects. "I feel we have the personnel to build a winning team around. Jim Plunkett is a fine quarterback. We need a better pass rush from our defensive line and some offensive line help, but he talent is there. We'll just have to play together more to bring it out."

While the Patriots attempt to bolster their weak areas, they are apparently satisfied with the improved play of Jackson who was voted the game ball by teammates after New England defeated New Orleans, 17-10, on Dec. 10.

Jackson will be going to training camp in July as the first-string strong safety, and he hopes to be a part of the future Patriots' team which plays in a Super Bowl.

Satellite Tourney Enters Final Round

HEMET, Calif. (UPI) — Gary McCord of Riverside, Calif., and Dick McLean of Carmel, Calif., take a slim one-stroke lead into today's final round of th3 $25,000 Western Tournament Golf Association satellite tournament.

McCord and McLean shot four-under-par 68s at Quail Lake Country Club Tuesday to share a one-stroke lead over Jim Anderson of Lakewood, Calif.

Terra Linda Cager Still Top Scorer

Mark Lowey of Terra Linda High School lost three points to challenger Hoza Wright, but remains 12 points ahead of the San Marin High star in the Marin County Athletic League basketball scoring race.

Lowey scored 18 points in his team's loss to San Rafael Friday and has 191 for the first 10 games of the league season, according to statistics compiled by the Independent-Journal.

Wright, who scored 21 as his Mustangs lost to Novato, has tallied 179 this year for a 17.9 average.

Two individuals moved up one place each in the standings — Byron Stewart of San Rafael from sixth to fifth and Mike Dinehart of Tamalpais from ninth to eighth.

League-leading Drake High (8-2) retained its scoring lead with a 68.1 average and a bulge of almost nine points over Redwood. The Pirates strengthened their hand as the No. 2 defensive team by holding Marin Catholic to 45 points, and their 54.8 average ranks behind only the Wildcats' 44.5.

Seals Host Atlantans

OAKLAND (UPI) — The California Golden Seals have a little something extra going for them tonight when they host Atlanta in the opener of a six-game home stand.

It will be the first time since Jan. 12 that their injury-riddled line of Joey Johnston, Walt McKechnie and Craig Patrick has been reunited.

That trio accounted for 43 goals and 55 assists in 41 starts and the Seals' home ice record was 6-10-9 when that line was operative. Since the team's season mark is 9-36-12, it's obvious the Seals need this line functioning together.

The Seals have had only one victory in their last 17 games, but hope to start to turn it around against the Flames.

Atlanta Tuesday traded away ex-Seal Ernie Hicke to the New York Islanders. They thus cut down their offense since Hickey had 14 goals and 23 assists and had contributed one game-tieing goal and two winners.

PREP NOTES

Athletic Participation High

By LEW CODDINGTON

Drake High School athletic director Carl (Red) Brown has shed light on a sometimes shadowy topic by assembling some figures on how many Marin high school students participate in athletics.

Brown polled the athletic directors at the nine Marin County Athletic League schools (including San Domenico School for Girls in Sleepy Hollow), and produced five pages of tables breaking down student participation by season, sport, team and sex.

The study concludes that almost a quarter of Marin's students, some 22.6 per cent, participated in athletics or related activities in the fall of 1972, and that 9.6 per cent participated in the winter of 1972-73.

Arguments about whether athletic programs, and their funding, should be increased or decreased often reach a dead end when opponents say, "Yeah, well, participation is small," and advocates claim, "Participation is huge," and neither side can cite data to back up its claim. Brown has done a service by providing information in this murky area.

Brown's tables show there are 12,724 students enrolled at the nine schools. Of this number, 2,272 were members of one of the eight boys teams or four girls teams in the fall. In addition, 600 were cheerleaders, mascots, trainers, managers, statisticians, majorettes, or band members. The total involvement is 2,872, or 22.6 per cent.

Involvement drops off in the winter because the number of sports does. There are only four boys sports and one girls sport in the winter.

Of the 2,272 fall athletes, there are rougly twice as many boys (1,561) as girls (711).

Students who participate in fall sports and later in winter sports are counted once in each season. Of the 9.6 per cent in winter sports, the majority probably participated in the fall as well.

Spring sports are not included. The spring percentage probably would be about as high as the fall percentage because the number of sports increases.

San Rafael High has the largest male participation in fall sports, 282, even though it does not have the largest enrollment. It has 2,009 students, third behind Redwood (2,500) and Terra Linda (2,126). Those schools have 254 and 228, respectively.

Tamalpais, with a student body of 1,814, leads in female participation with 130. Drake has 116 and Redwood 102.

Redwood has a total of 356 male and female students involved in fall sports, with San Rafael second at 353.

Much of the participation, of course, occurs below the varsity level. Of the 793 football players in the county, 527 play junior varsity or freshman ball. Of the 469 male basketball players, 359 play Class B, Class C, freshman or junior varsity.

At Marin Catholic High, almost one student in every three is an athlete. Of the 752 enrolled, some 222, or 30 per cent, were on teams and another 21 were involved in related activities.

OVERFLOW — A number of people were unable to get into the Marin Catholic-Drake basketball game Friday night at Marin Catholic — including the commissioner of the MCAL!

George Corson reports that he drove up about half an hour before game time, contemplated the milling hundreds, and decided not to try.

WEATHER REPORT — MCAL baseball, like its major league counterpart, has problems, they are different ones. Steady rains in Marin have made quagmire of practice and playing fields.

"I can't remember when the ground was so saturated," said Al Endriss, head coach of defending champion Redwood.

Wall, Harms Lead King Realty Cagers

The San Rafael Saints ran into a Wall last night, and considerable Harm was done, as Gary Wall scored 24 points and Fred Harms 17 to lead King Realty to a 66-54 victory in the San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department adult basketball league.

In other games, Glenn Glynn dropped in 18 to lead McKee's over the Over The Hill Gang, 55-41; and Jim Tucker scored 17 and Tim Stone and Dennis Staub 12 each as Suburban Auto whipped Mike's Bar and Grill, 70-37.

MUSIC REVIEW

Spring Opera's Visual Opener

By MARTIN FRICK

SAN FRANCISCO — The St. Matthew Passion by Johann Sebastian Bach, opened the San Francisco Spring Opera Theater at the Curran last night in a production which splendidly visualized the drama inherent in the beautiful, profound music.

The opening movement is for double chorus polyphonically inviting each other to share in the grief over the crucifixion of Christ. Beneath is a richly swaying orchestra, while above them all, a boys chorus sings the folk melody Martin Luther borrowed for a congregational alternative to the Agnus Dei in the German Mass. Marred only by the bleating tone of the electronic organ which doubled the cantus firmus sung by the San Francisco Boys Chorus, the movement set the tone for what was to happen musically and visually for the next three hours.

Gerald Freedman has staged the Passion with loving devotion to the famous Avignon Pieta painting to which he returns in tableau several times. But the staging is much more than a series of tableaus. There is constant movement and interplay between the chorus and all the characters from St. Matthew's account of the last days of Jesus. Yet the impelling beauty of the staging is that it never imposes upon the music or the sacredness with which some hold the story, Indeed, a more devotional spectacle you may never see.

Freedman is fortunate to have at his disposal singers who can act — and move. Twenty-four-year-old soprano Carmen Balthrop is a dancer as well as a singer, yet her movements, as those of the other three soloists who portray the priest and communicants from the Avignon painting, are always reverent and intense. And they sing their arias and recitatives as signs welling up from deep within souls whose dearest love has been snatched from them.

Bach is unique in his oratorios for making his airs duets between voice and obbligato instruments. The thumping bass in the alto's "Have mercy on me," the wailing oboes in her "Ah, Golgotha" which Carole Walters sang with intensity although with a too-heavy vibrato.

Tenor Bruce Yarnell, who sings tomorrow afternoon for a Marin Women's Club, sang warmly, if not always crisply, the beloved air "I would be with my Jesu watching."

Perhaps Bach's most exquisite air of this genre is the duet for soprano and flute "For love now is my Savior dying," and with it, Miss Balthrop and flutist Walter Subke brought the audience to a hushed immobility.

Baritone Douglas Lawrence was a mellow, yet masculine Jesus both in voice and appearance. The narrator, or Evangelist, was sung by Richard Shadley, high in a pulpit at stage right, with a full, clear tone perfectly in keeping with his appearance as a preacher out of the Lucas Cranach paintings of the Reformation.

The chorus, trained by Byron Dean Ryan, must switch back and forth from hysterical mob to faithful congregation, and this they did with great facility. Their brief phrases were always definite. The last chorale was sung with a most stirring pianissimo, the last chorus with an almost exuberant hope as they laid to rest their Friend.

Abraham Kaplan conducted with confidence throughout, although a few of the chorales were sung in tempi which momentarily questioned his involvement.

Ming Cho Lee's 20th-Century pipe sculpture provided a timeless canopy over his delicately lighted set that was best suited for the trial scenes. The gentle russet tones of the costumes blended in perfectly.

Other people and moments should be mentioned, such as Judas' hanging mime and the tender burial ballet, as well as Robert Shaw's excellent English translation of Picander's Pietistic libretto.

The Passion will be repeated Saturday and next Thursday in repertory with Bizet's "Carmen" to be followed by two comic operas.

'Charlie Brown' Play Announced

"You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown," a musical based on Charles Schulz's "Peanuts" cartoon characters, will be presented at Old Mill School in Mill Valley Feb. 22 and 23.

The play will star fourth and fifth graders in the title roles, inlcuding David Platt as Charlie Brown, and Capron as Snoopy, Jennifer Geerlings as Lucy; Scott Sommers as Linus, Lee Bardwell as Schroeder and Cathleen Bauer as Patty.

Stephen Riffkin, a music and drama teacher at Old Mill, will direct the production, to be staged at 7:30 o'clock both nights.

MUSIC REVIEW

Ferrante And Teicher Know How To Please An Audience

By VERA M. OLMSTED

Duo-pianists Ferrante and Teicher breezed into the Marin Veterans Memorial Building last night, bringing listeners their own version of the Hollywood sound, with just the right touch of nostalgia.

There were people of all ages in the large audience, from young children to their grandparents, and this enthusiastic group was obviously familiar with the movie and Broadway hits which form the basis of Ferrante and Teicher's music. Murmurs of appreciation and bursts of applause greeted some of the favorites as soon as they launched into the first few bars.

The duo-piano team combines showmanship, a chatty manner (and a few lame jokes), and an easy way of weaving popular songs into a stylized and synchronized performance.

Ferrante and Teicher started out the first half of the program dressed in identical midnight blue tuxedos, with ruffled shirt cuffs peeking out of the sleeves. They controlled the mood partially by the use of changing lights and even a star-lit sky to give the effect of a Hollywood movie premiere.

Ferrante and Teicher's piano style puts the emphasis on the melody, with a solid, rather square harmonic accompaniment, ornamented with runs, arpeggios, glissandos and other virtuoso effects.

Fortunately they are accomplished pianists with nimble fingers. Their music is so well worked out that they hardly glance at each other while playing.

In an amusing sketch, they pretended to be one pianist looking at himself in a mirror, and they very cleverly arranged the music for "Tea for Two" to take advantage of the synchronized mirror image movements.

The two crowd favorites were Ferrante and Teicher's version of "Fiddler on the Roof," and George Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue." This last is a tricky work to play, and some of the passages were a little sloppy, but the syncopated rhythms and jazz chords, combined with the vivid lighting effects produced a real show stopper and was a welcome change after the relative sameness of the other pieces.

Ferrante and Teicher know how to entertain their particular audiences — they know what music will please them, and they know how to add a little humor to keep the concert moving. Last night's program was a satisfying excursion into the pop classic hits of past and present.

Driver Says Innocent To Charge

A Tamalpais Valley man, once convicted of making obscene movies, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a drunken driving charge stemming from a celebration of the reversal of his movie conviction.

A pretrial conference for 42-year-old Lloyd K. Downton was set for March 7.

Downton served more than 10 months in prison on charges of conspiracy and aiding and abetting an act of oral copulation before learning Jan. 30 that the District Court of Appeal had reversed his conviction.

Date should be Jan. 29.

Early the next day, the California Highway Patrol stopped him at the Alexander Avenue exit from Highway 101 in Sausalito because his car was weaving. He was arrested after failing a roadside sobriety test, according to the patrol.

More Research Spending Seen

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — Spending in the United States on research and development this year will hit $30.1 billion, an increase of about 7.5 per cent over last year, according to Battelle Research Laboratories.

The annual Battelle report said the federal government would spend almost $16.3 billion; industry about $12.2 billion; colleges and universities about $14 billion and other institutions $442 million.

The report said industry is the "fastest growing source" of support for research and development.

Fairfax Ignores Alarm On Future Town High-Risers

The Fairfax Town Council last night adopted a new zoning ordinance over the objections of one councilman who claimed the measure could permit high rise buildings in the town. (Another Fairfax Town Council story, page 1.)

Councilman Frank J. Egger claimed the new zoning regulations eliminate height limitations on buildings in residential areas by permitting exceptions to the regular 35-foot limit in granting use permits.

"I see a day when high rises will be presented to the town of Fairfax," Egger said.

The other councilmen did not share Egger's alarm. They expressed confidence that future council members would exercise discretion in setting height limits in use permits and noted that the ordinance does have sufficient controls on building heights.

Egger maintained that the ordinance was not consistent with the town's general plan and that its original intent was to meet state regulations requiring ordinances be consistent with general plans by July 1, 1973.

The Fairfax Town Council also:

ABAG — Named Councilman E. Ross Parkerson as its representative to the Association of Bay Area Governments, and Councilman Robert R. Souza as alternate.

SIGN — Ordered Town Atty. Wallace S. Myers to negotiate with attorneys representing First Federal Savings and Loan Association for removal of a projecting sign at the association's new Fairfax branch. Through an error of the design review board, the sign was permitted to be erected although it violates by two feet a town ordinance restricting projecting signs to 16 square feet.

CREEK — Heard a report by Parkerson recommending a creek control agency. He cited numerous abuses by citizens, including the building of bulkheads and dumping of wastes.

DRAINAGE — Offered town crews to help locate a private drain at Piper Court apartments and to recommend possible solutions to prevent future drainage problems. Apartment owners contend the grading of a fire road above their property caused silt to slide onto their property during heavy rains, and held the city accountable for repair of drainage culverts by the road. The property owners threatened litigation after the council denied any legal responsibility in the matter.

ENVIRONMENT — Directed the city administrator to screen consultants to compile an environmental impact report regarding construction of Canon Village and Tennis Club.

FLOOD — Introduced a proclamation that a local flood emergency exists in the town and approved an ordinance providing for an emergency organization. The actions were taken so that Fairfax residents who suffered damage due to recent storms will be eligible for federal and state disaster assistance.

INSURANCE — Held over action to apply for federal flood insurance until the next council meeting at 8 p.m. next Tuesday.

USPS Planning New Mail Slow-Up

The United States Postal Service is at it again.

The USPS's latest proposal is to have all Marin mail sent to Rincon Annex in San Francisco for sorting and dispatch. This will mean at least one day delay in delivery of mail which originates in Marin and goes to Marin addresses — even if the addressee is only a block down the street. It also will result in delays of outgoing mail, for the Rincon Annex Post Office is notorious for its slow-ups.

USPS wants to do this to provide work for a couple of mail sorting machines it has purchased with the money it should be saving by real economies.

The machines were supposed to be in operation in December. They're not in operation yet.

The same kind of delay probably will occur when they start handling the mail.

There is no sense in having a letter mailed in Marin thrown into a bag and hauled to San Francisco to await its turn at the sorting machines — or to be thrown out by the machines because they cannot "read" its handwritten address, and then be sorted by hand by a San Francisco mail clerk. There is less sense when the lette is addressed to someone here in Marin and could reach the addressee in less time than it takes it to be sorted in San Francisco.

San Rafael Postmaster Hugh Cassidy doesn't think much of the idea. He doesn't say much about it, because he has to be careful lest the U.S. Postal Service replace him as postmaster. But he doesn't like it.

Cassidy, you see, doesn't have a congressman's protection any more. When he was named postmaster, it was by congressional appointment. But creation of the U.S. Postal Service did away with that. Now postmasters are hired by the hired brass that runs the U.S. Postal Service — not one of whom is answerable to the voters.

When USPS was being promoted in Congress, the big argument for it was that it would do away with political appointments. There was too much politics in the post office, claimed proponents of change.

Maybe there was, but it didn't apply to Cassidy. He had worked his way up through the civil service ranks as a career postal employee and was assistant postmaster in San Rafael under Postmaster Warren Williams before getting the appointment on Williams's retirement.

He knows the business. He also knows that mail service is of vital concern to the public.

The people who run the U.S. Postal Service don't seem to know that. They treat mail like it was sacks of coal being shipped during the summer for eventual sale to customers in the fall.

The postmasters in Marin can't do anything about the proposed change on March 12. Only the people can do anything about it — by demanding that our senators and congressmen put a stop to this nonsense of having the mail service controlled by appointees who are answerable to no one.

Reagan Ready To Take Tax Program To People

By RUS WALTON

Governor Reagan is now starting to unfold some of the details of his long range tax reduction and spending control proposal. It is designed to retard the growth and cost of government over the next 15 years and to put a lid on the state's tax take.

Basically, the theory is to use the state's expanding economy and rising total personal income (about 8 per cent a year) to finance tax reductions while providing retarded but sufficient growth money for state government.

IN A NUTSHELL, these are the main points of the Reagan plan:

A limitation on total state taxes geared to a declining percentage of California's total annual personal incomes;

(The proposed 1973-74 budget of $9.2 billion will take about 8.75 per cent of the anticipated $110 billion in total personal incomes. Reagan's plan would reduce that percentage by .1 of one per cent a year over a period of years until a limit of 7.15 per cent was reached. The tax take would be frozen at 7.15 per cent by constitutional amendment.)

A long-term rollback of state spending geared to a retarded annual increase in state revenues.

(The Reagan administration estimates that if state spending continued at its present rate of growth, by 1989 the annual state budget would be $47 billion. Under Reagan's proposal, the budget could not be more than $27 billion in 1989-90.)

Commitment of any surplus revenues to reduced state taxes or tax rates.

(The legislature would be empowered to determine the state's tax "mix" — what portion of the total take would come from sales, income and other taxes.)

A two-thirds vote requirement in the legislature to increase any tax rates;

A continuing ceiling on local property taxes (as enacted in SB 90), and

The formation of an economics estimate commission to project the levels of maximum state spending each year.

(That commission would comprise the state controller, the legislative analyst and the finance director. Each October the commission would estimate the state's total personal income figure for the next year. The governor would be required to keep his proposed budget total under the mandated percentage of that estimate.

(Each April the commission would update its estimates of total personal incomes and the legislature would be required to keep its revised budget total under the percentage limit.)

THE PLAN ALSO provides for emergencies. A fund equal to .2 of one per cent of total personal incomes would be established. That money could be used to provide state assistance in time of disaster.

Also, the legislature, by a two-thirds vote, could raise a specific tax to meet an emergency (such as increasing the gasoline tax to replace roads destroyed by a flood). That increase could remain in effect only until the next election. If still more emergency funds were needed, a proposed extension of the tax hike would be submitted to the voters.

The unique long-range tax reduction and limitation plan is the work of a special task force headed by Lewis K. Uhler and Charles Hobbs, governor's assistants.

Some of the nation's top economists served as advisers to the task force: Milton Friedman, University of Chicago; Peter Drucker and Craig Stubblebine, Claremont College; Mike Martin, CSU-Hayward; Dan Orr, UC San Diego, and 14 others.

Amendments to the state constitution will be required to put the plan into operation.

Governor Reagan is submitting the proposal to the legislature knowing that Assemblyman Bob Moretti and State Sen. George Moscone and others will try to make it a political football.

But, there is another way to get the tax reduction proposal to a vote of the people: the initiative proposition.

The governor is ready to do just that — probably on a special ballot in November, 1973.

Devaluing Dollar Furthers Inflation

People who think the devaluation of the dollar has no effect on our internal economy neglect the fact that it causes the price of foreign made goods to go up and it allows foreign nations to bid up the price of American made goods with their supplies of unwanted devalued dollars. The effects of this letter are demonstrated by what the Russian wheat deal has done to American bread prices and what sales of lumber to the Japanese has done to our lumber costs.

A currency is devalued when it is debased by inflation. Inflation is not caused by rapacious unions or by greedy business men, but by government deficit spending for they then print more money to make up the difference increasing the supply of money relative to goods, that is, prices go up.

Few question Mr. Nixon's efforts to slow federal spending but his ordering of priorities is surely questionable. It is utter madness to divert or halt money aimed at solving festering social problems while doing little or nothing to reduce money which feeds an already overgrown and bloated military establishment. Mr. Nixon seems to be unaware that his actions abet the efforts of those who will gain by renewed social upset and turmoil.

Preliminary Lessons From Vietnam War

Contrary to Roscoe Drummond's exhortation ("What Are Vietnam's Lessons? It's Time to Start Finding Out"), it is probably too soon to draw any conclusions on the Vietnam War. Still, certain preliminary ones may not be inappropriate.

1. It is extremely difficult to arouse enthusiasm over fighting a war — even a just one — to preserve the status quo. Lincoln, until he issued the Emancipation Proclamation, found this out in 1861-62.

2. It is extremely difficult to impress people with the necessity of fighting a brush-fire war in order to prevent a larger war. They respond more enthusiastically to an attack or to an obvious threat after it is too late. The western allies found this out in World War II.

3. In situations affecting vital interests, a future administration may have to decide whether it is willing to fight an undeclared war and put up with the seditious conduct that characterized the actions of opponents of this one or to declare war in circumstances when such a declaration might set off a conflagration.

4. There exists in this country a significant liberal minority which refuses to believe that "Communist totalitarianism represents the greatest existing threat to freedom and justice in the world" (quote by national secretary, Social Democrats, USA). This minority resembles its opposite ideological counterpart in Western Europe in the '30s that refused to recognize the threat of Nazi and Fascist aggression.

5. There exists in this country a smaller but still important minority that is convinced that love of peace will guarantee it. (cf. British and French pacifists of the '30s).

6. If the Communist powers resume their former policies of aggressive expansion, further confrontations between this or future administrations and these minorities will be inevitable.

Give Some Thought To The Newspaperboy

It has often been mentioned that a seasoned, self-made man started out early in his career as a boy, delivering newspapers. Possibly the qualities that made the man were built up from that source. Among such steadfast remarkable men came Senator Percy from Illinois, even now considered presidential timber.

Every phase of the newspaper business has its pangs of discouragement, yet few come to the attention of the subscribers, least of all the buffs and indignities showered on the newsboys by some well-meaning but thoughtless customers. In spite of all this I have never heard a newsboy utter a complaint.

I suppose most of us just take it for granted that our paper will always be there on time — not taking into consideration that some dog could have gotten to it first — or that in the case of the terrible drenching rains recently, in spite of the precaution to protect it with a waterproof wrapper we might still find a damp newspaper occasionally.

In defense of these hard-working youngsters, especially in these wet, rainy days, with their water-soaked clothes, dodging traffic along the highway, often delivering on foot when their bicycle is out of commission, please believe that he takes his service to you seriously, and when you are snugly seated in your favorite chair in a nice warm living room, enjoying your local newspaper, do give some thought to that very young business man out there on the street who made this convenience possible.

THE NEEDLE

By HAROLD COFFIN

The valentine you forgot to send your wife today is known as an installment-plan valentine. You'll pay for it the rest of your life.

A Scotch valentine is one that arrives in a postage-due envelope.

An American valentine is one that doesn't arrive — thanks to our new and improved Postal Service.

Chinese valentines are like chop suey. It's difficult to figure out what's in 'em.

ROSCOE DRUMMOND

Nixon Vs. Congress Showdown Really Over Taxpayers' Dollars

WASHINGTON — The earnest, honest, heated confrontation between Congress and the President is a healthy thing.

It will show Congress what it will have to do for itself to regain its eroded powers. It will show Mr. Nixon that there is a point, which he will have to respect, where the authority of the presidency ends and that of Congress begins.

The heart of the confrontation is not executive privilege nor failure of a President to consult with Congress nor "presidential dictatorship." It is money. Congress wants to spend more and the President wants to spend less. Congress is determined to have the President spend everything it appropriates. Mr. Nixon is determined to impound appropriations he deems wasteful and inflationary — as Presidents have done for a long time.

CONGRESSIONAL OPPONENTS — mostly Democrats but some Republicans — of the President's actions depict Richard Nixon as a miserly Scrooge intent upon grinding down the poor and heedless of social needs. They call him "ruthless." They say he is "fiendishly appealing to the worst instincts of the American people."

But how can a $268.7 billion Nixon budget — which is itself a 7.5 per cent increase over this year — be a Scrooge-minded budget designed to suffocate social welfare: It isn't.

It is all to the good that President Nixon has chosen this moment to force Congress to do something which comes exceedingly hard: to re-examine programs to see whether the need for them continues, whether they are working, whether they ought not to be brought to a timely end.

ALL THE TEMPTATIONS which pressure Congress to spend, spend, spend make it lose control of its appropriating and budget-making process. It starts programs without knowing what they will cost or how they will mount. Its appropriating arm doesn't speak to its revenue arm. It never sets a spending ceiling on itself and is now horrified that the President is setting a ceiling without asking Congress where he should cut.

Obviously, impoundment can reach a point where it is an abuse of an historic practice. Democratic members of Congress may feel that Mr. Nixon has been using it pretty high-handedly, but it is not being used in a vacuum for the fun of it.

It is being used because Congress with higher spending would fuel inflation without higher taxes.

SOME CONGRESSIONAL leaders talk about increasing revenue through plugging tax loopholes which were put there by Congress in the first place. But no revenue to be raised through tax reform would come near to what Congress would like to spend.

It is well that this confrontation between Congress and the President comes at a time when the economy is strong, when employment is rising and inflation is declining. It comes at a time when less federal spending is fiscally prudent.

Perhaps more important, it comes at a time when the unpopularity of increased taxes is at least equal to — if not greater than — the popularity of increased spending.

This is an argument the President uses to defend his $268.7 billion budget, which he doesn't dare allow to go any higher. The issue: If Congress is going to spend and spend and spend, it will have to tax and tax and tax.

This argument will increasingly weigh against the big spenders. In the end Congress will impose upon itself what it doesn't want the President to impose upon it — budgetary responsibility.

The 'Canny Consumer' Won't Stave Off That Energy Crisis

WASHINGTON — After a series of fake snow warnings and frost-free tennis-playing midwinter weekends, this part of the country has settled in for at least a few days of cold weather, and with it returns the subject of the great energy crisis.

Not that it had gone away, not on the balmiest afternoon, for the good reason that the oil and gas and utility companies have a vast vested interest in keeping it excited to maximum urgency. Advertising lavishly on one hand to encourage more users of their brand of energy, they are lobbying and advertising lavishly on the other to convince the government and the users that there is a terrible shortage — and therefore prices must go up and up.

BARRY COMMONER, the St. Louis biologist who foresaw all this years ago, told a senate committee that the United States is following a "blind, planless energy program that is an open invitation to disaster." He was both right and wrong: As far as the government and the general public are concerned, it is blind and planless, all right. But on the part of the suppliers, it is as coolly calculated as any public relations campaign in history.

If the companies get away with it, if their alarms are accepted as free of excess profit motive and their price increases go through without effective challenge, then an old truism about the American public can be laid to rest forever.

In fact, it was never particularly true to start with. It is the one about the canny American consumer making his way through the free competitive marketplace, keeping prices and product quality in line with buying resistance here, adaptation of lifestyle there. The real truth is that that consumer has been jumping through the manufacturers' hoop for years, demanding this and that next product as if his life depended on it — when the month before he did not know it even existed.

In the energy situation, there is an opportunity for the consumer to thumb his nose at his longtime manipulators, despite their multi-million-dollar propaganda effort. I do not predict we will do it, but the chance is at hand. At least it would be a gesture.

COMMONER SUMMED it up by saying we should wear sweaters indoors and start riding more trains. Turning the thermostat down, he said, would "help end our enslavement to the oil companies" and enable us to "look them in the eye and talk back to them." The unfortunately timed Penn Central strike may have embarrassed him a bit on his train-riding suggestion, but it should not have.

No less than 25 per cent of all the energy used in the country goes into transportation. The most wasteful form of transportation (measured in gallons per hundred passenger miles) is the airplane; next most is the automobile or truck. For intracity travel, the car is most wasteful, with the bus using less than half as much fuel to move the same passenger load. Between cities, the car uses less than half the airplane, but both bus and train use less than half the car. And it is hardly necessary to point out where walking and bicycling fit into the equation, as to expense, energy consumption and pollution.

Nearly a fifth of all energy used in this country goes to space heating of buildings. That is where turning the thermostat down about five degrees comes in, and with it adequate home insulation, which can cut the average domestic heating bill by 40 per cent each winter. Turn those suggestions around in the summer, when overuse of inefficient air conditioning has become habitual.

Air conditioners and other electric appliances in homes largely account for more than doubling total electricity consumption between 1960 and 1970, a period when each individual home used 84 per cent more electricity. Chalk that up to electric carving knives, toothbrushes, three TV sets, clothes dryers and frostless refrigerators (which use half again as much as the old style). The opportunities are rife for restraint at home.

YET WHEN IT COMES down to it, the oil, gas and utilities people know damn well they will prevail if effective resistance depends on the American consumer's curbing his self-indulgence.

That is why the only rescue is for the federal government to impose a rational energy policy in which the consumer takes precedence over the industries. And that, in turn, is why you might as well figure on shelling out a bigger share of what you have left after taxes to save the poor, starving oil, gas and utilities companies.

THE PEOPLE'S SCHOOLS

Which Children Denied An Equal Education?

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

Is "equal educational opportunity" dependent on equal spending for schools, as contended in the famous Serrano case?

Among the myriad figures in the State Department of Education's 590-page report on the California state testing program for 1970-71, released last week, are some which cast considerable doubt on that premise.

When Office of Economic Opportunity lawyers filed suit against the state in behalf of Joseph Serrano and others late in 1968, they claimed the plaintiffs' children were denied equal educational opportunity because the amounts spent per pupil in their school districts — despite high tax rates — were far below the amounts spent in some other districts.

As examples, they cited Baldwin Park and Beverly Hills Unified School Districts, both in Los Angeles County.

BEVERLY HILLS is one of the highest spending districts in California. Baldwin Park is among the lowest spending unified districts (those which include both elementary and high schools). Yet the school tax rate in Baldwin Park is considerably higher than in Beverly Hills, because of much lower assessed valuation per pupil.

This means, contended the OEO lawyers, that children in Baldwin Park and other districts with low assessed valuation are denied an equal education. Six justices of the California Supreme Court agreed with their contention.

Tables in the statewide testing report show that Beverly Hills spent $1,157 per pupil on costs of instruction (not the total cost) in the 1970-71 school year. Baldwin Park spent $525.

BEVERLY HILLS, however, was not the highest spending district in the state. More per pupil was spent by three other unified school districts and eight elementary school districts.

Baldwin Park was not the lowest. Dozens of elementary school districts spent less per pupil, as did 18 other unified districts — two of them right in Los Angeles County.

Although comparison of the education that school districts provide is difficult, a pretty reliable index — since reading is essential to all other studies — is provided by reading test scores. Whether a district is doing a good job may be gauged by comparing the rank of its readers in first grade with that in 12th grade.

IN THE 1970-71 state reading tests, Baldwin Park pupils ranked 52 (just above the state median of 50) in the first grade, but fell to 10 in 12th grade. Beverly Hills pupils started out at 86 in first grade and ranked 97 in 12th grade, an 11-point gain.

Borrego Springs district in San Diego County was one of the three unified districts that outspent Beverly Hills. Its first graders ranked 13, but its 12th graders ranked 60, a 47-point rise.

The story was different, however, in the other two unified districts that outspent Beverly Hills: Berkeley and Emery, both in Alameda County. Berkeley ($1,168 per pupil cost of instruction) ranked 88 in first grade reading but only 31 in 12th grade. Emery ($1,684 per pupil) ranked 88 also in first grade but only 1 — the lowest possible — in 12th.

AMONG UNIFIED districts spending less per pupil than Baldwin Park, six slid downward between first and 12th grades — though none so far as did Baldwin Park itself.

However, nine others held about even, with less than 10 points difference in their rankings in first and 12th grade reading. These included Linden district in San Joaquin County, which spent the least per pupil on instruction of any unified district at $468, or $57 less than Baldwin Park.

And three unified districts spending less per pupil than Baldwin Park showed exceptional reading improvement from first to 12th grade. Fairfield-Suisun in Solano County ranked 49 in first grade and 90 in 12th. Vacaville, also in Solano, ranked 55 in first and 79 in 12th. But the most dramatic record was that of Templeton district in San Luis Obispo County, whose pupils ranked 5 in first grade and 96 (just one point below Beverly Hills) in 12th.

ARE THE CHILDREN in Templeton denied equal education?

Or is equal education being denied those in the Emery district, which outspent Beverly Hills by $527 per pupil — an amount, incidentally, $16 more than the total per pupil spent on instruction in Templeton?

Land Use Is Now Top Ecological Concern

By ROBERT CAHN

The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

Land use and energy have become the overriding concerns of American environmentalists.

A Christian Science Monitor survey of environmental leaders across the U.S. shows that what worries them most today is no longer air and water pollution — the chief problem cited in a similar poll three years ago.

Asked to list in order the five major environmental issues now facing the nation, 71 per cent of those polled selected land use among them. Forty-six per cent gave land use first or second priority out of the five.

Energy consumption policy was listed in the first five by 57 per cent of the experts. It was given first or second priority by 36 per cent of the environmental leaders.

Other issues chosen among the five leading problems are water pollution (43 per cent); air pollution (39 per cent); population control and management (29 per cent); transportation (25 per cent); solid-waste disposal (14 per cent); and national forest management and timber-cutting policy (14 per cent).

"The nation's first objective should be an unbiased assessment of national energy requirements and how essential needs can be met with the least environmental impact and with the least reduction in the quality of living," said Dr. Lois Sharpe of the League of Women Voters of the U.S.

William E. Towell of the American Forestry Association said he still felt air and water pollution was the top issue "because we have not yet cleaned up a single river or city."

Asked to list environmental legislation that should receive priority in the new Congress, a majority of those polled felt that the emphasis should be placed on passing the environmental legislation Congress has had before it the past two years rather than starting bills in new areas. The one bill most often mentioned was the proposed national land-use policy act.

Congress now has opened hearings at which federal leaders are testifying to the urgency of that legislation.

In answer to a question concerning compliance with the environmental-impact statement procedure of the National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA), almost all of those replying to the questionnaires said federal agencies were not adequately following the act.

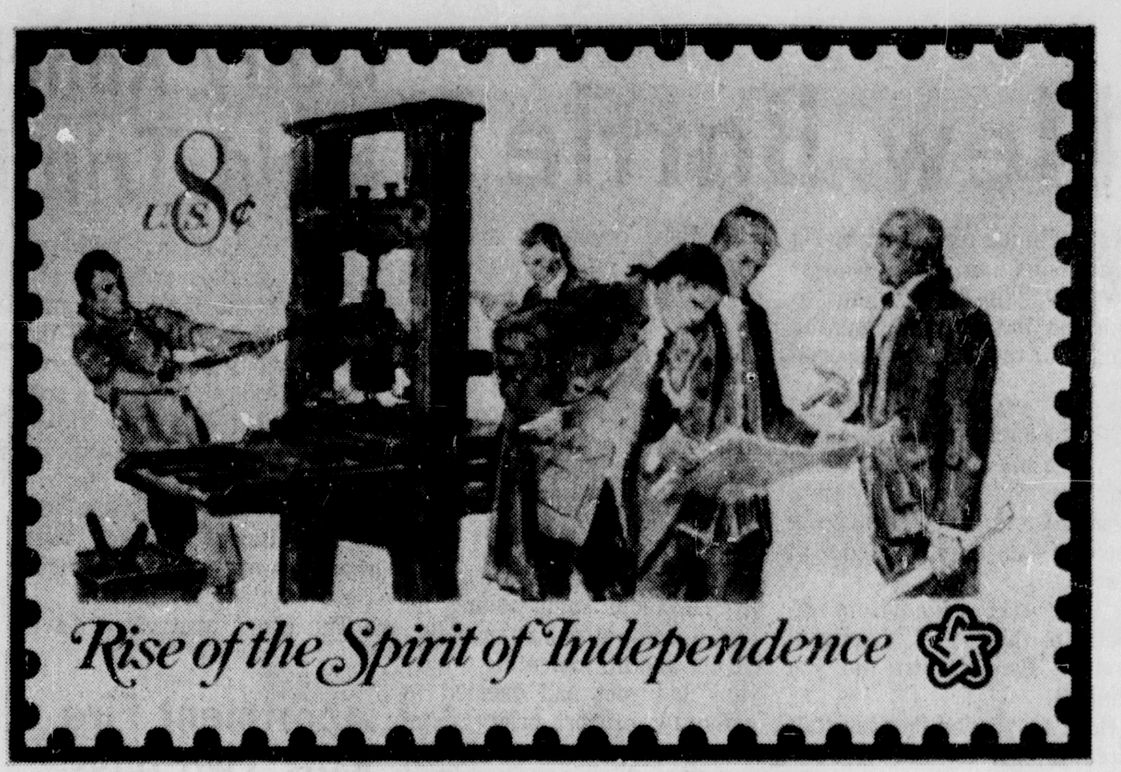
Several citizen leaders stressed dissatisfaction with the sincerity of the agencies and charged they were not actually using the act as a tool for bringing environmental planning into decision-making. Others said members of Congress should be urged not to weaken the NEPA with amendments.

Section 102 of the act requires federal agencies to analyze the short-term and long-term impacts of "major" actions they are considering which "significantly" affect the quality of the human environment. They must consider economic and social impacts. And they must consider possible alternatives to the proposed action, even the alternative of no action at all.

In effect, the law requires federal agencies to add the environmental criterion to all the others they have traditionally used to test their proposed actions before making final decisions.

"In many instances too little attention is given to potential alternatives and the essentiality of the proposed project is too frequently taken for granted," said Raymond C. Hubley Jr., executive director of the Izaak Walton League of America. "Fuzzy projects should be rejected to demonstrate the NEPA is for keeps."

Most agencies lack the ecological expertise to do an adequate job, commented Dr. Frank W. Blair, president of the American Institute of Biological Sciences. "Predictive modeling such as is emerging from the international biosphere program would provide the best impact statement," says Dr. Blair.



NEW POSTAGE STAMP

Communications in colonial times is the theme of a new stamp which goes on sale Friday at Portland, Ore., in conjunction with the International Postage Stamp Exhibition. Design of the stamp continues postal recognition of the bicentennial of the American Revolution. It points to the role of the printer and pamphleteer in uniting the patriots. Background of the stamp is gray, with the words "Rise of the Spirit of Independence" in red at the bottom and U.S. 8c in blue at top left.

Revolutionaries In Ireland Split

By PETER C. STUART

The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

DUBLIN, Ireland — The coffee-colored door at 2A Lower Kavin Street, worn pale by the hands of countless republican revolutionaries, opens no more.

The only caller these days at the offices of the Sinn Fein political wing of the "Provisional" Irish Republican Army is a blue-shrouded police officer.

The explanation is thumbtacked to the door — a government order entitled "Offenses against the state act, 1939."

Headlines at a newsstand a few doors away, meanwhile, suggest the start of a similar crackdown against extremists on the other side in Northern Ireland — British lockup for the first time of militant Protestant loyalists.

These twin initiatives, south and north of the border, raise the question: just how strong today are the loyalist and republican private armies?

It's a question increasingly relevant as the warfare in Ulster's streets has suddenly worsened.

That locked door in Lower Kevin Street may tellingly symbolize the present plight of the republican group with the longest and bloodiest involvement in the three-year struggle: the Provisional IRA.

Sean O'Bradaigh, Sinn Fein publicity director and younger brother of its jailed president, Ruairi O'Bradaigh, insists in an interview here that organizational health is "the best in years and years."

But evidence from Ulster — the front line, so to speak — strongly suggests otherwise:

The "Provos" have mutely conceded their inability to defend their Andersonstown stronghold in Belfast from roving gunmen by letting the community leaders plead for British army roadblocks, then offering not to attack the soldiers.

A minority vigilante group, the Catholic Ex-Servicemen's Association, is shopping for weapons in the Irish Republic rather than continuing to rely on armed protection from the Provisionals.

The army and police report some recent arms discoveries to be more permanently stashed "further down the well," as one official puts it — as if the Provos were resigned to lying low for a spell. (The smaller "official" wing of the IRA has observed a cease-fire since May.)

The apparent ills of the Provisionals cannot be diagnosed with the glib observation that increasing numbers of them now lie in jail or cemeteries.

For the Provos survived — even flourished — in 1971 and 1972 when scores were herded into Ulster internment camps without benefit of trial.

In the South the Provo command has been arrested or driven underground by the suddenly intolerant Irish Republic.

But most important — perhaps out of resentment over last year's indiscriminate campaign, or simply war weariness — these new challenges are failing to rally the Provisionals' old grass-roots sources of replenishment.

The troubles of the Protestant loyalist private army — the Ulster Defense Association (UDA) and the smaller, more tightly organized companion corps, the Ulster Volunteer Force (UVF) — seem trivial by comparison.

The UDA lacks money and equipment rather than manpower.

The real professionals linked with the UDA's reputed 80,000-man "army" are the 500 or fewer joint members of the Ulster Volunteer Force — the oldest (60 years) and most undercover loyalist paramilitary group. Like the IRA it is illegal in Northern Ireland.

But resurgence of the hard-line militarists such as the UVF, in the judgment of seasoned observers, may be shoving the UDA toward an open split with its politically minded elements, of whom the exiled Fogel is but one.

The Ulster struggle abounds in such splits — the most conspicuous being the 1969 division of the IRA into ideological "Officials" and brute force "Provisionals."

Action for '76

With the nation's 200th birthday just 3 years away, the Department of Interior has decided to expand and redesign its environmental action campaign. Heading the program is "Johnny Horizon '76." Johnny's motto is "Let's Clean Up America For Our 200th Birthday." Johnny Horizon encourages cleaning up our environment by individual action and community projects. Johnny Horizon '76 environmental kits have been sent to many schools. To promote recycling of paper products, one large Western grocery chain distributed a million paper bags with a Johnny Horizon '76 action message on them.

DO YOU KNOW — Who is the Secretary of Interior?

Oil Shortage May Result In Canadian Export Curb

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

Because of an oil shortage at home, Canada may have to restrict the export of Canadian oil to the United States.

Energy Minister Donald Macdonald told Parliament there would be plenty of oil to fill Canadian requirements in February, but he could not yet foresee the situation in March.

The government, he said, had asked private oil companies to prevent any shortage in Canada. If they could not reach satisfactory agreement among themselves to protect Canadian consumers, export controls would be imposed.

Until recent years the United States kept a tight ceiling on Canadian oil imports. Now the former quotas have been relaxed to the point where the international pipelines are operating at full capacity.

The Canadian government expects that the remaining American restrictions will soon be removed altogether. But already they are almost irrelevant to Canada's many-sided energy problem.

Beginning to study it in depth, a parliamentary committee was disturbed by the National Energy Board's report that in the late 1970's Canada might not be able to meet its own projected needs and continue oil exports at their current volume.

This forecast is based on the nation's known reserves of about eight billion barrels. It does not include possible discoveries in the Arctic and on the Atlantic coastal shelf nor the huge but costly potential of the northern Athabasca tar sands.

Viewing the long-term prospects, the New Democratic party in Parliament suggested the construction of a pipeline from the western oil fields to serve eastern Canada. At present only the area west of Montreal is supplied by Canadian oil, the remainder by foreign imports.

The government has rejected a trans-Canada pipeline because it would raise the price of oil in the east and become obsolete if an offshore field were found on the Atlantic Coast, now under intensive exploration.

While pondering all those internal problems, Canada has been discussing with the United States the risk of a joint oil shortage during some future emergency.

Ottawa refuses to consider the American government's plan for a pooling of continental energy resources, but Washington fears that eastern Canada might need scarce American oil if overseas supplies were cut off.

These talks have reached a stalemate for the time being, Macdonald says. They will soon be continued, however, with Canada seeking an agreement by which both nations would promise their "best efforts" to guarantee mutually adequate supplies in any crisis such as a war.

Consumer Plan Stirs New Battle

By ERIK M. INGRAM

The issue of creating a county consumer protection agency continued to provoke controversy yesterday as supervisors in sharply worded exchanges discussed the legality of a meeting at which the Marin County Human Rights Commission withdrew its sponsorship of such an agency.

With Supervisors Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. calling the commission's abandonment politically motivated, and Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste accusing him of making a mountain out of a molehill, further debate on the whole matter was set for March 13. At that time an ad hoc committee of consumer advocates is to present another consumer protection proposal.

The supervisors' exchange followed weeks of debate on the proposed consumer protection agency, to which several chambers of commerce voiced strong opposition.

As reported two weeks ago, a quorum of the human rights commission met secretly under the guise of a committee and decided to withdraw support from a pilot program, four months in the making by the human rights department.

Commission Chairman Ernest J. Gray — a Baptiste appointee — later said he considered the meeting proper under the Ralph M. Brown Act, the state's anti-secret meeting law which prohibits quorum meetings without proper public notice. No notice had been given.

Arrigoni told fellow supervisors yesterday he was convinced the commission had met illegally and questioned why it would withdraw support after it had originally given support.

"This has become a political football and I intend to get to the root of it," he said.

His comments came as Gerald J. Hood, executive director of the human rights department, outlined a decision by his commission at a subsequent meeting again directing him to withdraw the proposal from the agenda of the board of supervisors . . ."

Hood added that the commission reasoned that his office was not staffed to take on a pilot program to determine the need for consumer protection in Marin.

"Your staff is advisory directly to this board," Arrigoni said to Hood. "What do you think?"

Hood responded that his staff already receives many consumer complaints and could handle the pilot program on a temporary basis. "But the commission feels this is something we shouldn't get involved in," he said.

Supervisor Gary T. Giacomini, who agreed with Arrigoni on the need for such a program, said he was "disturbed the commission supported this to begin with . . . and after four months of staff time (developing the program), now it's no damn good."

He added he couldn't support the commission "attempting to weigh the political climate . . . and then chickening out."

Baptiste countered that the staff could have brought the proposal to the board anyway "if they thought it was so important." Baptiste, who said he disagreed with creating a consumer protection office with investigative powers, added that the controversial meeting of the rights commission wasn't illegal.

"Yes it was and I can prove it," Arrigoni said, adding he had a copy of a human rights memorandum indicating a quorum had met and decided to withdraw support prior to the commission's regular meeting last Thursday.

At that point Supervisor Michael Wornum moved the matter be tabled to the March 13 eeting when the ad hoc committee is expected to appeal.

"You want to make a mountain out of a molehill," Baptiste snapped at Arrigoni, who said he would bring in the documents indicating commission Chairman Gray and others had met illegally.

After Arrigoni had left the room, Baptiste moved rapidly to have a vote taken on Wornum's motion to table and the motion passed 4-0.

Supervisors Select Four Likely Open Space Areas

Marin County supervisors yesterday designated four areas for possible acquisition as open space this year and indicated other areas may be added later.

Sites selected for further study are the Northridge area of Larkspur, Corte Madera and Mill Valley; Big Rock Ridge in Lucas Valley; Cascade Canyon in Fairfax and the ridge dividing San Rafael and Sleepy Hollow.

Selection of the four areas came as supervisors, acting as directors of the new regional park district, reviewed a "shopping list" of six proposed sites recommended by Pierre W. Joske, general manager of the district, and a committee of the parks and recreation commission.

Two other sites recommended in the "shopping list" and placed on the back burner for the time being, are Ring Mountain on the Tiburon Peninsula and Wolfback Ridge overlooking Sausalito. The assessor's market value of the six sites is about $3.5 million.

The county currently has about $700,000 budgeted for open space. The park district plans to use the money for down payments on various parcels, with the remainder to be paid over the years by using a portion of the district's special tax rate.

In a related action yesterday, supervisors said they plan to levy the maximum tax rate of 10 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

Yesterday's discussion of the "shopping list" was highlighted by a complaint from Chairman Arnold M. Baptiste that no sites within his Fifth District were proposed for acquisition this year.

"It appears all priorities are in one half of the county," he said, adding he would like to see some "moved north."

Baptiste said he doesn't consider Ring Mountain near Tiburon any more important than Novato's Mount Burdell, which was not included in Joske's "shopping list."

Joske responded that Ring Mountain is under greater development pressure and therefore is a part of the list.

Baptiste differed with Joske but was cut off at one point by Supervisor Robert A. Roumiguiere who urged that an area of the San Pedro Ridge overlooking Santa Venetia be included.

Roumiguiere, who in December proposed 400 acres of the ridge be acquired by local residents, argued that the county should contribute, since the Civic Center is part of the Santa Venetia area.

On Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni's suggestion, the board directed Joske "to concentrate" his studies on the four areas agreed to by all but left the door open for other areas to be proposed later this year.

Supervisors Approve A Bigger Role For Planning Commission

In a move to streamline board meetings, Marin County supervisors proposed yesterday that the county planning commission be given final say over certain planning matters.

The board's proposal, referred to the commission for comment, would end the appeal procedure at the planning commission level for appeals on building variances, design review, sign review, lot splits and tidal waterway encroachments.

Currently, anyone may appeal decisions of the planning commission to the board of supervisors.

Under the proposal, a 120-day test period would be imposed to determine if the idea is workable. Appeal of planning matters such as rezonings and master plans still would be heard by the board.

Supervisor Robert A. Roumiguiere cast the lone vote against the proposal saying he felt everyone had a right to a final decision from elected supervisors and not simply appointed commissioners. "I'm opposed to telling citizens we don't have time to hear them. . . That's our job," he said.

Chairman Arnold M. Baptiste, who proposed streamlining the board's meetings, said the public would be better served by expediting board meetings.

On Supervisor Michael Wornum's motion, the matter was referred to the planning commission for comment. The board will consider the matter again next month.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors Also:

VETERINARIANS — Agreed to allow Marin County Veterinary Medical Association spokesmen time next Tuesday, to present a series of proposals touching on improved animal control, care of ailing strays, waste disposal and other problems.

APPOINTMENTS — Named Lee Richardson of Inverness to a vacancy on the Marin County Aviation Commission; reappointed Bolinas Fire Chief Jose Silva to the county disaster council, and appointed Hadden W. Roth of Woodacre, Councilman Joan Sestak of Larkspur and William Straus of Marshall as successors to Supervisor Gary T. Giacomini in case of emergency or disaster. The three were named as required under the county disaster plan.

PURCHASING — Debated a Marin County Grand Jury interim report with Alexander Thomas, special assistant to the jury's County Offices Committee, and with Michael Mitchell, county auditor-controller. The jury recommended changes in the purchasing agent's record-keeping. The board voted 4-0 to take no action until budget time, with Supervisor Robert A. Roumiguiere abstaining.

LIBRARY — "Accepted" but took no action on another grand jury report proposing changes in the county library system, including possible relocation of the main library to a Northgate site.

EEL RIVER — Voted unanimously for Supervisor Gary T. Giacomini's motion that Marin County drop out of the Eel River Association and decline membership in the North Coast Resources Council that was created following passage of the Wild Rivers Bill authored by State Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael. Giacomini predicted "a $50,000 tab" if Marin should join.

MINIFILM — After nearly an hour's debate, refused to reactivate the X-ray minifilm program that expired yesterday. Giacomini presented arguments that teachers and foster home parents were required to have tuberculosis clearances on a regular basis and would face much higher expense if the program died. It was dropped last month in a reorganization of county health services.

BALLET — Approved the Marin Civic Ballet Association request for a $3,500 subsidy toward the $25,600 association budget for the Pacific Regional Ballet Festival to be held for the first time in Marin in May.

MARIN CITY — Committed the county to up to $8,800 advances for engineering needed to form a special assessment district to build a second access road into Marin City. Should the district be created to handle the estimated $400,000 project, the county would be repaid.

STRAWBERRY — Refused to act on a citizens' petition that the board break a three-months deadlock on a vacant seat in the Strawberry Recreation District board by appointing Fred Holmes. Acting on advice from Assist. County Counsel Richard V. Godino, the supervisors told petitioner Dorothy H. Groman of Strawberry that she would have to sue to force the district board to act.

DENTAL PLAN — Authorized, effective April 1, a contract with California Dental Service to provide dental insurance to county employees. New York Life, the present carrier, was dropped because of increased rates.

TREATMENT — Authorized, through June 30, a $23,800 contract with Buckelew Farms in Kentfield for residential treatment of six to eight mentally disturbed patients.

CHILD ABUSE — Recognized, as an official county committee, the child abuse committee made up of officials from the county counsel's office, department of public social services, probation department, health services department and Marin County Pediatrics Society. The committee is developing a system for detecting and caring for abused children.

STUDY — Authorized a $10,800 contract with Environmental Science Associates of Burlingame for an environmental impact study of the proposed Lucas Valley Road realignment between Mount McKinley Road and Big Rock.

PUBLIC RELATIONS — Approved a $2,500 contract with publicist Jules Becker of Ross for publicity of the Marin County Fair.

APPEAL — Rejected the nuisance abatement appeal of Kenneth R. Carpenter for illegal grading of his property above Panoramic Highway.

ABATEMENT — Ordered abatement of a cut into the hillside at the home of the late Thomas T. Merrill of Mill Valley.

ORDINANCE — Authorized a 120-day extension on the Bolinas-Stinson Beach interim ordinance which limits development pending new master plan studies.

AIR CONDITIONING — Authorized $1,500 for improvement of the air conditioning system at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building to reduce noise and increase air circulation in the movable seat area.

COMMISSION — Reversed an earlier decision and agreed unanimously to leave the parks and recreation commission at seven members. Last month the commission voted to increase the commission's size to nine members but later decided that would be too bulky.

REMODEL — Authorized an additional $600 to the $1,200 contract with architect Harold Wagstaff for revision of preliminary plans for the remodeling of the Grand Avenue Health Clinic in San Rafael.

Boas Steps Down As Supervisor In San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Roger Boas unexpectedly announced his resignation as a supervisor Tuesday, making it almost certain San Francisco for the first time will have a Chinese on the board.

Mayor Joseph L. Alioto, who named a replacement until Boas' term ends in December, declared: "I've said many times that I'll appoint a Chinese supervisor at the first opportunity."

"There's no better time to affirm that promise than now, during the Chinese new year's celebration."

Boas, an automobile dealer who has been on the board 11 years, indicated he might run for Congress, saying he would "like to run in 1974...and Congress is very high on my list of probabilities and possibilities."

He ran last year against Rep. William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District, but lost.

He is former state Democratic Party chairman.

His successor may be George Chinn, now president of the Board of Education.

Charge Dismissal Ruling Is Studied

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A Superior Court judge says he will rule Feb. 21 on a motion to dismiss manslaughter charges against a police sergeant in the shooting death of a high school football star.

Sacramento County Judge Robert K. Puglia set the date Tuesday after listening to arguments by attorneys for officer Samuel Somers, who was indicted after the Dec. 3 shooting of Raymond Brewer, 15.

Dairy Ranchers Win Field Trip Promise

After complaining that the state Water Resources Control board may kill Marin's $12 million-a-year dairy industry, the Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday scheduled a special meeting and field trip to see the problem first-hand.

The supervisors will meet at noon on March 3, to tour West Marin Dairy ranches with members of the county agricultural advisory committee.

The board also voted 4-1 to send the state a letter arguing that Marin ranchers needed more time to meet strict new standards proposed to prevent waterways pollution. The board also declared farmers must have state or federal financial help — or go out of business.

Robert Parks, Tomales sheep rancher and chairman of the agricultural committee, asked the supervisors to make the Saturday tour. He complained that the agricultural industry lacked assurance of federal grants such as cities and sanitary districts receive to prevent pollution.

Supervisors Gary T. Giacomini and Robert A. Roumiguiere charged that the water panel "could care less if they put the Marin Dairy farmer out of business . . . they say there's 'plenty of other milk available'."

Parks said the strict new rules being prepared by the state agency don't consider Marin's special climate and terrain problems.

Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. agreed with sending a letter urging special consideration due to Marin's relatively high rainfall and hilly land, but voted "no" on the motion to include the financial plea.

Arrigoni argued that the water quality watchdogs had no allocation powers. He called for the county to ask its legislators for bills to provide funds.

"If the guidelines stand dairying is a dead duck in Marin. No one has shown they're necessary in Marin, Roumiguiere charged.

The state board proposed to force ranchers to build ponds capable of holding all the surface runoff from a "10-year, 24-hour" rainstorm to collect any livestock waste flowing out of pens and feedlot areas. Runoff from manure storage areas, and water used for washing barns and equipment also must be stored to prevent stream pollution, under the proposed rules.

The agency also would ban use of more than the necessary minimum of salt in the animals' feed.

Apartment Fire Kills Two Boys

BERKELEY (UPI) — An apartment house fire early today took the lives of two small boys and seriously injured another.

Firemen said they had not yet determined the cause but that the damage was not great.

Those who lost their lives were Mark A. Jones, 7, and his brother, Charles W. Jones, 5, whose parents were not home at the time of the blaze, firemen said.

Eddy J. McMullen, 3, was taken to Children's Hospital in Oakland.

Crime Rate Drops In San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The number of major crimes in San Francisco decreased 5 per cent last month but there were more armed robberies and rapes.

Police Chief Donald M. Scott's report on Tuesday showed there were 73 more armed robberies and 24 more rapes than in the same month a year ago.

HOW TO PLAY WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Take Poor Alfred's Advice In Selecting The Correct Finesse

According to Poor Alfred's Almanac, three-quarters of a loaf is better than half. Use this little nugget of wisdom in choosing the right finesse.

SPADE TO DUMMY

South won the first trick and led a spade to dummy. Then he returned a heart and wondered what to play.

After much frowning and chin-stroking, South finessed with the jacks of hearts. West knew what was going on, so he won with the ace of hearts to lead South astray.

Declarer won the diamond continuation and led another spade to dummy. He was sure East had the queen of hearts, and he wanted to finesse through it.

Unfortunately, East had no more hearts. West was sure to get his second trump trick, and South was obliged to lead clubs from his own hand. Down one.

PROBABILITY

South had an even chance of finding the queen of hearts in the East hand. He had a slight extra chance, since if he lost the first trump to the queen he would still be able to reduce the club loss if East had both the king and queen.

This was not as good as playing for the clubs. In three-quarters of the cases East will have one or both of the missing club honors. South should therefore begin with a finesse in clubs rather than in trumps.

THROUGH EAST

South should enter dummy with a spade and return the jack of clubs through East. If East covers, South can win and get back to dummy to lead a trump.

If East plays a low club, South is willing to lose the finesse and try another club finesse later. Declarer can lead trumps out of his own hand, if need be.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one heart, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠- Q 10 9 6
♥- A Q 8
♦- J 10 9
♣- Q 6 2.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one spade.

The hand is too strong for a raise to two hearts, but not strong enough for a jump to three hearts or to two no-trump. Mark time with the spade response and show the heart support later.

Plea Made To Reduced Count

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Screenwriter Norman Wexler, who authored the 1970 movie "Joe," pleaded guilty Monday to a reduced charge of assaulting an airline stewardess and was placed on a year's probation.

U.S. District Judge Albert C. Wollenberg sentenced Wexler, 46, New York City, on the misdemeanor charge after the government dropped a felony complaint accusing him of interfering with an airline flight. He pleaded guilty to simple assault—the intentional bumping of an airline stewardess with his body.

New Junior Boutique To Open Tomorrow At Northgate Mall

Papsie's, a junior boutique specializing in "fashions for the young and the young at heart," will open tomorrow at Northgate Mall near Sears new store.

The store will feature old Hollywood music via recordings and old Hollywood films as part of its opening ceremonies.

Papsie's, a division of the National Dollar Stores Ltd., has three other shops — on Mission Street in San Francisco, at Tanforan in San Bruno and in El Cerrito Plaza. "We want to put pretty things back on women's bodies," said Papsie Shoong of San Francisco, director of Papsie's.

Harris Ryan of Mill Valley is manager of Papsie's in Northgate.

ROBERT A. TOWLE of Mill Valley was appointed a principal in Wurster, Bernardi and Emmons Inc., San Francisco architect and planners.

Towle has been with the firm since 1961. He was project architect for such projects as the Golden Gateway redevelopment and Bank of America world headquarters in San Francisco.

Lewis

JERRY L. LEWIS of San Rafael was named top 1972 sales executive among Coldwell, Banker & Company's 1,100 real estate sales personnel. As an investment property specialist, he handled property transfers whose value amounted to $35 million.

Lewis is based at the company's San Francisco office. He was a sales manager for Xerox Corporation until he joined Coldwell, Banker & Co. in 1971.

FRENCH'S HITCHING POST, formerly at 1205 Third Street (near B Street) in San Rafael has re-opened in new and larger quarters at Second and D Streets, San Rafael.

The new site, formerly occupied by Mt. Tam Bedding and Furniture, gives French's Hitching Post double its former space and free customer parking in front.

The saddle and riding shop has expanded its stock and now carries square dancing outfits, as well as a complete line of Western and English riding gear and accessories for all ages.

Owners are William H. and Loreene (Renie) French, who started the San Rafael store more than five years ago. French provides instructions on the handling of horses, and Mrs. French presents fashion shows on riding gear.

"We outfit children as well as adults with everything from leather jackets and denims to boots and moccasins," said Mrs. French. The store plans a grand opening next month, with saddles and clothing to be given away as prizes.

FOOD SERVICE SALES Inc., headed by Wilbur R. Walter of Greenbrae, moved during the weekend from San Francisco to Northgate Industrial Park in San Rafael.

Consultants in wholesale food service distribution and seafood brokerage, the company had been at 44 Montgomery Street in San Francisco for the past two and one-half years. The new location is suite 243 in the La Plaza Building at 4340 Redwood Highway, San Rafael. The lease was arranged by William Hoey Company.

Walter said the company decided to move because of congestion in the city and difficulty of commuting. Associated with Walter in Food Services Sales are John Tidemann of Piedmont and James Sullivan of Glen Ellen.

THE COLLECTIVE antique shops at 316 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in San Anselmo, near Tamalpais Theater, is still looking for someone to operate a proposed lunch room in the rear of the shop.

Alfred and Jo Hanna Willman of San Anselmo, who had hoped to open a European-type restaurant there, are unable to do so because they are too busy with their antique business, according to Anthony Barbera Sr., owner-manager of The Collective.

"We are building a permanent redwood beam roof in the back with hanging plants," said Barbera. "The place is for lease for a luncheon-type restaurant. We will also get a beer and wine license."

REDWOOD CHAPEL Funeral Home, which has been operated by Charles R. Johnson of Novato for 20 years, now has a second partner. Joining Johnson as co-owner is Thomas A. Meisner, who graduated in 1959 from the San Francisco College of Mortuary Science and has been in the mortuary business in Marin for the past 13 years. Meisner lives with his wife and their son in Santa Venetia.

Johnson formed a new corporation called Johnson-Meisner Inc. last month to bring Meisner into the business. Redwood Chapel Funeral Home at 7078 Redwood Highway in Novato will continue unchanged, with the same name and services.

JAMES J. WEISS, an agent for Western Life Insurance Co. in San Rafael, has qualified for that company's Four Star Club Award.

Weiss was one of only nine in the entire company of some 1,500 agents to earn this award. He qualified for four of the five major Western Life production clubs, which cover all phases of life underwriting proficiency.

PETER J. GERBER of Larkspur has joined the equity formation division at Grubb & Ellis Co., Oakland.

Gerber has a master of business administration degree from Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration. He served with Xerox Corporation and Boeing Company before joining Grubb & Ellis.

DONALD A. SMITH of Novato was promoted to group sales consultant in Massachusetts Mutal Life Insurance Company's San Francisco group office.

Smith joined Massachusetts Mutual last year after nine years in group sales and management with another life insurance firm.

Longs Drug Stores Reports Earnings

WALNUT CREEK (UPI) — Longs Drug Stores, Inc., has reported sales of $228.7 million for its fiscal year ended Jan. 31.

This was a 15 ½ per cent increase from sales of $198 million the previous year.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER J. WIKEL, C.P.A.

Auto Expenses Are Deductible; Here Are Some Rules To Follow

Automobile expenses are deductible. Here are the rules:

Your expenses in commuting are not deductible.

If you haul tools, etc., and you cannot store the tools at the place you work, or if you work at different locations every day, and you would not have used your car but for the necessity of hauling tools, etc., which are too bulky or heavy to be carried otherwise, the expense may be partly deductible.

If you are in business and your auto is used exclusively for business purposes, the cost of its operation is deductible on Schedule C, Form 1040.

If you are an employee and use your car exclusively in your work, you can deduct the total cost of its operation, such as gasoline, oil, repairs, garage rent, insurance, depreciation, interest, taxes, licenses, etc.

If you use your car for both personal and business travel, you must divide your expenses.

You can just keep a record of the business use of your car. You can deduct 12 cents per mile for the first 15,000 miles and nine cents per mile for miles over 15,000 in each year.

The miles must be for business use and you must have a record of them.

If your employer reimbursed you less than 12 cents a mile, and you'd do better with 12 cents and 9 cents per mile, you can deduct the difference by including the reimbursement in income and deducting the mileage allowance as above. The mileage allowance is not available if you took the extra first-year depreciation allowance on your car, or you took depreciation on one of the accelerated methods.

The mileage allowance is instead of auto expenses, depreciation, insurance, etc. You dan't take both. But you can take parking fees and bridge and road tolls attributable to business travel and interest costs of buying the car.

Also, you can deduct six cents per mile for the use of your car to secure medical care, or for charitable contributions, where automobile expense qualifies as deductible as a medical expense or as a charitable contribution.

Some auto expenses are deductible is you itemize on Schedule A even though your automobile is entirely used for personal purposes.

These expenses include: Gasoline taxes — California seven cents per gallon; state and local sales taxes; interest on auto loans; casualty and theft losses over $100; and California license fees in excess of $11 ($12 if a station wagon).

Caution. If you have used your car for business and personal travel, and if you itemize your deductions, be sure that you list on Schedule A of your return only the interest, taxes, etc., which were not claimed as traveling or transportation expense anywhere else on your return. An expense can be deducted only once.

Car Pools. Expenses of an automobile used in a car pool to and from work is a personal expense and not deductible. Amounts received from passengers are not included in income unless they exceed the expenses.

Fines for violation of traffic or other laws and regulations are not deductible.

Eureka Federal Has Good Year

I-J Special Report

The past year has been one of unprecedented growth and progress for the Eureka Federal Savings and Loan Association of San Francisco with very substantial gains in both the savings and loan portfolios, according to Kenneth L. Kidwell, president.

At the close of the final quarter of 1972, total loans were in excess of $291 million as compared to over $240 million a year ago. This $50 million increase represents a 16 per cent gain.

Included in the $291 million were the assets of a new department — mobile home and home improvement loans. Inaugurated in April, they represented a total of over $4 million by the end of 1972.

Max Factor To Merge With Simon

LOS ANGELES (BW) — The merger of Norton Simon Inc. (NSI), one of the nation's leading consumer products marketers, and Max Factor & Co., a major cosmetics manufacturer with worldwide operations, has been approved by shareholders of both companies, David J. Mahoney, chairman of the board and president of NSI, announced yesterday.

Shareholders of both companies met simulaneously at special meetings in New York City and Los Angeles to vote on the merger. Under the terms of the agreement, Max Factor & Co. shareholders receive 1.115 shares of NSI common stock for each share of Max Factor capital stock.

NSI's chief executive officer cited Max Factor's excellent record in new product development as one of the major reasons for their merger. "Seven of its top 15 brands have been introduced in the past three years, and products introduced since 1971 account for 20 per cent of its current sales.

Mahoney pointed out that expansion overseas has been a major NSI corporate objective, and that Max Factor represents precisely the kind of acquisition NSI has been seeking to tap new consumer markets abroad.

Social Security Plan Explained

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. What does the newest Social Security plan mean to the average American? — O.O.

A. First, the worker pays 5.85 per cent on wages up to $10,800 per year. The maximum Social Security tax in 1973 is $631.80. Thus a $10,000-a-year worker will contribute $585 and his employer will pay a like amount. If you are self-employed, you are taxed at an 8 per cent rate for a maximum annual tax of $864. Both the taxable wage ceiling and the rate increase in 1974. Thereafter the rate will be increased, reaching 6.25 per cent by 1981.

At present, 28 million individuals are receiving monthly benefits from the plan. This year, alone, another 1.4 million Americans are expected to begin receiving retirement allowances. The top pension for a 65-year-old 1973 retiree is $276.40 per month for a female and $266.10 for a man. This disparity will be eliminated after 1977. A husband and his dependent wife would collect a maximum of $399.20 if both are 65 and retire in 1973.

In addition to the retirement program, Social Security provides monthly benefits for the widow and children of a deceased worker regardless of his age at death. If you are sufficiently disabled so as to prevent your working you are eligible for benefits in the sixth month of disability. Your wife and children also receive allowances. This year Medicare will be extended to cover incapacitated workers.

The hospital and medical care insurance benefits to senior citizens is a major segment of Social Security. At age 65 hospital coverage is automatic and free. Medical care insurance is a voluntary plan costing $6.30 monthly after July 1.

For the young man starting work this year, who pays the maximum tax for his 44-year working career, he would contribute $37,745 under the existing rising payment schedule. Retirement benefits excluding cost of living increases for this man and his wife could conceivably exceed $125,000 if he lives to 85.

Monetary Uncertainty Triggers A Stock Slide

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market moved broadly and steeply lower today as profit taking and second thoughts about the effectiveness of the dollar devaluation set in. Trading on the New York Stock Exchange was fairly active.

Wall Street observers noted a sell-off made its appearance around midsession Tuesday following an initial burst of buying on the dollar devaluation news. Analysts said investor second thoughts about the continued problems of the monetary situation added impetus to the sell-off.

Pan American Airlines was the most active issue, up ¼ at 9 ¾ on 102,600 shares.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange were lower in moderate trading. Rapid American Corp. warrants were the most active issue, off ⅛ at 6 ½ on turnover of 26,200.

On the Big Board, gold mining issues ran against the declining market. The price of gold in London reached record levels. Such issues always have risen on any monetary uncertainty. American South African and Campbell Red Lake mines gained 1 ⅞ each.

Computer and electronics issues were losers. Texas Instruments skidded 2 ⅜, IBM 2 and Control Data 1 ½.

Glamor issues headed lower. Ara Services, Avon Products, Corning Glass and Xerox lost 2 or more each.

Oils slumped. California Standard and Superior Oil lost 2 or more each.

Chemicals were lower with Dow off 2 ⅛ and Eastman Kodak and Dupont down 1 ¼ each.

COPY ACCEPTANCE

The INDEPENDENT-JOURNAL reserves the right to edit, or withhold publication, and may exercise its discretion in acceptance or classification of any and all advertising.

DEADLINES

New ads, corrections, and cancellations must be made before 5:30 p.m. the day before publication, 1 p.m. Saturday for Monday and 24 hours before holidays. Suburban office deadline, 4:30 p.m. the day before publication.

ERRORS

We make every effort to avoid errors. But when hundreds of ads are handled daily, mistakes do slip through. We ask that you check your ad and call immediately if it is in error. We regret that we cannot be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion or for errors not clearly affecting the value of the ad, and are responsible only for that line or portion of the ad that appeared incorrectly.

$495.

Here's the lowest-mileage little second car in Marin County. This all-white little Pontiac 2-dr. sport coupe has just over 39,000 miles and has been used by local lady strictly as a second car since new.

You can't believe the newness of the interior and the car runs like a jewel. Fully equipped including automatic, radio, heater, w/w tires, etc. This little coupe would make the perfect car for that student or wife looking for 20 miles per gallon of gas, yet a car that's in unusually good condition. SUMMONS #1
Case Number 64499

Superior Court of California, County of Marin, Hall of Justice, Civic Center, San Rafael, California

Plaintiff: SECURITY PACIFIC NATIONAL BANK, a national banking association,

Defendants: HANDCRAFT BAZAAR COMPANY, a California corporation, doing business as THE PORT; ROBERT A. McENROE, LOREN NOWELL, JOHN S. WICKETT, JOHN C. CAVE, and FIRST DOE through TENTH DOE

To the Defendants: A civil complaint has been filed by the plaintiff against you. If you wish to defend this lawsuit, you must file in this court a written pleading in response to the complaint (or a written or oral pleading, if a Justice Court) within 30 days after this summons is served on you. Otherwise, your default will be entered on application by the plaintiff and the court may enter a judgment against you for the money or other relief requested in the complaint.

If you wish to seek the advice of an attorney in this matter, you should do so promptly so that your pleading, if any, may be filed on time.

Drug Testing Lab Viewed As Both Boon, Boondoggle

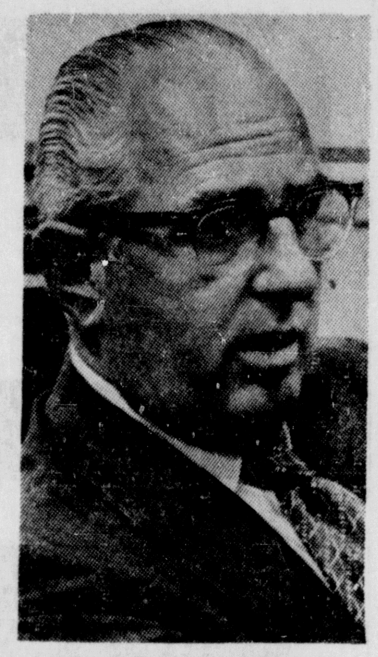
By LARRY MOWELL

Boon. The three-month-old drug testing laboratory in the Marin Hall of Justice provides better, less costly service than the former system of private and public analyzing facilities.

Boondoggle. The new lab financed primarily by the state costs two or three times as much even though it has less qualified drug analysts.

The two arguments reflect the unreconciled stands of the newly in and the newly out. Those with no stake in who does the drug testing have adopted a wait-and-see attitude.

Chief advocate of the boondoggle theory is Dr. John H. Manwaring of San Rafael, a pathologist whose Marin Medical Laboratories did the analysis of blood samples before the new lab opened in November.



DR. JOHN MANWARING
The boondoggle theory

Manwaring, who said his lab was paid about $20,000 a year for analysis, claimed "I don't want to take it back. Life has been delightful getting rid of that chore."

Nevertheless, the doctor has kept busy writing opposition letters to the governor and applying pressure through the California Society of Pathologists. He conceded he probably would take his share of the business back if it were offered to him.

"The fact remains that the services are given at much greater cost and with less well qualified individuals in Marin County and in many other counties in California," Manwaring said in a recent letter to the governor.

Gov. Ronald Reagan wrote back Jan. 29: "The establishment of a satellite laboratory in San Rafael is part of a statewide plan to improve the quality and availability of scientific analysis of physical evidence to assist law enforcement agencies, prosecutors and the courts in meeting their obligation, and to provide improved services to the criminal justice system in California."

Manwaring told the Independent-Journal that his technicians were required to complete two years of training, but the state labs require only a chemistry degree and three weeks of training. "I resent being replaced by personnel who don't meet the qualifications that my people and I worked hard to get," he said.

Despite his resentment, the doctor said he is battling the new lab only as a worried taxpayer. He said his service, which did only blood sample analysis, cost about $20,000 a year.

The new lab has $231,000 in the budget for the next three years, but state officials and Bella H. Aaron, the police-community relations director who prides herself in attracting outside funding to Marin, claim the new lab will save money.

Mrs. Aaron said the new lab is expected to save $87,218 in its first year. She said that in 1971, the county spent $60,000 on expert witnesses, another $41,000 on blood and drug testing and lost $50,000 in time of deputy district attorneys and police officers because experts failed to show up and samples were not promptly tested.

Not only will the lab, located in the same building with the courts, eliminate the time wasted, but it will provide the witnesses and testing that were costing $100,000 a year, she said.

Fred H. Wynbrandt, who runs the labs throughout the state for the Department of Justice, promised the lab will be a "hell of a saving for the taxpayer."

He said Manwaring's cost estimate leaves out that the lab, staffed by three men, will test drugs and blood samples not only from Marin, but from four other counties and the office of the state Bureau of Narcotics Enforcement in San Francisco.

The lab, Wynbrandt said, is one of six satellite labs in the state. There are three more comprehensive regional labs and the main facility in Sacramento, he said.

Now doing mostly blood alcohol and narcotics analysis, the Marin lab eventually will branch out to bloodstains, ballistics, fabric identification and other evidence analysis, Wynbrandt said.

In addition to the cost, Manwaring has criticized "the decreased quality of some of the services."

Two of the analysts, Raymond David and William Corrazza, have almost no experience, he said, but are called on to compute blood alcohol levels and testify as experts in drunken driving cases on the effects of alcohol.

"The judges won't let them testify," Manwaring predicted. Marin Municipal Court judges have allowed their testimony, but Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales said he will continue to use Manwaring as an expert witness where the effect of alcohol is a crucial part of the case.

Bales acknowledged the two are "virtually inexperienced," but reserved judgment on the merits and debits of the lab.

Davis shrugged off Manwaring's charge of lack of expertise. "I don't need to be a doctor to do what I am doing here," he siad.

Several drunken driving cases were dismissed in municipal court because the two new analysts failed to keep complete records on Marin breath analysis machines in early December, but Manwaring's record is not unsullied either.

When his technicians maintained the machines, they failed to test them as required by law. Bales said that testing flaw also resulted in dismissal of cases.

Mrs. Aaron said the level of service will improve measurably. In the past, drug samples were mailed elsewhere for analysis and "the backlog became fantastic."

Tardy test results meant cases were delayed and police officers and courts were tied, up. Now the analysis is complete in two or three days and the expert witness is just upstairs and down the hall, she said.

ALMANAC

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Today is Wednesday, Feb. 14, the 45th day of 1973 with 320 to follow. This is St Valentine's day.

The moon is approaching its full phase. The morning stars are Venus, Mars and Jupiter. The evening stars are Mercury and Saturn.

American suffrage leader Anna Howard Shaw was born Feb. 14, 1874.

On this day in history:

In 1886, the West Coast citrus industry was born as the first trainload of oranges left Los Angeles for eastern markets.

In 1903, President Theodore Roosevelt signed a law creating a Department of Commerce and Labor.

In 1933, Michigan Gov. W. A. Comstock ordered an eight-day bank holiday in a depression-era move to block a financial panic and $50 million was rushed to Detroit to bolster bank assets.

In 1971, six Arab states reached a five-year oil agreement with 23 Western petroleum companies.

A thought for the day: Irish poet James Stephens said, "Virtue is the performance of pleasant actions."

San Rafael air quality yesterday:

Oxidants, clean air.
Nitrogen dioxide, clean air.
Carbon monoxide, clean air.
Smoke particles, clean air.
Other areas:
San Francisco, clean air.
San Jose, light air pollution.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources, while the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

Guard Is Injured In Prison Attack

A San Quentin guard suffered minor injuries yesterday when jumped by at least three convicts in a scuffle in the north dining hall, a prison spokesman said.

It was the first serious attack on a correctional officer at San Quentin since August 1971 when convict George Jackson, two other inmates and three guards died in a bloody escape attempt.

Lee DeBord, prison information officer, said officer Lee R. Wacker, 24, was checking the area near a door of the north dining hall when he was hit on the head with a heavy metal pitcher.

He then was jumped by three or four inmates, who scuffled with the officer for several minutes before they released him and ran.

Wacker then went for help to the south dining hall, DeBord said. He was treated at the prison hospital and then checked at Marin General Hospital for abrasions and cuts.

Two prison-made weapons, a knife and a sharp rod, were found near where Wacker was attacked, DeBord said, but it was not known whether or not the weapons were used.

Four inmates were locked up today for questioning.

Wacker told other officers he thought the men who attacked him were "doing something they didn't want reported," according to DeBord.

College Teacher Fills Petaluma Board Slot

Wesley W. Ebert, chairman of the Sonoma State College biology department, was appointed to the Petaluma Board of Education last night.

The board named Ebert to replace William Morrissey, who resigned last week. His term will expire in June.

Ebert, who teaches biology as well as heading the department at the college, has bachelor's and master's degrees in agronomy and a doctorate in genetics. He had previously served on a school board and planning commission in Minnesota.

Ebert has been active in boy scouts and has served as chairman of the Miwok District for two years. He lives at 2189 Curtis Drive, Penngrove, with his wife and five children.

He was nominated for the position by the Northern Area Advisory Committee to the board.

Members of the American Federation of Teachers asked the board to consider opinions from teachers before deciding to switch ninth grade classes from junior to senior high schools.

Schools Supt. Lely H. Meyer said school principals have been asked to gather teacher opinions as part of a report to be done on March 1. He said the plan may reduce crowding in junior high schools if students are switched to less crowded high schools. He said Rohnert Park Junior High might have to go on double sessions in the fall if the school enrollment isn't reduced to seventh and eighth grades.

Meyer said problems of curriculum and staffing must be answered before a recommendation can be made on the plan.

The board accepted the resignation of H. Vic Parker, who is leaving teaching, and hired Edgar Yilek for the remainder of the year at a salary of $4,191.

Campaign Is Opened To Get Library Funds

The Petaluma Library board launched a letter writing campaign last night to urge the city council to use federal revenue sharing funds for a new library.

Board chairman Kenneth M. Wightman said the board believes the $264,000 the city will receive annually through 1977-78 should be used to replace the current library on Fourth Street, built in 1904 and long considered cramped.

He said brochures urging letter writing will be distributed with each book at the library.

"Since this is an election year, we hope an outpouring of public opinion will help our cause," Wightman said. "People have always been hesitant to approve a new library because it means higher taxes, but now they can be big spenders for eight cents."

Batten Reelected Homeowner President

Donald L. Batten has been elected to a sixth term as president of the Belveron Homeowners Association.

Other officers chosen for 1973 are Michael Collins, vice president; Reb Jones, secretary; Gloria Quinan, treasurer, and Beverly Ramblas, public relations. Mrs. Quinan and Mrs. Ramblas are also beginning their sixth terms in their posts.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Most Common Heart Ailment Is Narrowed Coronary Artery

The most common type of heart disease stems from narrowing or blockage of the coronary artery due to arteriosclerosis. Angina pectoris, which is described as a squeezing sensation or feeling of tightness or pressure under the breastbone, is the earliest indication of this disease. It follows exertion or excitement and is relieved by rest and relaxation.

This is nature's warning that the cornary arteries are beginning to "rust." Heed the warning, but don't go into a tailspin by concluding that this is the beginning of the end. A person with angina pectoris can live for decades, even though a segment of the artery is pugged.

NITROGLYCERIN TABLETS relieve tightness and tend to lessen the heart's need for nourishment. But the hardening process also is a prerequisite to a heart attack. This must be taken into consideration, especially when the individual begins to develop fresh or worsening attacks of chest pain (unstable angina).

Distress may last longer and become recurrent and progressive. The discomfort is not necessarily related to exertion but may occur also at rest. Other symptoms include burning in the chest, upper abdominal distress, shortness of breath, dizziness, weakness, and fatigue.

At least 65 per cent of those with angina who experience these changes in the nature of the distress are in the process of developing a coronary artery occlusion. The percentage is high enough to be on the alert and not take a chance. Call the physician immediately when these kinds of changes occur.

CARDIAC SURGERY now is being advocated in many institutions for those with impending coronaries (unstable angina). Special X-ray studies are conducted to determine the status of the vessels. And if there is a 50 per cent or greater narrowing, surgery is advised. There is a definite risk to this procedure, and some heart specialists believe that most persons with unstable angina treated without the operation have a better chance of survival. On the other hand, the risk of surgery may be worthwhile if the angina is severe, disabiling, and bound to end in a heart attack with a questionable outcome.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.

COUGH HANGS ON

Mrs. B. writes: When my husband catches cold, the cough hangs on for months. Do you think his lungs are diseased?

REPLY

Possibly. A chest X-ray will answer the question in a few minutes. Colds that hang on usually are caused by (1) a chronic lung disorder; (2) irritation such as from smoking or air pollution; (3) persistent infection in the sinuses or tonsils; and (4) allergy. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on cough.

SORE CORNERS

C. E. writes: For two years I've been doctoring for sores at the corners of my mouth, but can't get them to heal. Can the cause be found and removed?

REPLY

Yes, provided the cracks represent a vitamin B dificiency or an extension of infection from the mouth. Ointments containing an antibiotic are helpful in the latter. Keep the corners dry, especially if there is a tendency to drool.

Post Says Computer Operation Is Failure

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislative Analyst A. Alan Post has declared the Reagan administration's attempts over the last six years to effectively consolidate the state's multimillion dollar computer operations have failed.

Post also urged the Legislature to review "state policies relative to the confidentiality of data and the rights of individuals to privacy" before the plan combining the computer operations becomes fully operational May 1.

The plan calls for five consolidated electronic data processing (EDP) centers which administration officials estimate would save the state $150 million over a five-year period.

Post issued a detailed 70-page review Tuesday of the administration's efforts to coordinate, control and use data processing since 1966.

"In our judgment," Post said, "such a review is required because many of the activities in these years met with failure."

Brown Sees Possibility Of Only Small Surplus

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The chairman of the Assembly Ways and Means Committee said today cutbacks in federal programs could cost the state $635 million during the next fiscal year, possibly eating up much of the state's $852 million surplus.

Assemblyman Willie L. Brown Jr., D-San Francisco, said because of the recently announced federal cutbacks, Gov. Ronald Reagan's proposed $9.26 billion budget and plans for returning the surplus to the people now have no "relationship to reality."

Brown's comments echoed those of his powerful counterpart in the Senate, Finance Committee chairman Randolph Collier, who warned the Reagan administration to "go slow" with plans to return the surplus because of the federal cutbacks.

One administration spokesman has said a new federal welfare law, commonly called HR1, will cost California an extra $300 million.

Brown said President Nixon's new budget proposal also would slash federal funding for education, manpower and poverty programs in California by at least another $335 million.

"Do we increase the state's share of the funding, do we take over threatened programs?" Brown asked. "Or do we allow them to be reduced or eliminated, thus striking a blow at the most vulnerable —the children, the elderly, the sick and unemployed?"

Brown's remarks were prepared for the opening session of his committee on the effects of HR1 and other planned federal cutbacks. The state budget and any plan to return the surplus must be approved by Brown's committee.

The new welfare law provides for changes in the social security program and creates a new program of "supplementary security" income for aged, blind and disabled welfare recipients. It also alters some Medi-Cal provisions.

However, the exact cost of the bill to California will not be known until implementing regulations are adopted.

Computer Plays A Crazy Game

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — a county computer "went crazy" and erroneously mailed delinquency notices to 3,000 fathers who had already made their monthly child support payments.

District Attorney John M. Price urged all fathers receiving the notices, which warn of legal action within five days, to ignore them.

"The computer went crazy and sent those notices to people who've already paid," said the Sacramento County official.

Computer experts haven't figured out yet what set the machine on its notice-sending binge.

Berkeley Recall Petition Is Filed

BERKELEY (AP) — Saying he has obstructed council meetings and vilified other black leaders, a petition has been filed to recall radical D'Army Bailey from the City Council.

"I think Bailey wants to acquire a tremendous amount of personal power," Vice Mayor Wilmont Sweeney, also black and one of the petition's backers, said after the petition was filed yesterday.

$250,000 Is Sought In Beating

A Sleepy Hollow teen-ager yesterday filed a $250,000 damage suit in Marin Superior Court against the Marin County sheriff and two deputies, he claims beat him without reason last Halloween.

The suit, filed by San Francisco attorney Robert L. Moran on behalf of 19-year-old David McAusland Jr. of 2 Irving Drive, claims Deputy William Donovan and a second unidentified deputy beat him with a club last Oct. 31.

The deputies, according to the suit, went into the McAusland yard, "created a loud disturbance, and without provocation, wilfully and maliciously assaulted plaintiff and beat, wounded and ill-treated him by striking him about the head and body."

McAusland required treatment at a local hospital for facial injuries after the assault, which happeded while the deputies were chasing Halloween pranksters, according to Sheldon Ramsey, an associate of Moran.

The suit which asks $100,000 general and $150,000 exemplary and punitive damages, said Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos should have known his deputies "were of a brutal, savage and malicious nature."

Hospital Chief Had Dream Of Fatal Air Crash

ALAMEDA (UPI) — Alameda Hospital's staff was well prepared for the Navy jet crash that demolished an apartment house because its administrator had had a dream.

Harold Michals, the administrator, said Tuesday he had dreamed six months ago that a commercial jet had hit Alameda and that consequently he had prepared elaborate disaster drills.

By coincidence, he said at a hospital meeting reviewing the disaster, a drill had been scheduled for just last Wednesday—just shortly after the actual crash.

A Romance Grows Out Of Kidnaping

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (UPI) — Three months ago, while police were chasing Ronald Eugene Terry, 34, he commandeered a passing car, pulled a gun on the driver, Beverly A. Sanders, 33, and took her hostage.

Police caught Terry after a wild chase back and forth across the Missouri-Kansas border. The hostage was not hurt.

Tuesday, Terry and the woman he took hostage applied for a marriage license. Police said Mrs. Sanders, who has applied for a divorce from her present husband, became a regular visitor to the Wyandotte County jail after Terry was arrested last November.

However, Terry has been sentenced to one to five years in prison for burglary and still faces trial on charges of forgery, theft, and kidnaping.

BEST SHOWS FOR TONIGHT

Unusual on television tonight:

KGO(7), 6:30 p.m. — The "Six Thirty Movie" presents Part II of "Birdman of Alcatraz," starring Burt Lancaster, Karl Malden, Thelma Ritter, Betty Field and Neville Brand.

KTVU (2), 8 p.m. — A look at Africa's arts, the Congo, natural resources, colonialism, apartheid and the South African controversial nation is offered in parts III and IV of the documentary, "Africa." Gregory Peck narrates.

KPIX (5), KXTV (10), 8 p.m. — Sonny and Cher welcome Joe Namath and the 12 Playmates of 1972 to their show.

KRON (4), KCRA (3), 8:30 p.m. — Sammy Davis Jr. and Jack Klugman star in "Poor Devil," on "Mystery Movie," Also starring in this special are British actor Christopher Lee, Gino Conforti, Adam West and Emily Yancy. The program was filmed on location in San Francisco.

Land Swap Announced

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A land exchange involving more than 17,000 acres of timber rich land in Placer and Nevada counties was announced yesterday by Pacific Gas And Electric Co.

Nolan H. Daines, manager of PG&E's land department, said 17,052 acres of land surplus to the company's operations would be exchanged over the next three years with the Yuba River Lumber Co. of Grass Valley for lands to be designated by PG&E.

The exchange value was not announced.

Under the agreement, PG&E will transfer title to 59 parcels of land in the American-Rubicon River region in the vicinity of Loon Lake and Hell Hole Reservoir to the lumber company. PG&E will retain water and mineral rights, Daines said.

Reagan Says 'Scores' Back Bench Nominee

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan said today that "scores and scores" of distinguished attorneys have endorsed the nomination of his former top assistant William P. Clark Jr. to the state Supreme Court.

He declined, however, to publicly identify any who have contacted him personally expressing their support for his nomination of Clark, who currently is an appellate court justice in Los Angeles.

In response to news conference questions, Reagan said he had "always been a little hesitant about my repeating what someone else has said to me without going to them and saying, 'Do you mind if I made public the fact that you have said this to me?'"

Specifically, Reagan defended Clark against a charge by the California Trial Lawyers Association that the nomination is "indefensible." The organization demanded that Reagan withdraw it.

Asked whether he has suspicions that Chief Justice Donald Wright opposes Clark, Reagan replied, "No, no I haven't at all."

Controversy over Clark's nomination has focused on the fact that the 41-year-old former executive assistant to Reagan did not graduate from college with a law degree. He took the State Bar test, and passed it on the second try and became an attorney.

Wright called on the state Bar to investigate Clark's qualifications and report its findings at a public hearing March 2 of the state Commission on Judicial Appointments headed by the chief justice.

Reagan insisted Clark's nomination was "totally defensible" and that a "great many distinguished lawyers in California" support him.

Asked to name one, Reagan replied, "Oh for Heavens sake, scores and scores."

He declined to identify any who had communicated with him but said they would be readily apparent at the March 2 hearing. Edwin Meese, the governor's executive secretary, offered to provide a list of additional supporters to supplement those who testify at the hearing.

A $6,000 Ceremony For Weinberger

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Instead of waiting until he got back to Washington, President Nixon swore in Caspar W. Weinberger as secretary of Health, Education and Welfare at the western White House in San Clemente.

That, White House Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler said Tuesday, cost taxpayers at least $6,000—$600 per hour for the Air Force jet which ferried Weinberger.

Wallace Hospital Stay Indefinite

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — Doctors said Tuesday that Gov. George C. Wallace would remain hospitalized indefinitely as a result of post-surgical bleeding. But they indicated the condition was not serious.

Wallace underwent surgery on his prostate gland Jan. 26.
